The source said no formal decision has yet been taken by the British cabinet on an arms cut. But it is widely expected that Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden will have to face such a decision upon his return Dec. 14 from his West Indies vacation.

Poland Negotiates Sweeping Settlement With RC Church

WARSAW (AP)—Poland's new anti-Stalinist Communist government and the Roman Catholic Church hierarchy today announced a broad settlement of their differences, including a restoration of religious education in state schools.

A joint communique said the church expressed full support for all government activities aimed at strengthening the Polish People's Republic and uniting the energies of all citizens for the common good.

The agreement was worked out by a joint state-church commission established after the release of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Catholic Primate of Poland, Oct. 28, after he had been kept under house arrest for three years. His release followed the elevation of Wladyslaw Gomulka to leadership in the Polish Communist party.

The commission communique said the government wants to end all the hindrances to full freedom of religious life. It listed these main points in the state-church agreement:

1. Restoration of religious education to grade and high schools for children whose parents request it.

2. Establishment of a government commission to arrange for the return of exiled priests and nuns to the western territories which Poland took over from Germany after the war.

3. Recognition by the church that the state has a theoretical voice in church appointments.

An authoritative source said Archbishop Eugen Baziak, apostolic administrator of Krakow and second ranking Catholic prelate in Poland, had returned to his archdiocese after three years in exile.

There was no official comment from the Vatican, and a spokesman for the Vatican press office said there probably would be none, at least for the time being.

Engine Fails Over Rockies, Night Passes Without Trace, Main Search Starts At Dawn

Nothing Heard Since North Star Turned Around to Return to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — An eastbound Trans-Canada Air Lines plane vanished Sunday night with 62 persons aboard in turbulent weather over the mountains of southwest British Columbia. More than 12 hours later no trace of it had been found.

It was last reported near Hope, 100 miles east of Vancouver.

Sqdn. Ldr. G. L. Sheahan, RCAF searchmaster, said today in briefing the crews of 12 search planes: "We feel the aircraft is likely down in an area southeast of Hope."

12-HOUR SILENCE

Nothing was heard from the plane after 7.09 p.m. (10.09 p.m. EST) when Captain Allan Clarke, 35, of Montreal, turned around to return to Vancouver after an engine failed.

"He could have lost his radio control, he could have blown up," said Sqdn. Ldr. Sheahan.

"You'll be looking for wreckage and the signs of an explosion. In that case you'll probably see bits and pieces of a tail assembly.

"You'll be looking for signs of life, of course. While this is purely academic, that is all we have to go on."

MIGHT BE WORST

If all aboard the aircraft were killed, it would be the worst aviation disaster in Canadian history.

The 59 passengers included four football players of the Saskatchewan Roughriders returning from Saturday's East-West All-Star game in Vancouver, and the wife of one of them.

The footballers were Mel Beckel and Gordon Sturtridge, who played for Roughriders' Council in the 1951 season, and Ray Syrnyk, spectators. Sturtridge was accompanied by his wife.

At first light, 18 planes—the 12 RCAF aircraft and six others—took off from airfields here and on Vancouver Island to search a huge area from the B.C. coast east to Hope and as far south as 10,000-foot Mount Baker in Washington State.

RADAR FIXES

The main search was to be in an area within 30 miles of Hope.

Sqdn. Ldr. Sheahan said two radar stations obtained fixes on an aircraft at 7:10 p.m., a minute after Capt. Clarke reported by radio that he had passed Hope and was turning back because his No. 2 engine—the inner one on the left side—had stopped. The plane's altitude then was 10,000 feet.

The searchmaster said he believes the pilot's report was incorrect, that the radar fix showed the plane could have been as much as 20 miles away from Hope.

WEATHER GOOD

A. Rankin, supervisitendent of flight operations for TCA here, said the plane carried no flares or emergency radio but had extra blankets.

Weather conditions were expected to be "fairly good" in the search area early in the day.

The weather in the Hope district when the airliner disappeared was extremely bad. Heavy rain from that community at 1,200 Sunday night said the wind was in gusts up to 50 miles an hour and that visibility was overcast.

RUGGED COUNTRY

The area where the plane was searched is one of rugged mountainous and rugged, pocked with lakes and valleys by canyons and gorges. Hope itself is at the western end of the Fraser Canyon.

Soon four RCAF planes were in the air hunting for the North Star.

ONE AIRPORT

An aviation expert said there is only one airport between Vancouver and Hope large enough to handle North Stars—at Abbotsford between Chilliwack and here.

As far as could be determined, the North Star did not make contact with Abbotsford airport.

Skipper of the missing North Star was veteran Captain Allan Clarke, 35, of Montreal. He first commanded TCA aircraft in the west in June, 1946. His first officer on Sunday's flight was John Boon, 26, of North Vancouver, B.C., and the stewardess was Dorothy Bjornsson, 24, of Swan River, Man.

Canada's worst air disaster occurred Jan. 26, 1950, when a United States C-54 Skymaster transport crashed in the Yukon with loss of 44 lives.

At Moose Jaw, Sask., April 8, 1954, a TCA North Star and an air force trainer collided and all 36 were killed, 36 of them in the planes and one on the ground.

ON THE GROUND

At 5 a.m. EST today, Al Carlson, TCA public relations officer, said there was "absolutely no hope" the plane was still in the air.

"The plane is definitely on the ground somewhere," he reported. By that time the North Star would have been out of fuel for two hours.

RCAF planes searching included two Dakotas and a Canso from Comox, Vancouver Island. Earlier a CP-100 fighter made a search for several hours without finding a trace of the missing aircraft.

Eighteen aircraft were ready to take off at first light in an all-out hunt. Twelve were from the RCAF Vancouver base, two from the RCAF base at Comox on Vancouver Island, two from the civil fleet and two from the department of transport.

Three paratroopers were standing by at Vancouver to board helicopters if a jump would be the best way a wreckage was sighted.

Also standing by at Vancouver were an air force medical team of two doctors and two nurses. Two civilian doctors were on call. A land search team was being formed at Vancouver.

Missing North Star First of Breed Lost Aside From One in Collision

MONTREAL (CP)—The Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star reported missing in British Columbia has come from a tough breed.

Only one of TCA's big, four-engined passenger planes has ever been involved in a crash. On a seven persons died April 8, 1954, when the RCAF trainer and the airliner collision over Moose Jaw, Sask., with it.

Since the plane went into service in 1948 with TCA, officials estimate it has carried more than 4,000,000 passengers.

The North Star is a Canadian modified version of the Douglas DC-4, with certain features of the larger, later DC-6, it is powered by four Rolls-Royce Merlin engines, whose forebear powered every Spitfire and Hurricane built in Britain during the Battle of the Second World War.

The DC-4 came into use in 1942 as a military transport during the Second World War.

TCA still has about 18 in passenger service—some carrying 52 passengers, most 62, others 54—and some in freight.

The British civil counterpart, called the Argonaut, frequently has been used to transport the Royal Family.

Force Manager To Open Safe, Take $4,000

TORONTO (CP) — Three men forced a 49-year-old grocery store manager to open his store safe Saturday night while his wife was held hostage in their home. The bandits, one of them armed, escaped with $4,000.

The three forced their way into the East York house early in the evening, robbed Mrs. George Swinney and waited for her husband to come home.

The Swinneys, led by a tall man with dark glasses, tied Mrs. Swinney and taped her mouth, then rifled desk and bureau drawers, taking $80.

When Swinney returned 15 minutes later they grabbed him and pulled him into the kitchen.

DEATH THREAT

The man threatened to kill me and my wife if I didn't co-operate with them, he said. "One of them had a shotgun and a gun."

Two of them took Swinney to his suburban Highland Creek store while the third remained with his wife.

After emptying the safe the two others bound and gagged Swinney. He was released by the teenaged boys after he rolled to the front of the store and knocked down a rack of bottles to attract attention.

LABOR WINS ELECTION

BARBADOS, B. W. I. (AP)—Prime Minister Grantley Adams and his Labor party won the Barbados Legislative Council Friday, capturing 15 of the assembly's 24 seats. The Democratic Labor party, secessionists from Adams' party, won four seats and the Progressive Conservatives, official opposition in the last assembly, took three. The remaining two were won by Labor Independents.

Man in Leather Jacket Seen Leaving Slain Man's Truck

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today a man in a leather jacket was seen leaving the parked mail truck in which the bullet-riddled body of Weldon Boyd, 41, was found Saturday.

Boyd had been shot four times and 15 registered mail bags containing $7,500 in cash and cheques stolen. The truck was found early Saturday, parked on an east-end residential street a block from a police station.

Police said they were notified by a resident of Pape Avenue that he saw the truck pull up to the curb at 6:35 p.m. Friday and a man step out and stroll away. Boyd is believed to have been shot to death between 6:05 and 6:30 p.m.

Rewards totalling $8,500 have been offered for the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Detectives said Boyd made his last pickup from a postal station at 6:05 p.m. Friday. Within a few minutes, they said, he met his slayer — probably someone he knew—at the intersection of Keating and Leslie streets. A few moments later he was dead, with two .22-calibre bullets fired into the back of his head.

SHOT ONCE MORE

The mail truck, they theorize, was driven a short distance to the rear of a house and there the two more bullets were fired into Boyd's back and the 15 mail bags, some broadsided, transferred to a car.

The getaway car, containing Boyd's body, was then driven three blocks to Pape Avenue and parked. Police found a trail of blood spots leading to the spot.

The mail bags, slit and empty, were found later, 10 miles away in suburban Scarborough. Several hours later, Boyd's body was spotted in the truck by an off-duty policeman.

Today's Chuckle

"There were Indians to the right of me, Indians to the left, Indians in front, and Indians behind."

"Whew!" said a listener. "What did you do?"

"What could I do?. . . I bought a blanket."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) —Synopsis: Snow falls early in central and eastern sections of Ontario Sunday night. It lasted only a few hours in most places. A fast-moving low-pressure area caused this snow and also some brisk winds, particularly in the south of the province. A few more squalls followed the low in the Georgian Bay northern Lake Huron and Haliburton areas, but elsewhere rapid clearing is likely this morning.

Snow and some freezing rain will reach Ontario tonight. However, temperatures near 40 in southwestern Ontario Tuesday will melt the light accumulation expected. In Northern Ontario several inches of snow is likely.

Curls, Waves Coming Things For Britons

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Pin curls and permanent waves are the coming thing for the men of Britain, a British hairdresser says.

At a demonstration before Belgian barbers here, Leonard Pountzey said that Englishmen will again wear their hair long and artificially waved, as they have done in past eras.

But now they will have gold dust added for glamor or silver at the temples for dignity.

Sissy?

Nonsense, said the hairdresser—"it was the long-haired men who won Britain her empire."

Eisenhower Blasts Soviet Terrorism

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower Sunday night denounced Soviet intervention in Hungary. He said it has moved the free world to "horror and revulsion" and almost completely repudiates the United Nations human rights declaration.

In a statement noting today is Human Rights Day, the eighth anniversary of adoption of the UN document, the president declared what has happened in Hungary and added:

"That these human rights have been so flagrantly repudiated is cause for worldwide mourning."

Eisenhower called on free people everywhere to "resolve on this day that the world shall never forget what tyranny has done to our fellow man in Hungary."

Inscription Purporting to Describe Flight of Christ Into Egypt Found

CAIRO. (Reuters) — A tombstone bearing inscription purporting to describe events during the flight of the infant Christ into Egypt had been found in a Coptic monastery about 200 miles south of here, it was announced Sunday.

A government tourist department spokesman said the tombstone was found at St. Mary's at Moharrak Monastery last week by workmen engaged in repair operations in the ancient buildings.

According to the Hebrew inscription, the spokesman said, the tombstone was placed above the grave of Youssa, who was described as the son of Joseph.

The Holy Family fled to Egypt after Joseph dreamed that Herod would seek out the baby Jesus and kill him.

According to the inscription, Youssa later travelled to Kossia in Upper Egypt— subsequently the site of the monastery—where the Holy Family was hiding, to inform them that Herod had launched a search for them throughout Palestine.

Youssa died shortly after arriving in Kossia and Joseph buried him, the inscription says, the tombstone over his grave.

Some authorities suggest Joseph had sons by a former marriage. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, however, Christian tradition as a whole testifies to Joseph's virginity before and after his marriage with Mary" and the suggestion that the "brothers of Jesus" were the sons of Joseph by a former marriage is considered untenable.

Sherlock Holmes Trapped by Prints, In Fresh Snow

Police investigated a purse-snatching complaint near the downtown area, began following footprints at the scene of the crime. The footprints in the fresh snow went past the backdoor of a house.

Officers went in and discovered Holmes and five others. They were arrested on a charge of violating the state liquor laws on unlicensed liquor.

LIGHT GIANT TREE

NEW YORK (AP)—The 64-foot Christmas tree at Rockefeller Center was set afire tonight at 2,200 "firefly" bulbs and 1,200 plastic globes. The 85-year-old spruce, weighing three tons, came from New Hampshire.

Premier Kadar Makes New Bid To Smash Hungarian Rebellion

VIENNA (AP) — Hungary's puppet regime has begun a stern new campaign to wipe out the last vestiges of opposition to Moscow rule.

Proclaiming martial law, the Soviet controlled government during the weekend ordered the arrest of workers' councils which have been trying to negotiate for Hungarian freedom.

Premier Janos Kadar ordered non-supporters of martial law, persons suspected of murder, manslaughter, arson and robbery, looting, damage to public plants and utilities and all attempts at military crimes, plus liberal possession of arms, ammunition and explosives. The penalty is death.

The decision to use force to crush the passive resistance of the Hungarian people came just five weeks after 200,000 Soviet troops struck with similar suddenness to crush the military phase of the country's revolution.

Though probably long planned, the action came as if in swift response to a general strike by the Budapest Central Workers' Council, which has been trying without success to negotiate with Kadar for the aims of the rebellion.

The council's notices ordering a general strike in protest of arrests of worker leaders were to have been posted in factories at 8 a.m. Sunday.

At 8:30 a.m. the government out telephone communications with the outside world.

Budapest radio in its first newscast today gave no inkling of what was happening. More than 24 hours, the Hungarian capital still could not be reached by telephone or teletype from Western Europe. Nor could calls be put through to other Hungarian cities.

Figurehead President Istvan Dobi's decree of martial law also ordered that Budapest radio Sunday night.

The decree declared illegal the Budapest Central Workers' Council, all district councils and all workers' councils and ordered them to cease their activities immediately. Workers' councils in individual factories will be permitted.

The workers' Councils' in their negotiations with Kadar had sought the withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary, the return of Imre Nagy to the premiership. The country's workers rallied behind the central council and it became in effect a shadow government. The central Hungarians would not heed Kadar's decrees.

After scores were killed last week in demonstrations against the Soviet army and the government's arrest of numerous workers, the central council declared that further government harassment would end in "a general strike, bloodshed and a new battle."

Egyptian Guerrillas Attack British Patrol in Port Said

PORT SAID (AP) — Egyptian guerrillas attacked British police fire became effective Nov. 8. The city separately was to harass the diminishing British-French force as it rushed its withdrawal ordered by the UN General Assembly. The bulk of British and French troops are grouped in Suez zone from Egypt within three days.

A barbed-wire barricade has been stretched around the Port Said dock area in preparation for the final, withdrawal. Troops are barred from streets except on essential duties.

The plan is for a defensive ring of tanks and artillery around the dock area until most other troops have left. Then the defence force will be drawn in gradually behind the barbed wire to the docks.

Fearful of possible reprisals, most foreigners in Port Said are also packing. More than 600 British civilians were to sail today on the troopship Asturias. The French will take 30 of their nationals and an undecided number of other nationalities.

The Italian government announced that it is sending a passenger liner Argentina Tuesday to Alexandria to evacuate the worried Italian colony. Most of the 750 Italians in Port Said are reported anxious to leave Egypt and French left.

Egypt has agreed to let the UN help clear the Suez canal ships and bridges blocking the Suez Canal, the last major step left before the over all areas occupied by foreign troops after the UN force oversees the withdrawal of British, French and Israeli troops.

The UN Police force commander, Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, toured the western quarter of the Port Said peninsula, which has been given up by the Israelis to Egyptian troops.

The Swiss diplomat representing British and French interests told the Egyptians are "continuing relentlessly" a large-scale expulsion of British and French citizens. Arriving in Zurich, Dr. Max Koenig also said that Egypt seems to be placing more and more difficulties in the way" of the UN clearing operation.

Egypt's interior ministry said in Cairo that only 4,632 of the 18,000 British and French nationals in the country have been expelled, after the Egyptian government's Red Cross to find refuge in other countries. The RCAF transport division over Mouse Jaw, Sask., with it.

Since the plane went into service in 1948 with TCA, officials estimate it has carried more than 4,000,000 passengers.

The North Star is a Canadian modified version of the Douglas DC-4, with certain features of the larger, later DC-6, it is powered by four Rolls-Royce Merlin engines, whose forebear powered every Spitfire and Hurricane built in Britain during the Battle of the Second World War.

The DC-4 came into use in 1942 as a military transport during the Second World War.

TCA still has about 18 in passenger service—some carrying 52 passengers, most 62, others 54—and some in freight.

TWO STRAY DOGS HELD IN FOUND

Two stray dogs, both of them still in the puppy stage, are being held at the city dog pound at the local fairgrounds with officials asking that their owners call around and claim their pets.

One of the puppies is a female hound picked up on Saturday, and the other a black and brown, part police dog, wearing a collar, but no tag. This puppy was picked up at one of the local schools.

City dog catcher Charles Thorn reminds pet owners that city regulations call for dogs being kept on a leash or being otherwise confined.

Under the auspices of King Bald. win Preceptory Local Knights Templar ushered in the Christmas season with their annual Christmas observance in the Belleville Temple on Sunday afternoon. A large number of distinguished visitors were present from the Kingston, Peterborough, Port Hope and Picton Preceptories.

Mrs. Fred Newman, as guest soloist, sang two traditional carols, one Old English and the other Canadian Indian. Eminent Knight Humphreys delivered an eloquent address on "Where is He?" quoting from his personal experience as a chaplain in World War II to show how the He's" often sought by the wise men of old is still in evidence in our present day.

Colorful and Well-Arranged Santa Claus Parade Delights Thousands in City Saturday

Santa Claus came to Belleville on Saturday and there must have been a million children and adults lining both sides of Front St. to greet the bearded gent.

Merchants and personnel of the armed services and forces to provide St. Nick with the best welcome he has had in a long while. A colorful and lengthy parade preceded Santa and every unit and participant provided the musical background for the joyful event.

At 11 in the morning the parade wheeled south from the upper bridge and began to wend its way along Front Street, much to the delight of both young and old. A group of clowns danced and frolicked along the empty traffic lanes while city police did a commendable job keeping the youngsters back on the sidewalk picking up the candies the clowns threw by the handful.

Then came the floats — Mother Goose, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Three Men in a Tub, Cinderella, Little Jack Horner in the Shoe, Farmer in the Dell, Humpty Dumpty, the Merry-Go-Round, the Three Bears, Goldilocks and the Three Bears, Simple Simon, Peter Pumpkin Eater, Old King Cole, and several more beautiful floats were in the procession.

What a sight it was!

It is undoubtedly safe to say that the spirit of the true meaning of Christmas has Belleville given Santa such a reception. And the arrangements! The music, provided by such well-known bands as the Belleville Symphonic Band, resplendent in scarlet tunics, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Band, the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers Trumpet Band from Kingston, the No. 6 Repair Depot Boyle Band, the RCAF Station Trenton Band and the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (Anti-Aircraft) Band, Brockville, matched smartly to give the bewildered child a welcome he is not likely to forget.

IDEAL WEATHER PROVIDED

Of special note is the 40-piece RCEME Band from Barriefield in Kingston. In June 1954 this band played here when a grand parading-out parade was held on the campus of RCI. In charge of the band was Corporal-Bandmaster Staff Sergeant W. E. Hendon of Kingston, while Sgt. F. R. Hardy — who is also a crack rifle shot, having won the coveted Governor's Medal at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association competitions at Ottawa this summer — was drum major. He hails from Vancouver. The City of Belleville, especially the kiddies, extend a vote of thanks to the group for coming on Saturday.

Scattered at intervals through the parade were the colorful clowns and elves, while near the end of the procession an old T-model grunted and spluttered along with a shepherd at the wheel and his sheep grazing tightly to its frame. Behind them came the procession of shepherds on foot.

SANTA ROYALLY WELCOMED

Last but certainly not least came the red uniformed guest of honor — Santa Claus! Nose just a bit redder and cheeks glowing flame in the cold, the white whiskered fellow smiled broadly and, using both sides of Front St. to greet the bearded gent.

Maj. J. Lowery, Oil Executive, Dies in Vancouver

A pioneer Alberta oilman, Maj. or James Robert Lowery, 72, of Vancouver, and native of Hastings county, died Saturday of a heart attack while attending the Edmonton-Calgary football game in that city.

Born at Wellman's corners, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lowery, he lived his early life at Frankford and went West as a young man. He had been associated with the Home Oil Company since 1925, was president of the company, retiring chairman of the board in 1953.

He attended public school at Frankford, and went to high schools at Trenton and Stirling before going West to Lloydminster where he commenced work as a clerk in a hardware store. He came back East to attend Queen's University where he received his B.A. degree, returning West following graduation.

Prior to going West he had taught school at Maynooth for two years.

At the outset of World War I he enlisted in the Canadian Army and was service overseas with the 49th Battalion, being wounded at Vimy. He rose rapidly through the ranks and was discharged in 1917 with the rank of Major.

Prior to World War I he became interested in politics and in 1912 was elected as a Conservative member to the Alberta legislature. Following World War I he returned to the west and studied law and, although graduating as a lawyer, never practised.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ethel White, of Saskatoon; one daughter Joan, wife of Mr. Alex Frost of Vancouver, and two grandsons.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. J. B. (Bessie) Ford of Frankford; Mrs. Wilmer (Thelma) Kingston, of Campbellford and Mrs. F. C. (Edna) Harrison of Belleville, and one brother, Harold B. Lowery of Calgary, Alta.

Trent Road Home Damaged by Fire, Loss Is $3,500

Fire said to have started in the ceiling of the children's bedroom caused an estimated $3,500 loss shortly before noon today to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayes, Trent Road.

Fire, smoke and water damage to the five-roomed one storey dwelling was estimated at between $1,000 and $1,500 while damage to the household contents was said to be about $2,000. The family carried no insurance on household contents.

Three children were in the house alone with Mrs. Hayes being outside hanging out the family wash when the children came running out the door stating that the house was afire.

Mrs. Hayes told firemen that when she ran back into the house fire was dropping from the ceiling onto the bedroom bed.

City firemen answered the alarm with two fire trucks and managed to confine the fire damage to two rooms. The balance of the house, owned by Roy Windover of Trenton, was charred and also had smoke and water damage.

Included in the loss were a new refrigerator, a radio and television set.

Mr. Hayes, an employee of the H. J. McFarland Construction Company, was away at the time of the blaze.

Record Rainfall Causes Floods In Southern B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Heavy rain disrupted transportation and communications, flooded rural farms and schools to close and caused the evacuation of more than 60 persons on the southern British Columbia mainland and Vancouver Island Sunday.

A record 4.66 inches of rain fell on Vancouver in the 24-hour period ending Sunday afternoon. The previous record was 3.18 inches in 24 hours.

All schools in the greater Victoria area were closed today due to flooding caused by the storm. Civil defence authorities estimated that 60 people were evacuated from 100 homes.

The militia was called out to assist in flood control work and civil defence workers remained on duty throughout the night.

Throughout the lower mainland and Vancouver Island, streets and highways were blocked and power facilities knocked out.

CPR LINES WASHED OUT

Both tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway's main line, 12 miles east of Vancouver, were washed out. One track later was restored but trains were running up to two hours behind schedule.

A mudslide on the Vancouver-Hope line, delayed four trains. Pacific Great Eastern Railway reported several small slides on its route north of here. A PGE official said the line should be cleared without disrupting service.

In most areas the rain was preceded by snow which began falling late Friday night. The snow turned to heavy rain Saturday morning. It continued pouring heavily until mid-afternoon Sunday.

400-M.P.H. TRANSPORT

STEVENSON HAT NO LONGER IN POLITICAL RING

Adlai E. Stevenson announces in New York that he will not run for president again but that his interest in the Democratic party "will continue undiminished." He urged the party to provide "strong, searching and constructive opposition" to the Republican administration. Stevenson kept his hat on to indicate it was definitely not in the ring. He will now return to his law practice.

Traffic Deaths Show Decrease

OTTAWA (CP)—Traffic deaths in Canada during Safe Driving Week—the first week of December—totalled 37, a drop of 15 from the corresponding period last year and 18 below the figure predicted by the Canadian highway conference.

Jet Pilot Escapes

SAARBRUECKEN, The Saar (Reuters)—A jet fighter, believed to belong to the Royal Canadian Air Force, exploded and crashed into two houses here this afternoon.

First reports said he pilot parachuted in safety and no civilians in the burning houses were hurt.

Success Kills Special Line To Santa Claus

Success killed it. So many calls came in from the kiddies that the telephone company's switchboard in this rural area was constantly jammed.

Fearing an emergency call might get delayed, the NJ. Bell Telephone Co. yanked out the special line where kids could call Santa and hear his tape-recorded words of assurance.

Santa's sponsor—a local factory outlet store—thinks the action an outrage. It plans to appeal to the state public utility commission.

Seven Indians Suffocated in Car on Reserve

SUDBURY (CP)—A blind 61-year-old woman and six teenagers died as they sat in their car Saturday night on the Spanish Indian reserve 70 miles west of here. All were Indians.

The car apparently slid off the road into deep snow and the seven were unable to get out. Believed they left the motor and heater on, apparently to wait for morning or for help.

Police said carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust and tailpipe connections killed them.

Found in the old car were: Mrs. Lena Lajoseph, her son, Michael, 18; Stanley Owl, 18; Mary Louise Owl, 15; Mary Jarvis, 13; Nora Ablong, 15, and Edward Jones, 18.

Police said Mr. Jones, Miss Owl and Mrs. Lajeunesse were in the front seat directly above two holes in the floorboard.

WINDOWS SHUT

Dr. Donald Belcourt of Massey examined the victims shortly after they were found. He said they had been dead about four hours.

When the car was found, all the windows were shut. The ignition key was turned on, but the gas was off.

The boys and girls had been at a party at the Lajeunesse home and were being driven home when the accident happened.

Missing 'Monks' Sit Waiting for Tavern to Open

LONDON (Reuters)—Three monkeys missing Sunday night after a mass break from a London pet store were found today sitting on a window ledge at the local tavern, presumably waiting for it to open.

Monkeys ran riot in the shop Sunday when some apparently wriggled their way out of one cage and went around opening the cages for the others.

WILL IT BE A WHITE CHRISTMAS?

Now we can ask "Are we going to have a white Christmas?" and find it easy to put the right tone of longing for such an eventuality into our voices.

Had that heavy blanket of snow which descended on us just before election day not been lightened in the interval, it is certain that most of us would have found it no desirable novelty by the time Christmas rolled around.

There is nothing attractive about a dirty grey Christmas. The snow that covers the ground at Yuletide, if it is to fulfill its proper function, has to be fresh and newly arrived. Only then does it lend the drab browns of fall into a scene to match in its beauty the wondrous spirit of Christmas.

A few years ago a whole continent sang "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas." For most of the singers, though, a white Christmas in the proper style was just a fairy story. How many of us who reside in this part of Ontario really can be the fortunate ones, for whom the facts of climate fit the fancy of song-writers? In much of North America, there will be no snow for Christmas. In large areas mantles of white become an old story. But here, in many years, we are fortunate enough to get our snow at just the right time, a few days before the arrival of Christmas, not only making our landscape resemble the Christmas cards but also adding an additional thrill for all the happy owners of new sleighs, toboggans, skis and skates.

AN UNSATISFACTORY ALLY

Nuri Said, 68-year-old premier of Iraq, is said to have his back to the wall. His deposition from power is believed to be inevitable.

If this should happen, the West will face a new threat, for only Nuri is keeping his country in the Baghdad Pact, the anti-Soviet alliance in the Middle East.

Yet some will find the nature of this man's rule as disturbing as the possibility that he may be ousted and succeeded by a foe of the West.

For Nuri, we are told, has turned Iraq into a harsh police state, has kept all secondary schools and colleges closed for fear of agitation against him and has imposed the strictest military and civilian censorship.

There are not men of whose principles we can approve; their ways are not the West's ways.

The people of the countries they rule, in all too many cases, are given only the choice between evils. Who can blame them if, after tasting the discomforts of a police state, they mistakenly turn to the greater evil of Communism?

Is there no way in which the West can foster the development of acceptable substitutes for the present regimes in many of these countries, a way in which the populace, generally poverty-stricken, often oppressed, can be given a real chance of gaining that freedom and that hope for prosperity which is every man's right?

BRAZIL GETS FORETASTE OF THE FUTURE

Japan had the unenviable distinction of being the first—and so far the only—country to feel the terrible blast of atomic weapons.

Now Brazil has become the first country to be hit by an inter-continental missile.

This missile is not believed to have carried a warhead and, in any event, apparently fell harmlessly somewhere in the vast jungles of the interior. Nevertheless, it fell.

The missile was fired from Florida and was supposed to exceed 4,000 miles in its flight over the Atlantic and return home. Something went wrong. The missile kept on going. Its controls were set for a flight of 3,000 miles and it was tracked by radar as far as the South American coast. It is therefore believed that it probably landed somewhere in the Amazon River area.

This news will come as a revelation to most of us. Few of us had been aware that the United States has already developed guided missiles capable of making a 3,000-mile flight. Moreover, there can be no certainty that this is the limit of their development. There is no reason to suppose that, if this now be the limit, that limit will not shortly be extended. It is therefore evident that the age of push button warfare is much closer than most of us would have us believe. It is a sobering, even terrifying, thought.

THE GREATER MARVEL

The St. Lawrence river power project and seaway, if not one of the seven marvels of the modern world, will certainly be worth more than a second look by even the most blase when it is completed.

John LeBlanc of The Canadian Press, however, has just reported an even greater marvel than the project itself. He says it is running on schedule toward the target dates for completion of its two phases."

When we remember how often the smallest construction projects can drag along months behind schedule, this reported achievement in keeping the work abreast of plans is amazing—and deserves our plaudits.

CONTENTMENT

The poorest of reasons to marry
Is money.
Better some part of the sweet title, "Honey."
No fate in this life upon earth can be worse
Than to empty the heart just to fill up the purse.

It's good to be wealthy. There isn't a doubt
Some things money buys we can do well without,
But a kiss at the door and the light of a smile

The finest of fortunes worth earning are these:
The children at evening to climb
on your knees,
A home and a garden, and rest
when you're tired,
And rich is the fuller who thus has acquired.

Contentment by money can never be bought,
There are needs of the soul which by love must be sought.
And rich is the man who, from cellar to dome,

Bombed by a Gopher

By PAUL JONES
Director of Public Information, National Safety Council

Are you, perchance, the adventurous "type?"

Do you yearn for the unusual, the new and different?

Then you many find just what you are dreaming of in the odd happenings rounded up by the National Safety Council in its annual search for freak accidents.

Would you like, for example, to toss a time bomb back and forth with a gopher?

Or be shot by a moody dog?

Or by a deer?

Would you care to smoke a fire-cracker instead of a cigaret?

Or would you prefer to have a house run into your car?

* * *

These and many other dizzy doings were turned up by the Council. To wit:

The gopher that kept pestering farmer Paul Pfeiffer of Las Cruces, New., was no fool. When Thomas Chavez, a lighted cornstalk down the gopher hole, the gopher shoved it right back. Thomas frantically hauled it out and Pfeiffer landed near his barn, exploded the cornstalk and killed the gopher loved every minute of it.

You can hardly blame the dog that was shot by Joseph Bayeis of City, Neb. After all, Beyreis, the city dog catcher for the dog's pooch to the pound to shoot him. Hiding miserably in the bark of the tail, the dog watched the proceedings. Intuitively at Beyreis' shotgun, recoil, and shot the dog catcher in the foot.

Neither can you be too harsh on the deer that shot Ed Stanley, of Stanley had drawn the first blood by shooting the deer. As Stanley has been out after the deer ever a lusty kick, hit the rifle and — bullet in his knee.

* * *

Pittsolman Fred Golden of Talladega, Ala., is glad his ants aren't as good a shot as a dog or Stanley. Golden was fed up with one hand and brushing ants with the other. So he loose pistol bullet went off in one of the sockets. It missed him.

Mrs. Mary Jane Golden Gibson reached absentmindedly for a cigaret, struck a match and threw it in her mouth and lit it. From his hospital bed he announced he had given up smoking.

Roger Cole, of Alpena, Mich., another who gave up cigarettes or public highways would stay on their own side of the road. Cole's car was parked on the shoulder of U.S. 23 when a house-moving crew approached. As the wide house clipped the side of Cole's car.

* * *

In Dallas, Mrs. Edward Lee Cowart investigated a noise in the bedroom, returned back to her husband, "Honey, there's a car in your living room." Actually, the auto had missed a turn in a skyscraper parking garage and fell to the floor where the Cowarts lived, leaped six feet through space and landed between the bed and the third-floor bedroom. No one was injured, but Cowart made the car get out.

Mrs. Loretta Lewis, of Charlotte, Mich., thought her husband, Lyle, to be alive and conscious when he was hit by a car. He staggered to the foot embankment alongside a railroad track after plunging off the highway. Mrs. Lewis looked at him a few seconds later after a train had passed. She recognized the wreckage of the car, and Mrs. Lewis found she had escaped from death by a few inches. Lyle was not hurt and a few bruises.

Mrs. Lewis was injured when four cars piled up in a collision near Des Moines — no one, that is, until Mrs. Lewis, after the collision, examining the crash, slammed a car door on his finger.

* * *

Mervin Seamster, a butcher in Richmond, Ind., was unquestionably confident as he took on the assignment of carving the turkey at a food drive. Seamster had carved before he could even disjoint the turkey's wing. He carved so severely he had to turn the job over to his wife.

Mrs. Mary Hastings Bradley, author and big game hunter, surveyed the African safaris without injury. But in the calm of the trophy room of her own home in Chevy, she tripped and broke a bone in her head and broke her arm. She lost her balance, fell by her husband without incident.

Many a golfer shoots a birdie, but not at literally as 12-year-old Dick Pickard, of Baldwinsville, N.Y. Playing his first golf game, flick teed off on the third hole, hit a bird in flight, and killed it.

* * *

Eugene Cromwell, of Milwaukee, was uninjured when his auto swerved off the highway, then headed out to survey the wreckage, fell into the Milwaukee quarry, and broke his arm.

Ralph and Cecil Mason drove here there and five near each other in Covert, Mich. So it was not surprising that they met head-on in the other on a wintry day last January. The trouble was, each was driving a car at the time.

Leroy Henderson, a janitor at the Wyoming statehouse in Cheyenne, had always felt he was a pretty good window washer. He never realized how good until through the statehouse lawn, stuck his head out to yell at them and looked it through the spotless pane.

* * *

When 4-H Club girls modeled holiday dresses at a style review in Salina, Kan., Sandra Shilling were something no other couple had sang. Sandra broke her arm when a zipper stuck on the dress she had made for the exhibition. She gave a yank to loosen it. The dress went second prize. The sling didn't place.

Richard Fleming, of Woodland, Calif., had a good reason for momentarily losing his head while driving. A woodpecker was pecking away at it! The bird, a family pet, was in the lap of Fleming's son when it attacked the elder Fleming cranium for a tree and went to work. The car left the highway and rolled over twice. Neither of the Flemings was hurt. The woodpecker found itself a tree.

* * *

One of the big things in baseball is to use your head. And that's exactly what pitcher Chuck Stenger did in a game recently in Mich., when a batter hit a screaming liner straight at him. Stenger laid his pitcher Trooper squarely on the forehead, bounced it high in the air and was caught by the first baseman for a put-out.

* * *

Benjamin Morris became so annoyed at a tree limb blowing against his house in Kansas City that he got out of bed in the middle of the night, found a saw and climbed the tree to cut off the branch. A few minutes later he was back in bed injured—a hospital bed. You've guessed it. He was on the wrong end of the limb when he did the sawing!

After 10 years and 150,000 miles of accident-free driving, Lou Murdock of Maywood, Calif., was given an award by his transportation company. He accepted it in the hospital. He had broken her leg in a fall down a flight of stairs in his home.

James H. Clark, of Palatka, Fla., had gone through his driver's license test with flying colors. He was with Examiner Earl Gore as passenger, pulled triumphantly into the parking lot. He felt a gun he belonged to Gore. License pocketed.

* * *

Two-year-old Jeffrey McGuire should have been the first passenger in Cleveland, but he wasn't because of his tears. That was the day he crawled out into the family laundry dryer and his young mother, unaware of his plight, set switch. Mrs. McGuire, making the usual rounds to see what her sons were up to, found Jeffrey and removed Jeff in the nick of time.

In Chicago, Mrs. Jeffrey cut himself while opening a Christmas package he received in the mail. He found it contained a first-aid kit.

On an icy highway near Richmond, Ind., Mrs. Pauline Ellison crashed into a truck, was thrown from her car, and easily and securely shielded 200 feet on her windscreen.

And it wouldn't be a vintage year for odd accidents if a certain gentleman in Los Angeles didn't make the news. This time he was charged with driving through a red light. His name? No kidding, folks, it's Safety!

Still think you're the adventurous type? Then maybe you just as soon go back to your chess game?

Let Us Not Copy Samson

Montreal Gazette

Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin has made good use of Samson. It was Samson who, in his blindness to Samson pulling down the pillars of the temple has been invoked over and over to be effective again. But Maj.-Gen. Macklin has used it in a new role, the other day. And the effect is memorable.

Maj.-Gen. Macklin, who retired recently as adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, was warning the Western nations that they might be thinking and preparing too much in terms of nuclear war. They might be neglecting the development of the so-called conventional weapons, the conventional forces, that might actually be needed.

What would happen, he was asking, if the West were attacked in the conventional way, with no nuclear weapons being used against us? Suppose we had not made great preparations to meet such an invasion on its own terms, what could we do? We might have to use nuclear weapons out of sheer desperation. And this might only bring about our own destruction.

At this point he introduced Samson. "I warn you," he said, "that we are heading for a predicament like that of Samson, who in the end, in blind rage and despair, bowed himself between the pillars and brought down the roof on himself as well as his enemies.

"That was the only strategy Samson had left, and if we're not careful, that is the position we are going to find ourselves in."

It is an odd reference, perhaps. But exceedingly vivid and appropriate

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

REPUTATION

One of history's astonishing facts has been that greatness is very often not recognized until long after the death of the person who has it.

Of course, the great example is Jesus, who, after 2000 years is still being widely understood and revered than He was on the day He died. Socrates was put to death by his contemporaries but honored by succeeding generations as one of the greatest philosophers. Sir Isaac Newton had, when he died, not a dozen supporters of his views on gravitation and other theories of the physical universe. Johann Sebastian Bach lay in the grave for many decades, utterly unnoticed by writers of music. Beethoven, the violent young Mendelssohn disclaimed the enormous honors which were being heaped upon him and advised his generation if they wanted to hear real music by a musician, to turn back to Bach. When they did, the whole musical world was set marveling at the greatest discovery in its history.

It is a sad comment, is it not, that greatness is almost never recognized by those who live side by side by side with it. One generation hunders, the next glorifies. Both lay flowers on the graves of the prophets, but the quiet of our own days is the time for truth and honesty in the things we do.

Spike Heels Demand Skill

St. Catharines Standard

Sitting in the lobby of a hotel recently, taking a required afternoon rest, our attention was drawn by a pair of heels resounding from the terrazzo floor. The heels were wearing spike heels, those which are about three inches high, and the rap of which is about a half inch in diameter.

That first crossed our mind was that such a small surface could produce so much noise. But then, as the height of the heel sank into the mind, we could not but admire the ability of the wearer to walk smartly on such slender stilts.

Then our thoughts in the hotel lobby had wandered to just how much would manage if they were called upon to wear such heels, and we feel that they would make a sorry mess of themselves. And so our hat is doffed on our hat to the ladies for their ability to master the spike heel with such apparent ease in which they walk while wearing them.

So a salute to the women and be akin to stilts which we came to enjoy in our youth. And to make certain that this fact required three of the female members of The Standard staff as the heels were fitted to them. Only three of the girls could have spike heels. Two answered that it was like wearing stilts, and just as difficult to manage. A third member of the staff said she had given up the spike heels.

If You Get a Fresh CRI You Have to Catch It

I was out on my ears. Since then I have been in again, for a while, and out again, this time, I hope, for good.

Now, I believe, I've had as long experience as any editor had when he tried to bend me to the pouncy of his paper.

I do not mean to say that I have experienced as much exposure to cold and wet as millions of soldiers, sailors, fishermen, lumbermen, explorers, woodsmen, hunters, naturalists, and farmers have; but from the thousands of reports received from these people, the inescapable inference is that such exposure is uncomfortable but not a cause of illness.

Perhaps I should say it is not a cause of any real illness.

Until we have the evidence obtained from large scale experiments on the effects of exposure on chronic simplitis in volunteer subjects, we can't be positive about it, though it seems likely that ordinary everyday exposure, such as baring the head at an open air ceremony on a very cold day, or, indeed, a temperature change in distribution of the blood, with consequent chilling of the feet, tend to the lining of the affected sinus or sinuses, and this, in turn, produces the so-called "cold."

From experiments on volunteer subjects over a three-year period, under carefully controlled conditions, the British Medical Research Council concluded that ordinary exposure is not a factor of any new illness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you are backing out of your side drive, you very seldom look at anything directly behind you.

You look first to the right, which is the direction from which traffic will be coming, then to the left, then to the left, for traffic approaching on the far lane of the street from you.

There is no particular reason why you should not look behind, but few of their side drives, exactly opposite each other, at exactly the same instant.

And that is precisely what I witnessed yesterday morning from my front steps. With exhaust gently steaming, my two neighbors, whose houses and side drives are exactly opposite, backed slowly and deliberately out towards the street, each with the morning rush hour traffic.

Both were bobbing and twisting their heads, as they most cautiously scanned the street, right and left, for a break in the traffic that would permit them to bounce over it.

While one watched his danger zone east, the other watched his danger zone west. Neither looked behind. Neither so much as glanced at his rear view mirror.

Ignoring the possibilities, I waved energetically to my neighbor on the far side of the street—but he failed to have his head stuck out of the window on my side of the street.

"Hey!"

He waved energetically back.

"Hey!" I yelled.

An opening was beginning to appear in the traffic.

"Hey! Hoo! Hujioo!" I bellowed, starting down my steps and shaking my arms wildly.

The one who lives on my side of the crescent slowed to look along the street towards me. But he was too intent on the traffic to pay any attention to my frantic signals.

He made his possible bumper, poised and ready for the opening when it came. Both jumped on the gas at the same instant. Both slammed hastily backwards, curving in a loader, crunchery screams you never heard.

Then that what you were hollering about?" they both asked rudely, as I walked up to the shambles.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FACE IT!

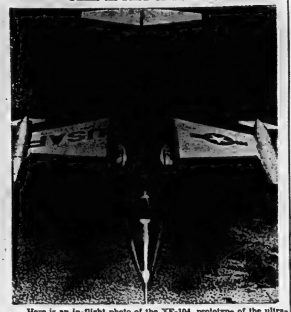
A friend of mine once said to me that first decisions were always the hardest. Sometimes ways best when something came up that had to be done, but which took courage and perhaps a little loss of personal pride. He told me that the easiest and most satisfactory plan was to face all emergencies as they came, so that there would be no "hangovers."

When something comes up that should be settled we all feel better if it can be done so at once. To face it then is far better than putting it off or a postponement later that might become serious. It's like a bad wound. If like that sore you say: Pay as you go, or else don't go. What good does it do to put off something that should be settled at once?

Face it. Never allow fear to get you. Many a disease could have been cured if it had been taken in settlement. Facing it is essentially you clean it up for all time.

habit is allowed to go on until it becomes almost impossible to break it off as a habit—similarly a habit is never so difficult to break as one imagines it to be. Break it, then, while you can.



Never allow worry to keep you from a decision and never be put into action. It might humiliate you to make a decision, and perhaps a serious matter out of the way, and had from all memory of it, but it will bring peace of mind and a sense of satisfaction that you may not have known for a long time. So make that decision may be, face it and be your real self again.

My own experience has been that it never pays to leave any problem half attended to. Face it and finish it is better and best. Half a thing never unpleased a thing.

Shy and frightened by their first day in a Canadian school, these two little Hungarian girls were warmly welcomed by classmates at Palmerston public school, Toronto. Here one of their new friends gives an English lesson to newcomers Elizabeth Fekete, seven, and her twin sister, Margit. Only a few weeks ago they witnessed the bloody battle between Soviet troops and Hungarian patriots in Gyoer, their home town. Anthony Fekete, a 46-year-old mechanic, had to leave his family behind in Hungary more than eight years ago when he escaped arrest by the Communists and came to Canada. (Central Press Canadian).

Lloyd, Dulles Make Progress Toward Accord

PARIS (AP)—Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles "made real progress" today towards reaching an agreed British-United States policy on Suez. An American spokesman said the two diplomats discussed methods of clearing the canal and putting it into operation quickly as well as a program for its future control and operation.

"Real progress was made towards aligning their views," he said in discussing the meeting which is widely regarded here as a "reconciliation" between the British and Americans who have been at odds over Suez policy.

In their first face-to-face talk since Britain and France launched their Suez intervention in the face of American disapproval, Lloyd and Dulles met in the American embassy residence shortly after 10 a.m. Earlier plans for a luncheon session were cancelled as a courtesy to Dulles, still recovering from an abdominal operation.

Lloyd's call on Dulles opened a week of intense Western diplomatic activity which swings into high gear Tuesday with the start of the NATO council meeting of foreign, defence and finance ministers of the 15 member countries.

DULLES CONCILIATORY

Arriving by plane from Washington Sunday, Dulles said it was his government's "firm purpose to find the way to bury past discords in a future of peaceful and fruitful co-operation."

FIRE HITS MINE

RESUME DIVING

The plane sank in 12 feet of water, 600 feet from shore, during a light snowstorm. It was only a short distance from an airstrip where the pilot apparently had intended to make an emergency landing.

A diver Sunday reached the wreckage containing the bodies of Wesley Hopp of Royal Oak, Mich., the pilot; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kurtz and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McFadden, all of Grosse Point, Mich., but he was unable to enter the plane's cabin.

The diver, John Marr of Port Colborne, said he saw a man's body in the pilot's seat, but could see nothing else in the murky water.

The plane was owned by the Peninsular Steel Company of Detroit. William Trader, president of the company, said Mr. Kurtz was a vice-president of Peninsular and McFadden a member of the sales organization of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The plane had landed at Buffalo airport, about 30 miles from here, for a weather check. It resumed its flight, but later the pilot decided to Buffalo that he was having trouble with one engine.

Halton King of Lowbanks, who lives about a quarter-mile from Lake Erie, said he "felt" the plane when it passed over the shoreline.

"It just skimmed over the hydro wires beside the road and then it glided into the water," he said.

"I didn't see it hit the water, but I heard its motor sputtering. It was too bad it didn't land in my field; its nice and level there."

Princess Louise Dies in London

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Marie Louise, 86, the oldest member of the Royal Family and a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, died here Saturday night.

The princess recently had her autobiographer published, in which she recalled the splendors and intrigues of six reigns.

She was Britain's most unconventional princess, and once caused a street with a pearly king—one of London's Cockney street traders. She was said to be the first member of the Royal Family to smoke in public. She travelled the world, aeroplane was her air.

The princess said that hard work kept her young. When she was 80 she was still doing her own shopping and working tirelessly for innumerable charities.

Weddings

WHITE—BURSHAW

The Salvation Army Citadel was the setting on Saturday, November 24, at 2.00 p.m., for a pretty winter wedding when Helen Margaret Rose Burshaw of Belleville, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Burshaw, was united in marriage to John (Jack) Henry White, of Belleville, son of Mrs. Charles Henry White, (Edna) and the late Mr. White, Brigadier M. Flannigan of Belleville, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Joseph Burshaw of Kingston, was charming in her white lace over satin bridal gown, featuring a fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a white sequined trimmed velvet hat, and carried a nosegay of Bridal roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Douglas Palmer, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, attired in powder blue nylon with gold trim, with matching headdress, and carrying a nosegay of red roses encircled with baby breath.

Miss Helen Reeves was bridesmaid, wearing pink, corded taffetas, matching headdress and carrying a nosegay similar to that of the matron of honor.

Mr. Douglas Palmer, brother of the bridegroom, of Birmingham, Michigan, was groomsman; Mr. Richard Hurst, brother of the bride, of Belleville, and Mr. Roy Palmer, nephew of the bridegroom of Trenton, ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Viola Brant, which was prettily adorned for the occasion with white wedding bells, pink and white streamers.

The bride's mother, wearing navy and white with rhinestone trim, white accessories; and corsage of red roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore dusty rose lace with rhinestone trim, navy accessories and red rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. White are residing at 27 Alexander Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Trenton, Shannonville, Michigan and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilson Thompson are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Plainfield United Church. The bride is the former Miss Doreen Muriel Lott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott, of Halloway, R.R. 4, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thompson of Thomasburg.

Stirling W.I. Holds Yuletide Meeting

Mrs. W. C. West was hostess to the officers, members and visitors of the Stirling Women's Institute for its December meeting on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. E. Foster, conducted the business of the meeting. Several articles were donated for the Christmas baskets for the Salvation Army. The secretary, Mrs. S. McMurray, outlined the correspondence also a thank-you message from Mrs. W. H. Cooke.

Mrs. West and Mrs. Foster were appointed as the committee to replenish the dishes in the community kitchen. Remembering the sick and shut-ins, Christmas tiers will continue again this year, with a long list. The friendship secretary, Mrs. Luella Bronson, will take care of this work.

The education service course is scheduled for January 29 in the community hall, as the Stirling branch will be hostess to the other remaining branches in West Hastings.

The usual donation to Stirling Sala Cunas fund will be given by the W.I. again this year.

Mrs. E. Wright and Mrs. E. Foster will again resume their duties as sewing committee for the winter months, with visitors at the meeting kindly offering their help.

The Stirling W.I. has gone "all out" to supply the Salvation Army with suitable clothing for the unfortunates. This is the second time the W.I. has rallied to the appeal, and the response has been splendid with clothing in abundance and in good condition from the village and surrounding community with wearing apparel for all ages. Giving to others brightens the Christmas spirit. The W.I. is also most grateful.

At the close of the business, the meeting was opened with the singing of Christmas carols, with Mrs. Mabel Williams as accompanist.

The Royal Family's Christmas was portrayed by Mrs. E. Foster, which showed a crackling log fire, six huge Christmas trees with thousands of lights in the drawing rooms of Sandringham house which stands in an adjoining 1,500-acre farm. It is open house at Sandringham with each guest room bearing the symbol of Christmas, with that of holly and mistletoe. Outside the gates are the carollers, waiting at a mission, which is granted by the gateman, and in they come, led by violin music strummed by the secretary man. The Queen and her family greet them and join in the singing of "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." They march around the Christmas tree singing the old, familiar songs. Sandwiches and coffee are enjoyed and each receives a generous donation upon his departure. As these leave another group of carollers arrive. So Christmas eve in the Royal household is carried out similar to ours.

Humorous stories were read by Mrs. W. West, Mrs. S. McMurray and Mrs. L. Rodgers.

Demonstrations were given on Winter Decorations, suitable either for Christmas Day or every day. These included discarded cards, utilizing plastic table cloths by Mrs. Luella Brodson.

"Do Unto Others," was Mrs. Blance Reid's topic. Be kind to the lonely, be quick and the encouraging; show some small kindness today. There is no better time to start a crusade for kindness than at Christmas time; it is God's way of doing unto others, as you would have them do unto you.

Three contests followed, "Guessing," "By Words," and "Christmas;" the winners being, Mrs. F. Bartlett, Mrs. Blanche Reid, Mrs. Mabel Williams, Mrs. L. Rodgers and the hostess.

The singing of "Silent Night," and the Lord's Prayer, brought the meeting to close.

Refreshments were served, including Christmas cake, candies, grapes and nuts.

Mrs. Bessie Rodgers voiced appreciation on behalf of those present for the delightful afternoon to the committee in charge, Mrs. W. C. West and Mrs. P. Bronson.

MELROSE W.I.

In spite of the inclement and foggy weather on Thursday evening a goodly number of members and visitors met at the home of Mrs. J. McFarlane for the Christmas meeting of the Melrose W.I. Christmas decorations lent a festive atmosphere for the occasion and on the table was a miniature Christmas tree gaily trimmed with tinsel and ornaments. The large assortment of "White Gifts," generously furnished by members, were placed around the tree and are to be donated to the Salvation Army.

The president, Mrs. C. Neese, welcomed all and conducted the business session during which the parcel in the Melrose hall on January 11th at 8 p.m., also it was moved that the services be stamped with the Institute crest if possible.

At this stage, Mrs. R. MacFarlane, leader for December, took charge of the program and called on Mrs. S. Demill, who gave a timely and humorous reading, "A Christmas Shopping Spree." Mrs. Mae Lanier followed with a poem, "Being Good," by Edgar Guest, after which Mrs. K. McKechan gave two readings entitled, "Christmas Gifts" and "An Old Fashioned Christmas."

Mrs. Ed. Lanier read "The Legend of St. Nicholas," which traced the origin of the jolly old chap and the customs which go with it, while Mrs. Christmas Carole, Mrs. R. Baldrey presented the topic, "Favorite Christmas Carols," in which she gave stories of interest of how some of the best known carols of this happy season came to be written. Some sang, the rest remained, which bring endless delight to crowds of worshippers were: Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," "O Little Town of Bethlehem", "Joy to the World," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "Silent Night". Can anyone imagine Christmas without these? Surely as man needs to express his joy in this beautiful season, just so necessary are these old familiar tunes that have been handed down from one generation to another.

A brief period of carol singing followed with Mrs. C. Bates kindly acting as pianist.

Mrs. Neese conducted a Christmas contest with Mrs. S. Demill as winner. The roll call, a Christmas poem "Happy Traditions" was well answered by all present.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Refreshments were served and a happy social time was spent in keeping with the holiday season.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER HUSBAND NEVER WANTS TO GO OUT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a young wife of 25 and have been married six years. My husband, who is a year older than myself, is a fine husband and father to our three children.

Perhaps I shouldn't have any complaints at all, but there is one thing that has been upsetting me very much, which is that he never wants to go any place after he gets home from work. We're not rich, but he does make a good enough salary so that we can afford a baby sitter reasonably often to make it possible for us to go out. But all he wants to do is to sit home, watch television, if there's something on that interests him, or read or work in his shop in the basement if there isn't anything he wants to watch.

We're still young people and ought to be having some recreation, and it's especially important that we should be home so much on account of the children.

Have you any suggestions?

Mrs. F.K.

Dear Mrs. F.K.:

Let's say right in the beginning that of course you should have a husband many women might envy you. For how much worse off you'd be, if, like these other women, you had a husband who wanted to get out all the time without you!

Naturally, it's not going to solve your problem to think about this point. But if you remember it occasionally, I think it might help a little to keep you from getting too emotionally stirred up about your own troubles.

Now for the specific problem.

Of course it is for granted that you have talked all this over with your husband many times. But have you done it after already having worked out in your own mind some possible course of action to take in trying to approach a solution, or have you just gone off on an emotional outburst that couldn't possibly get you anywhere in straightening out the situation? The latter, unfortunately, is more apt than not to be the way wives with similar problems go at it. But be sensible, constructive way is to decide on a program in advance, then lay it before your husband quietly and calmly.

What I suggest is that you choose some appropriate time when your husband is relaxed and in a good mood and tell him you have something to propose.

Then begin by saying you can understand that, after a hard day at work, he might feel more like settling down in a comfortable chair at home, or getting the relaxation a change of occupation affords by working in his home carpenter shop, than going out in the evening. Add that if either of these acts and refreshes him more than any other type of recreation, it's right with you.

Then go on to say that you're sure, however, that he can also understand that what you need, on your side, to rest and refresh you is a change from those four walls you've been inside most of the day, adding that you feel he won't mind if you go out with your friends to the movies, or a party, or some other event now and then.

Then go ahead and do it. Don't urge him to go along with you. Just assume that he's content to let you go out on your own.

Naturally, you won't overdo it. Maybe you'll spend a couple of evenings out one week and only one another week, and you'll try to work in some good times in the afternoon, too. Lots of young wives have found it possible to do this, either by taking turns caring for other people's children along with their own, or by meeting at each others' houses and letting the children along.

If you're smart enough to figure out a way to meet in some afternoon activity regularly, you probably won't mind the quiet evenings so much. Or, if you adopt the idea of going out alone some evenings with your friends, avoiding complaints and making no demands on your husband, it could easily be that after awhile he'd want to go along, too.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

BARE-BACK BEAUTIES NEED SPECIAL SKIN CARE

You'll love "showing off" your holiday formal, but don't forget to show you off, too!

Can anybody remember when an evening gown consisted of less fabric than this year's bra-and-bikini top? From the waist up in the back, there just isn't anything visible but your complexion, not even a halter, in some cases.

We admit it's a decidedly glamorous fashion, but it demands a mighty sleek back and shoulders. If you haven't looked at your back in a triple mirror lately, you had better do it now instead of waiting until you get in the store's fitting room. You might get a shock.

With holiday parties coming up, you'll want to be all prepared to show off your new evening gown and to let them show you off. The best preparation for one of these backless beauties is a good body brush and a tubful of suds. If you don't own a long-handled bath brush—or one of those brushes equipped with straps to strap back and forth across your back—then you'll better get one. For nothing gets the skin in condition as thoroughly and quickly as a good soap-and-water scrubbing. The daily treatment smooths the skin, stimulates circulation and promotes a nice glow.

If you have any pebbled patches on your elbows and at the shoulder blades, where they're most apt to occur, give them extra attention. Massage into the skin a little homemade "beauty cream" made of thick cornsuds plus a sprenful or two of salad oil. You'll find this inexpensive beauty cream an excellent skin softener—which you'll want to use on your hands and nails, too, to keep them as well groomed as they should be. And while you're about it, massage some into your feet. Evening sandals are sheer hose demand feet that look lady-like and you'll feel a lot more poised if your feet are comfortable!

All things considered, the new evening fashions demand a more faithful beauty care routine than any other styles we have ever worn.

BREAKFAST WITH SANTA

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver department store has announced a "breakfast with Santa Claus" party for every Saturday morning until Christmas. Children getting a meal at low prices will mix with Santa, clowns and characters from fairyland.

For an Easy Sunday

By Mary Moore

My knowing friend and fellow food conspirator, Emjay, telephoned to say "when something really works like I hope it will I always tell you. What I did yesterday did work."

What she had done that worked so well was roast a loin of pork on Saturday for Sunday, and make a glorified jellied salad and an orange meringue pie—all on Saturday and tucked them safely away to set and chill and improve until the Sunday dinner hour arrived.

Her family of four ate it in front of the "teevee" and all of those present said "Mother it is a wonderful idea." •

My guess is that there are hundreds of us who will note what Emjay did on Saturday for Sunday last week, for next Saturday and Sunday's activities. If you eat your big meal of the day when you arrive home from church this is a doubly attractive plan. If it is later on in the afternoon you won't have to watch "teevee." I know I won't, but you could fill some of that once used for some of them are quite little they could do the waiting on.

On Saturday (1) Roast a loin of pork the bones of which the butcher has cleft with his cleaver (do you use a cleaver to cleft things?) low and slow (from 5 to 6 lbs. 2 1-2 to 3 hours at 325 deg.).

When it is cool cover it and chill it. Have some applesauce, possibly spiced and sinted red, or some red currant jelly on hand to serve with it. (2) Make EMJAY'S JELLIED SALAD

(Good with cold meat plate)

Dissolve 1 package of lime flavored jelly in 3-4 cup boiling water and 1 cup boiling hot pineapple juice (from canned pineapple). When cool and beginning to set add one 20-cent box (15 oz.) "curdy" cottage cheese, 3-3 cup canned cut-up pineapple allowed, 1 cup very finely shredded celery and if on hand a few chopped pimientoes. Chill until firmly set.

Turn out on large platter and garnish with diagonally cut cucumber slices, tomato wedges, and celery and cress sprigs. Serve with boiled salad dressing made light and airy by folding into it about 1-4 cup chilled, then whipped evaporated milk.

(3) Prepare for dessert an orange chiffon pie made by using frozen orange juice (diluted with water as instructed on can) as the liquid part of a packaged lemon pie filling, and otherwise following directions on package for lemon pie filling made into chiffon pie.

Emjay mixed 1 can condensed consomme with 1 can condensed tomato soup and 2 cans water and served this combination soup as her first course.

With the cold meat course she passed hot tea biscuits—the dry ingredients for which had been mixed on Saturday too. On Sunday all she added was the measured liquid inside—she didn't even roll them out. She dropped them from a spoon on to the baking sheet and baked them at 475 deg. for 12 minutes.

SIX TIPS ON ADDRESSING YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES

You choose your Christmas cards with care and taste. And with care and taste you should address the envelopes that so proudly carry those Christmas cards. One charming idea is to send forth your envelopes so correctly and handsomely addressed that they will smile your Christmas greetings to your friends even before your Christmas cards speak your greetings!

1. Write in your "Very Best" Handwriting. Carefully. Legibly. Illegibility gets you nowhere . . . and too often, alas, will get your letters to exactly the same place. "Address your Christmas card envelopes plainly" is the ever-hopeful plea of the Post Office Department. This is good, practical advice, to avoid having any carelessly-addressed envelopes futilely deploring around the country in an effort to find out just what you did mean by some of the illegible and abbreviated scrawls you scribbled in the address.

2. Do Not Abbreviate. (Only exception: "Mr." and "Mrs.") Abbreviating is a lazy person's way of writing. Remember this: It takes only a second or two to write a word in full . . . just about as long as it takes to make the period after the abbreviation. Try it and see!

Warning: Abbreviations are the chief reason for mishaps to envelopes. Particularly in the names of provinces. Ontario is a lovely word and lovely to look at, takes only a split second more than Ont. Alberta is so much better-looking on your Christmas envelopes than Alta. Also write in full those words in addresses: Street . . . . Avenue . . . . Road . . . . Park . . . . North; South, East, West.

4. Do not write any unnecessary curlicues. No "To" for "For" before the name. No "No." before the street-address.

5. Use the Zone Number whenever possible . . . Remember: it is for And remember: the Zone Number should be written after the name of the city . . . not after the name of the province. And please . . . no comma before or after the Zone Number.

6. Four lines are generally best, cleared, for the envelope-addressing: (1) the name; (2) the street-address; (3) the city (with Zone Number); (4) the province. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Holly
123 Home Street
Pleasant City 5
Connecticut

Bon Voyage to your Christmas card envelopes! Happy Landing for your Christmas cards!

By THE CANADIAN PRES

Seven of the 12 were Indians from the Spanish River reservation in Northern Ontario. They were asphyxiated by fumes from a faulty exhaust as they sat in their car by the highway.

PICTON — Still hale and hearty, David Clark on Sunday marked his 101st birthday. He resides alone and does all his own housekeeping. Reading and listening to the radio are his favorite pastimes. He has read the Bible through eleven times. Mr. Clark, who was born in a log cabin in Prince Edward County, has resided in his present home for the past half century. Previously he was a farmer and operated evaporators in various parts of the province. After the century mark, he decided that he would give up gardening, which he did on quite a large scale.

QUEBEC (CP)—Amid tears and tumult, 257 refugees from rebel-torn Hungary filed to Canadian soil Sunday in a near-zero dusk made warmer by the shouting welcome of more than 6,000 Quebecers.

Men, women and children left the liner Arosa Sun to go to new homes throughout Canada. It was the largest single group yet to reach Canada and the first by sea.

A three-piece ship's band struck up bravely with the Hungarian National Anthem as the 20,000-ton liner berthed. The band of the Royal 22nd Regiment responded from the quay.

TEARS FLOW

Many of the waiting persons were Hungarian-born Canadians who cried openly.

Early today a large group was scheduled to leave by bus for Ottawa. By Wednesday, all are expected to be en route to new homes. Most will go to Winnipeg or Vancouver.

The Arosa Sun arrives from Le Havre, France. It bore 745 other passengers, mainly German immigrants. The sister vessel Arosa Star is due at Quebec later this week with another 500 Hungarians, most bound for Ontario.

Typical refugees are Paul Czenky, 25 and his fiancee, Etta Toth, 21, who fled Budapest together. A graduate engineer, Paul hopes to find work in Ontario.

WANT WORK

What the refugees want more than anything now is work.

"They don't think this is the land of milk and honey," immigration officer John Klassen said. "All they want is the chance to work."

Oldest of the group is Bella Februvary, 63. The youngest is Edith Szarka, 18 months. Most are in their 30s and 40s. The majority are Roman Catholic. All but a handful are skilled laborers—carpenters, tailors, locksmiths and machinists.

There is a husband-and-wife doctor team—Dr. Ivan Garta, 42, a general practitioner, and his pediatrician wife, Susan, 30.

Most speak nothing but Hungarian.

TO ESCORT WOMEN

HALEDON, N.J. (AP) — Beginning tonight, whenever an unescorted woman steps off a bus here after 7:30 p.m., a civic official will offer to escort her home. It is part of a plan by police, firemen and civil defence workers to protect women during the peak pre-Christmas shopping days. The program was started because of the murder of Giovanna Giambra last month and because of a recent rape case and a purse-snatching here.

Little Benny's Notebook

THE POTTS FAMILY — SR

I was standing outside the Little Grand with Glasses Magee looking at a sign saying on it, If you liked our show, tell your frends, and Glasses said, Heck, I wish we could take Flora and Dora to the Kartoon Kid Show tomorrow.

Meening the bewly looking twins, and I said, Heck, so do I.

Both meening we wished we had the money to, and I said, Oh boy, there's the manager.

Meening a short fat man standing next to the ticket window smoking a short fat cigar, and Glasses said, Well, what of it?

Plenty of it, maybe. If my idea werks, I said.

And I told him what it was, and we went up to the manager, and I said, Excuse us, we're a committee of 4.

We represent a lot of other guys, Glasses said, and the manager said, You do, heh? You look more like a committee of 2 to me, he said.

The other 2 are gerls, I said. They'll tell the other gerls they liked the show, and we'll tell the other fellows, if you let the whole committee in every Saturday for free, I said, and Glasses said, We'll always like the show all right, if we get in for nuthing.

Well now that's an idea, the manager said.

Making us start to feel lucky, and he took another puff on the cigar, saying, How soon can you have the sworn statement?

Which one? I said, and he said, Why, the sworn statement garnisteed by 3 adults for years of age or older, assuring me that the committee will purchase at leest 50 cents werth of popcorn at each and every show.

Being the beginning and end of the idea.

Dr. Gordon Seagrave, Famed Burma Surgeon of Second World War, Likes Softball

NAMKHAM, Burma (AP) — "Slide, darlin' slide," yelled the catcher. Without hesitating, 33-year-old Esther Po — registered nurse-turned heathen — leaped toward second base.

She landed herself off and nodded. This was easier than the war days when she was cited for bravery under fire while serving with the U.S. forces in Burma and India.

"Bless you darlin', but run next time," chided the catcher. Then he took off his mask and sighed, "you know this is getting harder every year."

The catcher, Dr. Gordon Seagrave, famed Burma surgeon of the Second World War, reached for a cigaret, one of the 50 or 60 he smokes every day, and took a deep breath. "My heart just ain't what it used to be. I don't play so much anymore."

But the wizened "old American doctor in the hills," as the villagers nearby know him, still loves a good game of softball — especially with his corps of Burma nurses.

LIKE A FATHER

To him, the girls are like daughters. And to the girls, who long ago began calling him "daddy," Dr. Seagrave is closer than most of their relatives have ever been.

Walking back from the softball diamond, Dr. Seagrave's steps slowed. Then, at 60, the man who has given his life to helping the people of Burma, looks much older.

All at once, it becomes apparent that another chapter in the Seagrave family history in Burma is perhaps drawing to an end in these foothills where it started in 1924. That was when his grandparents first came to Burma.

Today, the gaunt-looking doctor hopes a member of the family might carry on the tradition when he passes from the scene, but he does not think it's likely.

JAILED AS TRAITOR

Dysentery and malaria have taken their toll, but perhaps more than anything else it was his detention by the Burmese government in 1950 on charges of high treason that hurt Seagrave most.

"I would rather have had the death penalty than spend six years in prison," Dr. Seagrave said. That was what government prosecutors sought as a penalty for his alleged support of Burma's Karen rebels in 1948-49.

Eventually, the doctor was cleared of all charges and sent back to his hospital in the hills. But his year in a Rangoon jail is a painful memory.

Dr. Seagrave came here originally as a Baptist missionary doctor. Now his hospital is non-sectarian. His affection for the Kachin, Shan, Chin and Karen frontier people is legend in these hills.

And, as his little army of almond-eyed nurses scurry along the hospital corridors in their neat white uniforms, it's easy to sense that the feeling is mutual.

They know "daddy" is watching over them.

Nehru Curious Blend of Both East and West

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru, due to visit the United States and Canada starting Dec. 16, is a curious blend of westerner and easterner which often shows itself in his personal life, in his thinking and in his actions.

He insists now on wearing Indian clothes, tight jodhpur trousers and long frock coat with a Gandhi cap. But there is a bit of the westerner in the rest.

At home he sleeps on a western bed rather than on a woven Indian cot called a charpoi. He eats a western-type breakfast.

The easterner in him often clashes with the western when he grows impatient. Then he becomes an autocrat determinedly pushing through a program or policy regardless of others' desires.

People who know him say he is also a man with a temper, with flashes with moods.

If things are going well with India, he mood is one of excitement. Like a little boy he skips up and down stairs, or if at a party he is one of the gayest talkers.

If things are not going well, he becomes moody and lonely. Sometimes, at a cocktail party, Nehru can be seen wandering or sitting alone talking to no one.

Nehru's pride in his personal work leaves him but five or six hours of sleep a night, for he delegates few matters to subordinates. He is intensely proud of his secretary of the English language, and every letter, every telegram, every note moving out of his office with his signature has been written by him.

Still spry at 67—his last birthday on Nov. 14 was celebrated as national children's day — Nehru rises promptly at 6:15 and does about 20 minutes yogi setting up exercises, including a number of one-minute head stands.

His work day, filled with interviews, speeches, visits to parliament and other chores of state, often does not end until after midnight. To keep up with him, he has two shifts of secretaries with three secretaries in each shift.

Nehru also functions as minister for foreign affairs, minister of atomic energy and chairman of the economic planning commission. Ministers in other fields never made a major decision without consulting him.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and he said, Here comes Ted Spouter. There's something he'll expect me to congradulate him about.

What, pop? I said and pop said, That's exactly what I can recall. Somebody told me he got a big write up in the papers, and he'll feel slighted if I dont pat him on the back. I'll have to use the old diplomatic approach and make him give me a clew himself, he said.

Which just then Mr. Spouter stopped to shake hands, and pop said, Well well Ted, it's nice to see you're not too proud of yourself to talk to ordnerry mortals.

Oh, after all, it was largely a matter of luck, Mr. Spouter said, and pop said, I wouldn't say that, it was quite a remarkable achievement.

Well, I suppose so, in a way, Mr. Spouter said, but the same, I'm a lucky guy, you cant get away from that, he said, and pop said, Oh, I guess there's a certain element of luck in everything, but after all a lot of credit goes to you, in spite of your modesty.

Well, I must admit it took a bit of good judgment, Mr. Spouter said. I realized I didn't stand a chance unless I got the best lawyer in town, but I sure was lucky to be able to afford the services of an old foe like Rufus Hardcase. I still shiver when I remember the size of his fee, but he won the case, that's the main thing. Well I'll be seeing you around, I'm glad to be able to say, he said.

And he kept going, and I said, Did he give you a clew, pop? and pop said, Yes, the government was after him for tax evasion, and he'd be in jail right now if there was any justice, the crook.

Anyways, pop, you congradulated him without knowing why, so you did your duty, I said, and pop said, I guess I'm an even greater diplomat than I realized.

New Abbey for Benedictine Order Already Taking Shape

ST. BENOIT DU LAC, Que. (CP)—The new abbey rising on the wooded shores of Lake Memphremagog represents, in part at least, the harvesting of the hospitality sown by a monastic order among Canadians for many years.

Eighty monks of the Benedictine order, whose agricultural skill has added more than one delicacy to Canadian fare, are building the new establishment with materials offered by grateful guests.

Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews who have sought and found solitude and rest in the old abbey are making possible a building program that has been estimated at several million dollars.

A Protestant recently supplied himself concrete at five times manual labor. . . they are truly monks of the old order and if they live by the labor of their hands. . .

Famed in Europe for contributing champagne and benedictine to the good things of life, the Canadian monastery contributes ermite cheese—a blue-veined relative of roquefort—produced by a secret recipe. The monks can't produce enough to meet demand.

The cheese factory handles more than 3,000,000 pounds of district milk annually. The monastery has a purebred dairy herd, bees, pigs, apples and vineyards.

The monastery's specialty—smoked hams and fine champagne type cider are widely known among visitors — but aren't for sale to the public.

But agricultural toil is only secondary. Eight or nine times daily, the black-robed monks file to choir stalls for worship.

The monastery is the centre for study of Gregorian Chant in North America with its inhabitants devoting time to liturgical and musical subjects.

Industrialization Plan Aimed At Making Manchuria World Production Centre Says Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: A Canadian reporter, David Lancashire, has spent six weeks touring Red China. He travelled 5,500 miles and talked to farmers, factory workers, clerks and even a few capitalists. In this uncensored story, first of a series to appear this week, Lancashire tells of the industrial development of Manchuria and how life is lived there.

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

MUKDEN (Schuyang), China (AP)—Modern industry developed and then wrecked by the Japanese. It was restored by the Russians when they occupied Manchuria after the Second World War. Today, back in Chinese hands, it is the hub of an industrialization program aimed at making Manchuria a world production centre.

There are 1,834 factories and mines in Liaoning province, and most of them are centred in Mukden and Anshan, two hours away. So many factories are now plugged into the city's power lines that public electricity is often cut off in the daytime.

There is no gaiety here. By 7 p.m. streets are empty except for workers on their way to night school. Social and family life is sacrificed to production, and even the cigarette in Mukden are stamped with a little cog-wheel trademark.

A DREARY CITY

It is a dreary city of almost $2,500,000, with miles of walls and drab houses, forests of chimneys and acres of housing projects for the workers who tend the heavy production lines.

The residents live and think in terms of the factory. The model housing village outside the city, where 7,000 factory families live in new but squalid buildings, is peppered with posters and slogans. The factories are filled with banners urging workers to "increase your political consciousness" and "you increase production."

In the downtown district, a former department store houses an exhibition of unbelievable dullness. There are scores of lathes, plows, bottled chemicals, sample cases of ballbearings and steel bars, drill presses and truck tires.

But the monotonous display draws 1,200 persons a day, the director said, and 4,000 on Sundays. A good percentage of the serious - faced visitors are women and tiny children, and high school students intently enjoying their one day off in the week.

NO VACATIONS HERE

The factory hand works a 48-hour week, and his hospital care and housing supplied almost free by the state. There are no vacations, but every year he gets a rest for national holidays.

Wages run from about $3 yuan a month to 163 yuan for highly skilled men or women ($14 to $47). Those are among the highest industrial wages in China.

The usual workers' home is a one or two-room affair with leaky faucets, bare walls and no bathroom. Furniture — wooden beds with no mattresses, and straight-backed chairs—is often supplied by the factory. Kitchens have a small gas ring and a laundry tub. A family generally includes two or three children, plus in-laws.

That, however, is only $2 or $3 a month. Because night life is unknown in Northeast China except for movies or dances at the factory canteens, there is nothing much but subsistence for a laborer to spend his money on. Most manage to bank a small amount.

BIG PAY BOOST

This fall, workers in Manchuria got a retroactive pay increase of 14 per cent. The city's stores were filled with fabrics, gurgling at the bonus on such luxuries as small radios, bicycles and padded cotton clothing.

Almost all the factories were built by the Japanese during their 14-year occupation. As the Japanese fled, they tried to leave the buildings and machinery in ruins.

The Reds who followed confiscated much of the workable machinery and shipped it to the Soviet Union. Since then, however, they have been pouring technical and financial aid back into the province. Many of the 205 projects to be aided by the U.S.S.R. during the first five-year plan are in this area.

All expansion of the factories and installation of machinery was planned by Russian technologists.

Crews of Chinese workers were sent to Russia to learn the intricacies of the machine age. Now directors of the plants say, the Chinese are capable of running things themselves. The Russians have for the most part gone home.

Expansion is still hampered by a serious shortage of skilled labor among the 830,000 workers in the province. Few of the veterans who built the Anshan steel mill are left. Each factory sponsors spare-time schools to pound politics and technique into the workers. Factory executives say that the factories are for the time being mainly training schools.

In Anshan, for example, about 83,000 men and 5,000 women are employed in the iron and steel works, 37,000 of them as apprentices.

Nevertheless, some producers say they have overfulfilled their quotas for the first five-year plan — which ends a year hence.

PRODUCTION AHEAD

By official accounts heavy machinery in China now has hit 127 per cent of its five-year goal, rolling stock is 109 per cent, and Anshan's metal production is almost double that of 1949. Raw steel and tubes from Anshan's seamless tubing mill are being turned out at twice the rate of last year.

At Anshan's mills, where aline towering blast furnaces turn out most of China's iron, the redevelopment program has tied itself into a knot.

The roads through the 40 factories are churned to mud. Traffic is blocked by switch engines shunting to and from the factories. On each side of the road is a pit the length of the factory grounds where water mains are being installed.

Overhead, factory pipes run through a tangle of bamboo scaffolding and power lines. Construction materials, are hauled in by mule-cart.

Once away from the factories, Anshan is an attractive city. Streets laid out by the Japanese are wide and tree-lined, and small parks have been provided for the laborers.

On the hills outside the city, where something resembling a suburban antenna projects from a spire orchard, one pagoda remains. It has been converted into a water tower.

END ADVANCE FOR MONDAY PMs

Sixteen Nations Prepare Motion Condemning USSR

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Sixteen countries prepared a resolution for the United Nations General Assembly today asking it to condemn the Soviet government for violating the UN charter by depriving Hungary of independence and the Hungarian people of their rights.

The resolution calls on the Russians "to make immediate arrangements for the withdrawal, under United Nations observation, of its armed forces from Hungary and to permit the re-establishment of the political independence of Hungary."

One outspoken opponent of the Soviet action in Hungary, Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez-Portuondo, said he will introduce a resolution in a few days to put the assembly on record in favor of Russia's suspension or expulsion from the UN if it continues to disregard assembly resolutions on Hungary.

The Cuban said his resolution also would call for ouster of the Hungarian delegation from the assembly, but added that he would vote for the 16-country proposal today even though it was not strong enough to suit him.

CAN'T EXPEL RUSSIA

There is no chance that the assembly will suspend or expel Russia even if it should adopt such a Cuban resolution. That action can be taken only on recommendation of the Security Council, where Russia has a veto. But the Cuban said the assembly should go on record to blast Russia despite such punishment.

However, the assembly could eject the Hungarian delegation, because Russia's veto does not apply in the assembly, and it alone can reject a delegation's credentials.

Premier Janos Kadar and puppet Hungarian premier, Janos Kadar, have ignored or rejected four assembly resolutions adopted since Nov. 4, when Soviet troops returned to Budapest, installed Kadar and began a bloody repression of the widespread revolt.

WARNS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—With winter only two weeks away, warm weather pushed readings on New York thermometers close to a high of 66.9 Friday, a record for the date. The old mark of 65.7 was set in 1931.

TWO-YEAR SENTENCE

TORONTO (CP)—A former Sunday school teacher was sentenced Friday to two years less a day in jail when he pleaded guilty to stealing $15,000 from his employers. Ernest Ross, 30, of suburban Ajax admitted taking the money from the Toronto firm of R. Smith Transport Company Ltd., during a two-year period while he was employed as a clerk-accountant.

Pulp and Paper Is Chief Industry of Fort Frances

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)— The smell of fresh-cut wood and the acrid odor of sulphite tell the tale of this border town's chief industry, pulp and paper.

About half the gainfully - occupied persons here are directly employed by the giant Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company, and many of the others are employed in supplying goods and services.

The company itself employs about 1,300 men at the seasonal peak, 1,000 at the mill and 300 in the woods as far as 90 miles away. Payrolls in a month sometimes total $300,000.

But Harry Halliwell, staff writer for the Winnipeg Tribune, says the northwestern Ontario town, directly across the border from International Falls, Minn., is flexible in its outlook anew. Rich in timber and agriculture and grazing land, it stands astride the vast wilderness which once separated eastern and western Canada.

Now the town and the area hope to become the gateway to one of the needs of a new mining frontier, draining the minerals of the Pre-Cambrian Shield to the north, he says.

Should the intensive search of the hinterland pay off in a new productive mines, one of the oldest communities in the Great Lakes has much to offer. It has good rail and road connections, a basic supply and industrial setup which lends itself to expansion, good hotels and banking facilities.

The town is on the eastern terminus of an agricultural area stretching along the Rainy River with plenty of scope for expansion of output. This fertile area, bounded on the north by the rock and bush of the shield, has been largely undeveloped because of lack of markets and the immediate attraction of pulp-cutting on Farm lots.

But farmers are turning their attention to beef and dairy cattle. An abattoir is to be built here for beef cattle. And the land is excellent for vegetable production.

Mining, however, offers the greatest hope for expanded markets. A Montreal firm has a substantial exploration site for copper and nickel at Emo, 70 miles west. Iron ore is known to be bedded along the east shore of Rainy Lake.

Paper - making affords good wages, and the plant also brings supplementary income to surrounding farmers who have woodlots and cut wood.

The second most important industry is the tourist trade from the south. Fort Frances is one of the busiest ports of entry along the Canada-U.S. border. As many as 29,000 persons have crossed the border from International Falls in one day, by car or on foot. It is also one of Canada's most important ports of entry for float aircraft.

There are other industries too. A woodworking plant ships snow and water skis to eastern Canada, and a steel-boat form has seen its products go as far as the Northwest Territories. Cereal and sash-and-door works abound.

YACHT TACKLES OCEAN

IJUMUIDEN, The Netherlands (AP)—Seven Dutch yachtsmen set out across the North Sea to Plymouth, England, and the first leg of an Atlantic crossing in a 73-foot, ketch. Captain-owner Cedric Meiser of Florida and Donald Palmer of Joliet, Ill., are headed for the Virgin Islands in the Frida, 17 feet wide with a draft of seven feet.

POINT OF VIEW

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — Giving judgment in an income tax case Judge Robert Micklin commented: "Everybody who has a hobby that's losing money calls it a business. But everybody who has a hobby which is making money wants to call it a recreation."

Mines Minister Kelly of Ontario Not Candidate

TORONTO (CP)—Mines Minister Kelly of Ontario said Sunday he has withdrawn from the National leadership race of the Progressive Conservative party because the job of welding different factions of the party together is too big.

It was announced Saturday that a committee had been formed to promote the dark-horse candidacy of the 55-year-old minister, who said earlier he would find it difficult to turn down a draft at next week's Conservative convention in Ottawa.

Another reason for withdrawing, Mr. Kelly said, is that upon reviewing the candidates, including some who have withdrawn, he felt that his appeal to French-Canadians had been diminished and it could undermine the party's future success.

Mr. Kelly said he had been offered assurances of financial support if he stood, and was assured of almost unanimous support from prominent French-speaking figures in Northern Quebec and Ontario.

He is Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Cochrane North.

Duke Offers Palatial Grounds For Nudists

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Bedford, one of Britain's best dressers, came to the aid Sunday of some of the world's worst undressers—the World Congress of Nudists.

"I understand," said the 35-year-old duke, "that the nudists are having trouble in finding a place to hold their 1958 international congress. It occurs to me that Woburn could provide the necessary facilities."

Woburn — pronounced Wooburn — is the duke's palatial estate in the nearby village of Bedford, the seat of his 90-room house, Woburn Abbey. It has several thousand acres of green lawns, spreading trees, lakes and streams.

When the attack occurred, Weldon Boyd, left, 41, was returning to his district postal station after completing his rounds. His body was discovered by P.C. Robert Trimble, right, who was off duty at the time. Fifteen bloody mail bags were found earlier in a Toronto suburb. They were still open and abandoned on a road. With few clues, police believe only one man did the shooting but that he may have had an accomplice to help load the mail bags and drive their getaway car. (Central Press Canadian).

Mayor Dickerson Of North Bay in Feud With Station

NORTH BAY (CP)—Civic election affairs here reached dramatic proclaimed climax Saturday, when Mayor Mark E. Dickerson observed that television station CKGN-TV refused to permit his wife and five children on the air.

Mayor Dickerson, candidate in the city's election, said the television station used "rank discrimination" towards him in disallowing a speech television appearance by members of his family.

FIND ANCIENT NET

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The finding of a fish net used by primitive man 2,000 years ago is reported by Dr. Alfred K. Guthe, anthropologist at the Rochester Museum. Guthe said the net was unearthed at recently discovered campsites near the head of Honeoye Lake, 40 miles southeast of here. The net, he said, had been burned and buried, and the fire carbonized it and kept it from rotting.

"I agree my initials appear odd. My name happens to be Simon Isaac Noble."

PC Convention to Choose New Party Leader Will Be 1st Conducted Before Cameras

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa meeting hall, which is beginning to get accustomed to political conventions, this week will hold its fifth in 37 years. It could be the liveliest yet.

The hall is the Coliseum, which sometimes houses livestock shows but more often bingo games and is generally used as the Capital's community centre.

The liveliness will result from the fact that the Progressive Conservative convention, to choose a new party leader, will be the first ever conducted before television cameras.

Political conventions are rare in Canada, compared with the United States. Up to now the Conservatives have held, and the Liberals only two. With no opposition in the past to present a spectacle to many thousands of TV viewers, Canada's parties have done little to open the hoopla atmosphere of U. S. delegates, especially those from Young Progressive Conservative conventions.

But this week the Conservative ranks, plan to beat the drums and wave banners in demonstrations for their party and the candidates.

AROMA LINGERS ON

The Coliseum is an arena-like building, part of the city's Lansdowne Park exhibition grounds on Bank Street about a mile-south of Parliament Hill and beside the Rideau Canal.

Little more than a month ago it was the site of winter fair. The aroma of farm animals lingered last week in the three-storey annex which houses committee offices, committee rooms and the working area for press, radio and TV.

But there will be no hints of agriculture in the main hall, which has been transformed with fresh paint, flags and 1¼ miles of yard-wide hunting.

A removable floor has been put down in the arena, where delegates will sit. A massive stage, 60 feet by 100, has been built across one end and painted in light and dark shades of blue. The party color. A central public-address rostrum will hold the speaker.

PHOTOGRAPHS MISSING

One thing missing will be the huge, blown-up photographs of former party figures which have featured previous conventions. In front, designer Gordon Fairbairn has built a 350-footer bordering of red, white and blue bunting. In the centre is a stout replica of the maple leaf and the party's "PC" initials, beneath which colored lights will shine.

But Mr. Fairbairn's hopes of perfect ceiling decoration with bunting were foiled—the drapes that have blocked off television lighting.

The Coliseum's first political convention was in 1919 when the Liberal party departed from the practice of having its leader chosen by party members of Parliament. The country's first party leader-only convention that year chose Mackenzie King.

The Conservative party, after holding its first convention in Winnipeg in 1927, waited its second one for the Coliseum in 1938. In 1948 the Coliseum had its biggest year when both major parties held conventions, choosing Prime Minister Louis Laurent and Hon. George Drew.

ST. NICHOLAS DIDN'T FORGET

St. Nicholas Day, December 6, a traditional gift-giving day in advance of the Feast of the Nativity in Hungary, was observed at Camp Kilmer, N.J., "Little Hungary" in the U.S. Little Julius Dubon, seven, awakens in his army cot to find St. Nicholas indeed has been there. His shoe was placed at the foot of the bed, according to custom, and was filled with candies, and a bag of switches as a reminder against misbehavior. Because of its religious significance, St. Nicholas Day has been banned in Communist - dominated Hungary.

The building was first put up in 1903 as named Howick Hall after Howick Castle, the English home of Governor-General Earl Grey. Twice in its first three years the roof collapsed under the weight of snow.

In 1914, during a winter fair, the basement boiler exploded. Three men and a score of horses were killed including one horse which was blown through the air and landed on a reed girder, which has remained bent to this day.

Publisher Dies

BEAVERTON (CP) — Gordon Cave, 67, for 39 years owner and publisher of the Beaverton Express, died Sunday in Lindsay.

Mr. Cave suffered a heart attack while working at his linotype machine Thursday and had been in hospital since then. He was the son of J. J. Cave, who founded The Express 75 years ago and for many years also published The Cannington Echo, now called The Gleaner.

HUNT BOMB ON PLANES

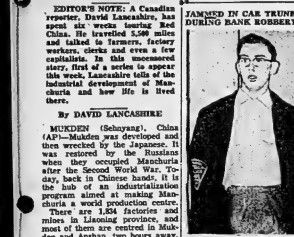
PARIS (Reuters) — Customs officials at Orly Airport Thursday checked some 1,000 parcels for time-bombs before allowing them on board planes bound for Algiers. Movements ordered by the French air freight followed the discovery of a parcel bomb in an air terminal at Algiers.



Recovered from his recent operation and back at his desk in Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles confers with undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover, Jr., before flying to Paris for the NATO meetings. ## FOR RED RULE TO RED TAPE

Although they escaped Red rule in Hungary, Dr. Miklos Gergicy and his fiancee, Anna Vag, find there is red tape even in Canada. Applying for a marriage licence two days after arriving in Toronto, the young couple find they will have to wait to see if residence and other requirements be waived. Dr. Gergicy operated by candlelight on 350 wounded Hungarians in a Budapest clinic during the height of the rebellion. (Central Press Canadian).

JAMMED IN CAR TRUNK DURING BANK ROBBERY

Bundled into the trunk of his car by two police gunmen wearing plain gloves, Charles F. Dark, above, of London, Ont., was unaware that the bandits were robbing a bank of over $8,000. They forced him to drive them from London to nearby Mount Brydges, where they staged the hold - up while Dark lay in the trunk of the car. They then released Dark, who was uninjured and fled in his car. Ten hours later police arrested two suspects in another car and found $7,000 under the front seat.

FEW CLUES TO POSTAL DRIVER SLAYING

The body of Weldon Boyd, Toronto mail-truck driver, lies slumped on the floor of the truck in which he was shot four times. A detective is shown examining the truck for clues. # Hull Scores Pair in Teepees' 5-1 Win, Ubriaco Gets Trio in Irish Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When St. Michael's College Majors win a game in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series, it's usually because one of three players—Frank Mahovlich, Bob Boucher or Gino Ubriaco—has exploded with three goals or more.

Mahovlich, for instance, fired four last night as Majors set down the mighty Guelph Biltmores. Boucher has counted five and six goals in two games this season. And Ubriaco has had his share of three-goal nights.

Sunday, it was again Ubriaco, whose three goals in the last period led Majors to a 6-1 win over last - place Peterborough Petes. Mahovlich counted a pair of his own to keep his hot scoring streak alive.

In Saturday's only game St. Catharines Teepees treated a home crowd to a 5-1 win over Barrie Flyers.

At Toronto Sunday, Chuck Hamilton gave Petes a 1-0 lead midway through the first period. The advantage held up until 1:40 of the third when Jack McMaster tallied for Majors. Ubriaco and Mahovlich took over from there.

Marlboros took the lead twice against Cubs but couldn't hold it. Carl Brewer made it 1-0 for Toronto on a blueline shot in the first period. Hamilton's John Roe then counted off a slam in the second to make it 1-1.

With the third period just 2 seconds old, centre Bill Kennedy found the mark for Marlboros, but Jim Shropshire got the tying marker for Cubs at 17:58, banging in Henry Akervall's rebound.

At St. Catharines Saturday, Teepees took advantage of Barrie penalties to score four times. John McKenzie and Bob Hull each had two goals for the winners, with Stan Miklita banging home a single. Defenceman Blake Ball scored the lone Barrie goal.

Weill Leaves For London

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Weill, manager of former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, left Saturday by plane for London.

Weill will sign guardianship papers for Dave Rent, 20-year-old British amateur heavyweight champion, with the boxer's parents in Liverpool. Rent now is in Toronto and will make his professional debut later in Canada.

Russian Press Jubilant Over Soviet Olympics

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Big headlines in the Soviet press Sunday proclaimed Russia's delight in her unofficial points victory over American athletes at the Melbourne Olympic Games.

But notes of criticism were sounded. The government newspaper Izvestia said: "Track and field athletes were disappointing, especially women sprinters and broad jumpers. Great hopes were placed on them.

"Cyclists, yachtsmen and fencers also performed badly."

POPULAR PHOTO

Among the wide display of photographs was one of Britain's Gordon Pirie, vanquishing Russian gold medalist Vladimir Kuts, the latter described as the "Olympics most popular man." Kuts defeated Pirie twice in winning the 5,000 and 10,000-metre gold medals.

Some newspapers, such as the organ of the Communist youth league Komsomol Pravda, complained of attempts to mix "cold war" politics with the Olympics.

But the trade union newspaper Trud declared that the Olympics took place at an unfortunate time for "the friends of peace" what with "peaceful homes of Egyptians set ablaze by Anglo-French and Israeli imperialists" and events in Hungary.

Trud added: "The sinful little squeaking and loud-like croaking of those who tried during these days to defame Russia were completely lost in the tremendous ovations with which sportsmen of the whole world and Australian sports fans greeted the flag of the U.S.S.R."

Aussies, Yanks Swim Winners Canada May Prove Prominent

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australia and the United States shared top aquatic honors in the Olympics. But there were indications that Canada may be moving into a prominent place as a competitor for international swimming honors.

It has been more than a quarter of a century since a Canadian last won an Olympic medal for swimming — a 400-metre relay team finished third in 1928—and not since George Hodgson of Montreal carried off three gold medals in 1912 has a Canadian won a swimming title.

Canada's first medal in diving, the third-place finish by Irene MacDonald of Hamilton in the women's springboard event, was the top 1956 achievement. It was modest, compared with the double victory of United States diver Pat McCormick, as were three fifth place Canadian finishes behind record - breaking Australians in swimming.

But Hodgson's victories in the 400, 1,000 and 1,500-metre freestyle had been almost a one-man show, as were the one bronze and two silver medals gathered in the same three events by Montreal's George Vernot in 1920. This year the whole team was getting into the act.

Canada sent six swimmers and two divers to Melbourne, of whom six reached the finals of one event or more. The baby of the team, 15-year-old Sara Barber of Brantford, made it three times, swimming six races in four days.

Bill Slater, just one year older than Sara, swam the fastest 400-metre freestyle race of his life and just missed qualifying for the final, then knocked more than 45 seconds off his previous best to finish a fast-closing fifth in the 1,500-metre final. The Vancouver youngster has swum competitively for only two years.

Rosemary-eyed Virginia Grant of Toronto twice broke the old Olympic record in the 100-metre freestyle and finished fifth in the final in which Australia's Dawn Fraser was clocked in world-record time.

And the Canadian team of Miss Barber, Miss Grant, Helen Stewart of Vancouver and Gladys Priestley of Verdun, Que., all of them in their teens, also were fifth in a final that saw a world record fall to the winning Australian foursome.

A schedule that sent Miss Barber into the pool twice within 25 minutes hampered her performance in her remaining two finals.

She finished seventh in the 100-metre backstroke in one minute, 14.2 seconds, faster than she had ever covered the distance in Canada. Then, competing against a fresh field, she was last in the 100-metre butterfly. If she had matched her qualifying time of 1:14.2, she would have been two of her rivals and finished sixth.

Swimming performances in this year's Olympics indicate that a competitor is a has-been before he gets far into his 20s and it is unlikely that too many of this year's Canadian lineup will be in Rome in 1960.

But most of them will be around for a couple of years yet. And there are more of them on the way. Virginia Grant's kid sister, Susie, for one, was winning races in England last summer.

Until this year's eight-point harvest, Canada had never scored a point in women's swimming and diving since the Olympics began. Today Canadians can legitimately hope it will become a habit.

14 Belleville Bowlers Qualify In Classic

Donald A. Smith of Kingston topped a field of 200 bowlers from Eastern Ontario Saturday, rolling a high 1,433 for five games to head the list of qualifiers for the Nelson's Classic regional finals on Jan. 12.

Smith's performance highlighted some fine bowling which saw 23 Kingston keglers win spots in the 49 that were open.

Belleville, paced by Art Lalonde who rolled a 1,340 — good enough for second place — grabbed off 14. The remainder were split up amongst Deseronto (3), Napanee (3) and Brockville and Gananoque, each with two.

Napanee's Jim Robinson gets the 50th spot in the finals which will be rolled at the Lucky Strike Lanes in Deseronto in mid-January, by ever covered the distance in Canada only. Then, competing against a fresh field, she was last in the 100-metre butterfly. If she had matched her qualifying time of 1:14.2, she would have been two of her rivals and finished sixth.

EASTERN DIVISION

Bobby Attersley stretched his point lead in the Eastern Ontario OHA Senior "A" scoring race this past week by scoring three goals and assisting on the other. He has a point total of 43 while his closest followers are Minnie Menard of Belleville, and Attersley's playing coach, Bus Gagnon, with 33 points each.

Ottawa's Gitlis Bokvort lowered his goals-against average to 3.12 by allowing but one goal in his lone contest. Cornwall's Gerry Devaney, Gordie Bell of Belleville, and Jack Dunlevy of Whitby all gained ground also, while Dunlevy racked up his first shutout of the season.

Wellington Council, Villagers Fete Peewee Baseball Champions at Dinner

WELLINGTON (Special) — Proud burghers of this lakeside village headed by the community fathers, feted their peewee baseball champions at an open luncheon here Friday night.

The youngsters brought the first Ontario Baseball Association peewee championship to the village, and the second provincial championship in two years. In 1954 Wellington midgets won All-Ontario honors.

Champions in the "Knife-and-Fork" League as well as on the diamond, the youngsters demolished a tasty chicken dinner served by the ladies of the Women's Institute. Then they were presented with hand-some blue and white windbreakers with crests and individual silver footballs.

Brevet Clare Platt, with the village council and over 100 players and fans were in attendance. Norris Whitney, MLA, Prince-Edward — Lennox, was present and paid verbal tribute to the young champions.

Lou Cunningham, Belleville conveyor of the district presented the OBA Trophy to Coach A. Gorsey and captain Donny McNeil. Bill Salisbury, manager of the club, paid tribute to his young charges, commenting on their fine behavior and sportsmanship, before formally presenting them with the wind-breakers and caps.

One of the big moments of the banquet came when Reeve Platt presented individual members of the team with engraved trophies. The gift of the village.

Not to be outdone the youngsters showed their appreciation of the club officials when Jack McNeil, on behalf of the club, presented Coach Arthur Gorsey and Manager Bill Sainsbury with handsome billfolds. Carman Burr then presented the Ab. Wanamaker and Son Trophy to the club.

Johnny Mowat, former Belleville senior pitcher and coach of the Wellington midget team of 1954 which won the OBA championship, was present with Mrs. Mowat. Johnny availed himself of the opportunity to present his champions of two years ago each with a beautiful silver tray.

Brevet Platt spoke briefly with Ron Steel, sports editor of the Picton Gazette, addressing the gathering. He spoke on sportsmanship besides paying tribute to the young champions.

Frank Brimley expressed the appreciation of the team and guests to the WI for the excellent dinner. Response was made by WI president, Mrs. R. Ellis. Jack Ogilvy, president of the Wellington Minor Baseball Association, also spoke, thanking the council, villagers and all who assisted the team in its quest for the title.

Mrs. Walter Nind read a suitable poem while Carman Burr and Walter Nind showed home movies of the team in action on the diamond, the victory parade, and other occasional highlights.

WINS SQUASH TITLE

HAMILTON (CP) — Richard Squires of Cleveland Sunday defeated W. D. O'Malley of Toronto 15-8, 15-7 and 15-12 to win the International Invitation squash tournament for the second consecutive year. O'Malley is the Ontario squash champion.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cornwall Cheviers played their first few games in the Eastern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series although they would be expelled for incompetence.

They never won, and usually lost by shameful scores.

Suddenly, they started to move, and now are in a two-way tie for second place, 11 points behind Whitby Dunlops.

Cheviers latest plum was a 9-1 victory Sunday over the host Ottawa Junior Canadiens, who have been defeated only twice in the senior circuit since the season began.

DOUGHNUT BEAT LEADERS

Dunlops continued their almost unchallenged domination of the circuit Saturday, whipping Cheviers 8-1. In the only other weekend game, Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Kingston CKLC 8-2 to bounce out of the cellar into third place.

In the Western Division, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defeated Windsor Bulldogs 5-3 Saturday and tied them 3-3 Sunday.

In inter-league games with teams from the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern group, Chatham Maroons lost 3-2 to North Bay Trappers and Owen Sound Greys defeated 3-2 to Soo Indians.

TIMMINS BLANKED

In the Porcupine Mines Senior League, Abitibi Eskimos ended a seven-game losing streak and moved out of the cellar Sunday with a 1-0 victory over Timmins Flyers. Kapuskasing Huskys took an 8-2 victory over the league-leading South Porcupine Packers Saturday.

At Verdun, Canadiens managed only a second-period goal by Jean Picard, while Mort Belmore and Real Savard scored for Cornwall in the first and third frames.

The line of Fred Etcher, Bob Attersley and George Samolenko did all the scoring for Dunlops at Whitby, each getting one goal. Kitsuie Jeanette fired the Cornwall marker.

GET FINE NETMINDING

Saturday at Kitchener, Jack McArdle and Gerry Theberge each had two goals to lead the Dutchies to the win. Jack Pawlyshyn fired the fifth Dutchmen goal in the last minute of play.

Netminding bouquets to Dutchies' hunt on, behind Bob Senior's brilliant goalkeeping, to gain the overtime tie.

Dutchies' goals were scored by Paul Knox, who had two, and Georg—Scholes. Walter Pawlyshyn, Bob Brown and Lou Bendo were the Windsor marksmen.

At North Bay Saturday, the Trappers spotted Maroons two quick goals, by Jim Connelly and Ed Busch, but tallies by Art Stratton, Bill Needham and Gerry Cabana gave North Bay the win.

FINISH TOUR

At Owen Sound Saturday, Indians salvaged the last game of their three-game tour of the OHA by downing Mercs. Counting for the Soo were Joe Mahle, Russ Kowalchuk, Johnny Offidani, Paul Martel and Gary Sharp. Kent Douglas and Tommy Wilson found the mark for Owen Sound.

John Baily had two goals and one assist as Greyhounds tied the Wolves Saturday at Sault Ste. Marie. Ont. Cleland Morrison and Marcel Clements had the other Soo markers.

Bob Forhan had two for Wolves and Andy Milne and Armand Lemieux one each.

At Timmins, Gordie Gvatsky counted the game's only goal in the third period. It was goalie Art Mousley's first shutout of the season.

Industrial Hockey League Results

Bakelite picked up their initial victory of the season while Osterhout Shells increased their first place margin in Industrial hockey league games over the weekend.

Bakelite whipped Corbin Lock 7-2 with Jackie Hatcher getting three big goals. Earl Cousins fired two with one each for Jack Lucas, Frank John Casey and Ray Burley. Jerry Doiginthis fired both for Corbin Lock goals.

Shells were given a good fight by Holiday's before the loop leaders emerged on the long end of a 4-2 score. Playing-coach Bob Rankin was accounted for three of the Shells' victory with Cam Burkard getting the other.

Leo Goyer and Wayne Bovay scored for Holiday's. Holiday's goalie Tour Hoe suffered a bad skate cut in his scalp near the end of the game, requiring a trip to the hospital. Tom McKay finished the game in goal.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It was a haunch-rising weekend of surprise no matter which way you look at it.

From a senior "A" hockey viewpoint, the eyebrow-raising performance was that of the Cornwall Cheviies who weakened this morning to find themselves in a second-place tie with the Belleville McFarlands.

In football, British Columbia's balmy breezes took the weekend off and Old Man Winter took over. The western stalwarts proved conclusively that the prairie style of grid-manship was definitely professional as shown by Edmonton in the Grey Cup classic won on fielding performances.

The western buckaroos, sparked by a brilliant aerial attack led by Sasky's quarter Tripucka jammed the breach of the East's "Rifle" and walloped them 35-0.

And that was no mechanical or technical snowstorm you saw on the TV screen Sunday when our favorite "Hats" went down to defeat before the Cleveland Browns 24-7 on a mud-splattered, snow-strewn gridiron.

Back in senior hockey, the Cheviies, although beaten Saturday by Whitby 3-1, scored what was said to be an upset when they edged the starry Ottawa Canadiens 2-1 in Verdun.

Meanwhile the Kingston CKLC's, who are the guests of the McFarlands in Memorial Arena tomorrow night, dropped into the cellar slot with an 8-2 defeat at the hands of the Pembroke Lumber Kings.

Whitby Dunlops win over Cornwall extended their league lead to 11 points over the Cheviies and Belleville, who have 13. Pembroke hopped into third place with 10, a point ahead of Ottawa, while Kingston trails with 14.

In Junior "A" hockey Point Anne's Bobby Hull continues to set a blistering scoring pace. He got two more goals for the Teeps over the weekend after getting three in a previous game. Bobby is having his best season since joining Junior "A" ranks and is one of the scoring aces of the junior loop.

The crippled kiddie proteges of the Shriners and the well-ern stars were the clean-cut winners in that all-star football debacle. The generalship of Trupucka and the ground attack of Normie Kwong and Jackie Parker nullified anything the East could bring to bear. The game was practically over in the first quarter when Kwong and Parker roared over for cake-fest quarter when Kwong and Parker roared over for eas-ferred touchdowns and from then on the West showed a dra-matic superiority over their Eastern foemen.

Tripucka, from our TV fifty-yard seat, used his passing as the big offensive weapon, but he continually befuddled the Eastern defenders with frequent calls for action on the ground.

GOOD SHOW

It was a proud bunch of kids over in Wellington the other night, and an equally proud crowd of burghers, who honored their first OBA provincial champions. The village council, under Reeve Clare Platt feted the youngsters with a chicken dinner and presented them with individual silver trophies, the gifts of appreciative taxpayers.

The youngsters also got windbreaker jacket and other gifts while they in turn presented their coach and manager with handsome presents. The midgets of the village, who won the All-On-tario title in 1954 were also on hand as was their former coach Johnny Stewart, who came from Toronto for the purpose and presented his former club with nice mementos.

Turner played the starring role for the Browns' 2-1 triumph, pot-ting both goals. Hull and McCon-nel each helped on a goal. P. Arm-strong fired the lone Leaf tally, with Royle and Malloy getting as-sists.

Hubert Poitier spearheaded the Red Wings to victory, scoring the three-goal hat trick. J. Fair and T. Hook got the other goals while Sager had a pair of assists and Spafford one. Rushow and Jeffrey scored for the Barons, Yorke and Bisher earning assists.

Whip Detroit, Tie Canadiens Leafs Draw Blues, Nip Hawks In Battle for Fourth Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's unusual when a coach ex-presses satisfaction after his team fails to score a goal in a game. Two of them did it during the weekend.

New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 0-0 deci-sion in Toronto Saturday. To hear Ranger coach Phil Watson and Leaf pilot Howie Meeker tell it, such a performance is not ter-rible.

"Any point we can win in our shape is very acceptable," said Meeker, who is attempting to keep his injury-stricken club near the league leaders.

Watson, coach of the Rangers, had this to say: "We are lucky to get a point after goaltending saved us. They had two break-aways and we didn't have any. So we're lucky."

SETTLED NOTHING

At any rate, both clubs got a point, which didn't settle any-thing in their battle for fourth place. The goal is held by New York. Leafs trail by two points.

Meanwhile, league-leading Bos-ton Bruins gained three points on runner-up Detroit Red Wings with a 5-3 victory over Montreal Sun-day and a 1-1 tie with the third-place Montreal Canadiens Sunday.

The Detroit Wings dropped their other weekend game as well, bowing 4-3 to Rangers at New York Sunday. The 1-1 tie was Montreal's only weekend game and moved Habs to within a point of Detroit.

BOO DECISION

Bruins now have 33 points to Detroit's 32. Montreal is third with 31. Rangers have 23, Leafs 21 and Hawks 14.

At Toronto, the smallest NHL crowd of the season—12,746 fans—booed when the contest ended. It was the year's third shutout for netminders Ed Chid-wick of Leafs and Lorne Worsley of New York.

Leafs, who have been hit hard by injuries all year, had to play the third period without centres Rudy Migay, who suffered a groin injury, and Brian Cullen, who was cut in the face by a stick.

FIRST GOAL

Rookie Jack Bionda scored his first NHL goal Saturday to break a 2-2 tie and gave the way for Bruins win at Boston before 12,909 fans. Johnny Peirson, Allan Stan-ley, Larry Regan and Fleming Mackell were the other Boston snipers.

Billy Dea, Gordie Howe and Dutch Reibel counted for Wings. It was an injury-prominent game, with defenceman Warren Godfrey and Leo Boivin of Bruins and Glen Wiley Billy McNeill all going off for repairs.

Sunday at Boston, Henri Rich-ard continued his role as Cana-diens' clutch man by scoring at 17:25 of the third period to earn the tie.).

At New York, rookie Bruce Cline registered the winning goal for Rangers' first win over Wings this year. A crowd of 12,060 fans sat in.

Jack Evans, Larry Popein and Andy Bathgate connected for the other New York goals. Gordie Howe, with his 15th of the season and 393th of his career, scored for Detroit, as did Billy Dea.

MUFFLERS CAN BE DANGEROUS

A burned out muffler or a corroded exhaust pipe is not only noisy but dangerous. When these conditions exist you run the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning — especially during winter driving with closed windows.

Be suspicious of any hissing sound or grey-threated roaring when you accelerate the motor. Better still, get beneath the car and examine the exhaust system for holes or heavy rust. Rear end examine the exhaust pipes and mufflers and manifolds are areas. Although exhaust pipes and mufflers and manifolds are fairly inexpensive to replace, it is wise to add these items to your check list.

Western All-Stars Crush Easterners 35-0 In Football Grand Finale

Defence Smothered Offensives With Aerial Attack Brilliant; Game Played in Bitter Cold

By LARRY STANWOOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The cream of Eastern Canada's professional football prowess turned stale and its highly-touted aerial offensive fizzled abruptly on Empire Stadium's rain-soaked gridiron Saturday before the might and courage of the Western all stars.

In the grand finale to this year's Canadian football season, the West routed the East 35-0 in the second annual Shrine all-star contest to nail down undisputed championship.

From the first of the West's five converted touchdowns to the final gun, the Easterners remained pinned down. The Western defence either smothered the East attack or quickly shifted tactics to snuff out scattered threats.

The West trounced the East with their own game — mainly through the back-sparked by the brilliant needle-passing of quarterback Frank Tripucka of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who completed 13 of 29 passes.

WIDE EDGE

The victors piled up 212 yards with passes and held quarterback Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry to a humble 55 for the East. On the ground the Westerners gained for 158 while the East lost 10 more than they started.

The cold and rain, following a two-inch overnight snowfall, cut attendance to 11,384 compared with 13,083 persons who watched the first Eastern all-star game in Toronto which ended in 6-1 tie.

Pools of water lay in mid-field. Everywhere the field was greasy and slippery and the end zones were still covered with snow. A diving would carry a player another five yards after he hit the turf.

PLAYERS SHIVER

Players were soaked from head to toe and chilled to the bone.

"I've never been so cold in my life," said Etcheverry after the game.

Frank (Pop) Ivy of Edmonton, coach for the Western Interprovincial Football Union all-stars said conditions "were pretty awful" and praised his crew for their "remarkable ball-handling, terrific courage and team spirit."

Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton, who piloted the Big Four Union all-stars, said he had "no alibis."

"But the weather hurt our passing play immensely. It hurt us have everywhere but we were up against a better team."

LOSE FOUR FUMBLES

The East fumbled five times and recovered only once. The West fumbled twice, recovering once.

Two fumbles by the East in the early minutes of the game set up the first touchdown, scored by Edmonton's Normie Kwong. Seven minutes later Jackie Parker scooped up a 17-yard Tripucka pass as he stepped into the end zone.

Tripucka, who completed 13 of 29 pass attempts, seat his longest one of the game—a 37-yarder —home to Winnipeg's Bull Grant in the final minutes of the last quarter.

Grant also scored earlier in the game quarterback Tripucka on a loose ball in the end zone, fumbled by Don Pinbery of Ottawa while returning an unsuccessful field goal attempt by Saskatchewan's Reggie Whitehouse.

KICKS ALL CONVERTS

Whitehouse, however, kicked with pin-point accuracy on all five conversions.

Byron Bailey of B.C. Lions scored the other Western major.

Kwong was the star ground-gainer, hitting often and hard through a staggering East line for 128 yards on 22 carries.

Winnipeg's Bob McNamara and Saskatchewan's Ken Carpenter, who shared punting duties with Larry Isbell, were other standouts for the West.

Hamilton's Cam Fraser was easily the most valuable to the East with his long-range punting. Fraser averaged 41.3 yards on 15 punts to help hold off the charging West.

In the early stages, he hit Montreal's Hal Patterson for several short gains until the starry end was sidelined by an ankle injury. Sam lost another receiver when Dick Shatto, Toronto halfback, suffered a slight head injury when he was tackled hard.

The illustrious Jackie Parker, featured in three successive Grey Cup victories for Edmonton, praised the Western linemen for "making the game rather easy."

He said it was not "near as tough" as a Grey Cup game.

Tripucka said little except that it was "a tough game." Coach Ivy, however, lauded the Saskatchewan quarterback.

"We knew he could pass. We played against him often enough and I know we'd a lot sooner have him on our side."

Wins Bermuda Golf Title

BERMUDA (CP)—Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield Saturday shot a par 71 to win the Bermuda professional golf championship over a field of 40.

Kerr, president of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association, went out in a two-under-par 33 and returned in a two-over-par 38 on the rugged 6,300 yard Mid-Ocean Club course. The win netted him $400 prize money.

The event, with a total purse of $1,000, was a follow-up to the fourth annual Bermuda Goodwill golf tournament, a pro-amateur four-ball, best-ball, 54-hole competition won by the Greenwich Country Club of Darien, Conn.

—"I wish we could have had a better crowd but you have to hand it to the fans that did show up. That was tough weather," said Parker. Attendance was 13,546.

Normie Kwong, rated as the best Canadian-born player in the WIFU, said it was a "game of breaks."

"We got a few fumbles at the right time," he said.

Opinions Split On Result Wallace Fight

NEW YORK (CP)—In the annals of a prize fighter, the relative strength or weakness of the jaw bone usually is the key factor determining success in the ring. But with Gordon Wallace it's his knee-cap.

Wallace clambered back in but was counted out by referee Barney Felix who ruled the Brantford fighter wasn't on his feet in time.

The controversy centres around Wallace's kneecap — whether it was on the canvas or off when Felix counted 10.

Felix said it was on the canvas. Wallace and his managers said it wasn't. Sportswriters who watched the 1:34-second knockout were divided.

Al Buck of the New York Post said he thought Wallace was standing up. "It looked to me as if he was up before the final count, but Felix said afterward one of Wallace's knees were still on the canvas when he said 10."

Lester Bromberg, writing in The World-Telegram, said "though Wallace got a shabby deal, he wasn't going anywhere in the fight."

"Practically everybody blamed Felix, who pulled his arms down in the he's-out gesture with Gordon clearly erect. Afterward the ref insisted his knee was still down.

BLAMES TIMEKEEPER

"An assist on the bubu should go to Larry Napp, American League umpire and knockdown timekeeper. He raced through the count as if he were clocking the 100 metres in the Olympics."

"There are those . . . who said that Wallace beat the arithmetics of Barney Felix, referee, but this observer has great respect for Barney's ability to add in time."

Wallace himself thought the 10-round bout should have been continued.

"I don't think I got a fair deal. I was back through the ropes at eight and in shape to continue."

In The Dressing Rooms

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—It was a sour, booed-chilled team that plodded up the stairs to the Eastern all-stars dressing-room Saturday to huddle briefly before heaters before boarding a bus for the hotel.

None of the players or officials would attempt at first to analyze the reasons for East's crushing 35-0 defeat by the West in the annual Shrine football game in Empire Stadium.

Hal Patterson of Montreal Alouettes voted the, most valuable player in Canadian football nursed a bruised ankle and huddled beneath a blanket, muttered, "It ain't no day to play football, that's all I know."

The game was played in a cold rain, wind and 35-degree temperature.

Later, in the warmth of his hotel room, Jim Trimble, Eastern coach, said the Eastern pass attack was "hurt badly" by Patterson's ankle injury and the loss of halfback Dick Shatto of Toronto in the first quarter.

"They got the early break and capitalized on it," Trimble said. "They had excellent players—so did we—but they made good use of what they had.

"We have no alibis, but our pass attack did suffer and that hit us pretty bad."

Assistant coach Ralph Sazio didn't have much to say as he shepherded the team out of the dressing-room.

"We played good ball", Sazio said, "but . . ." He left the statement unfinished as he turned to look after fullback Cookie Gilchrist of Hamilton, who was reduced to a state of frozen helplessness by the chills.

"I never been so cold in my life," Gilchrist stammered. His entire body from head to heel shook uncontrollably. Shuddering while sitting beneath the full blast of a heater, hot coffees and boiling towels wrapped around his limbs didn't stop his shivering and his

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-six football players, humiliated by a 35-0 victory but chilled to the bone by icy rain and a driving wind, filed hastily into a dressing room at Empire Stadium Saturday.

Some of them moved excitedly around the crowded room shaking hands and offering plaudits to teammates for a brilliant catch or a timely tackle. A few slumped to a bench and unlaced sodden boots from their feet which were blue with cold.

But jubilance was common to all of them. They had beaten the Big Four's best and given Western Interprovincial Football Union fans another reason to boast that Eastern superiority in Canadian football was a thing of the past.

GRACIOUS WINNER

But Ivy said the West's overwhelming victory was an unsound basis for comparison of the calibre of football played in the WIFU and Big Four.

"This was an isolated game but with three Grey Cups in three years, maybe . . ." he said his voice trailed off.

Frank Tripucka, Saskatchewan quarterback who threw two touchdown passes, one to Jackie Parker and one to Bobby Grant, said the ball "was surprisingly easy to handle."

"But it got very heavy towards the last. My biggest trouble was receiving from the centre."

Parker of Edmonton, who came up with a superb touchdown catch in the first quarter, praised the linemen. "They backed that line made it really easy," he said.

WANTED LARGER CROWD

He also was mindful of the slogan of the game—"Strong Legs, Will Run" on that week's rye tray-walk." Net proceeds of the game

More Hungarian Athletes Delay Trip Home

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Some of the 38 Hungarian Olympic athletes who left here Sunday for Europe said more of their team had decided to abandon their return home following events in Hungary.

When the team arrived in Singapore Saturday, Anton Moldrich, modern pentathlon star, said between 12 and 14 had already made plans to go to other European cities. Moldrich will go to Sweden to meet his fiancee who escaped to the West when she was in Australia.

One of the English - speaking members of the team, who did not want to be named, said many of their number instead of taking transport arranged by the Hungarian government, were going independently to Vienna to try to contact their relatives.

They would only go back into Hungary when they were certain that their relatives had not escaped to the West and that they were safe in their home towns.

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces split a home-and-home doubleheader with Three Rivers Lumberjacks during the week-end but kept at the heels of Chicoutimi Sagueneens in the Quebec Hockey League leaders.

The Aces dropped a 3-1 decision to the Lions Saturday night, but bounced back Sunday with a 4-2 victory. The win kept Quebec three points behind Chicoutimi, who defeated Montreal Nordiques Fall Cataracts 7-2 Saturday.

The Cataracts downed Montreal Royals 4-3 Sunday to remain in a third-place tie with the Lions. The Royals are fifth.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was running home out of breth on account of being late for dinner again, and pop having warned me he would cut down my allowance if I was late once more this week, and I thought, G, I know what I'll do. I'll sneek in the house as quiet as a berglar, so they can't hear me bang my head in the dining room, and I'll sneek upstairs and crawl down over the banisters and ask what time it is, and they'll think I've been home all the time, and I won't have to tell them their mistake unless they absilutely ask me.

And I opened the front door so easy a fly couldn't of heard me, and I crept across the hall on my tip toes hardly breething, being hard to do on account of still needing breth from running, and I tripped half ways up and made a falling sound, and stayed there awhile without moving or breething, but nothing happened, so I kept on sneeking up and called down over the banisters, Say down there, what time is it?

Which nobody answered, and I yelled it louder, and nobody still answered, and I listened and could hear ear and elbows or anything, and I thought, Heck, what's the matter? And I ran down and the dining room was empty, and there was a note at my place, saying, If you remember your birthplace and return to it within the next hour, you will find your loving parents dining at the Home Restesrant on the Avenue. Your loving Father.

Proving why nobody hadn't to the resterant and got there so out of breth that everybody talked that saw me coming in, including pop and ma.

Making me feel partly lucky.

Movie Producer Says Dealing With Stars 'Out of Hand'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"The business of dealing with stars has gotten out of hand," says an independent movie producer, Stanley Kramer.

"The demands made for stars' services have become so terrific that I am thinking of giving up the practice of using stars and going back to what Elia Kazan is doing today — using newcomers and making them stars. It's the same thing I did with Champion and Home of the Brave.

Home of the Brave, which he made in 1949 with a no-name cast, cost $250,000 and grossed 2,500,000 in the domestic market. Kramer now is cutting The Pride and the Passion, which he made in Spain at a cost of $3,500,000. His stars: Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, Sophia Loren.

MADE CONCESSIONS

Kramer admitted that he had to make considerable concessions to acquire Messrs. Grant and Sinatra, two of the most sought-after stars. Both received huge salaries and one does a percentage of the take. (He didn't say which one; I'll guess Grant.)

But money is only the start in dealing with stars these days, he said. Contracts run into dozens of pages. Provisions must be for special dressing rooms, individual makeup men, etc. Even the advertising gets special attention.

BLAMES AGENTS

Kramer laid the blame for the star demands not with the players themselves but with their agents.

"It gets to be competitive," he declared. "When MCA (the biggest talent agency) lines up a new deal for a Jimmy Stewart, they not only after I outline the story, then I find out if the star is enthusiastic. If so, we start negotiations."

'The Jazz Age' Intelligently Edited Film of 1920 Era

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The Jazz Age, as presented by Project 20 (NBC-TV), must have been rather unsettling to some of the sedate middle-aged who prefer to forget the 1920s.

One who was strictly grammar school in that decade cannot say with authority that "that was the way it was," but anyone of any age could say that the Nery Salomon production, narrated by the late Fred Allen, was superb entertainment and absorbing social history.

The intelligently edited filmed record of that era showed it as one of the most empty-headed hysterical decades in American history. It made one wonder how anyone anywhere could ever be nostalgic about an era of social unrest and decaying governments, of prohibition and racketeering and wild gambling.

Yet the medley of popular tunes of those days must have induced headaches in many. And nearly all the faces were there: Woodrow Wilson, the Ruths, Al Capone, George Gehrwin, Scott Fitzgerald, Charles Lindbergh. . . .

Also there were the years of war and depression, the faces and scenes of the latter seemed strangely disembodied. Could some of these things really have happened? Well, these things did happen.

It was not surprising that Salomon and company failed to encompass some of the irregular history that led up to why the 1920s was such a frantic age. They simply hadn't the time to document the phenomenal growth of many industries, and it's doubtful if television ever can handle dramatically such complexities as intellectual questioning of long-established values and moral disillusion induced by unrestricted greed.

DRAWS WITH CHAMP

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Mario d'Arata of Italy, recognized by the European Boxing Union as the world bantamweight champion, was held to a draw by Certari Tartari of France in a 10-round non-title bout Saturday.

After conservative fighting in the early rounds, the evenly-matched fighters produced some hard in-fighting after the fifth round.

Giants Fall Before Browns; Lions Win

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants and Detroit Lions failed to live up conference titles Saturday in the National Football League although the Lions crushed Pittsburgh Steelers 45-7.

The Giants, needing only a victory or a tie to clinch the Eastern title, fell 24-7 before Cleveland Browns in the mud and rain of Yankee Stadium. Their chances of banking it went sizzling when Willie Gallimore, 21-yard field goal with 23 seconds to play gave the Chicago Wolfpackers a 20-17 victory over Philadelphia.

Detroit needing a victory over Pittsburgh with a Chicago Cardinal upset of Chicago Bears, did its part by handing bot the Bears stayed only half a game behind by defeating the Cardinals 19-3. As a result, a two conference race rated road this way:

To the East, the Giants are 7-3-1 with one game to play—against Philadelphia next Saturday. Washington is 6-4 with two games left, against Pittsburgh Sunday and against Baltimore in a postponed game Dec. 23. No matter what Washington does, a victory or a tie against Philadelphia will give the Giants the title.

In the West, the Lions are 9-2 and the Bears 8-2-1 and heading straight for a showdown at Chicago's Wrigley Field Sunday in the last regular season game for both teams. The Bears need to win but a tie would suffice for the Lions, who mathematically beat Bears 42-10 in their first meeting.

In the only other game played Sunday, Los Angeles Rams beat Baltimore Colts 31-7, San Francisco defeated Green Bay 38-20 Saturday.

Barons Win Over Bisons, Reds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons are probably most acutely aware of how tight the American Hockey League race is. They lost one game during the weekend and fell from a first-place tie to fourth.

Cleveland Barons handed them a 7-2 beating in Buffalo Sunday night after defeating Providence Reds 4-3 in overtime Saturday night.

Hershey Bears split, defeating the last-place Springfield Indians 4-3 Saturday and dropping a 4-3 verdict to Providence Sunday.

POLIZIANI BUSY

Danny Poliziani of Cleveland scored two goals each night including the winner against Providence in overtime. Gord Veljpava scored two goals for Cleveland in the same game while Ray Cyr, Ror. Murphy and Camille Henry were the Providence scorers.

At Buffalo Saturday, Barons scorers besides Poliziani were Ed McQueen, Cal Stearns, Veljpava, Fred Glover and Frank Mahe. Chuck Blair and Lou Jankowski scored for Buffalo.

FURGOL OVERTAKEN

HAVANA (AP)—Al Besselink's two-under-par 70 in Sunday's closing round gave him the Havana Invitation Open golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 276.

Besselink beat out Ted Furgol who led him by a stroke before Sunday's round but slipped to a 73 and 276 with Veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Dave Douglas tied for third place at 280.

Al Balding of Toronto carded 68, good for 14th place.

Trainer Will Wear Tuxedo At Trapper Games

NORTH BAY (CP) — Casting about for a way of increasing their dwindling attendance, North Bay Trappers equipped Joe Dempsey, their trainer, with a tuxedo, dubbed him "Gentleman Joe" and introduced him to 1,979 hockey fans at a game Saturday.

The garb and the nickname had special point for the crowd because he is known around the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group as a bit of a rowdy.

Already this season he has been thrown out of a half-dozen games because of remarks about officials made from his post at the Trappers' bench.

Getting insulted by Dempsey is no light matter, either. He weighs 220 pounds, built up spending money as a professional wrestler and referee.

Finding a tuxedo to fit his massive proportions was some job. Dempsey says he will wear it, complete with top hat and white gloves, at every game this season, at home and on the road.

Sandor Iharos May Join Mates In Canada

An injury kept the famous athlete from competing in the Olympics, but the Hungarian track and field coach, Mihaly Iglioi, who like 46 members of the 175-man team, is not returning to his war-battled homeland, said Sunday he had heard Iharos wanted to go to Canada.

In an interview, Iglioi said he had received a letter from a friend in Hungary who said Iharos was preparing to head for Canada.

Iglioi either did not know or did not wish to say whether the track star had already escaped over the border into Austria or was still in Hungary.

In 1955 Iharos set a world's record for the 5,000 metres. He also has broken the four-minute barrier in the mile.

Two Burglary Suspects Tracked Down in Snow

LONDON, Ont (CP) — A pre of 20 men including three prov cial policemen tracked down two burglary suspects early Sunday after a four-hour hunt in wooded country 25 miles west of here.

Police said Gordon James Tom ligo, 21, was found near a farm house and two miles away William John Lampman, 18, was discovered lying exhausted in a field. The pair Londoners were booked for arraignment in court today on charges to be determined.

The chase started after store owner Ean Downing in Cairngorm Village routed two men after they had entered his premises, by firing a pistol at them. Roused by a burglar alarm in his house, Downing said he ran to the front of the store and saw one man carrying a rifle and the other a sledge hammer.

FREEDOM PLEA

Mike Kadar of Elnora, Alta., a brother of Hungary's new premier Janos Kadar, tries to reach his brother on the telephone in the Calgary Herald office. He was unable to reach his brother who heads Hungary's Soviet-sponsored government, but the two brothers saw each other last 28 years ago. That was before Mike left for Canada. They stopped corresponding about 10 years ago when Janos indicated letters and parcels from Canada would do him harm. (CP Photo)

SYRIA POSES NEW RED THREAT

The new big diplomatic worry in the Middle East is Syria (1), ruled by a pro-Soviet triumvirate which includes the Communist party secretary general. The president and advisers have been reduced to rubber stamp status. Under pressure in the new situation is Iraq (2), which has asked the U.S. for anti-aircraft and other weapons in fear of a Syria-Soviet push. Already Iraq's oil pipeline to the Mediterranean outlet in Lebanon (3) has been cut, reducing Iraq's income some $700,000 a day.(4) Syria's signs of satellitemeg.ation alarm discomfit Turkey, which lies in the shadow of the Soviet border (4). Jordan (5) has announced intention of quitting the 1948 treaty of aid from Britain and Egypt on Arab neighbors. Meanwhile, Israel continues its quarrelsome course. Black squares locate oil, basic reason for any trouble at all. (Central Press Canadian).

Police also arrested six other men—Edward Sydo, 26, John Lo-Cabern, 41, Roy Desroches, 22, Tony Borys, 19, Robert White, 21, and George Bannantyne, 2—as material witnesses.

PCS PICK LEADER

A maximum 1,472 delegates are eligible to attend the convention—more than half of them chosen to represent constituency organizations across the country. Party officials have been saying some 1,400 delegates likely will attend but present indications are the number may fall short of that mark.

Ontario and Quebec will have the largest convention votes, since the number of delegates is decided mainly on the distribution of federal constituencies across the country. Ontario has a maximum 512 voting delegates and Quebec 342.

There were differences of opinion between candidates' camps on how the important Quebec votes will go.

Mr. Fleming said he has had "really overwhelming" assurance of Quebec delegate support, adding that the majority of delegates from all provinces are unpledged to any candidate. The situation was "still very fluid."

Mr. Hees said there has been an important swing in the last few days to Mr. Diefenbaker's support by Quebec delegates who, he said, realize the Saskatchewan candidate will win.

Provincial party leaders attending the convention, include heads of the country's three Conservative governments, Premier Frost of Ontario, Premier Flemming of New Brunswick and the newly-elected Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

Premier Stanfield will make the convention's keynote speech Wednesday night following an afternoon speech by Hon. George Drew the national leader who submitted his resignation last September because of ill health.

Mr. Fleming said Sunday night there have been statements recently that Premier Frost is "favoring a particular candidate"—an apparent reference to some press reports that Mr. Frost is backing Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Fleming said the statements are "not in accord with the attitude of strict neutrality Mr. Frost has taken throughout the campaign."

The report by the committee on policy and resolutions, though subject to change by the convention floor.

The job of drafting policy and resolution statements is in the hands of six sub-committees. Joint chairmen of the full committee are Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto and Rene Duranleau of Montreal.

If the resolutions committee takes no stand on the matter, it could be raised from the convention floor.

But it may also deal with an important internal matter — the party's name. The Progressive Conservative title was adopted at the 1942 Winnipeg convention which drew John Bracken as leader. He had requested the change.

It was learned several party groups across the country have sent in requests asking for a return to the old Conservative name, which is generally used anyway by party members in speeches and conversation.

Hungary Workers Launch Protest Strike In Budapest

Defy Russian-Imposed Govt. of Premier Kadar

BUDAPEST (AP) — Tens of thousands of Hungarian workers today launched a widespread protest strike in defiance of the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar.

Transportation in Budapest was badly crippled, but the work stoppage did not appear to be 100 per cent effective. Some business activity apparently was continuing under the pressure of guns of the Hungarian police and Soviet troops.

But many workers did not report to their factories or rail idle when they reached their posts.

PROTEST ACTIVITIES

The call to strike for 48 hours beginning last midnight was issued by the Budapest Central Workers Council to protest the "anti-people... anti-workers activities" of the government.

It was not immediately known if or how effective the strike appeal had proved in the provinces, although there were reports of stoppages had started Monday in some outlying towns.

The government again clamped down with a partial blackout on telephone service in the capital city.

The strike call went out as reports of new heavy fighting mounted.

PARTISANS FIGHT ON

Accounts reaching Belgrade said the Hungarian countryside had been swept by outbursts of Partisan warfare in the last two days. They described Budapest itself as relatively calm, but said the city was encircled by a steel ring of Soviet armor and guns.

The Belgrade reports said strong units of well organized guerrilla fighters were operating in many parts of Hungary, with some of the strongest groups in the area surrounding the important uranium mines at Pecs. The mines are near the Yugoslav-Hungarian border.

Other regions where partisan bands were said to be operating were Komarom, near the Czech-Hungarian border, and Szombathely, in western Hungary.

POLICE KILL CIVILIANS

Fear of Russian Intervention Halts Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Douglas C. Dillon, United States ambassador to France, said Monday that fear of Russian armed intervention was the primary reason British and France called off their invasion of Egypt.

Dillon said "I don't think it was moral suasion" because France and Britain went ahead with their Suez operation despite sharp criticism by the United Nations and the United States. Nor, he added, was it the pressure of dwindling oil supplies—"that hadn't had time to make itself felt."

"The only new element that had come in," he said, "was these Soviet threats, which were very, very strongly phrased."

Soviet Premier Bulganin warned France and Britain that Russia was prepared to use force to bring about the end of the Suez operation.

Former Mayor Of Sarnia Dies

Born at Adolphustown near Kingston, he became active in the city council for a number of years and was elected mayor in 1916 for two years. He retired in 1929 as a Canadian National Railways engineer.

Survivors include a daughter and a son.

PC COMMITTEE SIFTING THROUGH MANY PROPOSALS

Some Want Word Progressive Dropped

OTTAWA (CP) — Shirt-sleeved Progressive Conservative committees are sifting through a sheaf of proposals that the party declare itself on topics ranging from votes for 19-year-olds to higher old age pensions.

And second the suggestions which have flowed into the party's convention headquarters here is one from a group of Quebec members calling for a clear statement on Canadian independence in the international field.

Scores of resolutions, including several urging that the word "Progressive" be dropped from the party's official name, are before the powerful 163-member resolutions and policy committee. It is meeting for the second day to prepare a draft list of proposals for the three-day convention opening Wednesday.

EVENSONG EFFORTS

Meanwhile, the three Commons members seeking the party leadership intensified their efforts to gain added support before Friday's ballot choice of a new leader to succeed Hon. George Drew.

American Given Month to Get Out of House

LONDON (AP)—A British landlord gasped out at the United Nations Police of the Suez fiasco raid Monday: he had dispossessed an American Embassy air attache of the U.S. Embassy, Lieut.-Col. Robert E. Holt, wrote Sabatini:

"In view of the despicable conduct of the United States and the consequent profound contempt in which they are now held by millions of my fellow countrymen, I feel that this country and its residents I am not prepared to allow an American to occupy any property over which I have control.

Holt gave Sabatini a month to get out of the house. The American, in air force uniform during the Second World War, said he would leave immediately.

"I can't understand why Mr. Holt was so bitter" said the 37-year-old flier. "What we are doing is a job here and we have nothing to do with American policy."

Nasser Prepares to Prevent Riots When British Pull Out of Port Said

PORT SAID (AP) — Egyptian sources say that President Nasser, in a speech to the Egyptian French pull out of Egypt, will push 2,000 Egyptian police into Port Said to prevent threats of trouble by the fanatic Moslem Brotherhood.

The Egyptian informants said the extremist group, outlawed by the revolutionary government in 1954, hoped by harassing both the British-French withdrawal to lure the United Nations police force taking over occupation of the city at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

The guerrilla ambush of a British patrol Monday and the kidnapping of a British officer today were described as the opening shots in the British-French campaign. One member of the eight-man Royal Scots patrol was wounded slightly by a grenade fragment. The officer vanished. He had stopped to question a civilian.

Officials in Cairo promised that the guerrilla activity would not be repeated and said Nasser regarded it as "contrary to Egyptian government policy." They also said they knew nothing of a previous attempt to smuggle explosives and ammunition to the Egyptian underground in the Suez Canal gateway.

Egyptians in Port Said claim there are 10,000 members of the Moslem Brotherhood in the city. The secret organization once could bring down governments with bombings and demonstrations. The revolutionary government executed many of its leaders.

Open hostility to the British and French has surged in recent days as their withdrawal proceeded. The Egyptian government itself declared it was bringing the trouble.

The UN police force meanwhile has gone ahead with plans to take over occupation of the northern end of the Suez Canal, being evacuated by British and French troops, and Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, still largely held by Israel.

420 Housekeeping Troops Will Be Sent by Canada to Mid-East

OTTAWA (CP)—The 420-man 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, which had recently awaited a United Nations police job in Egypt, is being returned to Calgary from Halifax in a few days.

Acting Prime Minister Howe announced yesterday Monday night the UN could not fit the Canadian combatant troops into the United Nations Emergency Force for the Middle East.

Instead, another 420 Canadian housekeeping troops are to be sent. They will sail aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent later this month.

That will bring the number of Canadian Army and Air Force personnel in the UNEF to more than 1,000, of which 627 already are in the Middle East. A ceiling of 2,500 has been authorized.

The RCAF will have a new role. The present job of 435 Transport Squadron from Namsos, Alta., of ferrying men and equipment from Naples to Egypt is almost completed.

The new task of the RCAF will be to supply as an component for con-combination and observation. Canadian aircrew still will carry some troops but they also will be used as observers to police Egyptian-Israeli lines from the air.

The RCAF has about 230 men in the force. The total required under the new plan is between 230 and 300. Some of the men there now will be replaced. A few others may be dispatched with lighter planes to replace three. Details are to be worked out later.

But for the Queen's Own, the word more is back home. Tons of the battalion's equipment stowed aboard the Magnificent will be removed. Officials here said it will be a long time before the Queen's troops, who had been flown swiftly to Halifax from Calgary in a special airlift last month, are returned by troop trains in a few days.

They will be spending Christmas will, those to whom they had said goodbye a month ago.

NATO Leaders Launch Effort To End Rift Between Big 3

PARIS (CP) — Atlantic pact ministers today launched an urgent new effort to restore Western unity and shape a dynamic joint political policy.

The ministers opened their four-day council meeting against the tense background of Soviet threats, Russian tactics and discord over Suez policy.

In formal session at the Palais de Chaillot and in private talks, the Atlantic partners will attempt a wide-ranging reappraisal of the seven-year alliance.

Two main overlapping objectives are:

1. Restore normal friendly relations between the United States and British and French. What one official called the "great reconciliation" already has begun with separate sessions of State Secretary Dulles of the U.S., and Foreign ministers Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Christian Pineau of France.

Draw up a political directive designed to prevent episodes on the Suez model. Need for consultation before action by any NATO countries is stressed in the report of the three foreign ministers. The "wise men" — foreign ministers L. B. Pearson of Canada, Gaetano Martino of Italy and Halvard Lange of Norway.

Pearson is believed to have rewritten political provisions of the "wise men" report after the Anglo-French action in Egypt, inserting more forceful phrases.

Dulles today delivered a 50-minute address at the council's opening session, calling upon the Atlantic pact powers to recognize the importance of working through the United Nations and condemning the use of force in settlement of national policy."

Dulles emphasized that his government felt the Middle East crisis should be solved through the UN.

In the main Dulles avoided any direct recriminations against Britain and France. He said warm tribute to the two countries for conveying promptly and unreservedly with the UN demand for the withdrawal of their troops.

Pearson, the chairman, said the recent rift between the three Western powers proved that no action should be undertaken by a NATO country that might endanger the Atlantic solidarity.

Referring to Soviet penetration of the Middle East he added:

"It seems hardly necessary to draw your attention to the importance of this Soviet move which aims at the control of the Middle East from the air and fields with the intention to undermine not only Western defence but also, by depriving us of essential supplies, to weaken Western economies."

Pineau urged NATO "to define more exactly the areas of the world in which it felt member governments had an obligation to consult about their policies."

QUEEN'S OWN WILL RETURN TO BASE IN WEST CANADA

Will Not Be Used in Egypt as UN Force

HALIFAX (CP)—As one of Canada's finest infantry battalions grimly prepared today to return home, naval officials considered the mammoth task of unloading tons of equipment from the aircraft carrier Magnificent to make way for army administrative units.

After a month of anxious waiting, the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles was told by Col. C. P. McPherson Monday night it will not be used in Egypt as part of the United Nations police force.

"Generally, we're very disappointed," said the robust 40-year-old commanding officer who moved his 1,000 men and their equipment to this port city from Calgary in a matter of seven days to board the Magnificent which was to set as a floating base.

The infantry men were told they would be replaced by men from administrative units. But first the Magpie must be unloaded.

REMEMBER LOADING

"Will we ever remember," said one naval spokesman, "is the frantic job it was loading the Maggie in November."

The carrier was rushed here from Calgary where her guns and turrets were removed, food, jeeps and supplies were stowed on and below her decks. The men were packed into place for the battalion, all in one day.

One sailor sent his 30-year-old wife and five-day-old baby to his home in Calgary by train—a journey of four days and five nights—so he could be with the ship.

Then began the period of waiting, on 24-hour notice, to leave for Egypt. Meanwhile the crew of the carrier face the task of unloading, then reloading their ship with army supplies.

"We don't know yet what units will be going and what equipment can be left aboard ship," said the spokesman.

CALL HOMES

Many of the soldiers, as they wrote, called their families. Western Canada homes Monday night, were philosophical about returning home.

"We were disheartened when Gen. McPherson told us we won't be going," said a lean rifleman.

"We were only a few hours' notice from Victoria and Calgary for Halifax and many of us said goodbye to our families a week before leaving.

"Now, after a month of waiting, we're going back and the feeling has sold a $1,700 car for $200. We have to sell our furniture and used car lots. "But the people of Halifax have been great, and they gave us two. I've never been in a seaport before and I've certainly learned a lot."

The battalion is expected to leave for Calgary by train during the next few days. The Magnificent will be loaded with her new air group of Banshee jet fighters and ready to sail by the end of December, defence officials said.

Began Playing Bridge Back in 1925, Blind Man Now Named Life Master

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "There's great sportsmanship in it," said Dr. Arthur Dye, first blind man to become a contract bridge life master.

The Charlotte osteopath who lost his vision at 17 in an accident began playing bridge soon after the game was invented in 1925. "It started as a boy game," whist and euchre. Bridge followed naturally."

It is necessary to acquire 200 points in the American Contract Bridge League to become a life master. In New Orleans this week Dr. Dye did just that. The champion says, "it's like finally arriving at a goal."

Dr. Dye plays with marked cards. He puts his own markings in Braille on their corners.

The Braille system of fingertip grow learn y when your sensitive fingers pass over the cards in back," he was asked.

The 60-year-old doctor has played with some of the world's outstanding bridge experts, including Charles Goren, Oswald Jacoby and Albert Sheinwold.

When asked if Dye could play on equal terms with sighted players in competition, the league publicity director, said "he plays on even terms. Economics Room water the best."

Pattern On Ground Leads To Belief Wreckage Located

Low Clouds Hamper Search; Hope for 62 Persons Fades

PILOT MISSING

Capt. J. A. Clarke was pilot of the Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star which disappeared in British Columbia with 62 persons aboard. A native of Montreal, the 35-year-old pilot had made his home in Vancouver. (CP Photo.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—The RCAF commander in charge of the hunt for a missing Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 62 persons aboard said today a search plane Monday may have sighted "what could have been wreckage."

Sqdn.-Ldr. George Sheehan said aircraft wreckage may have been sighted on 8,200 Silvertip mountain, 18 miles southeast of Hope, B.C., and some 100 miles east of Vancouver.

"The pattern on the ground does, in fact, indicate that it could be wreckage," he told crew members of RCAF search aircraft at a pre-briefing. "It could be fatal-ble.

It was in this area that the TCA plane disappeared Sunday night after developing engine trouble.

ALL-OUT SEARCH

Sqdn. Ldr. Sheehan instructed his crew to search both Silvertip mountain and a mountain peak about 2,000 ft. from top to bottom: if necessary from tree to tree."

"You will search and search and search, all day if necessary," he added, however, he said clouds were lower over the mountains today than Monday and in this area it will be very difficult to sight anything on the mountain.

Four planes took off shortly after 7 a.m. but the crews of eight other RCAF planes were told to wait until 10 a.m. in hopes the weather might improve.

The weather office said the air turbulence that hampered search activities Monday had abated somewhat. However, town of Hope reported rain overnight and this morning and this meant snowfalls at least as low as the 5,000-foot level in the surrounding mountains.

A TCA spokesman asked whether there was any hope that some of the 59 passengers and three crew members aboard might have parted dejectedly that the poor flying conditions did not help their chances.

There is still hope, he said, but storms in the mountains make the search operation a "pretty difficult thing."

The RCAF said the hunt was halted at 11 p.m. because of poor weather and darkness. Searchers buzzed the mountains where the search was concentrated. A ground haze covered the valleys.

Authorities emphasized that the RCAF is not as yet certain that survivors, if there are any, might die of starvation, exposure or lack of medical care if not reached in time.

There was also the chance that a new fall of snow would cover the wreckage and make detection more difficult impossible.

If worst fears are realized, it will be the worst crash in Canadian aviation history.

Pierre Air Force aircraft which took part in the search Monday reported winds in the mountains that "just about put us on our back," at times reaching a velocity of 80 miles an hour.

Sqdn. Ldr. George Sheahan of Ottawa, search master, said: "The search is being carried on in the mountains is buffeting even the biggest planes. But we'll stick with it as long as possible."

Five Trenton Planes Join in Fighter Search

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP) — Five RCAF planes from Trenton today joined a search for a CF-100 jet fighter with two men aboard, missing on a routine training flight from base here 15 miles north of Quebec City.

Two lumberjacks set out from a camp 90 miles north of Quebec to determine whether a plane light they had seen might have some connection with the plane.

Names of the two crewmen were not disclosed.

YMCA Holds Parents' Night

The fourth annual Belleville YMCA Girls' Parents' Night was held Friday with 175 parents attending. Instructor Lawrence D G. Diamantides welcomed the parents and introduced Physical Director Jim Heffernan. The Tyro Girls (9 to 11 years old) demonstrated track relays, elementary tumbling and group games under the leadership of their instructor Miss Jean Muirhead. The 12 to 15 year old girls, with Miss Heather Lewis, their instructor, gave an excellent display of calisthenics, springboard and pommell horse, and trampoline. The highlight of the evening was when the parents visited the swimming pool to see their daughters swim under the supervision of Mrs. Pat Hurst, Miss Lois Batchelor and Miss Dorothy McKenna. ## Police Blotter

A peeping Tom caught gazing in windows on Victoria Avenue near midnight last night made good his escape when he was able to outrun two residents who took up pursuit.

The peeping tom left his car behind when he took to foot and suddenly taken up and police this morning were checking out the licence number to determine who it belonged to, only to have the owner call police headquarters this morning to report his vehicle stolen.

The two residents were able to give police a good description of the fleeing man.

Yesterday the cadet barracks on South Front Street was reported broken into with a quantity of girl's urinks said missing as well as three pairs of mittens from an upstairs storage room.

Direct Long Distance Phone Dialing in 3 Yrs. Prediction

Within the next three years direct long distance telephone dialing will be put into operation in some of the larger Canadian centres, thanks to the engineering achievements of Bell Telephone researchers. This was indicated yesterday to the Rotary Club and to the Kiwanis Club today by Lucien Moise, customer relations representative of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Montreal.

The speaker said that today there are about 60 million telephones in operation in North America, and about three million more are being added each year. When the direct dialing system is put into operation it will be possible to dial a 10-digit number in Halifax and a certain telephone in Vancouver will ring. Talk will transpire in about 15 seconds.

Illustrating the advances made by his company in the past 38 years, Mr. Moise said that in 1920 it took an average of 11 minutes for a person in Montreal to contact a party in Toronto, and 1900 telephone operators were needed to do the job. Ten years later the time involved was reduced to three minutes and only two operators were required to make the connection. In 1955 the time to place such a call had been further reduced to about one minute, with only one switchboard operator necessary. By 1960 it should take no more than 15 seconds to make a call from Montreal to Toronto—the busiest highway of Canadian long distance telephone circuits—and switchboard operators will be needed to make contact.

Mr. Moise said that these advances in telephony will reduce the chances of getting wrong connection with Bell Telephone and reduce the need for some people to obtain jobs they are now employed at," said the speaker. But he affirmed that these accomplishments have opened new doors to careers in the business and some employees, particularly long distance operators, will be shifted to another more important type of work.

With every step of progress in any field of endeavour problems arise. With Bell Telephone two of the major problems are the requirement of expensive electronic equipment and sufficient lines to carry the expected increase of business.

CONTINENT DIVIDED INTO ZONES

In the past, telephone exchanges were designed to cope mainly with local business, but now exchanges are being constructed after much planning has been done on a continent-wide scale. No longer is it possible to think of business purely in a local sense, rather Bell Telephone must now extend its planning to include every community on the continent.

Mr. Moise said that his company has divided the North American continent into a series of zones, and to each a certain three-digit prefix has been given to the first three digits. For instance, the zone in which Belleville is situated is the Toronto zone 613, followed by seven other digits.

With the electronic equipment Bell Telephone has or has on the drawing board, it will be possible to place a long distance call—whether or not the direct line if open—in a matter of a few seconds. The main work will be done by machinery, including the recording of each call. Telephone Company of Canada, Belleville Division, Mr. Moise was thanked by Cortland Miller.

Majorettes Add Touch of Color To Santa Parade

A fine touch of color was added to the fire department sponsored Santa Claus parade here on Saturday by 15 young majorettes in smart red, white and gold uniforms, who marched at the heads of all bands in the procession. Five of the girls led the entire parade.

Also providing color were the tartans of the Quinte Highland Pipe Band.

Welfare Administrator Heads Hungarian Refugee Committee

Housing accommodation for Hungarian refugees now in staging centres at Toronto will be sought in Belleville with the co-operation of local officials and residents in a drive arrangement being asked by the immigration department.

Monday afternoon a Hungarian Refugee Committee was formed, made up of heads of the departments of service and welfare organizations and representatives of the clergy met at city hall to see what plans would be necessary before refugees are brought here to the Belleville area.

J. W. Crouse, district immigration officer, said that housing accommodation for family units and single persons was the most pressing immediate need with employment and jobs to be worked out at a later date.

Membership of the refugee committee will consist of George Whitman, city welfare administrator as committee co-ordinator; housing will be in charge of the Inter Service Civic Council; clothing — Salvation Army; publicity — Dr. John Stock; information and employment, Mr. R. Ferris of the Unemployment Insurance Commission; reception — The Red Cross; education — Rabbi A. Boros; treasury — city treasurer Drury Denyes and city manager Dennis Herring.

WILL MAKE APPEALS

Appeals for housing accommodation will go out by press and radio and through the churches, with replies to be channelled through committee co-ordinator Whitman.

Although no definite date can be set for the start in bringing Hungarian refugees to the Belleville area, Mayor Jame Forrester, who called yesterday's meeting, said it was hoped the committee would be in possession of such information by the end of the week which would allow the first to be brought in.

Mr. Tiefenbach noted if there were any requests for workers with specific skills, these people would be brought in to the Belleville area first. Otherwise the refugees would be brought in as employment details worked out later.

Missing Cattle Found Enjoying Comforts of Home

A herd of eight cattle missed by their Tyendinaga township owners since Saturday, 24th, turned up Monday two concessions away none the worse for the recent winter weather and enjoying all the comforts of home.

During the last week in November Bert Asselstine and Morley Schamerhorn missed their cattle and despite a thorough search were unable to find them.

The cattle had found their way into the barn and finding the stored hay were enjoying it. The report did not say what the cattle did for water, but it wouldn't be the first time cattle licked snow for a drink.

Mass Training Needed Here Says Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Foote of Toronto, coach of Canada's track and field team at the Melbourne Olympics, said here Monday night a mass training program will have to be introduced if Canada "is ever to do anything in international competition."

Returning from Australia with the first group of Canada's Olympic athletes, Foote said in an interview:

"We have no more than 2,600 track and field athletes registered in the Amateur Athletic Union here. In the (Australian) state of Victoria alone there are 2,000 registered and taking part in a mass training program.

"That's why we had the difference between our two gold medals and the 13 which the Australians won." The Australian program is financed and run exclusively by

Twelve RCAF and six other aircraft took off from here at first light today to resume the hunt, concentrating on an area west of 8,500-foot Silver Tip Mountain, 18 miles southwest of Hope.

It was in this vicinity that the North Star turned back for Vancouver at 7:02 p.m. Sunday after one of its engines failed on a tourist flight to Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

LAST WORD FROM HOPE

Seven minutes later Captain Allan Clarke, 35, of Montreal and Vancouver, skipper of the airliner, reported that he was over Hope, a mountain village of 1,200 at the Western entrance to the Fraser Canyon surrounded by towering peaks.

After that nothing was heard from the plane. TCA said no distress signal was received, "not even an indication of stress," though under normal circumstances the crew could have got in touch with Vancouver any time it had been.

"What could have happened is beyond explanation at present," a spokesman for the airline said.

What was viewed by search planes became added as a promising lead failed to materialize when search planes returned to base Monday night without sighting anything to verify reports there had been an explosion in the vicinity of snow - covered Silver Tip Mountain.

Pilots reported that the weather had closed in and the mountain peaks became blacked out by heavy fog. A ground party will make a report when they reach the settlers in the area.

RCAF ferry planes continued the search until 11 p.m. when rain, swirling through the mountains, and black, heavy clouds at 2,000 and 2,500 feet prompted them to return to base.

OFFICIALS ARRIVE

Three TCA officials from Montreal arrived here Monday to direct the airline's part in the search. They are Herb Seagrim, vice president of operations; J. L. Bell, director of maintenance and operations; and Jack Dermit, director of engineering and maintenance.

In addition to supervising search matters, the three will begin a preliminary investigation into the disappearance of the aircraft.

A four - member accident board headed by D. D. Murphy, district superintendent of air regulations, was set up to investigate the airliner's disappearance.

Airline and airplane officials alike were mystified by the plane's disappearance without so much as a hint that it was in serious trouble.

As TCA official said that even if the engines had failed, the airliner could have been able to make it back to Vancouver. Failure of three engines was a "multi-hundred thousandth" chance.

Captain Art Rankin, western superintendent of TCA flying operations, said the plane was not on fire when it was last heard from.

One theory advanced was that the airliner fell from the crushing weight of ice formed on it in the gale-swept mountains. Another was that it crashed into a mountain peak.

STORIED HORSESHOE

Polish Rioters Try to Enter Red Consulate

WARSAW (CP)—Windows were smashed at the Soviet consulate in Szczecin (Stettin) Monday night when rioters tried to break in after a drunken street argument, police reported.

Authorities said the trouble began when a militiaman was arresting a drunk. Other men reboved the prisoner and attacked the officer.

An angry crowd grew to considerable size and blocked one of the streets, the reports said, and windows in part of the city were smashed and several militiamen were injured.

Official reports blamed the outburst on "drunken hooligans," but reliable reports in the city said it was the outcome of a planned demonstration by students and young factory workers against events in Hungary.

The demonstration started early Monday evening and continued till midnight. The official press reported several policemen beaten up and an undetermined number of demonstrators arrested.

Escapes From Farm

SUDBURY (CP)—Police today searched the Lavin Mickels, 24, of Onaway, who escaped Monday from Burwash industrial farm where he was serving an assault and then escaped again.

Man Drowned As Car Plunges Into Canal

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — One man was believed to have drowned in the Welland Canal early today when a car slid off a rising drawbridge into 20 feet of water.

A cook found floating in the canal was identified by relatives as that of G. W. Hunsberger, 24, of Niagara Falls, Ont. He is believed to have been alone in the car.

A drawbridge watchman said the car skirted a line of waiting vehicles, crashed through a barricade and drove onto the bridge, where it pitched over the side and along the canal.

Motorists the car rialded and slid backwards, plunging through a gap between the end of the bridge and the canal.

ESCAPES AUTO

One man was seen escaping from the auto and swimming in the icy water. He disappeared before onlookers could reach him.

Police said they have not recovered either the body or the car and identification was only tentative.

The Homer bridge opens in the centre and pivots at the bank. As it rises the hose separates from the bank. When it is upright there is a large gap between the two.

Hungarian UN Delegation Quits Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Hungarian delegation today walked out of the General Assembly in protest against what it called UN interference in Hungary's internal affairs.

The surprise move came as the 79-country assembly debated a U.S.-sponsored move to condemn the Soviet Union for refusing to withdraw its armed forces from Hungary.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath led his delegation from the room after charging that some delegations, influenced by the United States, "have attempted to interfere in Hungary's domestic affairs."

We reject these attempts and shall continue to do so in the future," he said.

HUNGARY OFFENDED

Horvath told reporters later he plans to leave tomorrow for Budapest.

In his statement to the assembly, he said the UN had offended the Hungarian delegation in a way inconsistent with the honor of the Hungarian people.

"Therefore," he said, "The Hungarian delegation will not participate in the work of the General Assembly as long as the present situation continues."

After he left the room, Horvath went to Secretary-General Hammarskjoeld's bunge for comment. Asked by reporters whether he intended to boycott the entire session of the assembly or just the Hungarian debate, he said the Hungarian would continue to take part in assembly debates the Hungarian question.

MAY SCORE RUSSIA

Orders Governor To Return Kidnapped Officer

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — A young British lieutenant who arrested seven Egyptian commandos in a raid on an apartment Monday night was kidnapped from a Port Said street by a strongarm band.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, commander of the British-French task force, said he had summoned the local Egyptian governor, Mohammed Riad, and told him to get the officer back.

Stockwell said he also had informed Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations police force, about the kidnapping.

CAR FOUND

(Reuters quoted Stockwell as saying he was "very confident" the officer was still in the city. He added the car used in the abduction had been found with bloodstains).

Killed in Car

ACTON (CP) — Lloyd Earl Weissgerber, 19, of Kitchener was killed today when his car went out of control on Highway 7 and crashed into two trees.

DRAFTING NEW PLAN

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A new international disarmament plan, which might propose modified controls on nuclear bomb tests and a ban on long-range guided missiles, is being drawn up for the United States in consultation with its key allies, diplomatic sources said Monday. The consultations are being held with Britain, France and Canada.

POPULATION PROBLEM

Six thousand Hungarian refugees are expected to reach Canada by the end of this month. Eventually between 25,000 and 40,000 refugees will make Canada their new home.

Under other circumstances, the influx into Canada of so many immigrants from a single European country would almost certainly have sparked vigorous protests from some quarters, for in spite of everything that has been said and written about the need for expanding Canada's population there are still many Canadians who view immigrants as competitors for jobs, rather than as co-workers in the task of building a more prosperous nation. Certainly, under normal conditions, the government would have faced severe criticism for bringing so many into the country at a time of post-war Canada's climate annually creates seasonal unemployment.

Fortunately, however, the admiration of Canadians for the gallantry of these Hungarian fighters for freedom, and their sympathy with their present plight, have been strong enough to quiet almost all the critics. Only a few voices have been raised in opposition to the movement. This is all the more encouraging when we realize that, although eventually these Hungarians will help us to build a better life for all of us, it is inevitable that during the winter some of them will receive jobs which would otherwise have gone to workers already resident here.

It is to be sincerely hoped that, in the months ahead, Canadians do not lose sight of the reason for this flood of refugees. It is little enough that we can do for Hungary, this offer of new homes for a few thousand out of the ten million people who are beneath the Russian yoke.

If, at any time, any of us regard even this little as too much, if we think that 40,000 refugees are too many to assimilate into a nation of 15,000,000, perhaps we could do worse than to recall a fact which V. K. Krishna Menon of India mentioned in his address to the Canadian Club at Ottawa. India's population, he said, increased by 4,500,000 every year.

This natural increase in population is a hundred times the number of refugees who are expected to migrate to Canada. Even when measured as a percentage of India's huge population, it is three or four times the increase Canada will receive. Yet India must find new food for this vast increase every year. Other countries in Asia face population problems of almost as great magnitude. Let us remember this and give thanks that here in Canada a growing population is still an asset, rather than a liability.

POOR PIGEONS STABBED TWICE

The homing pigeon has been depopularized, stripped of his medals and rank, relegated to civilian life.

The U.S. Army has announced that it will close down its homing pigeon center. For centuries pigeons have been used to carry messages swiftly—and with considerable certainty—over long distances. There was a time when they outstripped any of man's other messengers and they were thus invaluable in times of war. For years, though, man's inventive genius has been busy cutting down the pigeons' early lead and the birds have finally been given the bird by the electronic substitutes. Other means of communication have become so reliable that the U.S. Army now sees no need to maintain pigeons on its roll call.

This has caused Carmen V. Russo, secretary of the International Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers, to wail in anguish. Mr. Russo, though, may earlier have provided an additional hint of why the Army reached this decision. He has pointed out that all of a sudden homing pigeons were not coming home. We missed this announcement and are therefore unable to say whether Mr. Russo offered any explanation for this amazing development. It occurs to us, though, that there may here be evidence of a deep-dyed plot by the electronic rivals of the pigeons. Not content to improve their own performance, they may also have thrown iron filings into the pigeons' built-in compasses.

A year or so ago there were reports that ducks in the Canadian Arctic were flying in a most confusing fashion whenever they were in the vicinity of radar stations being erected across the top of the world. Instead of continuing on their customary trips north or south on their flyways, they were observed circling around like a lot of lost sheep. There was speculation in some quarters that the ducks' migratory habits were being disturbed by the radar waves.

What happens to a duck when it wings into the range of a radar station might also happen to a pigeon. The pigeon's homing instinct is obviously much more complicated than the duck's migratory instinct since it operates at all seasons of the year and in all directions on the compass. This instinct has never been satisfactorily explained by scientists, but there have been suggestions that it may be linked with lines of magnetic force from the magnetic pole. If this is so, it is conceivable that radar stations and other electronic devices might provide a pigeon with an unwelcome puzzle when he tries to decide which way is home.

It could be, therefore, that not only have these electronic devices been challenging the pigeon's previously high record of performance, but they have also been spoiling his present standard of service—stabbing the poor bird twice, so to speak.

BOY

He went whistling down the street
Just like any boy you'd meet.
Earth is still a wonder place,
There's a grin upon his face,
And his youthful jaunty air
Shows no shadow as a care.

He has never suffered grief,
Never faltered in belief,
Every one who passes by

Is perfection to his eye.
If a fight he's ever had
It was with another lad.

Down the years as he shall grow
Disappointments he will know,
And it may be he will meet
With both failure and defeat;
But, if some man is his friend
He will brave them to the end.

Researcher Completes Longest And Zaniest Job on Record

TORONTO — The curiosity of a boy with a butterfly net 30 years ago, plus that boy's persistence, has led to an important scientific advance.

It might be described as one of the longest and zaniest research jobs on record.

Dr. Frederick A. Urquhart, head of the Royal Ontario Museum's Division of Zoology and Palaeontology, announced today that his research to find out where the monarch butterfly goes in winter is complete. It is the first proof of an insect migration ever presented, and the techniques developed will enable scientists to study movements of some insects that are vitally important in agriculture.

As a boy, Fred Urquhart was curious about Canada's best known butterfly, the King Billy, or Monarch. No one knew where they went in winter. Some said they flew south, others flight to the ocean; others said they migrated to South America.

After years of study, and research since 1937 with the help of hundreds of co-operators all over North America, Dr. Urquhart has found that the Monarchs go to Florida and the Gulf of Mexico for the winter, and then come back to Canada in the spring weary, tattered, but sun-tan brown.

The problem that made the young naturalist want to know exactly where individual butterflies went in autumn was a theory; how do you follow a butterfly?

After years of experimenting with different glues and papers, Dr. Urquhart found a way to attach a tiny tag—a small paper wing that wouldn't wash off, and that would not interfere with flight.

From 1938 to 1940, he worked with other scientists across the continent, and they tagged and labelled. His work was interrupted by the war, but he was back at it again, and a satisfactory technique was developed in time for the 1954 tagging.

LABELLED 20,000

In all, 40,000 Monarch butterflies were tagged. Of these, 20,000 himself. He has had over 500 co-operators in Canada and the U.S. tagging and spotting. Until this year, results were dis-jeccoursaging. Butterflies bearing the label, "Return to Museum, Toronto", were found in but a few scattered locations. None of those tagged on the Gulf or in Florida were captured here, and no Canadian tags were found in Florida.

The strange weather of 1956 seemed to help in some unexplained way, and the results already this fall have made the proof of migration complete.

A Monarch tagged on September 3 at Meaford, Ont., was found in Galveston, Texas, on October 18. And Dr. Urquhart has had his personal reward, for the other two important specimens, found in Mississippi and Mount Sliabon, Texas, were both tagged by him near his Highland Creek home.

A scientific report on the project is being prepared now for release next year.

The study of the Monarch Butterfly may be important in its migration. Dr. Urquhart also wanted to know what killed them. They have no natural enemies, and if all of the Monarch caterpillars survived, the species would soon be knee-deep in them.

PLANTED MILKWEED

In finding the answer to this question, the scientist convinced his neighbor that he was not crazy.

Caterpillars live on milkweed plants, so Dr. Urquhart simply planted a few in his neighbor's suburban garden, and planted milkweed patches in likely caterpillar areas.

Why don't they survive? It turns out that the caterpillar is a natural Mr. McGoo. It just doesn't seem to find its way around. When a slight breeze blows the leaf, most of the caterpillars fall off the leaves, can't find their way back again, and starve to death.

Dr. Urquhart hasn't decided what he will do with his unique milkweed, now that he project is over.

"People often think of the scientist as a man in a white coat, doing complicated and mysterious experiments which no layman could possibly understand," Dr. Urquhart said, "in reality, a lot of important research is just a matter of doing the obvious, simple thing, like labelling butterflies to keep track of them, and watching caterpillars to see what happens to them. It's a common misconception that you have to have a high understanding of the subject."

"The magnificent view from this window doesn't get home until six."

Harry Brown, well-known hockey player, has left for Haughton, Mich., where he will play hockey this winter. Harry is fast and heavy and has played and made good in the fastest company. The Houghton team has certainly secured a star cover point.

The Belleville OHA Juniors have been placed in group one by the executive. They will go up against the Kingston Frontenacs, the Brockville Crescents and Perth. It will be seen that the teams in group one have some pretty long jumps to make and the local boys will need generous support in order to stand the expense. It is to be hoped they will receive the support required. Hockey in this district will never be what it was when Belleville, Peterborough, Port Hope and Kingston were all in the game with strong teams.

Not to Mention the Cash Saving

In parts of Oregon the soil, drinking water, and home-grown food is as poor in iodin as in parts of the Great Lakes basin, so that every man, woman and child living there needs a suitable daily ration of iodine to maintain health, let us say, "good and prevent manifestations of nutritional deficiency disease.

An Oregonienne writes:

"About five years ago I had a basal metabolism test and came out minus 17. I thought that was just marvelous, to be hooked up to a machine and come out with a number.

"When I first read your nasty little column about the "trick specialists and 'clinic' racketeers" who use such machines, I was fighting mad. Perhaps you didn't spell it out, but you certainly implied that these machine medics love the metabolism outfit in lieu of or to cover up their lack of diagnostic skill.

"Then a year or two later I began to see the light. So now I'm basal-minded myself — at least seem silly to try to diagnose by machine. You have convinced me. Incidentally I don't get 'fed' easily from being in a draft or getting my feet wet — going out with insufficient clothing.

"So you see, those fighting words you write in your column do sink in, after all.

"We now live in Milwaukee where we are happy to find you have not "turned up your toes" or been ruined from the health column 'racket.'

Even if you had remained in Oregon, Ma'am, better metabolism produced by increased iodine intake might well have made you more alert, so that you would have been less easily deceived about my "racketeering" ways.

Yes, indeed, I say, for the steenteenth time, without competent consolidation, that the basal metabolism machine, which enables the trick specialists to take at least $25 extra from the credulous customer, should be put back in the physiology class-room where it came. There is undeniable evidence, which I have cited here in earlier harangues, that the basal temperature test, which costs virtually nothing, should be used to impressive to the naive, gives at least as much information as the basal metabolism test does.

If there is any inaccuracy in what I say about this particular flimflammery for which you poor misguided people yield "coin" doesn't some physician of standing or fee-level contradict my statements? Openly or publicly, I mean — not just in the doctors' lounge or the corridors of the local public privacy of the consulting room.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

According to present trends, every school child, whatever his brains, his laziness, or his interests, is to be put through high school; and if possible, bundled, by all sorts of devices other than tough examinations, into the university.

If you have a clever child, he must join this procession and proceed at its pace with his own.

But if you have a big, rough, tough child, he can join the football team and work up his personal powers.

This, of course, is a most invidious situation. And in the United States, there are educators who are protesting this most undemocratic state of affairs.

It is claimed that all children should be put through school irrespective of the talents or gifts of the smart and the brainy are to be slowed down to the speed of the average in the class, then it's not democratic that all children should go on the football team? Never mind that stuff about special aptitudes for football. Don't tell me that size and weight and guts are what is needed on the football team. If it is later that.

undemocratic to form special classes for the 'brainy and promotes them ahead of the rest, then it is undemocratic to form special classes for the stupid and dividing with them from the weak. Do you mean to say that brains are not to be given special power?

Inspired by this zany viewpoint, the high school clubs, longer in cheek, are demanding that football and basketball teams be constituted so that the best qualified for the teams, but by those whose parents can afford to pay the fees.

If a parent wants to have his son play football in college, then the educational system should be rearranged as to make this possible, even if it means that the child on the basketball team, what are our educators going to do about it?

There are those who say this is a ridiculous proposition. But the more you look at it, the plainer it grows.

All the Communism in the world could not prevent a Khruschev, if you've got what it takes, you come out top. Our schools cannot do that.

THE JOY OF FREEDOM

All the free countries, and many as one chooses—freedom to travel others, have been shocked to their depths at the savage attack that has left so much in Hungary a mass of ruins, and a mass of dust that is one of the tragedies of history. I am glad that America's arms have been open to receive those who have been lucky enough to reach there. I am glad that she decided the photos of those who have landed and noted the looks of relief as well as of wonder, to be in free America.

What a stirring thing is this freedom which all Americans enjoy as an inheritance! What gifts could be so great? Take away freedom from an individual, and what have you? A prison, shelter, hope? Freedom is an essential to progress, be it that of a nation or individual. Without it there would be little or no incentive, like cattle in a closed stable.

Just think what this thing of free action means! In America that a person can express his sincere opinions—and isn't that for doing so? What a treasure is this thing of freedom! Freedom of expression, a free press, freedom to worship

National University

Ottawa Citizen

Proposals to establish a graduate school in Ottawa sponsored by the federal government, along the lines of the National University of Australia, are not new. But the post-war drain of young men and women away from graduate studies as a preparation for university teaching and their lucrative non-governmental service, gives the idea fresh emphasis.

The proposal for a national university, made by Prof. B. S. Keirstead, of Acadia University, to the Canadian Universities, deserves respectful attention. The proposal has again been raised, it might be worth while to have a conference representing the universities and the government to examine the proposal and to make a concrete recommendation. The proposed institution, which "seems to be working well, could be recruitmized. The government, the universities and the public would then have something specific to work with.

There are many difficulties to overcome but none seems insuperable. Graduate students in Canada, although English-speaking student, have found opportunities for graduate work in Germany, Australia and France without much trouble. And there are well over a men from Quebec pursue post-graduate studies in the United States and Britain. Distance from Ottawa should be no barrier. Students would be able to live where they should be able to come from various parts of Canada. A constitutional problem, as Prime Minister St. Laurent has pointed out, should not arise, for federal aid to universities could commence the British North America Act.

Ottawa has unsurpassed facilities for certain lines of post-graduate study. The National Library, including the archives, the National Research Council, and the large staff of experts engaged in government work could be valuable to students seeking higher degrees. Carleton College and the University of Ottawa could help. Perhaps a national university need not be set up, so much as a committee which would set standards and would assist and guide post-graduate students in the use of existing facilities. That is a matter for the future. There is no reason why the facilities that do exist should not be used to the last by post-graduate students in residence in Ottawa.

Woman's Intuition

Sex Popular In St. Thomas

Stratford Beacon-Herald

What's going on over in St. Thomas, anyway? The question has been turning in mind by the incident of last week which still has us wondering. Here in Stratford we have an organization known as "The Crawler Hunters Club." As its name indicates, it is a highly-respectable organization which meets bi-weekly, to discuss and that sort of thing and another. Its membership includes ministers, doctors, lawyers, teachers, newspaper writers, and tax collectors, in fact a fair cross-section to give balance to the thing, to speak.

Well, the state of the world being what it is, the Club decided that it was time to get down to fundamentals, and accordingly arranged for one of its more intellectual members deliver a paper on "The Historical Christian View of Sex." There's no name to this story — no names, no pack drill," as we used to say in the army. Copies of the paper in question was sent out it so happened that one of the members was attending in St. Thomas, a thriving little community south of us a piece. You must have read of it. That's the place where Barnum's famous midget, Admiral Dot, was born and train. There was quite a bit about it in the papers at the time.

But, to get back to our story, when the Stratford man got his meeting started, and noted the subject, he decided that it was time to do a little research on the facts of life.

So he hired him to the St. Thomas Public Library, and was gratified to find listed in the card index a list of books on the subject under the important topic of sex. But, alas! When he went to the shelf where the books should have been reposing, he encountered a situation similar to that which brought such distress to Old Mother Hubbard. When he got there, the cupboard was bare — not one of the thirty books was in place!

Puzzled, he looked at the desk and the young lady there told him that all thirty books were in circulation, and that unless unbreakable reservations were made in advance. Quite a place, St. Thomas!

PURITANISM

The word "Puritanism" is a hateful word in modern life. Usually it is associated with narrowness, bigotry, and more often than not, with hypocrisy.

That Puritanism in the later stages of its development became all these things, no one can deny. But most people do not realize that early Puritanism, beginning about 400 years ago, was a noble movement out of which grew democracy and a solid commitment to moral righteousness, which entered into the lives of millions of people and underpinned not a few nations. The early Puritans gladly went to the stake for their beliefs. The men and women who landed on Plymouth Rock would probably

Porridge May Kill Him

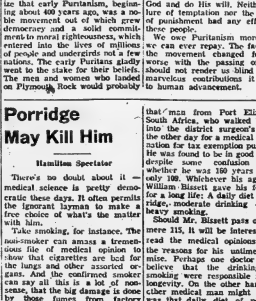
Hamilton Spectator



There's no doubt about it — medical science is pretty demoralizing these days. It seems that the ignorant layman to make a free choice of what's the matter with him.

Take smoking, for instance. The non-smoker can amass a tremendous file of medical opinion to show that cigarettes are bad for the lungs and other organs of the gans. And the confirmed smoker can call up a lot of opinion, too, to show that tobacco is a sedative, a stimulant and generally a good thing.

That is why we're interested in that man from Port Elizabeth, South Africa, who walked briskly into the district surgeon's office the other day for a medical examination for tax exemption purposes. He was found to be in good health, despite some confusion about his age. ## Trinity WMS, W.A. Hold Yuletide Meet

MADOC — Trinity United Church Women's Missionary and Women's Association held a joint meeting at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon with a fine attendance. It was the Christmas meeting and the W.A. president, Mrs. P. Bronson, was in charge and opened with a prayer of a Christmas poem. Christmas hymns were sung.

Business was conducted and report of the Christmas bazaar was given by the secretary, Mrs. McCoy, and the report was gratifying. In the absence of the president of the W.M.S. Mrs. D. Carmen, Mrs. Albert Empey took charge of the W.M.S. part. The roll call was to be answered with gifts to be sent to the port workers at Halifax; the response being most liberal.

NATO

He said Soez did not die within the existing NATO area but added he would favor a "broader scope" for NATO's interests.

A NATO spokesman was asked later whether Pineau had favored extending the pact's scope to North Africa and the Middle East.

The spokesman replied: "Nobody is suggesting that the treaty be changed to enlarge the NATO area. Without changing the treaty, it is possible to extend the area of consultation on other parts of the world."

A major topic of discussion will be a proposed secret policy directive, drafted by the ministers' permanent council in Paris, which it accepted would put increased dependence on the modern weapons of warfare with a concurrent reduction in manpower.

The United States and Britain, the alliance's only two powers with atomic arms, are leading the campaign for "revitalize" their partners to put more reliance on British-American atomic and thermonuclear weapons. They would like to make the defence job cheaper and more effective.

Kenny Mosdell To Retire Temporarily

MONTREAL (CP) — Kenny Mosdell, one of the oldest players in the National Hockey League with service records in 11 NHL seasons, has decided to retire temporarily, Frank J. Selke, managing director of the Montreal Canadiens, said today.

Selke said he was told by James Crawford, general manager of Chicago, that Mosdell "may consider returning to hockey if he feels in condition after a month or so."

A native Montrealer, Mosdell has scored 182 goals in the NHL, 16 of them in playoff hockey. This season, in 25 games with Chicago, he had two goals and four assists.

26 Acres Will Be Expropriated for New Expansion

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto said Monday it plans to expropriate 26 downtown acres adjacent to its campus to provide for expansion over the next 10 years.

The land, which includes both residential and commercial property, lies in central Toronto between College and Harbord streets, St. George Street and Spadina Avenue. The university's action is possible under a provincial act which allows it to expropriate land in the city for educational purposes.

"Never since the original acquisition of land by King's College has there been such a momentous decision relating to the physical development of the university," said President Sidney Smith.

He said expropriation will permit the university to meet the influx of new students and yet maintain high standards and continue to employ first class professors and researchers.

The new land brings the total university holdings to 17,903 acres.

Consulting Room On Home Nursing Opened by VON

OTTAWA (CP)—The Victorian Order of Nurses' branch here has renewed the emphasis on its information services available to persons with home nursing problems.

A quiet room in the downtown V.O.N. offices has been set aside four afternoons a week as a consulting room.

"We hope people will come in and talk over their problems arising from illness in the home," says Kate McIlraith, the V.O.N. district director.

Information about the visiting home nursing order's services has always been available to the public. But the public has not always realized how, and what, services are available, Miss McIlraith said in an interview.

Citizens are invited to visit the V.O.N. office, where they can sit and talk about nursing care and financial costs quietly and confidentially. Nurse Dorothy MacLeod acts as consultant.

Miss McIlraith says the financial problem of illness often poised a major problem.

"Many people can maintain themselves in health, but not in illness, particularly long - term illness."

And when family budgets can't cover sickness costs, there is often a reticence to take on debts. Sometimes those who struggle to give home care to sick members of the family succumb to illness themselves.

Or, for example, a working girl who is the sole support of an ill mother often finds her task is beyond both her financial and physical capacities.

Fees set by the 117 V.O.N. branches across Canada vary, but the visiting nurses, whose public service work is financially supported by community chest or V.O.N. campaign funds, are always prepared to discuss fee adjustments according to the circumstances of the patient or his supporters.

This is a fact often unrealized or misunderstood by the public, the Ottawa director says.

The necessity for quick release from hospitals once medical treatment is completed and increases in the number of aged and chronically-ill patients who must be cared for in their homes have placed greater demands on the order's home visiting services.

But officials here emphasize that performing such services is a major reason for the order's existence.

First Female Forest Engineer Awarded Degree

QUEBEC (CP)—Another profession once considered an all-male stronghold added the feminine touch when Miss Elizabeth Terese Sicard was admitted to the Corporation of Forest Engineers of Quebec.

The first female forestry engineer in Quebec possibly in all Canada, had led her class throughout her studies at Laval University.

"My father, now dead, graduated as a forestry engineer in 1913," Therese says in explaining her interest in the profession, "and of course the family conversation centred around his work.

"As an only child I was always with my parents and, in spite of myself, became interested in the work and its many facets."

The 22-year-old Quebec City brunette now is doing forestry research for the federal agriculture department. Her work in the forestry laboratory consists mainly of studying tree diseases.

During the summer research work taken her to tree nurseries, principally in the nearby Berthier district, but even in the forest she remains feminine, favoring skirts to slacks.

She received all her education in Quebec, entering Laval after graduating from Sillery College in 1952.

Although she was nervous at being the only woman in the course, she admits, but this soon wore off. The compulsory field thing is the forest regions were the chief challenge.

In the lecture rooms Therese developed a taste for the natural sciences, mathematics and the many other courses which lead to a forestry degree.

Looking to the future, she plans to continue her studies, perhaps towards a doctorate.

The quiet research worker professes no interest in sports, and her non-working hours are apt to be spent with a good science or history text, perhaps with classical music in the background.

Therese feels there is more room for women in the profession.

"The work a woman can do in the laboratory is important," she says, "and Canada can certainly use more forestry engineers."

Opulent Accessories

BY ALICE ALDEN

Accessories, in keeping with the mood of the mode, take on supreme elegance. Especially is this so of fine costume jewelry, opulent without being overdone, and in the ensemble mood harmonizing in tone with the dress. This trend is reflected in the magnificent Vendome collection from which we have culled some lovely samples: a dress of velvet and chiffon. Deep-cut ante amethyst stones, ombred from their palest to their deepest purple hues sparkle in a handsome necklace. Large opal-cut amethysts fimmed in small, pale amethysts swing from matching ear buttons.

U.W.C. Holds Turkey Dinner

On Thursday evening, the University Women's Club of Belleville and district held its Christmas meeting at St. Thomas' parish hall. In spite of heavy fog which enclosed the area, there were 79 members present representing Belleville, Stirling, Wellington and Madoc. The co-convenors of the thoroughly delightful evening were Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. H. T. Floyd.

After grace was said by the club president, Mrs. P. T. Seibert, a delicious turkey dinner was served at tables made particularly attractive by Mrs. Floyd and her decorating committee, composed of Mrs. M. Morton, Mrs. J. E. Nelles and Mrs. J. E. Kuntze. The focal point of decorations at the head table was a large gold drum striped in red and green and sprinkled with stars, bearing the red letters UWC most effectively on its top. Smaller replicas marked the place of each member of the executive. Gaily decorated miniature trees centred the long tables with large bells and stars completing the festive appearance.

INTRODUCTIONS

The theme of the evening was "May I Introduce" and the president began by introducing the executive and welcoming all the members present. The vice-president, Mrs. J. Haig, then read a list of new members. Each new member was individually introduced to the club by another club member who told of her university background and interests, so that a general feeling of getting acquainted prevailed. Returning members to the club were introduced by Mrs. J. E. Mcarthur.

After the introductions were completed, Mrs. Seibert pointed out that among the club members, widely diversified occupations are represented; in addition, the membership includes 16 charter members and five past presidents: Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, immediate past president of the club, congratulated Mrs. Seibert on being the first president to hold office since the membership had passed the 100-mark.

During this meeting, it had been planned to hold a raffle on a picture painted and donated to the club by Miss Clorissa Martinson, a club member from Wellington. However, as the proceeds are to be used for club work, it was decided to hold the raffle in January in order that those unable to be present might have an opportunity to secure tickets.

Following the dinner, the members gathered in the hall where the co-convenors had arranged a variety program to complete this special meeting. The program was opened by Mrs. Fred Newman accompanied by Mrs. W. N. Hurst at the piano. Mrs. Newman offered several vocal selections in a style which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Mrs. Lyle Jones then entertained the ladies with a series of monologues, including one especially humorous number on the originality of Christmas decorations. Her offerings further added to the enjoyment of the evening.

The final item on the program was the one act play, "Murder at Mrs. Loring's". This was the play presented by the Theatre Guild at a one-act play festival in Peterborough. The members of the club were most privileged to have the opportunity of seeing this entertaining play with the fine setting of the original cast. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Lewis expressed her thanks to the members of the Theatre Guild for presenting their play. Its presentation was the climax of a most enjoyable and successful Christmas meeting.

Cockney Woman Finds Life in North Strange

LONDON (CP) — Jean Mont-gomery, a dark-haired Cockney woman from North London, took on a chimney sweep for a moment, and then smiled.

"Yes," she said, "I really was a bush cook in Manitoba. I didn't just dream it all."

It happened 20 years ago when Jean went to Canada as the wife of Lincoln Montgomery, geologist and ex-RCAF man. Montgomery, a native of Yorkton, Sask., was going to join a survey party in Northern Manitoba. Rather than stay behind alone, Jean decided to go along as cook.

QUICK LEARNER

"I couldn't bear the thought of staying behind in a strange country hardly knowing a soul," she recalls. "I didn't have the slightest notion about cooking, but I took along a few Canadian cook books and I learned fast."

Life in the Canadian North was a change from past experience as a fashion designer in London. Being left alone for hours on end by the four men in the party didn't help, either. It took a while getting used to living in tents, sleeping in sleeping bags and bathing in lakes.

She filled her time preparing huge meals on primitive stoves and washing piles of clothes in a barrel.

One day her nerves cracked. She came "face to face" with a bear. With much of the nerve she had, she raced to her tent and turned the radio up full volume. The bear, unconcerned, ambled off and was eventually killed.

A few weeks later a seaplane that brought in supplies every month flew in and took Jean to a hospital in Flin Flon, Man., to have her first child. She lost the baby, but regained the nerve. She went back to the bush and found her fear of animals more or less gone—fears had disappeared.

A LIMEY'S BOOK

She learned to swim, fish and shoot. She determined to enjoy the last few months. There was nothing to be afraid of after I learned to handle a gun."

Now, although she still has to pinch herself to realize that she actually lived through those experiences, she is writing a book about them called "A Limey in the Bush." She has appeared on television and will later give a radio talk on the subject.

Her husband, a University of Manitoba graduate, recently returned from a survey in Tanganyika and plans to take 32-year-old Jean out there in six months. They now have two children, Brian, 8 and Davie, 7.

"I'm looking forward to another adventure," she says. "But this time I hope to live in a little more comfort."

HEFTY BABIES

ENFIELD, England (CP) — Please handle your babies carefully, pleads Rev. Gordon Girling, 41-year-old vicar. He is tired of struggling with babies of up to 15 months. "Fortunately I got used to handling heavy weights during the war," he says.

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE, England (CP)—A motorist told a police he gave three shillings for a lift. At a fork in the road one girl shouted "right," and another shouted "left." He was so confused he mounted the curb in the middle.

Women's Activities

BAYSIDE WMS

WHITE'S DISTRICT. — The members of Bayside Women's Missionary Society entertained a number of ladies at the Christmas meeting held at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon.

The 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Clifton Rush, presided over a fine candlelight service with Mrs. Rush as leader and Mrs. Robert Percival speaking on Christmas.

Mrs. Walter Jones represented Bureau; Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson as Korea; Mrs. Van Alstine as Canada; Mrs. W. Jeffery as Malaya and Mrs. Leonard Young as Hong Kong.

Candles were lighted by all these ladies and a very pleasant atmosphere prevailed. Carols were sung throughout the service with Mrs. W. Jeffery as pianist.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Mc-Mullin of the Sidney charge was unable to be present due to illness, Mrs. H. I. Mooney of Grace United church, Trenton, substituted and gave a fine talk on Christian Stewardship.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes of Holloway Street United church, Belleville, also spoke, complimenting the society on its fine service.

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. Mooney. Prayers were offered by various members.

There was a sale of home-cooking and candy.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Kiwanis L.A. Friends Enjoy Pot-Luck Supper

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening when members, friends and the Keyette Club enjoyed a delicious pot-luck supper arranged by Mrs. A. Darby.

Following the supper, Christmas carols were sung.

The guest speaker, Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton was introduced by Mrs. H. A. Fuke, and gave an interesting Christmas theme. She pointed out that Christmas preparation was similar to that which took place in Bethlehem, buying gifts, singing carols, and that the combination of sentiment and sense made a good heritage for a human being. Her closing remarks were a suggestion "to follow that star and go out and help world hoping that there will be lasting peace."

Mrs. V. A. White thanked Mrs. Middleton for her message.

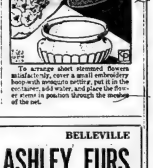
Miss Ardith Hunter, president of the Keyette Club, thanked the Auxiliary for inviting them to the party.

Mrs. E. Logan, president of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary, welcomed three new members, Mrs. M. Cresswell, Mrs. H. Cumming, and Mrs. Leslie Reid.

The regular reports were given and plans were completed regarding Christmas donations to charity.

CGIT Girls Hold Impressive Vesper Service at St. Andrew's

On Sunday evening, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, a most impressive, and reverent candlelight vesper service was held by the Canadian Girls in Training with Miss Sharon McDonald of St. Andrew's, as leader.



Preceding the service, the congregation enjoyed a prelude of Christmas carols, rendered by the church organist, Mr. Egerton Boyce, who also presided at the console of the organ for the various hymns during the service, which opened with the processional, "Silent Night, Holy Night", led by the intermediate choir in their wine-colored gowns and caps, accented by white collars; followed by the CGIT girls in their regulation uniforms of white middies and navy skirts, and the Explorers in white blouses and navy skirts.

The service opened with the leader giving the call to worship from John 3:16 "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Invocation was also taken by Miss McDonald.

Following the prayers and the singing of the carol "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Miss Susie Musgrove, of Bridge Street United church, read the Scriptures, from both Luke 2 and Matthew 2, telling the glad tidings of great joy, after which the Misses Barbara and Beverley MacKenzie, of St. Andrew's church, favored with a duet "Father Lord, Jesus."

Miss McDonald read R. S. Cushman's poem, "A Christmas Prayer," and the congregation joined in the old favorite, "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," with the intermediate choir rendering "The Virgin's Lullaby", as the offertory music.

The leader gave a brief address explaining the use the church all offerings received at Christmas vesper services serves the country from Newfoundland to British Columbia, are portioned to support the work of the National Nice go-togethers invariably include the velvet skirt and pretty blouse, the two adding up to a nice informal late afternoon or evening outfit. This black velvet skirt is ever so slim with a kick-pleat in back to ease things a little. The blouse is as practical as it is pretty since the fabric is one of the good drip-dry cottons with a silken look and feel. The sleeves are permanently pleated and there are crystal buttons. A string tie of black velvet finishes the demure little collar.

Helen Moores of Holloway United church, gave the story of the "Beautiful Child", which was followed by the carol "As with Gladness Men of Old."

The highlight of the service was the candlelighting portion, when the CGIT girls with their leader, rose as one, and repeated the Purpose; "It is my purpose to cherish health, seek truth; know God; serve others, and thus, with His help, become the girl God would have me be."

Those lighting candles included, Miss Gloria Hayes during the service, which opened with the processional, "Silent Night, Holy Night", led by the intermediate choir in their wine-colored gowns and caps, accented by white collars; followed by the CGIT girls in their regulation uniforms of white middies and navy skirts, and the Explorers in white blouses and navy skirts.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

LET'S ALL JOIN THE CRUSADE TO WRITE "CHRISTMAS"

Please write "Christmas" in your Christmas messages. Please don't buy a Christmas card with the abbreviation "Xmas" printed or engraved on it . . . either on the cover or in the greeting. For the past several years there has been a lively and flourishing crusade against the use of the abbreviation "Xmas" and most of the publishers of Christmas greeting cards have joined this crusade. As a result, each year there has been a marked decrease in the number of cards with "Xmas" on them.

On the 1956 cards it is strikingly noticeable that comparatively few cards have "Xmas" on them. Fewer greeting cards, fewer enclosure cards, fewer gift-tags, fewer wrapping-papers. Good news indeed. Surely all of us . . . all who buy and all who sell . . . have time now to give to this good and right word . . . Christmas. The word is Christmas . . . the beautiful, the inspiring, the sacred word Christmas!

SHOULD WIDOW SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please will you give me some information I need concerning sending Christmas cards? My husband passed away two months ago. I have been told it is not customary to send any Christmas cards after such a recent death in the family. — M.Y.

Whether or not you send Christmas cards this year, so soon after the passing of your husband, depends entirely on your own personal feeling and wish. Most people would find it too much of a strain to send cards this year, and certainly your friends will understand if you don't add this burden to the burden you already are carrying in your heart. However if you have a favorite verse you would like to send cards to relatives and intimate friends, if you feel able to do this, it is entirely proper for you to do it, and those to whom you send cards will, I am sure, be touched and inspired by your brave thought.

GIFTS OF FRAGRANCE TO HEAD YOUR CHRISTMAS LIST

Perfumed gifts are the loveliest to give—and to receive!

Just two weeks more and Santa'll be here. And how's your shopping coming along?

If time has been slipping by and you've still a list "this long" to fill, why not concentrate on gifts of fragrance? Every woman loves perfume because it makes her feel so utterly glamorous. But even if you can't afford to give your feminine friends the exquisite and costly perfumes you'd like to, you can still make them happy by giving fragrance in other forms.

Practically all of the Parisian and American perfumeurs create colognes and toilet waters in the same scents as their more precious essences and any woman would be delighted with them. There are also lovely perfume and cologne sticks which are not only as wonderfully fragrant as the bottled variety but are less expensive and can be used many times through out the day when refreshing's needed. And don't forget cream perfumes. Look for these at your favorite perfume counter. They come in small containers and you may not think you're getting very much for your money, but very little is needed to surround a woman with an aura of fragrance and most of them are extremely long lasting.

Getting back to colognes, one hour has a lovely line which you can't miss while shopping since the names of the fragrances are the same as the colors of their gift boxes—turquoise, white lilac, pink bouquet and golden spice, for instance—and the colognes can be teamed with matching gift dusting powders and sets of flower-carved soap in two sizes. The turquoise and white lilac fragrance items also include lotion and bubbling bath salts. While reminded of cologne sets for the bath also make lovely Christmas presents.

There's such a wide choice of bath oils, crystals and salts that you'll have no trouble at all in picking a gift to make your best girl friends feel glamorous as movie stars. The toiletries counters are also showing lovely sets of guest soaps which may be colour schemed to fit the room's decor. Add, of course, there's talcum. In pretty, be-ribboned boxes, accompanied by huge and luxurious puffs, they make inexpensive but glamorous gifts.

SPECIAL CROP

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP)—Mrs. M. Munyard was working her lettuce patch when she heard a whirring sound and then an explosion. Inquiries showed she had almost been struck by a meteorite, of which a small fragment was recovered. Mrs. Munyard told investigators they would have to wait until the lettuce is ripened before they dig for the rest of it.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ARE YOU REALLY AS CHILDISH AS YOU SOUND?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a 13-year-old girl who wrote you some time ago about a 23-year-old boy I met who was immediately attracted to me and I to him. You said that I was immature and accused him of being of low morals.

I must admit that I didn't heed your advice, but persuaded this man to meet my parents, pretending he was someone else, since they had forbidden me to see him. This was done so successfully that my family accepted him wholeheartedly. Since my 19-year-old brothers, who had introduced me to him, hadn't seen him for a long time, they didn't recognize him, either.

Now, once again, I'm seeking your advice.

You see, I live in constant fear that some member of my family will suddenly remember this fellow. So I don't know what to do. Stop going out on dates with him, as you advised, or, since he's made a favorable impression on everyone because they think he's someone else, to let things go on as they are. — C.N.

Dear C.N.:

On the first place, why do you seek my advice again, when you thought so little of it on the first time that you paid no attention to it?

In the second place, the average young man of 23 is not a "boy," as you call him, and I see no reason whatever to revise my opinion that this particular young man must be below par, either in mentality or morality, if he persistently tries to date a girl of 13.

In your first letter, you told me that, when this young man called you on the phone, you told your parents, who had forbidden you to have anything to do with him, that it was someone else. You also told me, at that time, that you didn't like him, because you were "brought up to be honest." Since you continued to carry on a relationship with this fellow behind your parents' back, you've apparently stopped worrying about being dishonest.

All things considered, this second letter of yours makes it even more clear that you're just a very foolish little girl who is having a wonderful time dramatizing herself, and who is all too likely to get into some kind of trouble sooner or later unless she acquires some common sense.

I might add that your entire letter sounds quite fantastic, and I'm not at all sure that you didn't make the whole thing up. I'd rather believe that you did, too, than that you're as childish and ignorant and as heedless as your letters make you out to be.

European Christmas Cookies

By Mary Moore

Jean F. asks ". . .have you ever made or tasted cookies called "Pfeffernesse and Lebkuchen and Springerle . . . they must be made ahead of time." Yes, Jean I have heard, made, tasted and fallen in love with them.

There are so many variations of Lebkuchen that I am going to give you the one that I and my German friend Lise approve and like best.

LEBKUCHEN .

One-half cup each molasses and honey, 2-4 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, 2 3-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice, nutmeg, 1-3 cup each chopped citron peel and chopped nuts. In a saucepan mix together the honey and molasses and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and cool thoroughly then stir into them the sugar, beaten egg, lemon juice and rind. Sift together the flour, soda and spices, and stir them in, then add the citron peel and nuts. Mix well. Chill dough at least overnight. It is better if left 24 to 48 hours. Roll out small amount of dough at a time, keeping remainder chilled. Roll to 1-4 inch thickness and cut into desired shapes. Bake on buttered baking sheet, at 400 deg. about 12 minutes. These are usually glazed the instant they come from the oven, when quickly removed from pans to cool. Glaze: Boil 1 cup sugar and 1-2 cup water to 230 deg. (tiny thread). Remove from heat and stir in 1-4 cup icing sugar. Brush on cookies at once. If glaze gets sugary, reheat and add a little water. These cookies should ripen and mellow for a week or two, tightly covered.

SPRINGERLE

Dough No. 1 — One-half cup butter, 1-4 cup icing sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, 4 1-2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, anise seeds. The first dough is like shortbread; the second is lighter. Take your choice. Mix the first one by hand, all ingredients together. For the second beat eggs light, beat in sugar then rind and flour sifted with baking powder. Reserve anise seed for sprinkling on cookie sheet.

Chill. Roll out to 1-4 or 1-3 inch thickness, cut in fancy shapes or roll out with springerle roller or press into springerle board. Bake at 350 deg. about 15 minutes, or a little longer if 1-3 inch thick. The second dough should be cut out, put on cookie sheet and let stand overnight in kitchen before baking. If desired, sprinkle baking sheet with anise seeds.

PFEFFERNUESSE

Mix and sift together 4 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each soda, cloves, nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon black pepper, 1 tablespoon cinnamon. Add 1 tablespoon crushed cardamom seeds, 1 teaspoon anise seeds, 1-4 lb. cut orange peel, 1-2 lb. cut citron peel. Cream 1 tablespoon butter with 2 1-2 cups powdered sugar until light and add 5 egg yolks and 1 1-3 teaspoons grated lemon rind. Beat well, then add flour-fruit mix. Fold in five stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill one hour. Shape into 1-inch balls. Dry on ungreased cookie sheet overnight. Brush with glaze (see above). Bake at 350 deg. 15 minutes. These improve with storage, tightly covered.

The new screen has won the praise of both audiences and owners. Little wonder the lamar like it: one operator found his receipts increased by $40,000 in two months after he replaced his conventional screen with the highly reflective, mirror-like aluminum job.
And so it goes . . . Still another improved product, still another use for this versatile modern metal. The result: everybody gains by production from Canadian smelters that already account for a quarter of the world's primary aluminum.

GRAIN GLUT

Lacking storage space and with sales lagging behind their harvests, farmers have more wheat piled on the ground in southwestern Saskatchewan than anywhere in the Canadian West. This photo shows part of the nearly 6,000 bushels D. B. Gaunt has piled in his front yard near Pennant, Sask. Gaunt's wheat is worth about $6,500. The winter's snow which will cover the piles is expected to cause little damage. (CP Photo).

Grain Farmers in Dustbowl Area of Pennant, Sask. Still Hold Wheat Grown in 1953

PENNANT, Sask. (CP)—Grain farmers in this dustbowl area resigned themselves about 10 years ago to meagre crops.

In one 10-year period after the drought of the 1930s their wheat harvests averaged only eight bushels an acre. At the same time, crops three times that size were reaped in some other districts.

Many southwest Saskatchewan farmers quit in disgust, even after struggling through the worst of the drought years. They left behind a pattern of gradually-expanding farms which today is seen on the average — the biggest in Saskatchewan. A 12,000 - acre spread isn't uncommon.

BIG FARMS NEEDED

Those who remained needed big farms to make a living. In a country where the summer evaporation rate is three times the annual rainfall, two profitable crops in five years was considered a good average.

In 1943 a poor crop everywhere — farmers around Pennant and nearby Cabri got only two bushels of wheat an acre. This came after a seven-bushels harvest, and in 1950 it wasn't much better—eight bushels.

But in 1951 the weather changed in favor of the grain-growers. The turn brought an 18-bushels-an-acre crop for dustbowl farmers who had been down, but not quite out.

For the next two years they cropped an average 24 bushels to the acre. The yield dropped to 15 bushels in 1954, but last year it again was up to 24 and this fall it averaged closer to 30 bushels.

But sales have lagged far behind the harvests. Some farmers still hold wheat they grew three years ago.

They have been caught without adequate storage facilities. In past years the small crops were sold quickly. Most of a new crop could be delivered to an elevator almost as soon as it was threshed.

Today, there is more wheat piled on the ground in southwest Saskatchewan than anywhere in the west. In an area which last spring seeded about 4,000,000 acres to wheat, there are about 150,000,000 bushels of unsold wheat.

At the 10,000 - acre Matador farm, where 17 service veterans run Canada's biggest co-operative farming project, there are a half-dozen bin-cones of grain on the ground. The farm now has 160,000 bushels of unsold wheat and coarse grains.

"Even before we seeded this year's crop," said one of the veterans, "we figured it would take us three years to sell our grain on a delivery quota of eight bushels an acre."

In Pennant itself, there was grain piled in a neat cone on the lawn of one farmer's town residence.

Just west of Pennant, farmer D. B. Gaunt has 5,800 bushels—worth roughly $6,500—piled in his front yard.

Farther west at Cabri, Thomas Caffrey has 100,000 bushels of spring wheat on his farm. Elmer Halverson has 60,000 bushels he hasn't been able to sell yet.

A community rink was built last year in Cabri—but not for skating or curling, at least for several years. It was leased to an elevator company which used the quonset-type building for storage. The rink now holds 203,000 bushels of wheat.

But for most farmers in the region, there is no such adequate storage. As winter closed in there were crops of grain in nearly every field.

Some farmers have storage bins. Others have used abandoned machine sheds and barns and farmhouses left behind by those who quit.

Those who must pile their wheat on the ground have put it in rings of snow-fencing and bales of straw. But grain buyers argue that it would be better to use nothing, for the bales trap moisture which can ruin stored grain.

Meanwhile, the 1956 crop is beginning to move. But it is durum wheat — the macaroni wheat — which this year sells readily.

The 59 elevators at Cabri have a storage capacity of 890,000 bushels—enough for the town of 500 persons one of the biggest wheat-shipping points on the prairies. Nearly every square foot of that space now is filled with durum.

"Right now, the only thing we can move is durum and flax," said elevator agent Pete Theissen. "It makes it tough on the farmers who have been growing spring wheat."

Escaped Convict, James A. Robbins, Caught at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Two RCMP officers walked quietly into police headquarters Monday and asked that an unidentified prisoner be held for investigation. The suspect turned out to be James Allan Robbins, escaped convict and one of Canada's 10 most-wanted men.

Toronto detectives said they had no idea who they were holding until they identified Robbins through fingerprints. The Mounties had simply asked that he be held while his apartment was searched.

Robbins, described by RCMP as dangerous, climbed over a wall of the penitentiary at St. John's last Jan. 10 while serving a 2½-year term for robbery with violence.

IN ROOMING HOUSE

Superintendent R. F. Karrow of the RCMP said Robbins, who was using the alias of James Parker, was picked up in a West Toronto rooming house. The apartment is next door to one used at a bible-out years ago by Leonard Jackson. Jackson was later hanged for the murder of Detective-Sgt. Edmund Toug of the Toronto police force.

Robbins was to appear in court here today on a charge of escaping custody.

Superintendent Karrow would not name the officers who made the arrest or say how it was made.

However, there were reports that an unidentified person who had seen pictures of the 10 most-wanted men in a magazine last weekend, tipped police.

Mrs. Lillian Tapp, Robbins' landlady, was surprised when she learned the identity of her third-floor roomer.

"He must have been trying to go straight in Toronto," she said. "He was a steady worker and was well liked at the factory where he worked."

WAS THERE MONTHS

Robbins lived at the house for about four months and had worked at a pipe distributing firm here for some time.

Police ran across Robbins at a disorderly party recently but had no idea who he was. They were called to the Tapp home when some guests complained of a noisy gathering. Police asked Robbins to identify himself. He said he was James Parker, chatted with police for a while and then was told to return to his room.

When Robbins' name was added to the most-wanted list, it was reported that he might be in Ontario. Though he was described as dangerous, Supt. Karrow said Robbins offered no resistance.

The mayors of two northern Ontario cities were returned to office Monday in municipal elections.

Mayor Merle E. Dickerson of North Bay was given a fourth consecutive term in office, the first since the late John Ferguson, mayor of North Bay from 1919 to 1922. Dickerson polled 4,332 votes, the largest number ever given to a mayoralty candidate. His only opponent, former Mayor Ced Price, got 2,116.

In Port Arthur, Mrs. Eunice Wishart, one of a handful of woman mayors in Ontario, received 5,332 votes for another term. Ron Wilmot, only opposition candidate, polled 3,982.

Mayor Dickerson's heavy vote was accompanied by an unofficial estimate that 51.2 per cent of the city's eligible electors had cast ballots, one of the highest percentages in a city municipal election this year.

Two Hungarian Doctors Perform Operation on Ship

The physicians—Dr. Ivan Garia and Dr. Ferenc Torok — were among the 237 Hungarian refugees who landed here Sunday night from the liner Arosa Sun.

Dr. Hans Goetze, ship's surgeon on the Arosa Sun, said an Italian crewman, Gino Puntin, 19, was taken ill during the voyage from Europe. Suspecting the seaman's appendix had burst, the surgeon asked the Hungarian doctors to assist him.

"It was fortunate that I did," said Dr. Goetze. "Not only had the appendix burst, but it had twisted around the intestine, presenting a serious complication.

BAD SITUATION

"To make matters worse, the ship was pitching and rolling in violent seas. We asked the captain to heave to while we operated.

"Dr. Garia acted as anaesthetist while Dr. Torok helped me remove the appendixm The whole thing took an hour and a half and was a success."

Under Canadian Medical Association rules, the Hungarian doctors will have to pass certain examinations before they can practice in Canada.

Nature tries to waste nothing, even the spines on Christmas Holly. Notice that holly leaves are prickly only part way up the tree, evidently where protection seems necessary. Higher up, where there is less danger, holly leaves are practically spineless. If you have fresh holly for the holidays, try rooting some in damp sand. Hard to start, but most successful if hormone rooting powder is used.

Canadians Looking For Italian Beauties in Naples Prepare To Move on Without Results

NAPLES (CP)—If there are any more at home like Gina Lollo-brigida, they're indoors.

Canadians eye - searching for Italian beauties report that they have looked in vain so far and are preparing to move on in Rome at the first leave opportunity.

Airmen working for the United National Middle East police force at its rear base here are getting acclimatized quickly as troops do the world over. On their first night in town—Saturday, Nov. 24—many got their bearings by walking around until nearly dawn. Others with less rugged feet hired horse-drawn hacks.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

Few of the airmen or Canadian soldiers passing through on their way to Suez have been in Italy before. But they have caught on in jig time to one rule for for-eigners: Never pay the asking price for anything. The Italians relish bargaining and, needless to say are adept at it. They more leisurely the transaction, the bet-ter they like it.

The first thing that strikes Canadians about Naples, after the beauty of its harbor, is the mad driving of the horn-blowing Ital-ians. Canadians riding in buses of taxis shut their eyes and hope for the best.

The RCAF's 435 Squadron, ferrying UN troops to Suez from Naples, soon decided not to ven-ture downtown with its vehicles. It has hired buses—all squadron members live downtown, about 20 minutes from the airfield—at $35 a day. It figures this will be cheaper in the long run than re-placing dented fenders.

There is a saying here that Naples has six main streets and the rest are alleys. Getting a direction-finding is baffling among the narrows and alleys.

Naples is a city of about 1,500,-000 and nearly everybody seems to be on the streets in the day-time. The sidewalks just can't ac-commodate them and it is not un-common to see two Italians transac-ting a piece of business in the middle of the street as cars hurtle by on either side. There seem to be no traffic laws. There is no speed limit and you can park anywhere.

Naples is an odd combination of splendor and squalor. Huge villas of the wealthy roost on the cliffs overlooking the harbor but in the back alleys one finds harsh pov-erty. On Monday, wash day, one can see hanging in the alleys small, pitiful collections of patched and tattered clothes.

ITALIAN BENEFITS

There are thousands of small shops here and one can spend an interesting afternoon bar-gaining with storekeepers over prints and curios. Naples is well lit at night and there are some good nightclubs and eating places. Canadians find their dollar is worth more than the American. At the bank, the American dollar brings about 625 lire and the Canadian about 635. You can get more in some places but Italian money appears fairly stable now.

One can get a good meal, in-cluding wine, for less than 1,000 lire and a boat ride to Capri costs 750 lire. So far, the Canadians haven't had time to take in Capri, Mount Vesuvius, Pompeii or Rome. But they are laying plans.

Naples also has one of the best opera companies in the world.

But those Italian beauties seem confined to their own houses. And as for the traffic, one Canadian soldier put it this way: "We'll be safer in Egypt."

But this city will be home to some 200 Canadian airmen for perhaps a long time. The squad-ron has been told to prepare for an indefinite stay and airmen's families may be able to join them later. There are villas for rent.

WOULD STOCK WHEAT

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—The Neb-raska Wheat Growers Association has recommended that 500,000,000 bushels of good quality, edible wheat be set aside each year as a United States defence stockpile. The proposal would take the grain completely out of the market. The amount represents about half the current U.S. wheat surplus.

Poultryman Pens Hens Separately, Lay More Eggs

VICTORIA (CP)—A Vancouver Island poultryman is trying to prove that hens penned separat-ely lay more eggs than they would if kept in a flock.

Because a pet hen laid 75 eggs in 81 days, Joe Baker of Mes-chosin rear here has placed more than 1,000 hens in pens of their own. He hopes to get similar re-sults.

"I became convinced of the soundness of the single-pen idea after I brought in some pullets last June," Baker said.

"One bird was too weak to get on the nest. I lifted her up, but she was so afraid of the other birds that I put her in a pen by herself. After two weeks Miranda started to lay and in another 81 days had laid 75 eggs."

Mr. Baker's hens now live in-dividually in his $10,000 single-cage operation.

The wire cages are suspended from the aluminum roof to make them ratproof. The dropping pits below the cages can be cleaned mechanically. The pens measure 8 inches by 16 inches, leaving room for the hen to turn around.

Beneath the feed troughs are the egg baskets. The floors of the cages slope slightly so that eggs will roll out. Each hen's produc-tion has been told to prepare for an indefinite stay and airmen's families may be able to join them later. There are villas for rent.

Few Refugees Return Home

VIENNA (AP)—The camps are overcrowded and the future is un-certain but only about 300 of the 125,000 refugees who have fled Hungary have gone back to com-munism.

And some of the 300 may have returned home only to pick up friends and relatives.

The refugees now arriving in Austria at the rate of 2,500 a day and there is no sign of a letup. They are moving out of Austria somewhat more slowly, and the number of those still in the coun-try is approaching 75,000.

The main cause of disceptient among the refugees is that they have little idea where they will go next. This ignorance is shared by the officials dealing with the prob-lem.

West European countries will have taken over 50,000 by the end of next week. That will be about the saturation point. The United States is taking 21,500 this month and Canada 5,000 or 6,000. That will leave nearly 50,000 of those already here with no place else to go.

"We'll still be moving Hungar-ians out of here two years from now," an official for the Intergov-ernmental Committee for Euro-pean Migration said.

CROWD CHEERS CHOU

CALCUTTA (AP) — Commu-nist China Premier Chou En-lai today got the biggest recep-tion of his 12-day tour of India in Calcutta, his last stop. Thousands of persons lined the road three to six deep on his seven-mile route from the airport to the governor's residence. They cheered and shouted, but remained orderly.

OTHER NAMES

Western grebes, diving birds smaller than loons, are also known as dab-chicks or bell-div-ers.

Lands Plane Using Auto As One Wheel

Caught aloft in a light plane with a damaged landing gear, Rooks brought his craft safely to earth by landing it with one wing atop a moving automobile.

It wasn't a lucky accident. It was planned that way by veteran flyer Ed Hornbaker, from whose company Rooks had rented the plane.

Rooks, who has 160 hours of fly-ing time, had taken off for a rou-tine Sunday spin when the airport control tower radioed that his right landing gear was "dangling useless under the plane."

Hornbaker climbed into a hard-top sedan with two other men and drove out on the field.

CAR AS WHEEL

The tower told Rooks that Horn-baker would try to make the car act as wheels for the plane if Rooks could land with one wing on top of the auto.

Rooks made several passes at the runway to gauge speed and distance. On the fourth pass he set the plane's left wheel on the run-way and the right wing on top of the car. While Hornbaker drove, the car's other two occupants held the struts of the plane so it wouldn't slip off. Gently, Horn-baker applied the brakes and stopped.

"He's some guy," said Rooks of Hornbaker.

Fulton Confident Of Success

OTTAWA (CP)—Davie Fulton said today he thinks he will win the Progressive Conservative lead-ership on the second ballot Fri-day at the party's national convention.

Mr. Fulton, 46-year-old Com-mons member for Kamloops, B.C., reiterated his previous statements that the leadership contest is be-tween himself and John Diefen-baker, MP for Prince Albert, Sask. Thus by inference he ruled out the chances of the third de-clared candidate, Donald Fleming, MP for Toronto Eglinton.

Mr. Fulton said he would be "absolutely opposed" to making a deal with any other party if the Conservatives, after an election required additional support in Par-liament to govern effectively.

The Conservative party differed from the Social Credit party on three main grounds: it did not accept Social Credit monetary pol-icies; it could not agree with "Uni-alonist" tendencies in Social Credit and did not like Social Credit "anti-Semitic tendencies."

Mr. Fulton said he is not brand-ing all Social Crediters as anti-Semitic, but there was such a tendency.

71½ BILLION SURPLUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the record, the United States ended the fiscal year last June 30 with a surplus of $1,625,553,403.68. The treasury department announced the final figure Friday, after tak-ing into account belated reports of receipts and expenditures. The to-tal was nearly $130,000,000 below that estimated last July, when the figure was put at $1,754,000,000.

Plant Equipped With Russian And U.S. Machines Turning Out First Cars Made in China

CHANGCHUN, China (AP)—A 750-acre plant equipped with Russian and American machines is turning out the first motor vehicles ever produced in China.

Changchun's motor vehicle plant—standing beside the ruins of an abandoned Japanese factory—is a striking example of the swelling industry that is transforming this wasteland area of Manchuria into an immense manufacturing belt.

The automotive factory is the initial step toward large-scale industrialization of the city 700 miles north of Peiping.

Industrialization of the province and the establishment of a huge governmental organization to make have transformed Changchun into a bustling metropolis. Only a $30,000, New, Western - designed construction is going on every block. One can walk the streets for half an hour without seeing a building more than five years old.

PEASANTS PROSPEROUS

With the expansion and the motor plant has come prosperity. Local peasants in their padded cotton coats and towering fur hats seem bewildered by the changes around them. They look out of place, as they haggle with the city's newly erected department stores owned by the state, or gawk wonderingly at slick, wide boulevards flanked solid with half-completed buildings.

Before the end of 1956, 1,000 of the six - wheeled trucks will be on Chinese highways. Eventual production, he predicted, will be 30,000 vehicles a year.

The engine for a four - ton open body truck similar in design to a low-priced American truck. Power is provided by a six-cylinder 90-horsepower engine of Soviet design. It has 2,000 of the 409 parts such as glass, tires and gauges coming from factories all over China.

RUSSIAN GUIDANCE

The plant was designed and set up from blueprint to production stages under Russian aid. Eighty Soviet specialists are still working in the plant. Installation of the machines and training of Chinese apprentices were supervised by a crew of 180 Soviet technicians.

"We owe a great deal to the Russians," said Li Tai-tsun, assistant manager. "Never having produced automotive machinery before in China, we had to start from the beginning."

All heavy machinery in the 13 sheds of the bustling factory was made in the Soviet Union. But many of the lighter lathes and gear-cutters are clearly stamped made in the U.S.A.

Surrounding the No. 1 plant is a community of 112 barracks-like dormitories which house a large percentage of the 18,000 employees also their families. A self-sufficient suburb, the project includes even a hospital and a movie.

Staff for the factory has been drawn from factories and schools across the country. The 2,000 workers mostly leave their children in a company-run nursery.

TRAINING SCHOOL

Executives admit the plant is as much a training school as a production unit. Cautionary posters showing the simplest fundamentals of handling machinery are stuck to bulletin boards. A cluster of workers gathers around one of the Russian technicians who lecture while they work.

The plant is roughly equivalent to that in other Manchurian plants. Some 3,000 workers—Changchuan a month for apprentices to 103 cyan about $45- for highly skilled machinists. Merit awards of 25 to 30 per cent of the monthly scale are paid to model workers, and employees with large families are subsidized.

Training classes are intensive and extensive. Most of the men and women employed attend night classes. A network of part time schools provides courses from elementary education to university degrees.

Despite immense production increases in the last three years, China is still far from self-sufficient. Parked outside the Changchun plant were a dozen American cars and a fleet of official Polish sedans for the use of the Russian specialists.

PRINCE'S SON DIES

TOKYO (Reuters)—The foreign ministry announced Monday word has been received from Moscow of the death from acute nephritis in a Soviet detention camp of 41-year-old Fumitaka Konoye, eldest son of pre-war prime minister Prince Fumimaro Konoye. Prince Konoye committed suicide soon after the end of the Second World War.

Russia Got China as 'Gift' Says Duncan

TORONTO (CP)—The policy of refusing to sell atomic bombs was a "regal gift" to the Soviet Union, James S. Duncan, chairman of the Duncan royal commission survey and chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said on Monday.

Such a policy has forced China to rely on Russia for educational assistance, he said, thus helping Russia to set up another conflagration—reached long before the West could. Russia now knows she could hold the lead in the field of technology would help fair to hold the lead in world influence.

Mr. Duncan spoke to a joint luncheon of the Canadian Club of Toronto and the Empire Club of Canada. Text of his speech was released to the press before the delivery.

He said China's population is 35 years may reach 1,000,000,000 more than that of Russia, Europe and the United States and South America combined. And by that time the Asian country would be fully industrialized.

UP TO INDUSTRY

Mr. Duncan asserted that Canadian industry must assume the greater part of responsibility for responsibility in meeting the Russian technological threat. He said that in 1955 $1,750,000,000 during the next 25 years for the enlargement of our industry alone.

This should be done in co-operation with the Industrial Foundation on Education formed at a meeting of business leaders in September at St. Andrews, N.B., Mr. Duncan said.

$11,000 Stolen In Armed Robbery At Mount Brydges

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Slightly more than $11,000 was stolen in the armed robbery of a Mount Brydges branch of a bank, and all of the money has been recovered by London police.

Money found in a shag recovered by police when they arrested two men. Police amounted to more than $11,000, instead of the $6,994 originally counted. A second of the bills Monday revealed.

The branch of the Royal Bank of Canada was held up shortly before the six p.m. closing time by the bandits abducted Arthur Dark of London, stuffed him in the trunk of his car and left him in a field.

Charged are Bandits Augustine Jackson, 26, and John Bergins, 1,8 both of Woodstock. The pair was arrested by "stake-out" officers near Jackson's home on Saturday.

Want Party Name Simplified

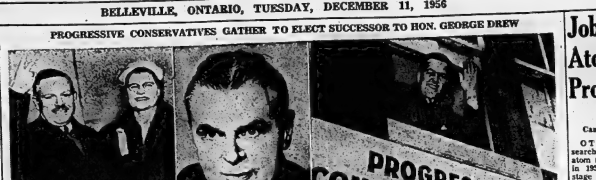
OTTAWA (CP)—A number of grass-roots Conservatives at the Progressive Conservative party today urged that the word "progressive" be dropped from the party name. Veteran members doubted these demands would be met.



Appeals for elimination of the word were among a batch of proposed resolutions considered by the 265-member resolutions and policy committee which began a two-day session in the party's name to the leadership convention opening Wednesday.

The proposals, ranging from greater social benefits for Canadians to the appointment of a permanent representative to the Vatican, will be culled by the committee as it hammers out policies and a platform to be submitted for approval by the general convention.

The committee will be broken down into six sub-committee for detailed scrutiny of the proposed resolutions.

CLASSICAL COLLEGE

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — The Iron Ore Company of Canada has contributed $50,000 to a campaign to raise funds for a Roman Catholic classical college to be built at nearby Hauterive.

By the end of this week, the Progressive Conservative national convention will be in full swing to choose a successor to Hon. George Drew, who resigned as leader of the federal party. Three candidates are contesting the leadership and each has his section of supporters among the convention delegates. Donald Fleming, Toronto, shown left with his wife, has a number of Quebec votes assured. John Diefenbaker, centre, of Prince Albert, Sask., the strongest candidate and may win on the first ballot. E. Dave Barrett, right, Kamloops, B.C., has conducted a vigorous campaign for support, and says the contest is between him and Diefenbaker. (Central Press Canadian).

Changes in Plans Kept Many off Downed Plane

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dramatic stories of fateful changes in plans unfolded as the rugged mountains of British Columbia were searched for a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star missing since Sunday night with 62 aboard.

Stories of family heartache also came out: children might be unplanned, an entire family wiped out, an expectant mother's husband aloone.

This should be done in co-operation with the Industrial Foundation on Education formed at a meeting of business leaders in September at St. Andrews, N.B., Mr. Duncan said.

Football fans feared for their outstanding quarterback Jackie Parker of Saskatchewan Roughriders; one from Winnipeg Blue Bombers; another for Edmonton Eskimos who had planned to catch the flight but changed their plans to cover earlier.

Gord Sturtridge, 27, and Mac Becket, 27, of Riders and Calvin Jones, 23, of Bombers played for the west team Saturday in the East-West all-star game at Vancouver. Roy Stevens, 24, and Mario McKamey, 28, of Riders, were spectators.

LEFT CHILDREN

Sturtridge and his wife, Mildred, both of Winnipeg, left three children at home when they went to the game. Mrs. Sturtridge was with her husband on the plane before parting. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alford, left Winnipeg Monday-for Regina to care for their three grandchildren, Vicky, 6, Valerie, 3, and Gordon Jr., 15 months.

Mrs. Becket, expecting a child before Christmas, stayed in Regina with her husband went to the game. She recalled that friends had warned her husband not to break a leg so he'd be unfit for a Christmas party.

"His mother and I are both praying that Mario and all the passengers are safe," Mrs. Stevens said. "He's found safe," she said.

From Winnipeg came a fateful change in plans. Captain of the 1955 University of Iowa team, Mario McKamey had flown to Vancouver because his pilot's licence expired Sunday night's flight that disappeared.

GOT AWAY EARLIER

In Edmonton, fate turned the tables the other way. Frankie Anderson, all-star defensive end with Edmonton Eskimos who played Saturday, said he had been scheduled to leave Edmonton, but planned to take ill-fated flight that managed to get away earlier.

Among those mentioned by Anderson was also Jackie Parker, Eskimo president M. I. (Moe) Lederman.

Three other dramatic stories came to light:

Miss D. Beernaerts, 19, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Beernaerts of St. Boniface, Man., went to Regina for week in September. Sunday night she was flying home for the funeral of her father, who died from a heart attack.

FAMILY WIPED OUT

Seventeen Calgarians, including an entire family of four, were aboard. Alderman 42) and their two children, Patrick, 12, and Susanne, 8.

Mrs. N. J. Rose of Calgary had spent a month in Sask Edmonton with three sisters to recover from brief over the death of her husband. She was on the plane home with a sister, Mrs. L. C. Burt, also a widow, of Sun Francisco, vention.

An 18-year-old Chinese boy who arrived in Canada two days ago from Hong Kong was another passenger. Wong Yuen Wah was on his way to Regina to meet his mother and three sisters.

R. S. Stratton of Los Angeles, director of trade relations with the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, was a passenger. An expert on teletypewriter news transmission, he travelled extensively in Canada for the linotype company.

Canadian Rubber Footwear Industry Asks for Tariff Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadianvas rubber footwear industry today asked the tariff board to find that higher tariff duties are necessary against the threat of growing imports of rubber footwear and rubber-soled canvas shoes from low-wage countries.

The request was included in a 35-page brief to the board which has been asked by Finance Minister Harris to make a fact-finding investigation—but not a recommendation—of the state of the industry in Canada.

The industry's brief said that imports of rubber-soled canvas shoes from low-wage Asiatic countries have increased in the last five years to about 60 per cent of the total Canadian market, and that imports of rubber footwear doubled in the last two years to 11.2 per cent of the country's market.

The brief said there is every indication that the rate of growth of rubber footwear imports will continue at an accelerated pace paralleling the rapid increase of canvas shoe imports.

The brief added that Canadian exports of canvas and waterproof rubber footwear, previously about one-third of the Canadian output, have been virtually wiped out by overseas competition.

The $25,000,000 Canadian rubber footwear industry, centred in Ontario and Quebec, asked the government to receive a 25 per cent duty under the British preferential tariff on rubber footwear. This duty was eliminated in 1932. The British preferential tariff on canvas shoes with rubber soles now is 20 per cent.

It asked in its brief that the value for duty purposes of rubber and canvas footwear be established under the British preferential tariff be fixed at levels having a "reasonable relationship" to the average all-in costs of the three lowest cost Canadian producers.

The brief also suggested the government should negotiate agreements with the government of India and Pakistan, with whom other British Commonwealth countries have short and long-term contracts for voluntary limit on exports to Canada.

The most-favored-nation tariff is 22½ per cent on canvas shoes and 22½ per cent on rubber boots and shoes. The general tariff is 40 per cent on canvas shoes and 25 per cent on rubber footwear.

The industry, which was established in Canada in the 1840s, now employs about 5,000 workers, compared with 7,000 in the peak year of 1947.

The brief said the industry includes seven plants owned by six companies. They are:

The Acton Rubber Limited, Acton Vale, Que.; the British Rubber Co. Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.; Dominion Rubber Co. Ltd., Granby, Que.; Dominion Rubber Co. Ltd., St. Hyacinthe, Que., and Kitchener, Ont.; Bata Shoe Company of Canada Ltd., Batawa, Ont., and Drummon. Rubber Co. Ltd., Kitchener.

Kenora Flourishes on Heavy Tourist Trade, Pulp, Paper

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—Although it was in the gold-mining business before the great gold rush to the Yukon, this town now is also a new mining hoge aimed at the last-outdoor needs of the Precambrian Shield.

Ontario's largest urban centre west of the Lakehead, and the hub of a transportation system spanning eastern and western Canada, Kenora flourishes on $3,000,000 American tourist trade and a growing pulp and paper industry.

But its future in this rocky wilderness is tied in with a potential mining boom, says Fred Hilliard, chairman of the Ontario Winnipeg Tribune. The 1890 - 91 gold rush brought the first railway wale of the rush to the Yukon left the town to rely on a railway lumber boom.

Today Kenora looks to the north and the nickel, copper and iron pot-ntial of the Pre-Cambrian belt for a revival of a mining boom.

Kenora is the centre of road, rail and air transport with the specialized government and financial institutions and an embryonic labor pool to expand its equipment as a trading centre. Along with the tourist trade and the timber industry the Lake of the Woods and the Winnipeg River basin.

Development of mineral, power and forest resources of northwestern Ontario has brought an increasing volume of air traffic both for the float-equipped planes of the Lake of the Woods and the land base east of town. About 8,000,000 pounds of freight was carried last year by the two companies, Ontario Central Air Lines and Parsons Airways, along with thousands of passengers.

Main air traffic no longer is tourist travel. The major job now is moving prospectors, miners, geologists, power and forestry workers and their supplies and equipment.

A thriving centre on the CPR and Kenora is an air service line just stop-over. But it is more than that.

The Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company mill here employs more than 900 workers. A $17,000,000 plant expansion is being completed which will increase by 100,000 tons a year pulp production for markets in Manitoba, Ontario and mid-western American states.

There are six other sawmill operations in and around Kenora. Ontario - Minnesota, and several small portable mills. Lumber production last year totalled about 2,500,000 board feet.

What the tourist trade brings here is hard to estimate, but American tourists alone spend more than $3,000,000. Attracted by the area's 1,500 lakes, wooded scenery, more and more tourists are finding their way to this northwestern Ontario centre. This year's total, including hunters, is expected to be 10 per cent higher than 1955.

Commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods provides a living for close to 40 families and two fish processors here. About 1,500,000 pounds of fish a year, mainly pickerel, whitefish, jackfish and lake trout.

Since 1946 the population of the town has increased to 9,813 from 7,700. Under the impetus of a booming tourist business, expansion in the paper mill and revived interest in mining, residents are certain that the future is bright.

UN Considers Stinging Motion Against Russia

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations today planned to consider further resolutions against Russia and an amendment which would remove much of the veto.

If the 11-power resolution is approved in its original form, Russia would stand condemned by the UN for her intervention in Hungarian situation. This is the strongest action the UN can take short of sending armed forces against a member country.

The Red Russian delegation had before it an amendment proposed by Indonesia and India's V. K. Krishna Menon and also supported by Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia. This would delete the reference to condemnation and the reference to the harsher language of the resolution, but support the calling for the withdrawal of Russian troops, a cessation of Soviet intervention and recognition of the rights of the Hungarian people.

Some delegates, particularly those of Cuba, have said even the original resolution is not tough enough. Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez Portuondo said he could not join in co-sponsoring the resolution because it was only a "watered-down repetition" of previous resolutions.

Cuba felt, he said, that the resolution should include a firm warning to Russia that if she refused to get out UN sho would run the risk of sanctions. It the power of unanimity of emergency resolutions, he said, Cuba will propose such a resolution "after a brief pause."

Rech Pinard, acting head of the Canadian delegation, said that if order exists in Hungary as some Communist delegates insist, it "is the order of the grave."

CANADIAN REACTION

Pinard, secretary of state, said Canada has a strong revulsion of feeling in my country against the Soviet intervention.

Delegates could not help but be impressed with the "almost unanimous striving by the Hungarian youth, after a decade of Communist indoctrination, for national freedom and independence," he said. "The feeling found in Hungary alone "but appears to be present in the other countries behind the Soviet bloc."

"The forward march of Hungary Freedom" cannot be "long interrupted and delayed; it can not be stopped."

ARRIVES FOR TALKS

LONDON (Reuters) — Singapore Chief Minister Lim Yew Hock arrived in London Monday night for talks tomorrow with the crown colony's constitutional future. Specifically, he arrived to discuss with the colonial office by great Singapore a certain measure of control over its internal security measures and hence control over its own internal policies.

CANANOQUE (CP) — Town council and the police and fire departments have spent the last two weeks trying to track down gremlins in the 50-year-old clock in the municipal tower. But last night the clock has stopped at 5:40 p.m. No one knows why.

Job of Building Experimental Atomic Power Plant to Produce Electricity Begun

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's search for a way to harness the atom for industrial uses advanced in 1956 from the drawing-board stage to the actual job of building an experimental atomic power plant to produce electricity.

Ground was broken at the site of the plant near the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's Des Joachims generating station on the Ottawa River, 150 miles northwest of Ottawa. Canadian manufacturers started fabricating the thousands of components which will go into the plant's atomic reactor which will produce steam to drive electric generators. The year also saw:

1. Start of construction of the experimental atomic energy reactor which Canada is helping India to build with Colombo plan funds.

2. Near-completion of NRU, the new $50,000,000 experimental reactor being built by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic project.

3. A decision to expand the Port Hope, Ont., uranium refining plant of Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. to produce uranium metal by early next year.

4. Award of a contract to a private company to manufacture uranium fuel rods from metal from the River from metal produced at Port Hope.

These arrangements expected to enable all Canadian companies helping construct the new experiments - owned Eldorado Company at special premium prices in with total capital and pre-production costs.

BIG ADVANCE

But even as work started on the Canadian nuclear power plant, Canadian scientists were studying the initial design of a plant in which this country's first economic atomic power station.

The Des Joachims plant, to be known as Nuclear Power Demonstration, will produce electricity economically when it goes into operation early in 1962. However, it is expected to give scientists information they need to design and build large atomic power stations able to produce power in connection with coal - burning plants.

Chalk River scientists are also working on a large-scale power station the ideas incorporated in the design of NPD. Because of the bigger station will be altered as information becomes available from the experimental operation of NPD.

The demonstration plant is being built jointly, by Atomic Energy of Canada, Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and Canadian General Electric at a cost of about $14,500,000. It is expected to produce 20,000 kilowatts of electric power.

PREPARING SITE

Work at the site has been confined this year to grading and clearing, done by Ontario Hydro which will build the conventional part of the plant—the buildings, turbines and electrical generators. Construction of the buildings will start next spring.

The reactor is being built by Canadian General Electric at its Peterborough, Ont., plant while Atomic Energy of Canada is providing the nuclear instruments.

Research also is being conducted at Chalk River on the possibility of using nuclear energy power plants for the far north. They would be used for mining operations and for industrial purposes in remote areas where the cost of fuel is high. One study makes electricity-generating stations uneconomical.

The NRU reactor at Chalk River, expected to be one of the most powerful atomic plants in the free world, likely will be operating by the end of the year. It will have a power of 200,000 kilowatts, five times that of the famed NRX reactor which has been in operation at Chalk River since 1947.

The NRU reactor will be similar in design to NRX. It will cost about $14,000,000 with Canada paying $7,500,000 and is expected to start operating in mid-1958.

EYE TO FUTURE

The metal - producing plant at Port Hope is being expanded with a capacity to meet Canada's present uranium requirements and the needs for the next five years.

The refinery at present produces uranium concentrates for sale to the United States Atomic Energy Commission and former sales also carried in the acid-blending of lake brief writer Victor Hurd, Judge Willard B. Herlands said the time was needed to let public emotions simmer down, so the defendants could get a fair trial.

TRIAL POSTPONED

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge today postponed until next spring the trial of racketeer Frank Costello and three others accused in the acid-blinding of labor brief writer Victor Hurd. Judge Herlands said the time was needed to let public emotions simmer down, so the defendants could get a fair trial.

United Nations Will Pay Cost of Clearing Canal

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United Nations will pay the cost of clearing the blocked Suez Canal, the United Nations expert in charge of the project said today.

Lt.-Gen. Raymond Wheeler added that British salvage equipment would be used "if it is appropriate." He said British crews would participate in the project.

The American general's statement was a jar of confidence cleared up two of the most disputed issues between Egypt and the international waterway. There have been Egyptian demands for British and French crews out of the zone of the canal.

The Soviet Union, India and several Latin American countries have expressed strong reservations about bearing any part of the cost of canal clearance. V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian minister without portfolio, told the General Assembly that India and the Soviet Union were "going to indemnify the clearance, it will be underwriting aggression."

MAY USE EQUIPMENT

Wheeler, who left Cairo for Port Said after a brief conference, declared: "I propose to examine British equipment under there, and if it is appropriate, I plan to keep it without the crews."

He said he could not say how much the clearance would be cleared. It would take 10 days to make a reliable survey.

He added that a one-way traffic channel will be opened in the near future in the meantime.

Work on the clearance would start when no military traffic were withdrawn from Port Said.

"Why, don't you like it either?"

"Made in Canada" for Santa's Pack

In the process of helping Santa to bring Johnny or Susie their heart's desire, Canada has built up a toy industry of over $40,000,000 a year since the end of the war. Appealing to children can be an uncertain matter but Canadian made toys are a success as far away as The U.K., Hong Kong, South America and South Africa.

The latest materials and modern mechanics combine to make today's doll as much like its owner as possible. It's a long way from the clay figures of ancient Greece to the new models with eyes that can roll or cry real tears besides closing in sleep. Lifelike corneas, stencilled on plastic, are carefully fitted into the eye sockets.

Getting a rosy complexion on properly is as delicate an operation as it is with Mother. The only difference is that the doll's head must be upside down so that the eyes are shut and the colouring does not spill into them.

Contributing to the mushroom growth of the industry is the fact that the quality, durability and play value of each toy is carefully thought out and tested in the designing room before quantity manufacturing starts.

Known to every civilization, the doll is just about the oldest toy in the world and has been made in nearly everything from the unbreakable plastics of today to ivory, wax, china, apples, beads and rawhide.

The "Made in Canada" label will be carried in Santa's pack on more toys than ever this year from crib companions, like the ever-popular Teddy, to trains, planes, and tea sets for the older child.

Dolly's hair is now made of saran, "rooted" in strand by strand, and can be washed and styled in the latest mode as often as its lucky little owner desires.

STIRLING

Christmas Gifts Mark W.I. Meeting

STIRLING — The home of Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Mill Street, in Stirling, was gaily decorated on December 6th for the Christmas meeting of River Valley Women's Institute. The windows and doorways were hung with wreaths, a special greeting surrounded the fireplace and a lighted tree was used for the children's gifts.

In the hallway were two tubs trimmed in Christmas crepe paper were deposited as they arrived. The meeting was held in this Christmas setting with 23 members, two visitors and a family of children in attendance.

Mrs. Roy Bush presided and opened with "Silent Night," with Mrs. Harry Mosier presiding at the piano. The usual reports were read and messages of thanks from several folk who had been remembered during the month of November, while other ladies voiced personal thanks at this time.

The secretary, Mrs. Thomas Hanna, tendered her resignation as she has accepted a position and was unable to attend the meetings. The assistant secretary, Mrs. J. R. Donohoe, was appointed to that office.

The president gave a brief Christmas message and stressed the privilege of gathering for meetings and hoped each member would enjoy the Christmas season.

Mrs. Ed Heasman reported $22 from the three card parties held in November. The coffee and prizes were donated.

A vote of thanks was tendered the conveners, Mrs. Heasman and Mrs. John Kane.

EUCHRE PARTIES

There will be two euchre parties in December convened by Mrs. Ross Bush and Mrs. Morley Richardson. A turkey donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kent, will go to some lucky person on December 14th. New cards have been ordered.

At the January meeting there is to be an exhibit of a well-balanced school lunch to make today's children better citizens of tomorrow. Prizes will be given.

Several items of business were discussed. Miss Marion Carlisle gave a report of the disposal of the November donation of food products.

The president read a poem, "It Is Good To Be Remembered."

The Link Institute in England forwarded six pounds of chocolates from a local industry at Abbott's Leigh as a special gift to the members of River Valley W.I. The friendship secretary, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, equally divided them into 32 parcels and these were distributed at the meeting in response to roll call.

The absent members will each receive their parcel of chocolates via some member who was in attendance. This gift gave the Christmas party a special air of festivity.

Mrs. Don Donohoe presided over the Christmas program and read a selection re "The Glorious Event." Various Christmas carols were sung which included "Joy to the World," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Mrs. Ed Heasman read a poem entitled "The First Christmas Eve;" the convener read a story which stressed: "A Gift to Him;" Mrs. Don McIntosh sang, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas;" Mrs. Vernon Harry read as a reading based on "What does the 'Day' mean to you?"

Four children delighted with short Christmas selections. They were Bobby McIntosh, Jean Donohoe, Jane Bush and Connie Donohoe. The program closed with "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The children then each drew a wrapped parcel from underneath the tree and the adults received their exchange gifts through a "musical pie" arrangement.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe voiced thanks from England and the Christmas for hospitality, program, chocolates refreshments which would follow.

The hostess and lunch committee served sandwiches, cookies, jellies, relishes, home-made candy, grapes and nuts and the group enjoyed a delightful social half hour.

All arrived home safely despite the dense fog which enveloped the village and countryside and made travelling a bit dangerous.

Britain Granted Billion Credit By Monetary Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain has been extended credits of $1,300,000,000 by the International Monetary Fund to help her ride out a financial storm brought on primarily by the Middle East crisis.

The action was announced Monday night by the 60-country fund, created in 1947 to help governments caught in such situations to maintain stable currencies.

Of the credit advanced, $561,740,000 is designed to add to Britain's monetary reserves, which have sunk below the two-billion dollar figure regarded by the London government as a minimum for safe financial dealings.

The additional $738,530,000 was made available upon request of the British government at any time within the next 12 months.

Britain will be charged from 2 to 3 per cent interest on the credits, depending on when she repays the money advanced.

ACTION ANTICIPATED

In anticipation of the action, the United States treasury announced last Friday that it would borrow $1,000,000,000 on short-term bills next month.

Some of the U.S. subscription to the monetary fund is in the form of gold, and some is in the form of treasury notes which bear no interest. The granting of credit to Britain means that the fund will call on the U.S. to provide dollars to match some of the notes. These dollars will then be placed at "the immediate disposal" of London to meet current bills.

Britain has been hard pressed in the wake of her joint intervention with France of the Suez Canal area in Egypt. In addition to the direct expense of that military venture, she faces for some time greatly increased outlays for oil as a result of the blocking of the canal and a diminished flow of petroleum from mid-eastern fields.

From London Reuters news agency reported that the transaction demonstrates Britain's determination to defend the pound and gives her ample means to foil those who have been speculating against it.

As it is the United States treasury that has to find the dollars for the fund, the transaction unmistakably implies that Washington regards the defence of sterling as a matter of world importance.

JOHNSTOWN — Johnstown church held Sunday School on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. and church at 3 p.m. with Rev. G. A. Puttenham in charge. His topic was "For God So Loved the World That He Gave His Only Begotten Son." "Whatever good there is in the world it did not just happen that way, but came from God. He had to redeem the world from evil, so in the fulness of time God sent His Son. It was through God's love for man, who, even through being sinful and hateful to His fellow man, in many ways, God loves still, for He is love. God gave a most personal gift, His own Son.

"The cross is central to the gift of God, for without it, God's gift would be meaningless.

"Some people think this world is evil and only fit to be destroyed," but Mr. Puttenham does not think that God feels that way. "We have been put in this world to struggle and work to make us stronger—and better people.

"How can we better celebrate this Christmas season than through missions and helping others? How can we measure our response to Him after giving His own Son. God demands we give ourselves to Him in return."

AIR FLOTILLA ORGANIZED TO SEARCH FOR NORTH STAR

Within a few hours after a TCA North Star had taken off at Vancouver and flown over the city, as shown here, little hope was held for the 61 persons aboard. A radio message was received at Hope, B.C., and the pilot radioed that he was turning back. The big ship was on a trans-Canada flight with Montreal as its final destination.

After the pilot, Capt. J. A. Clarke, had radioed to Vancouver that the ship had developed engine trouble, it was seen briefly on the radar screen, then vanished. The biggest air-search flotilla in B.C. history was immediately organized with dozens of RCAF and private planes criss-crossing the mountainous area where the plane could have come down. ## 420 HOUSEKEEPING

Mr. Howe said Monday night that the UN, acting on the recommendation of UNEF commander Maj-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, has requested additional Canadian maintenance, support and communications personnel.

"... The UN has authorized the dispatch by Canada of a signals squadron of approximately 150 all ranks, a RCEME workshop of about 150 persons and two transport platoons of 120 all ranks."

These army troops, with their vehicles and equipment, will be dispatched aboard the Magnificent before the end of this month, Mr. Howe said.

The signallers are to be drawn from the signals regiment at Camp Borden, Ont. The RCEME and transport men will come from various detachments across the country. Officials said they will be gathered and shipped to Halifax in a few weeks. They may embark just before Christmas. The sea trip to Egypt will take about 10 days.

Mr. Howe explained that the reason the Queen's Own are not being shipped is because apparently Canada's best role is to supply support elements.

"The number of these specialists to be provided by Canada now has reached the point where we are about in balance, so far as numbers are concerned, with the other contributing nations.

"It is desirable from the UN point of view to preserve this balance and as a result it now appears doubtful whether an infantry unit will be required from Canada."

Reports have persisted that the real reason the Queen's Own is not being sent is because of objections by Premier Nasser of Egypt to the presence of Canadian combatant troops on Egyptian soil.

One of his objections is said to be based on the fact that uniforms of Canadian troops appear similar to those of the United Kingdom.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said during the emergency session of Parliament Nov. 26-29 that Egyptian authorities had been worried that Canadian troops might be mistaken for British troops and that incidents might develop.

But he maintained that the Canadian government is not taking orders from Egypt.

He said he told the UN advisory committee that while every effort should be made to get Egypt's co-operation in the functioning of the force, this did not mean Egypt or any other government "can determine by its own decision where the force is to operate, how it is to operate or when it must leave."

Little Benny's Notebook

I answered the doorbell and it was a kind of a funny looking guy without a hat, saying, Tell your mother I'd like to talk to her.

Okay, I said, and I went back to the kitchin and told ma, and she said, How old is he?

He didn't tell me, I said, and ma said, I mean is he still young enough to say he's still going to school?

Sure, he's plenty young enough for that, I said, and ma said, Oh dear, he wants to sell me magazine subscriptions to pay his way through college.

He didn't say so, ma, I said, and ma said, He's saying that for me. What do does he look like? she said.

He's funny looking, with thick glasses, and his ears stick out and he keeps twisting his nose as if he's libel to blow it any minute, I said, and ma said, I better see him.

And she went to the frunt door, saying, Now young man, before we start I want you to understand that I am very busy. Are you selling magazine subscriptions for any persoonel reason? she said.

Here are my credentials, right here, the man said, and ma said, I am sure they are, but I already subscribe to more magazines than I reed, and I'm patiently waiting for others that show no intention of coming. So thank you very much and goodbye now, she said.

And she quick shut the door, and I said, O, ma, why did you have to know exactly how he looked?

Because if he had been a soulful young many with wavy hair I would have sent you right back to tell him I was busy, but this was an ideal opportunity to prove to myself that I have the firmness and the will power to stand my ground after I've made up my mind to refuse, ma said.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

KINGSTON TONIGHT

Tonight, the Kingston CKLC's, at present in the cellar of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" loop, will be the guests of the McFarlands in Memorial Arena. The Macs have had a decided edge on the Kingston club thus far in the race, but you never can tell when the figurative worm will turn. The Macs got one of those lucksies, breakless efforts off their chests the other night against Whitby—and it had to be the night the Dunnies played here for the Guidelineers to come up with an exhibition like that.

They had a strenuous workout in Wajt Grow's igloo Sunday and they'll tell us the score laid down the letters of the law to the boys. Cornwall, with some additional help especially Larry Kwong, has worked itself to a second place tie with the Macs after edging the starry Ottawa Canadiens in Verdun on Sunday for the second loss of the youngsters' senior "A" league campaign. Tonight the McFarlands will be out to get back some of their scoring power at the expense of the CKLC's and regain undisputed possession of the second rung.

The Kingston management, it appears, is not very happy over the "blasts" given the CKLC's by the Whitby mentor Wren Blair. Pete Fowler, writing in the Whig Standard said, "it is just about time the senior "A" division stopped and took stock of themselves. Bitter dissension between team management, particularly the Whitby Dunlops and the Kingston CKLC's and Cornwall Lumber Kings has plagued the loop since its inception, this past fall."

Fowler says: "Blair is fast losing the respect of many observers through his untimely and frequently unfounded criticism of the local senior "A" aggregation. Already this season he has been involved in a number of disputes with sports writers in other Eastern senior "A" cities. For they are the only ones who can answer back through their own newspaper columns."

He quotes Reg Walton, manager of the CKCL's as saying: "I don't think Blair should be allowed to write a sports column and still be connected with the Whitby team . .. He can and does use the column to blast almost every other team in the league. Through his continual tirades he has caused great dissention throughout the group. "I think he should be asked to drop his column or sever his connection with the Whitby team. He is the only one in the league who can write a column against the other teams. The rest of us have to rely on our local newspapers to reply and usually do not wish to do so."

There was a slightly different note out west during the football season just ended. It seems coach Clem Crowe was at daggers drawn with the sports writers of the Vancouver Sun and the Vancouver Province for alleged "interference." So the Lions' coach wrote himself a parody on "Home on the Range," which naturally was shot through with high glee by the sports-writers of other western dailies. It goes like this:

"O give me a team
That will stay on the beam,
With the quarterback calling the plays;
But the way it is done, it is coached by the Sun
And the Province on alternate days.
They select all the line—
If we win, that is fine;
But in losing they hand me the blame.
They pick out the backs,
These journalist hacks
Then expect me to win every game."

CONTAGIOUS

It seems that the virus non-attendance which has struck the Northern Ontario senior clubs a telling blow, is extending down into our neck of the woods. Cornwall last week made an appeal for more box office support in order to make ends meet. — and now comes Pembroke with a tale of financial woe.

A financial report read at a meeting of the Lumber Kings management the other night revealed the club to be $2,226.07 in the "red" after operating ten home games. Expenditures were $18,949.05, while receipts amounted to $15,822. Explaining the poor box office job to Pedder, said was stated six players would forego a week's pay to help matters. It was stated 2,000 customers were needed at home games to keep the team out of the loss column.

Beliveau Tops Point-Getters With Howe Scoring Most Goals; Boom-Boom Celebrates Return

MONTREAL (CP) — The goal-keepers gave little away last week in the National Hockey League—Toronto and New York played the season's first scoreless tie among other things — but the big men continued to pot their points in the scoring race.

In league standings, it was a same-again week, with Boston shaking loose a bit to gain another point lead over Detroit, although Montreal quickened its pursuit in third place.

Jean Beliveau scored his 11th goal and his 24th and 25th assists for 36 points and a seven-point edge on those Detroit partners in goal production, Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe. Each has 29 points and Howe took over the most-goals section by scoring two for a total of 15. Lindsay had three assists

Linemate Norm Ullman moved past the pointless Bert Olmstead of Montreal Canadiens to tie second place with 27 points. Olmstead has 23.

CARRYING LOAD

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, standing in for the injured Montreal big brother Maurice, had three points and now has 22 points, about the same total as Montreal defenceman Doug Harvey.

Beliveau had three assists in the league.

But the week's best scoring progress belonged to Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. The Montreal winger celebrated his return following elbow surgery with five points and bounded from 34th listing to 21st.

It was a good week for Boston, all in all, as the Bruins split two games with Detroit and managed a draw with Montreal Canadiens, who male up two points on the league leaders. Boston has 35 points, Detroit 32 and Montreal 31. Montreal has two and gaining the one draw. Detroit missed a chance to overtake Boston by losing twice.

RANGERS GAIN ON LEAFS

New York, in fourth spot with 23 points, drew away from Toronto by a point with two late and a victory in three games. Toronto lost one, won one and tied one.

For Chicago, fast approaching the point of no return with only 12 points, it was another winless week. It drew one game of three.

Montreal goalie Jacques Plante's five shutouts remain the league's best mark. Lorne (Gump) Worsley of New York and Toronto's Ed Chadwick picked up their third each in the fourth goose- egg against each other. Montreal—Plante and Henry McNeil—took over the fewest-goals-allowed lead at 55, displacing Glenn Hall of Detroit who slipped to third behind Boston's Terry Sawchuk.

East-West Stars Were Insured For $40,000

TOONTO (CP) — All football players who participated in Saturday's Shrine all-star game at Vancouver were insured for $40,000 each by the Continental Casualty Co. a company official said Monday.

Three of the players are feared lost with 39 other persons aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane believed down 100 miles east of Vancouver.

Ronald H. Story, chief underwriter for the company, said the policy, covering all players in the game for accidental death or dismemberment, also protected players during travel to and from Vancouver.

The three all-star players feared lost are Mel Becket and Gordon Sturtridge, both of Saskatchewan Roughriders, and Calvin Jones of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Beneficiaries on the insurance policies are the Shriners organization in Vancouver and the players' respective clubs. Each would receive $20,000 for each player in the event of death.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Soo Indians of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A southern group have postponed their game with Soo Greyhounds scheduled for this Wednesday. The game will be played the following night.

Late Wednesday night shopping in the Michigan city was listed as the reason for the change.

Olympic Village Fast Becoming Ghost Town

When the last plane of the night, a chartered airliner carrying 64 Americans, soared off, it left only about 1,000 athletes and officials in the village which once housed 4,560.

By Wednesday, the remaining group will be down to 450, including most of the 46 Hungarians who have decided not to go home.

Spokesmen at the village said this core is likely to remain behind until after Christmas because of the difficult transportation situation.

Airline officials said that some 400 are also besieging all airlines for a connection out of here, but there is little likelihood of the jam easing before Jan. 7.

The Hungarians, guarded closely by Australian security police, have received many offers of hospitality, but a spokesman for the Hungarian association here said the athletes mainly want to go to the United States.

Meanwhile the job of transforming the main Olympic stadium for its role as the Melbourne Cricket Grounds got under way today. Workmen ripped up the all-weather track which cost $36,000 and placed the surface soil and cinders in bags for storage.

Dutchies Minors Break off With Canadiens

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener Minor Hockey Association has severed all connection with Montreal Canadiens professional hockey organization, it was reported Monday.

The KMHA, which sponsors Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior B series, said it learned some months ago that a connection which should had been terminated a year ago, still existed. Investigation showed the KMHA had been registered with the National Hockey League last spring as a Canadien-sponsored group through Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec League, with which the Canucks were affiliated previously.

British 'Barbarians' Will Tour Canada to Promote Rugby

LONDON (CP) — A band of sporting missionaries somewhat inappropriately called "the Barbarians" goes to Canada next April to preach the gospel of English-style rugby football.

In the British view Canada is, rugger-wise, a somewhat heathen country, showing little interest or reference for an off-shoot brand of rugby closely patterned on the American game of football instead of the traditional English public-school variety.

So when a group of British Columbians recently decided to invite an English rugger team to the west coast for a series of games next spring, British enthusiasts jumped at the chance. Selection of the Barbarians was almost automatic.

It was 66 years ago that the late W. P. Carpmael, an outstanding player in his day, conceived the idea of a touring rugby club that would carry the game's flag far and wide, playing the game in its most sporting sense without caring much about the result.

EXCLUSIVE CLUB

Out of his idea came the Barbarians, now rated one of the most exclusive sports clubs in Britain. The club has no clubhouse and no home ground. No membership fee is asked, but membership is by invitation only. The most important club rule reads: "To be a good player and a good sportsman is the only qualification for membership."

"We look on the tour as a wonderful opportunity to do missionary work in Canada on behalf of the game as played in Britain," says Dr. Ray Gravell, Welsh rugger, club president.

Because rugger games in Canada rarely attract large crowds, British rugby unions are underwriting half the cost of the tour. There will be no hotel bills, the Barbarians staying, instead, at the homes of Canadian players and officials.

"The Barbarians have always had a reputation for playing a wide-open, crowd-pleasing game," says Dr. Hughes. "And this is the style of play we will show Canadian fans."

In accepting the Canadian invitation, the Barbarians are breaking a tradition of some 40 year's standing. This is that the club plays only six games a year — at Christmas against Leicester; another in March against East Midlands and four at Easter against Welsh teams.

FLYING OVER

Next spring the Barbarians will play the usual four games in Wales, then leave immediately by air for a game in Toronto on April 27.

"We will also play three or four games in British Columbia," said Dr. Hughes. "We hope to have three games in Vancouver and one in Victoria. We will also play a game in Montreal—the exact date isn't known yet—but it will probably follow the games in B.C.

President Hughes says the Barbarians will carry 20 men on the tour, an unusually small number for a game in which teams play 15-a-side.

Two veteran Barbarians who may be included in the side are G.M. Griffiths, a 26-year-old centre and Cliff Morgan, at 26 the holder of 11 Welsh international caps and a brilliant attacking player.

'Rapid Robert' Feller Retires After 21 Years With Indians

CHICAGO (AP) —Bob Feller, the Van Meter, Iowa, plowboy who grew up to become the major league strikeout king and one of baseball's greatest of all pitchers, has decided to retire from active service after 21 years with Cleveland Indians.

A friend of Feller's advised the Associated Press today that the former fireballing righthander, who turned 38 last month, told him he has just about made up his mind to retire from the player ranks and accept an offer of a job in the Indians' front office.

Feller now is attending a meeting in New Orleans of the Baseball Players' Association of which he is president. He is expected to make his retirement announcement within a week or 10 days.

In a phone conversation with the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Feller said he hadn't made up his mind yet. "I will return to Cleveland later this week and plan to confer with Hank Greenberg before Christmas," he said. "I hope to reach a decision at that time."

"Bob had his mind pretty well made up when I talked to him," Feller's friend said. "At first he was determined to continue on the active list, if not with the Indians then with another big league club. Now I believe he is convinced he would be crazy to hang on."

Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg, who had offered the front office job to Feller, said he had received no word from the former Indian ace who for the first time in his brilliant career last season failed to win a game after racking up 266 triumphs against 162 defeats.

"I certainly hope it's true," Greenberg declared. "I talked with him a month ago and he told me he would let me know when he made up his mind. I haven't heard from him since."

Greenberg said he had outlined no specific duties to Feller when he offered to promote him to the front office.

"I offered him the choice of taking his release and pitching for some other club or accepting a job with us in the front office so he could learn the business end of baseball.

"I explained to him that, in my opinion, he would be making a mistake if he rejected our proposal and tried to hang on as a pitching performer. That's the advice to him that I had to make the same decision and I was never sorry for what I did. I'm tough to admit you don't have it any more but it's tougher still to bounce around from club to club."

Strike Threat Denied

Squabble Over Pay Reported After East-West Shrine Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 1956 East-West all-star football game, organized under the season: "Strong legs will run so that west has may walk." It has been haunted by reports of pregame squabbles over money.

Almost before the game—proceeds of which went to crippled children's hospitals in Winnipeg and Montreal—was over rumors began to circulate that players on the Eastern squad were dissatisfied with financial arrangements.

Hal Pawson, sports editor of the Edmonton Journal, said in his column Monday that Eastern players had threatened to strike if they did not receive their demands and played only because they were told if they did not it would mean the end of their football careers in Canada.

The strike threat was denied by club officials in charge of arrangements for the game and by an Eastern player.

In Toronto, Harry McBrien, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Rugby Union, said there never was a strike threat. In Winnipeg, Ralph Misener, chairman of the CRU's Shrine committee, said "It's nonsense; just the figment of somebody's imagination."

The East lost the game 35-0. Pawson said he received his information from officials of the CRU, the Canadian Football Committee, the Shriners and some of the Eastern players.

He said a committee went to officials just before the game and asked that winning players' shares be raised to $500 and expenses, each from $350 and expenses and that the losing players' share be $300 and expenses instead of $250 and expenses.

A second version of the story came from Montreal Alouettes' centre, Tom Hugo, admitted the Eastern players were "very disappointed" with the treatment they received in Vancouver, but said the strike angle was "a lot of baloney."

He said a committee had indeed been formed, but "we didn't go to see anyone except a man named McBrien of Toronto who had arranged to get the players to Vancouver."

Hugo said he and the others only wanted the $fine treatment as they had been given in Toronto at the first all-star game last year. "Many of the boys paid their own expenses in Vancouver and they felt that these should be reimbursed and that they should be given an advance to take care of such things as dry cleaning and laundry."

He said they each wanted an advance of $30, to be added to the amount received for playing. He said they were told their pay had already been cut.

Hugo also said the players thought they should have received a tie clip or ring similar to the rings given to the players in the 1955 game. Instead they were given a scroll, suitable for framing.

"The whole thing seemed very poorly organized. Last year the players were reimbursed for travelling expenses as soon as the game was over. I still haven't been reimbursed for my travelling expenses."

Six Pitchers Reach 20 Mark; Ford Tops ERA

CHICAGO (AP)—Six American League moundsmen reached the 20-win circle in the 1956 baseball campaign, official league pitching records released today show.

New York Yankees' Whitey Ford, who won 19 games and lost six, took the screwball leadership title with a 2.47 mark that topped pitchers working 154 or more innings.

The big winners were Detroit Tigers' 22-year-old right-hander, Frank Lary, with 21-13; his teammate, Billy Hoeft, 20-11; Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox, 20-9; and Cleveland Indians' trio of Herb Score, 20-9, Early Wynn, 20-9, and Bob Lemon, 20-14.

In addition to Ford, two other hurlers were under the 3.00 earned run figure. Score had 2.53 and Wynn 2.72. Pierce, who led in 1955 with 1.97, finished with 3.33 this time.

Score repeated as the strikeout king by whiffing 263 batters, 18 more than in 1955. He also had the most wild pitches, 11.

Someone Pinched Olympic Cannon

MELBOURNE (AP) — Police and officials were "tearing the Olympic village apart" Monday in search of a cannon.

It has a barrel four feet long, a three-inch bore and is on mounting. It was used as an ornament on the Sandringham Yacht Club, which was one of the headquarters for the Olympic yachting events in Port Phillip Bay.

The cannon had been in position 34 years until the Olympic yachtsmen arrived.

Some time ago the cannon was found to be in the "custody" of a British sailor. They took it as a joke and hid it in the British quarters at the village.

Now the cannon has been removed the cannon from the British quarters and it has not been seen since.

Plane Affair May Have Struck Heavy Blow at West Football

WINNIPEG (CP) — Disappearance of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 18 persons aboard in southern British Columbia Sunday night may have struck a heavy blow at Western Canadian football. Five passengers were leading players.

They are Gordon Sturtridge, 27; Mel Becket, 27; Ray Syrnyk, 22, and Mario Ferraro, 28, all of Saskatchewan Roughriders; and Calvin Jones, 23, of Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Sturtridge was accompanied by his wife.

The accident mystified another plane crash that was costly to Canadian sport 23 years ago.

On March 31, 1933, a tri-motor plane carrying Winnipeg Toilers, Canadian senior men's basketball champions, home from a series in Tulsa, Okla., crashed at Needonha Kansas. Two team members Mike Shea and Joe Dodds, were among the six killed. Seven members of the club were injured. The accident knocked the club out of competition for some time and it never again won the Canadian title.

Football officials here said the loss of the five players was an ironic twist for Saskatchewan Roughriders who had four players aboard. During the regular football season, the club normally avoids air travel.

Sturtridge, Becket and Jones played for the Western All-Stars in the East-West Shrine game in Vancouver. Syrnyk and Ferraro attended as spectators.

Sturtridge, a defensive end who stands six feet, one inch and weighs 185 pounds, played high school football in Winnipeg and moved up through junior ranks. He was named WIFU rookie of the year in his first season with Roughriders.

Becket, 225-pound centre who stands six feet three inches, has been with the Riders for three seasons after playing with Indiana University and Green Bay Packers. He and DeMarco own a fishing station in Regina.

Syrnyk, a guard weighing 185 pounds and standing six feet one inch, played junior football with Saskatoon Hilltops before moving up to the Roughriders three years ago. He was regarded as one of the better Canadian linemen with the club.

DeMarco, a five-foot, 11-inch, 220-pound guard, played professional football with Detroit Lions of the National Football League before moving to Montreal Alouettes and later to Edmonton Eskimos. He joined the Roughriders three years ago and was a perennial Western all-star until 1955 when injuries slowed him up.

Jones, 190-pound tackle, stands six feet one inch, and was captain of the 1955 University of Iowa team before joining the Bombers this season. He was named on the All-American team in 1954. He had signed his contract for next season before leaving for Vancouver and was expected to again be a key man in the Bombers' front wall in 1957.

RONSPIEL STARTS

SARNIA (CP)—Thirty-six rinks began competition Monday in the Sarnia curling club's 28th annual Imperial Bonspiel. At the end of five draws only nine rinks were left in the running for the $1,000 purse.

Rinks winning first and second round matches to enter the quarter-finals included Brantford quartet skipped by J. Butter, J. Malcolm and B. Forbes and an Orillia entry headed by Dr. C. Baillie.

Chicubs Get Silvera, Ray Katt In 10-Player Deal With Cards

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Cubs, who only 24 hours ago were desperately seeking to strengthen their catching department, had two new backstops today following the purchase of Charlie Silvera from New York Yankees and the acquisition of Ray Katt in a 10-player trade with St. Louis Cardinals.

Katt, a .247 hitter who clouted 13 home runs last season, came first. With him came pitchers Tom Poholsky and Jackie Collum and Infielder Wally Moon, who also was immediately shipped to the Cubs' Los Angeles farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Two other players, of minor league calibre, have been promised to the Cardinals no later than March 1. These players will be sent to the Yankees along with $10,000 for Silvera.

In return for the Redbird flock, the Cubs sent pitchers Sam Jones and Jim Davis, catcher Hobie Landrith and utility man Eddie Miksis. Jones, who pitched a no-hitter against Pittsburgh May 12, 1955, and Poholsky each had a 9-14 record last year. Jones led the National League with 176 strikeouts and 115 walks while Poholsky, a control artist, walked only 44 striking out 86. Poholsky, at 27 is four years younger than Jones.

Silvera, 32, has been in the shadow of Yogi Berra ever since he joined the Yankees in 1948. He has played only 201 games in nine years. Last year he appeared in only seven games and collected two hits in nine times at bat. His best year was in 1949 when he batted .315 in 58 games.

Manager Bob Scheffing was enthusiastic over the two deals, his first since he succeeded Stan Hack as pilot of the Cubs two months ago.

"Is Silvera and Katt," he said, "we acquired two catchers who are better than anybody we had last season. Silvera would have been a first-string catcher if he were on any other club but the Yankees. Katt has a lot of power, and should find Wrigley Field to his liking."

The youthful skipper thought the exchange of pitchers with the Cards was a standoff but expected to get more production out of Poholsky than he did from Jones.

RELIEFER AND STARTER

"I can use Poholsky both as a starter and in relief," he said, "because Tom has good control. Jones couldn't pitch relief because he was too wild.

It was the second major deal in less than a month for Scheffing, manager of the Lane of the Cards. Only recently he sent Rip Repulski to the Phillies for Ted Ennis in an exchange of outfielders.

The two leagues voted Monday to adopt a minor league plan to consolidate their annual meetings and have them alternately in a minor and major league city. They also voted to set up a player pool to supply talent in case of a catastrophe or any member club such as a plane or train wreck which could wreck its team.

The American League voted to adopt a three-game post-season playoff in case of a tie for the pennant. In the past, the American League has always had a four-game playoff.

Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg withdrew his proposal for inter-league play. Greenberg had wanted each major league club's schedule to include games with clubs in the other league.

Trap, Gun Club Ends 'Terrific' First Season

"A terrific success." We have over 100 members with at least 60 per cent participation in the sport.

That was the summary of the first year's operation of the new Quinte Trap and Gun Club by president George Haggis. The club held its closing shoot of the year over the week-end.

The club will resume activities in the spring and next year, President Haggis said, it hopes that better facilities, especially those for spectators, will be arranged.

The club was formed last summer, and it has never lacked for members. It is proving one of the more popular sports in the city with each shoot well attended not only by shooting members but by spectators as well.

"If we can maintain our high percentage of members taking part in the various shoots, the club will be one of the best in Eastern Ontario," Haggis said.

The final shoot of the year saw Jackie Wardaugh emerge as top gun with 22 out of a possible 25. Don McNevin had a 21. Among the ties were Dr. Jim Forrester and Frank Godkin. The doubles were won by Jack Dodson, C. Wale and President Haggis.

The club shot a "miss-and-out" series with turkeys and chickens as the prizes. It was one of the best shoots of the year.

Bob Feller Heads New Baseball Body

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A group of major league baseball players ended a two-day meeting this Monday with a social get-together after forming the Baseball Players' Association.

Cleveland pitcher Bob Feller, elected president of the new group, said it was not the beginning of a guild or union.

He said collective bargaining wouldn't work in baseball. Feller said the main aim of the group will be to help promote baseball.

Laufman Tops Western Senior

TORONTO (CP) — The forward line of Ken Laufman, George Scholes and Gerry Theberge put Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen into a tie for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A western group mid-week and the trio itself tied up the top spots in the scoring race.

Statistics released Monday and including games of Dec. 9 show Laufman leading the scoring pack with 35 points, made up of eight goals and 27 assists. Scholes has 23 goals and 21 assists for 34 and Theberge, best goal-getter in the league, follows with 20 and 11 for a total of 31 in 22 games.

Strafford's Mickey Both has scored 13 goals and assisted on 17 others for a 30-point total and linemate Dinny Flanagan is two points back with 11 goals and 17 assists.

Windsor Bulldogs' Don Head leads the netminders after allowing an average of 3.05 goals in 19 games. Close behind is Chatham Maroons' Mirre Edwards, the leader earlier in the season. Edwards has a 3.29 average in 19 games and has equalled Head's 3 shutout production. Both have two.

Queen's Defeat Lambert Juniors By 11-2 Score

Queen's University handed Belleville Lambert's their worst defeat of the year in Kingston Jack Hartry arena last night, whipping the Belleville crew by an 11-2 count in an Eastern Ontario OHA Junior "B" fixture.

The winners broke a 1-1 tie with four goals in a little more than five minutes in the first period and were never in trouble. They led 5-1 at the end of the first, made it 8-2 in the second and blanked the visitors by three goals in the final twenty minutes.

After Allison gave Queen's a 1-0 lead at 6.28 of the first, Leo St. Denis netted Belleville's initial goal at 6.40, Bill Brewer assisting. The score remained 1-1 until 13.03 when Pringle's goal put Kingston in front to stay, also Dotzko and Watt promptly blinked the light but all the decision away early.

Queen's made it 8-1 before the Lamberts struck again. Garry Rowbotham combined with linemates Jackie Gill and Ab Wright to fire their second goal at 18.22 of the second period. The winners spaced another trio in the third period for the 11-2 score.

Charlie Kingston was in goal for the Lamberts and had a busy night as the big Queen's crew roared in, often on breakaways.

Only five minor penalties were called in the game, all going to Queen's.

Muir topped the point parade for the winners, potting three goals and assisting on one other. Pringle also had the hat trick and one helper while Watt netted two goals and an assist. Pringle, Dotzko and Pinkerton had the other goals.

Victor Borge Presents Second One-Man 'Comedy in Music'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Borge, the eminent philosopher and observer of human nature (who both plays and does not play the piano, was busy rehearsing. Tonight at 9 p.m. EST he presents his second-one-man Comedy in Music on CBS-TV. Since he's said the entire cast and never is sure of what he's going to do until he does it, rehearsal seemed rather futile. But rehearse he did.

So this left Mrs. Borge to talk with—which is pleasant. She is much prettier than her husband. He was relaxed, but she confessed to slight tension. Look, for example, at the program notes he had given CBS:

"Act 1. (1) Borge's entrance (this sure!). (2) Borge at piano—? (3) Borge not at piano—? Intermission—Act 2. (4) Borge. (5) Borge. (6) Borge."

"Somewhere in there," said Mrs. Borge, "he is expected to conduct a 42-piece orchestra. And well, I have every faith in him."

NEVER HURTS

"He's a great deal more serious than most people would expect," said Mrs. Borge. "Basically he's a philosopher. His outstanding trait is a great kindness. He never says anything that would hurt anyone. Even on the stage, you must have noticed, he never makes fun of anyone."

When you ask him what happens tonight on his CBS show he says:

"Look in June I presented the first half of my Broadway production, Comedy in Music on CBS television. Tonight a television program will be the second half of the Broadway show. We hope later perhaps to present the third, fourth and fifth halves."

Sweeney Heads Junior Loop

TORONTO (CP) — Guelph Biltmores and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are running one-two in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and their top marksmen follow the pattern in the scoring race.

Guelph's Bill Sweeney scored three times Monday night as the Bills downed Peterborough Petes 7-2 and increased his lead to 49 points over team-mate Ed Shack and seven over St. Michael's Bob Boucher.

Sweeney leads the league's goal-getters with 22 and has added 17 assists for his total of 39 points. Boucher, with 25 goals and 14 assists, has 32, but was moved out of second place by Sweeney's linemate, Eddie Shack. Shack picked up three assists against Petes for a league-leading total of 25 and now has 33 points.

Don Belisle, who completes the Biltmores' most potent forward line, got two goals and an assist Monday night to vault into the next spot. Belisle now has 17 goals and 14 assists for 31 points, one more than Boucher's injury-prone winger, Frank Mahovlich, who big bid for 14 goals and 16 assists in 16 games.

Les Broderick of the third-place Toronto Marlboros heads the goal-tenders with an average of 2.33 after 40 games, including three shutouts.

AT THE BELLE — The all-conquering Elvis Presley seems to be having it "cool" for the moment in this scene with Richard Egan and Debra Paget. The romantic drama filmed by Twentieth Century-Fox, in CinemaScope, is the talk of Belleville, and is showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. Elvis introduces four new tunes to the delight of his tremendous following.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Not even the simple hands are all milk and honey for the big four champions. And when they encounter competitive bidding, it often looks as if they add tanglefoot to what they do.

Take a look at world championship deal number 17 here:

NORTH
♥ K T 6 2
♦ A 10 9 7 8
♣ K 9 8 6

WEST
♠ A K 9 8 5
♥ 6 3 2
♦ A 8 4 2
♣ 10 2

EAST
♠ Q J
♥ Q J 9
♦ J 5
♣ A Q 7 4 3

SOUTH
♠ J 10 5 4
♥ 10 5
♦ K Q 6 3 2
♣ K 5

Where the American team sat east and west in room one, this is how the bidding went:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pike | Hall | Goldman | Jacoby |
| Double | Redouble | 2 ♦ | 3 ♣ |
| 4 ♦ | 4 ♠ | 5 ♦ | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | 6 ♣ |

Although west lacks a fourth high card for a mathematically sound opening bid, he has compensating values in trump length and extra tricks. So, it is a good opening for caution.

The double and redouble were information efforts to partners. The double asked partner to bid his best suit. The redouble told partner he had stuff to keep from fearing what opponents said.

South was encouraged by north's try to take a sacrifice. But over this five diamonds, east decided to sacrifice over the heads of clubs and that a slam was worth a try.

With almost the same bidding in room two, the Swedish team reached the identical slam in spades. Each room got an opening lead of the diamond ace and each took 11 tricks. The American team went down one.

These champions waste a round of bidding that could be used to better advantage to obtain more exact information. Like east replaying at once with two clubs instead of redoubling.

But if one of the champions reads this he will ignore it. So, it is meant only for your ears.

CALHOUN INJURED

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fight promoter Larry Atkins said Monday Rory Calhoun, injured while training in New York, will be unable to make his scheduled appearance against Joey Giardello here Friday night.

The Calhoun-Giardello middleweight bout was scheduled for the feature end on the annual Cleveland Newsboys' boxing show.

Beauty Contest Winner Has Total of One Line in Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Carol Morris, Miss Universe of 1957, is embarking on a long career in her pretty blue eyes wide open.

The statuesque beauty from Ottumwa, Iowa, has reported to Universal - International to begin her contract. Her first role is in Man Of A Thousand Faces, and she has a total of one line.

Whether or not her roles get bigger depends on her ability, and she's realistic about it.

"I know the odds against beauty contest winners making it as actresses," she remarked. "Not many have made it, and I can see why. Because a girl is good-looking is no reason she can become an actress."

PUBLICITY WEIRD

Carol still seems a bit awed by all that has happened to her since she won the beauty prize last summer. It suggested that she should be accustomed to being interviewed on all sides by now.

"But I'm not," she said. "It still throws me. The question I hear the most is how did I feel when I found out I had won. How did I feel? I didn't feel anything, I was numb."

"For four nights I got hardly any sleep at all. First I was in the Miss U.S.A. contest, then I won it, then I was in the finals for Miss Universe, by which time I had to stay late to pose for extra publicity. By the time I finally won, I didn't know what was going on."

From Long Beach she went to New York for a publicity whirl. In a few days, she climbed 24 TV and radio shows. Then she had a triumphant return to Ottumwa.

"I thought at least I would score rest there," she said. "... South Dakota was filled with reporters and photographers. One time I travelled forty by-roads and there were reporters making notes of everything that came out of my suitcase!"

FOUND INSANE

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves Legare, 23, a lunch counter operator, Monday was found not guilty of murder, owing to insanity, in the revolver slaying of a woman last Dec. 23. He was accused of murdering Mrs. Henriette Desjardins, 51, following a misunderstanding about apartment rent.

QUEEN MOTHER ILL

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth fell ill Monday with a feverish cold. She has cancel her engagements for the next two or three days.

Robert E. Sherwood, who wrote the screen play for "Rebecca," with Joan Harrison from Daphne du Maurier's novel, has among several other prizes, the Academy Award for Best Screenplay ("Best Years of Our Lives") and the Pulitzer Prize for biography ("Roosevelt and Hopkins").

The above tally is supported by the numerous awards won by every member of the distinguished cast and technical crew of "Rebecca," not to be forgotten, of course; are the many prizes garnered by Alfred Hitchcock who directed the production which is being distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox.

MADOC

Approximately 3,000 Attend Santa Parade

MADOC— Largest attendance ever, witnessed the Santa Claus parade in Madoc on Saturday, held under the chairmanship of George Revolin and his committee.

Citizens praised the committee's efforts and claim that it was a red letter day for the children of Madoc and surrounding district. The attendance was estimated to be around 3,000 as 1,100 treats were passed out to children by Barney Sheffield and his staff of helpers. Following this, Greg Murray, Carl Howse and Doug Drinkwater took charge of the theatre, where the children were admitted free for the afternoon show.

At two o'clock sharp, parade marshal, C. I. Ross, lined up the participants and the line-up, also leading the parade was Corporal Sears of the OPP; Reeve Murray Smith and John Wagner, president of the Chamber of Commerce; drum majorette, Miss Susan Blanchard from the Belleville Collegiate; The Citizens' Band of Madoc; Nickle's Jewelry store, (float); C. Character costumes from Rinhart's of Toronto, were capably represented by the following personnel: Bunny Rabbit (Bill Bowser); Fairy Queen (Mrs. Betty Duffin); Donald Duck (Larry Stickwood); Clown, (Lyn Rumsey, Doug. The Dalai Lama was in India for the symposium of Buddhist sects. (Central Press Canadian).

Mr. Fulton told a press conference he thinks a win for himself on the second ballot is "definitely in the cards." He said the contest is between himself and Mr. Diefenbaker.

lice at the mining town of Salgotarjan, in northern Hungary. Word of the massacre reached Budapest through a three-man miners' delegation which reported to the Central Workers' Council. They told Western correspondents Hungarian police fired repeatedly into a crowd of 10,000 "peacefully demonstrating" miners seeking the release of two of their leaders.

The Communist party at Salgotarjan claimed provocateurs threw grenades at police and said the miners' group harbored Fascist elements. Budapest Radio gave a similar account and said similar incidents had occurred at Tata Bekescsaba and Battonya.

The radio said recent events showed that the people still had large stores of arms and ammunition and declared the Soviet-imposed Kadar government was forced to adopt strong measures to meet this threat.

PC COMMITTEE

Prospects of any dark-horse candidates entering the contest appeared slight. Formal nominations will take place Thursday evening.

The task of the policy and resolutions committee is to prepare a platform which it feels expresses the majority view of the party.

The Quebec proposal, reported to have come from the Conservative Association of Compton-Frontenac, says the party should come out in favor of Canadian autonomy repudiating any hint of subjection to other countries, including the United Kingdom.

Backers of the resolution hold that Conservatives can get increased Quebec support with a declaration that there is no "colonial spirit" in the party.

MAY START DEBATE

The proposal to change the party's name again may provoke sharp debate. Some argue the present name is cumbersome and confusing. But there are indications among party stalwarts of strong resistance to a change.

The "Progressive" prefix was added in 1942, at the request of John Bracken, by the Winnipeg convention which named him leader.

The party started out as Confederation as the Liberal-Conservative party in his century, it became the Unionist party and then the National Conservative party before taking its present name. Some persons just call it the Tory party.

PREDICTS FROST STAND

Hon. Ottawa Citizen said in a news story that the support and influence of Premier Frost of Ontario was "openly behind" Mr. Diefenbaker, with men and women close to Mr. Frost's administrative staffing the Diefenbaker headquarters on the seventh floor of the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel.

Mr. Frost in Toronto said he had "no comment whatever."

Mr. Fleming said he believes the Ontario premier will maintain a "neutral attitude" on the leadership contest.

Although Mr. Diefenbaker is making no predictions, his backers are predicting victory for him on the first ballot.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was in my room wishing I had something to do, and ma looked in, saying, Benny, how would you like to go to the garage and arrange all the old newspapers and magazines in neat piles so they'll be reddy for the salvage men?

Not being one of the things I was wishing for, and I said, Aw G, ma, heck, gosh.

All right, now that I've given you a chance to do it gracefully, you can just go and do it in your own natural way, ma said.

Meaning against my will, which I went to do, and after awhile ma looked in the garage to see what had happened so far, saying, For land sakes do you mean to say that's as far as you've got all this time?

Meaning a small half of one pile, and I said, Well jimminies, ma, I'm doing it in a special way, I'm pretending I'm an army of ants dragging one paper at a time and storing them in their nest for the winter to give a good lesson to the grasshoppers, I said, and ma said, If you have to make a game of it, why cant you think of something that will get the job done in an average lifetime?

Okay, ma, I'll play I'm a platoon of dive bombers, and keep swooping down and grabbing up armfulls of papers without stopping, I said. Oh boy, ma, that's a swell idea, I said, and ma said, Oh dear, you'll have the garage a shambles of dust and torn paper. Stand out of my way, she said.

Which I did, and she had it all done neet in less than 5 minutes, saying, There, it seems the only way I can get anything done is to do it myself. You're getting more like your father every day, she said.

Sounding more like a compliment than she probably meant.

Irish Republican Army Raids Five Ulster Counties

Dynamite and Machine Guns Spread Terror During Night

NAMED AS ASSISTANT TO SECRETARY DULLES

Gov. Christian A. Herter, of Massachusetts, is shown in Washington after President Eisenhower named him to succeed Herbert Hoover, Jr., as under-secretary of state. Herter, who did not run for re-election, is scheduled to take office about Feb. 1. (Central Press Canadian).

BELFAST (AP)—Raiders wielding dynamite and sub-machine-guns ranged through Northern Ireland for hours early today in what police described as a "night of terror by the Irish Republican Army."

The armed bands, appearing in five of Ulster's six counties, blew up a radio station and two buildings, set fire to a courthouse, fought two pitched battles with the Royal Ulster Constabulary and tried to capture a British military barracks.

One policeman was wounded and five men arrested.

Authorities estimated damages caused in the raids as totalling more than $1,000,000.

A spokesman for the constabulary said most of the raiders escaped south over the border into the Irish Republic.

He described the series of attacks as "a major operation by the IRA," an illegal underground organization which fights to have the six counties of Ulster made a part of the Irish Republic.

It is also outlawed in the republic.

BLOW UP TRANSMITTER

The predominantly Protestant population of Ulster—which is still part of the United Kingdom—has long opposed union with the predominantly Roman Catholic southern republic.

The weekend invasion began shortly after midnight. Before it ended with the withdrawal of the raiders, police said there were three incidents:

The barracks of the Royal Irish Fusiliers at Armagh was attacked by about 15 men, blocked and blackened with cork, who threw hand grenades and fired rifles but the Guards beat them off. An Armagh policeman who tried to stop a fleeing car was wounded slightly by sub-machine-gun fire. Other constables captured two men.

A building in Lisbodonkery housing a relay transmitter of the BBC was blown up.

KIDNAPPED COUPLE

A dozen men dressed in police uniforms kidnapped the caretaker of the courthouse at Magherafelt, and his wife, and set the building ablaze. The kidnapped couple were released unharmed three miles away.

The headquarters building of a British Territorial Army (militia) unit at Enniskillen was blown up, along with two bridges at nearby Inishmore and Netown Bullet.

Police said the raiders, after raiding a truck exchanged shots with a police car in the afternoon when leadership balloting will begin.

Before there is another major job will be done, the revamping of the party platform on Thursday.

Trenton Flyer And Companion Found Alive

BULLETIN

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)—An RCAF CF-100 jet plane missing since Monday night today were found alive. They were picked up by a flight plane and taken to their home base in this rugged territory, 150 miles north of Quebec. The pilot is F.O. Donald F. Reid of Trenton.

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)—An RCAF CF-100 all-weather craft today sighted a "figure who waved" in the rugged area where flight crews have been after a CF-100 fighter vanished with its two-man crew Monday night.

Air defence command in Montreal said that "since there is an excellent possibility the figure is one of the missing CF-100 crew," the search aircraft dropped supplies and clothing.

Two ground parties, making their way over extremely rugged terrain, were headed for the area some 20 miles northwest of Murray Bay on Lac Desmarres.

BAD WEATHER

Weather conditions—which interrupted the air search for a time earlier today — were still "most unfavorable" but pilots were "able to catch occasional glimpses of the ground through the cloud."

Aboard the missing plane, on a routine flight from Bagotville 150 miles north of Quebec, were FO Donald F. Reid, 24, of Trenton, and FO John J. Paskaruk, 20, Meath Park, Sask.

Flt.-Lt. W. D. Bailey, para-rescue section commander, reported the air was so turbulent at dawn today that co-pilots aboard the search planes had to assist pilots in manhandling the controls.

Today's Chuckle

It ought to be so easy to earn an honest living—there's so little competition.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Following mild weather over most of Ontario Tuesday, the centre of low has moved through the province and temperatures this morning were mostly above zero. It is colder in Southern Ontario and as much as 40 degrees colder in Northern Ontario. Graham Airport, near the Lakehead, reported 25 degrees below zero.

A disturbance in Texas is causing snow over the central United States. This storm will move northeastward during the next 24 hours bringing snow to Southern Ontario tonight and Thursday. Temperatures will drop to a snowfall of three to six inches in Southern Ontario.

PC CONVENTION COULD BE TURNING POINT FOR PARTY

Opens in Ottawa With Big Attendance

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives today link with destiny in search of a new leader and a new future.

In the hot, white glare of batteries of television lights, some 3,000 voices will be raised in song and prayer as the curtain is lifted on one of Canada's biggest political spectacles—a three-day convention designed to produce a new party chieftain and a new vote-getting platform.

This could be the turning point in the party's ill fortunes, or it could be another dark path to political despair. The party has been out of office for 21 years, defeated by the Liberals in five consecutive general elections. Another general vote is expected in June, 1957.

LOOKING FORWARD

"We've got to win the next one or some closer to it," declared one of the 1,400-odd delegates who will have power to vote for a new leader and platform. The Conservatives have 51 of the 265 seats in the Commons. The Liberals have 171.

The convention, with its circus trappings, is due to open at 3:30 p.m. AST in Ottawa's bingo and horse show barn—home of the annual animal smell still hovers and where the tinsel and glitter, the batteries of lights and sound systems of bunting belie the spectacle into a political arena.

But there will be a touch of sadness even on opening day. For at 9:15 a.m. AST a funeral is scheduled to deliver his valediction. He has been accused of using the leadership because of ill health.

Three RCAF lawyers are vying for his mantle. They are John Diefenbaker, 61, of Prince Albert, Sask.; Donald Fleming, 51, of Toronto Eglinton, and Davie Fulton, 40, of Kamloops, B.C.

In quiet corners and in committee rooms, conversations and booings of these candidates will be besieging uncommitted delegates in the hope of their favorites.

They may well look to Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia for some guidance. For here is the Conservative success story of the year—the man and party who took over the provincial party in 1948 and in 1956 won the Nova Scotia election victory in 31 years.

He will be the keynote speaker at, the convention, scheduled to end with a big rally.

The climax to the whole affair, will come on the following session late afternoon when leadership balloting will begin.

Japan Likely Will Be Admitted To United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Security Council today recommended unanimously that Japan be admitted to the United Nations as its 80th member.

The council's action opened the way for quick final action in the 60-nation General Assembly where approval is only a formality.

The approval of Japan came after more than four years of wrangling. The application, first submitted July 16, 1952, had been vetoed four times by the Soviet Union.

Boastful, Toothless Vagrant of 33 Questioned About Eleven Murders

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A 33-year-old boastful, toothless vagrant was questioned closely Tuesday about the deaths of 11 men and a report he had planned to set up a one-man mass production murder factory in the state of San Francisco.

The man, Stephen Nash, already has been indicted in San Francisco and in Los Angeles on separate murder charges.

He has admitted killing five persons. Capt. Peter Maddigan of the Oakland homicide detail has said Nash has taken the lives of six more—four in Los Angeles, one near Oakland and one at Sacramento. But Nash would give the names of only five.

He told reporters that he thought of setting up his "mass production murder business" near Alameda naval air station because the last time I was in Oakland a couple of sailors tried to roll me."

The San Francisco grand jury indicted him Monday night for the murder Dec. 1 of Mrs. Ruth Ellen Roddy of San Francisco. Nash related police that he had knifed Echo to death, then shoved the body in a car, with the body inside, off a pier. When brought in San Francisco he pointed out the spot and the body and auto were recovered.

Nash was indicted in Los Angeles earlier for the murder of Jack Hall, 19, who was stabbed to death, and of John William

TIGER AT HOME IN MOSCOW SUITE

In a Moscow apartment, famed Soviet hunter Prokopy Bogachow chats with lion tamer Margarita Nazarova while a huge Asian tiger sprawls like a contented pussycat on the couch. Bagochow, known in his native Eastern Siberia as "the terror of the Usuri Taiga," has trapped scores of such tigers for Soviet and foreign circuses and zoos. The cat on the sofa was caught by him and is one of Nazarova's circus playmates. (Central Press Canadian).

Conservative Platform to Be Hammered Out at Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative platform in the next federal election will be decided at its three-day convention opening in the capital today.

It will be outlined in a list of resolutions, drafted by a 185-member committee, to be submitted Thursday to the general convention for approval.

But vote - gathering schemes, which party stalwarts hope will help PC chances in the election expected next June, include plans to reduce income taxes, boost old age pensions for the needy, reform the Senate and provide tax exemptions for municipalities.

The old age pension proposal would raise pensions for needy persons over 65 from $40 to $50 a month. Another pension resolution calls for a 10-per-cent increase in disability pensions for war veterans.

Another resolution calls for development of a comprehensive federal-provincial health insurance scheme, based on inclusion of existing private or provincial insurance schemes.

Increased income tax deductions for medical expenses and complete deductibility of hospital insurance premiums from taxable income are other proposals accepted by the committee.

Committee members spent two days selecting from a sheaf of proposals from various local bodies across the country, from which they feel express the majority view of the party.

Many were discarded, including resolutions favoring compulsory military training, reduction of voting age from 21 to 19, elimination of the word "Progressive" from the party's name, appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican and banning circulation of Communist propaganda in Canada.

Some of these may, however, be brought up from the convention floor if an MP will likely produce lively debate.

Thousands in Haiti Strike Trying to Force Elections

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Terror and confusion swept Haiti today as a boiling political crisis headed toward a showdown.

The country is virtually paralyzed by a silent but deadly weapon—a mass refusal of thousands of persons to work.

Its object is to force Gen. Paul E. Magloire to step out of the white palace in Port-au-Prince, the capital, and permit general elections for a new president.

It is cutting into the supplies of food from the countryside, threatening to disrupt transportation by starving gasoline stations.

The law courts have been suspended, telephone communications are ricketty when they operate at all, and policegoading army officers are stationed in communications offices censoring all messages, press or personal.

Soldiers and sailors are patrolling the streets.

No foreigners have been arrested, as far as is known, but Paul Kennedy, correspondent of the New York Times, was hustled out of Haiti on six hours' notice, without explanation.

The explosive political conflict climax last week, when on Thursday Magloire resigned as president. Under one interpretation of the constitution, his six-year term ended then. The Haitian constitution does not permit a president to succeed himself.

However later, however, Magloire resumed office as "chief of state," presumably at the request of the legislature.

He then imprisoned the principal presidential candidates and about 40 others. He also dissolved the Senate and legislature, and in effect suspended constitutional authority.

Magloire told this correspondent he was forced to take the measures. He said political leaders had caused a series of bombings and shootings during their campaigns, and created a situation that blocked all possibility of a legitimate general election.

Egyptians Say Kidnapped Man Has Been Killed

PORT SAID (AP)—The Egyptian underground Tuesday night said it had kidnapped and killed a young British lieutenant, reportedly in retaliation for the arrest of 19 Egyptians in the face of British insistence that the lieutenant be returned quickly—and alive.

The British-French occupation command awaited firmer evidence today before conceding that the lieutenant had been killed. Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, the occupation chief, let it be understood that firm action would follow if the officer was not given up safely.

The kidnapping was the latest of a string of actions by the underground to harass the rapidly diminishing British and French forces in the process of withdrawing from Egypt at the demand of the united Nations General Assembly.

Lieut. A. G. Moorhouse, leader of a patrol that captured seven Egyptian commandos Monday night, stopped his jeep Tuesday morning to talk to a man.

FORCED INTO TAXI

The man said he saw three men force the British officer into a taxi at the point of the lieutenant's own gun.

The car was found later—its interior bloodstained.

CIRCUS TO RETURN

NEW YORK (AP)—The "greatest show on earth"—the Ringling Brothers - Barnum and Bailey Circus—announced definite plans Tuesday for return to the road next season with changes galore but tradition intact. Biggest new look item will be disappearance of the vast canvas tent. Most dates will be played in indoor arenas.

HELICOPTER SEEKS WRECKAGE AT CHILLIWACK

Boy and 2 Men Think They Saw Plane's Tail

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF helicopter took off at dawn today to check a report that plane wreckage has been seen on a mountain 55 miles east of here.

Bad weather, however, continued to plague the search, now in its third day, for a missing Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 62 persons aboard.

A T-33 jet plane also went up to check on cloudiness in the search area but all other search aircraft were grounded by low clouds.

The helicopter is scheduled to search Sumas Mountain, 10 miles west of Chilliwack in the Fraser River valley. A logger and two men reported late Tuesday they had seen wreckage on the mountain through binoculars.

Sgon. Ldr. George Sheahan, the rescue chief, said a search party will not leave for Sumas Mountain until the helicopter makes its report.

FO Max Chaplin, pilot of the helicopter, said by radio over the mountain "tree by tree" Monday without seeing any wreckage. He added: "We can't check it by stick by stick." It was the only flight possible Monday, he said.

The area is one of three from which the air force has been receiving reports that flashes of light were seen about the time the plane lost radio contact with the crew soon after 7 p.m. Sunday. The others are near Mount Cheam and Silverdip Mountain.

The plane disappeared shortly after it left Comox on Vancouver Island on a trip to Edmonton. Two engines failed. It is feared the plane, on a tourist flight from Vancouver to Eastern Canada, has crashed.

The two men and boy said they saw late Tuesday what they believed to be a portion of an airplane's tail from a point near the Vedder Canal, about six miles south of Chilliwack.

The three said they viewed the wreckage through binoculars.

Faced with difficult air conditions, rain and snow have confined search to the east end of a 34-lane search fleet which has been assembled to try to find the airliner.

Israel Will Try Police Who Slew Arab Children

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli border police will be tried by military court martial for the killing of a number of Arabs by Israeli frontier police in a village near the Jordan border.

Moshe Dayan, Israeli army chief of staff, announced the decision Tuesday. He said Premier David Ben-Gurion said it was a "terrible occurrence." A number of police officials will be tried.

The government has decided to pay Arab family pounds (-$30) to every Arab family affected.

Refugees Shy Away From Red Clothes While Women Do Not Like Black

QUEBEC (CP) — To make a Hungarian angry, offer him red clothing.

That is one foible discovered by Quebec social groups working with the largest contingent of refugees yet arrived from the Communist-oppressed country.

Red means Russian, and the refugees don't want to be confused with their oppressors. For an elusive reason, the women in black shy away from black clothing. In Hungary, they explained, black is the color of a pregnant woman.

Nearly all the 237 refugees who arrived from Montreal Tuesday by Canada Nav. have left now for Ottawa, Montreal, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Immigration and social workers are regrouping to handle about 500 more expected early Thursday aboard the Arosa Star.

On the third floor are the men's and women's dormitories crowded with bunk beds, end-to-end. There's also the medical examination room.

A large lounge equipped with donated furniture and decorated by volunteer females workers is on the ground floor. Main recreational features are two library-type tables, a free juke box and a table-top hockey game.

A volunteer group from the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire distributed clothing and other goods bought by charity groups.

"Many of them looked well dressed when they arrived," one woman said, "but underneath their heavy coats and boots...they are very shabby."

"With the exception of red, and to a lesser degree black, they are fond of anything that fits. Most are practical in their choices and prefer gay colors."

An examining doctor said this first group is generally in excellent health.

"They are well nourished and show few ill-effects of their hardship. Of course, most of this group is single and will be different with the later arrivals."

Anti-Government Riots In Poland Said Widespread

Protest Strike in Hungary Goes Into Its Second Day

WARSAW (AP)—New anti-government violence was reported in Poland today in the wake of the riot attack on the Soviet consulate at Stettin. Eighty-eight persons, many of them youths, were reported jailed for the Stettin riot.

Trybuna Ludu, official organ of the Polish Communist party, has disclosed that a crowd had attacked a police building in Olesko, a town near the northeastern city of Bialystok.

Order was restored, the paper says, only after the arrival of several score of militiamen from Bialystok.

The Communist paper also reports that crowds demolished municipal offices at Gross Gierlachowice in the northern midlands.

APOLOGIZE TO MOSCOW

The paper adds: "More such incidents are to be reported."

Poland's nationalist Communist government, seeking to avert any repetition of the Soviet military intervention in Hungary, sped an apology to Moscow for the attack on the Russian consulate in the town of Stettin Monday night.

Newspapers which first played down the riots as drunken brawls, ignited by students, denounced the demonstrators attacked police headquarters and the local prosecutor's office, and tried to break open the jail.

ENTERED CONSULATE

The reports said the rioters were dispersed from the jail by security troops and police using tear gas. The attack on the Soviet consulate followed two hours later. The demonstrators got inside the building and damaged furniture. The paper did not report what happened to the consulate staff.

The riot aroused grave concern in Stettin. Students inside the Polish Communist party might join a suburban Scarborough protest to demand an end to Poland's current liberalization of government policy.

Torn $5 Bill May Be Clue In Murder Case

TORONTO (CP)—A torn $5 bill patched with adhesive tape is a clue in the murder of Wilma Boyd, mail truck driver who was shot and killed Friday night, police said today.

The repaired bill was part of the payroll mail in the 15 bags that were stolen after Boyd was killed on a lot at the rear of suburban Carlaw Avenue. A large downtown stores are watching for the torn bill and banks have been notified to be on the alert.

A fingerprint found on one of a number of registered parcels found near the slashed-open mail bags in a suburban Scarborough ditch is that of the man who mailed the parcel policy reported.

VIENNA (AP)—A protest strike against Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-imposed government went into its second day today in Hungary.

Word arrived in Austria of many isolated clashes between striking workers and Russian soldiers, but so far there was no word of any repetition of the bloody bath with which Soviet troops and tanks beat back the armed Hungarian revolt Nov. 4.

Kadar sent his security police and Soviet occupation troops to break up workers' demonstrations. The puppet premier vowed that, having defeated his foes militarily, "we will also defeat them politically."

Soviet troops were reported moving to wipe out a band of rebel guerrillas holding out in the hills northwest of Budapest. Informed Hungarian sources said the freedom fighters were encircled, fighting to escape extinction.

BROUGHT TO HALT

The general strike, ordered to last until midnight tonight, brought industry to a near-standstill in all but a few areas of the country, reported from Budapest that at least 80 per cent of Hungary's workers obeyed the stay-at-work order from the outlawed Central Workers' Council. The council also said the work stoppage was nearly 100 per cent effective in the provinces.

Moscow Radio and Kadar's Budapest broadcasting station played down the effectiveness of the strike, called to protest the Kadar regime's Soviet-backed action. But in its next words Budapest Radio called for a return to work.

The station quoted Kadar as saying that each day of the general strike cost the economy 500,000,000 florins (about $23,000,000).

Power plants, ran, but most of Budapest's big factories were closed. The sound of cannon and machine-gun fire could be heard in the capital. It appeared to come from the vicinity of Gellert Hill, base of the Soviet D1Dd Red Army is using as a base for tanks and artillery.

Homeless Family Given Assistance

TWEED (Special) — Village and district sympathy for a family of four rendered homeless by fire was tangibly exemplified here with presentations of money, food and clothes.

A week ago Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Courneya and two small children lost their home and contents when fire gutted the frame structure three miles north of this village.

A special village committee started a fund and on Tuesday Mrs. Courneya was presented with a purse of $266, a box of clothing, four bags of potatoes, and sealers of fruit. Collectors of the fund included Messrs. Francis Mahoney, Vincent Shannae, Jack Courneya and Peter Bergeron.

Employees of the Hydro Commission here, with which Mr. Courneya is associated, also started a fund and to date have collected $100. This amount with any additional contributions will be given Mr. Courneya at the weekly safety meeting on Friday morning.

It was the second disastrous blaze for the Courneya family. Five years ago they lost their barn when it was destroyed by lightning.

Hard Work and Co-operation Helped To Make Santa Claus Parade Success

It was through hard work and co-operation by dozens of people that the Santa Claus parade on Saturday proved such a success.

Shortly before eight in the morning, Miss Kay Homan, Harry Mulhall, George Rutledge and Bob Amm began applying make-up to the costumed persons in the procession, and at eleven the 23 floats and the many people in the parade left an area just west of the Moira St. fire hall, marched across the upper bridge, swung south on Front to Dundas and Pinnacle, then went north on Pinnacle to Station St., and returned to the fire hall where all walking participants were served coffee and doughnuts.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance, whose department sponsored the parade, said today that the co-operation and efforts of everyone connected with the parade contributed to its success.

All floats were made locally, the majority by firemen and the remainder by the high schools and a few stores. The costumes, which were rented for just over $600 for the day, were obtained in Toronto and Winnipeg. Two days before the parade it was realized that the 131 costumes procured from a Toronto firm were not enough so an order was immediately despatched to a Winnipeg firm which had the Old Chelsea Performers uniforms, worn by the tractor driver, in Belleville at exactly 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

The tractor, which was used to tow the floats were loaned by city tractor sales agents, and the wagons, which the floats were loaned by district farmers.

It is interesting to note that 6,000 packages of candies were distributed to children lining the streets and eagerly awaiting the arrival of Santa Claus.

Dozen Offers For Lodging Of Refugees Made

Response of Belleville and district residents to the appeal for accommodation for Hungarian refugees has been encouraging, it was reported today by George Whitman, co-ordinator for the Hungarian Refugee Committee established here on Monday.

With less than two days having elapsed since the formation of the refugee committee at least a dozen offers of accommodation, some of them for family units, have been received, according to Mr. Whitman.

The offers will be listed on special forms and forwarded to the provincial department of planning and development.

The Hungarian Refugee Committee, formed to assist in placing refugees on a local level is made up of representatives of local service and welfare organizations, along with municipal officials and representatives of the clergy.

PC Delegates From District Leave for Ottawa

With the National Progressive Conservative convention getting underway this afternoon at Ottawa a dozen or more Belleville and district delegates and party supporters left this morning to go to the capital city to attend at the appointing of a new national party leader.

Official delegates from the South Hastings riding to the national convention are Mrs. Dorothy Tuenett of Belleville, representing the ladies, Norman L. Rickett of Trenton, and Mr. Donald Bateman of Hunnerford township.

Others going to Ottawa to attend the convention were W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A. for West Hastings, and Mrs. Sandercock; Norris Whitney, M.L.A. for Prince Edward-Lennox, and Mrs. Whitney; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Grilli of Belleville; Mr. M. Coyle, Colborne; Mrs. Ethel Ostrom, Belleville; Mrs. Harry Bullins, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graham.

Mr. Sandercock and Mr. Whitney are delegates to the convention by virtue of their seats in the provincial legislature, while Mr. Grilli is also a delegate by reason of being the party candidate in the last federal election.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for East Hastings and Sam Curry of Tweed will also attend the convention.

Alternate delegates for the South Hastings riding are Aldermen Gerald Hyde and Ralph Graham and Mrs. Kenneth Vivian of Shannonville.

HELP ON WAY

Trapping Slow This Season; Rats Plentiful

Trappers in the Tweed district have got off to a slow start this season, according to Lands and Forests officials.

Poor ice conditions on the lakes which means many extra steps for trappers, is one of the causes. Another reason is that many waited until after the deer season before setting traps.

The prediction of last spring that muskrats would not be around this season is now contradicted as trappers, especially those of the northern parts say there are as many rats now, if not more, than there were last autumn.

This year for the first time, trappers can take their fur to many Lands and Forests offices during hours to have them sealed. Offices open for sealing are located at Tweed, Bancroft, Dacre, Palmer Rapids and Pierna.

Belleville Man Denied Right To Enter Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—A Belleville laborer who claims he was attacked by a circus lion was denied leave to appeal to the Appeal Court of Ontario in his $17,000 damage suit against the T. Green Amusement Company.

Clarence Young claimed the lion attacked him while he was working for the company near Quinte City last year.

The company denied the lion was vicious.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, describing the case as "almost as strange as the Wizard of Oz," said Tuesday there was little doubt that a lion is a vicious animal, but held that the case was a better one that did not justify leave to appeal.

Prime Minister Enjoys Game With Eisenhower

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent teamed up Tuesday with a United States golf professional on the green of the beautiful Augusta National course at Augusta, Ga.

The result: A clear win over President Eisenhower and his partners, Mrs. Ruth O'Donnell, the prime minister's daughter.

They said the professional and I won," Mr. St. Laurent said with a wide grin as he returned Tuesday night to the capital after a 10-day vacation at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Mr. St. Laurent and Ed Dudley, professional at the Augusta course beat Mr. Eisenhower and Mrs. O'Donnell in a nine-hole match.

Eight Persons Killed in Crash

A Phillips spokesman said there were no survivors.

In Washington, the Phillips office said those aboard were A.M. Bippel, W. C. Reed, C. W. Binckley, George Sneed, D. F. Mayfield and T. D. Young, all company officials or employees, and Joe Bowers and R. E. Ulrich, pilots.

58 Below Zero In Dawson City

EDMONTON (CP) — Dawson Creek in the Yukon was the coldest spot in Canada Tuesday night as chilly weather was reported generally with sub-zero weather stretching from the Lakehead to the Rockies and no letup in sight.

The temperature was 58 below at Dawson City at midnight, almost as cold as some points in Alaska where the mercury was 60 below and still going down.

On the Prairies Tuesday south winds gusting to gale force created blizzard conditions in Saskatchewan and Manitoba where temperatures averaged 10 below.

Canadian Trade Deficit Climbs To Record Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's overall foreign trade deficit rose to an unprecedented high in the third quarter of 1956, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Transactions with other countries in goods and services resulted in a deficit of $292,000,000 for the July-September period, or double the same quarter of 1955 when the deficit was $89,000,000.

The bureau said the third-quarter figure was below deficits for the preceding two quarters of the year but the "underlying imbalance continued to be very great, and general influences giving rise to a widening deficit continued to be strong."

It said in the third quarter of the year current receipts normally are larger in relation to current payments than in earlier periods of the year. Several times in recent years small current surpluses have emerged in the third quarter.

RECORD TRADE DEFICIT

For the first nine months of the year the deficit totalled $984,000,000, compared with $437,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1955 and $632,000,000 for all of that year.

ON SIGNS AND CAR LIGHTS

New signs are blossoming on highways and streets throughout Ontario. The Highways Department's new color scheme, with different colors indicating different types of instructions, is not only improving the appearance of our highways but should also assist in reducing the number of accidents.

Easily read signs, though, are of little use if they are not so placed as to be easily noticed and read. The Department of Highways makes few mistakes. The same, however, cannot be said of some cities. We recently drove through a town which had equipped itself with new stop signs. Bright red lettering on a gleaming white background, made them stand out — in daylight. At night, if the motorist is driving, as he should be in the city, with his car's lights on the low beam he would see nothing but a slim steel post until much too late to stop.

Something of the same hazard exists on provincial highways at railway crossings. Very often wig-wag signs are placed too high to be distinguished when an approaching car's lights are dimmed. If the wig-wag is in motion, it would almost certainly be seen, so there may be some who will argue that the height of the signs is no drawback. That would be true if all motorists approached crossings with the caution which should be used. Unfortunately, when the driver approaches two or three crossings, slows down to a reasonable speed, no automatic signal is visible and then discovers that such a signal is there but placed too high for one to see it, the temptation is great to take it for granted that the next crossing is similarly equipped and that the reason he did not see the wig-wag was because it was not moving and not in existence, in any meaningful sense. So he does not slacken speed sufficiently—and discovers, too late to stop, that this crossing has no wig-wag. Then, if there is no accident, it is just luck.

The fact that some signs are placed above the level at which they are easily seen when car lights are dimmed suggests a possible method for a motorist to check on the lights of his car. Most of us have met cars whose lights are blinding. Perhaps, on flicking the lights of our car ahead off, we have had the experience of having return the signal and have discovered that those blinding lights are supposed to be "dim," that they are the least blinding of the two beams. Or perhaps we have had the equally unpleasant experience of having an approaching car flick its lights frantically at us when our own car lights are on the low beam.

Why couldn't the Department of Highways, at intervals on heavily travelled roads, install signs by which lights could be tested. A warning sign could say: "Light testing signs ahead." A second sign could read: "Testing spot." Then, if with the car lights on the low beam we could distinguish a fourth and target sign ahead, we should know our lights were too high. Many motorists neglect having their car lights set at regular intervals. But most would make these simple tests on the road. And the great majority of those who learned that their lights were out of adjustment would take action to have this rectified. A series of somewhat the same nature is offered now in the "measured miles" which are to be found on our highways. The light testing signs, we feel, would also serve a useful purpose.

THE DEVIL DRIVES

Most Canadians are familiar with the excellent work accomplished by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The blind, though, live in all the countries of the world. Not all of them have the good fortune to be served by organizations as efficient as the CNIB. In fact, many countries, men and women blinded in war services have, since 1915, been able to obtain the services of the institutions has established in Britain's shores. Its latest annual report, which has just reached this desk, says that "our total family numbers 2,600 of whom 450 are now literate overseas," though the passing of time since the end of the Second Great War has naturally reduced the demand for St. Dunstan's services to new victims of blindness, forty new cases were admitted to benefits during the past twelve months.

Some of the things which the blind can be taught to do are marvellous. With a Braille micrometer, a blind person can make measurements to an accuracy of one ten-thousandth of an inch.

How do the blind manage to accomplish so much? Do they develop a sixth sense?

"I think not," writes Sir Ian Fraser, chairman of the Council of St. Dunstan's, himself blind. "Nor do the senses of hearing, touch, smell and taste become more acute, but they are more intelligently used simply because needs must when the devil drives."

The devil drives well—with St. Dunston's assistance.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LAUGHTER

If laughter were not ours to share
And solemn folks were everywhere,
If all we knew were pomp and pride
And no one saw life's comic side,
We'd nothing see throughout the town
But people with a constant frown.

A dog, although considered dumb,
Delights to see his master come.
And mothers think it most worth while
When first the baby starts to smile.

That signs the first all infants make
That they have found it good to live.

Without the chuckle, soft and low,
This world would be a vale of woe.

If no one smiled as we drew near,
The joy of life would disappear.
Few lasting friendships would occur
If faces always solemn were.

Beards Will Solve All

By E. J. Penny in the St ratford Beacon- Herald

Practically all jokes about beards have withdrawn to shame. That being the case, it is proposed to keep levity out of the beard article. We feel that the time has come to discuss beards seriously and with the dignity their appearance assures. For beards are becoming fashionable. It is discovered that shaving the beard is one of the primary causes of baldness, as it cuts off hair-raising hormones which would benefit the head. These hormone-raising days we need all the hormones we can possibly get. But in addition to the physical aspects of the case, there are economic and social considerations which deserve attention.

* * *

In the first place, think of the saving in money effected by not having to buy razor blades. Hardly a month goes by in our household without our having to lay out twenty cents for a packet of blades. Over the years it is quite a financial item. Those blades of course, will still be a household necessity for cutting woodwork and for sharpening pencils and such, but these can be had with care, one razor blade will last a long time for such jobs.

Of far greater importance is the saving in time by not having to shave every morning. Consider, are, the average householder perfect to a pretty prim habit of shaving himself in front of his own face in the shaving mirror. He would be a clever man if he did it for a nasty scrape, but he has to keep right on facing it for at least a month, unless he has learned to shave by the Braille system.

By letting his beard grow he is saved all the mental infirmity and time involved in the fact that he has to face in the mirror is his own face. He would be a stick and a stone if at the end of his face in the mirror, he does not see a luxuriant growth of flowing hair, and immediately his ego is built up. He knows that, with a beard like that, people will be going to be much handsomer than ever before what he really looks come back.

* * *

When we get back to beards we may be bound to have a return to courtesy in this overcrowded old world. For example, just take a look at the old photograph of the Fathers of Confederation. There you see statesmen you know you can trust, men to be guided by, with their whiskers. And those portraits of City and County Councils, all done days what chastity, what assurance gazes back at us from his face. The last thing he would do is run in fashion. Smile if you will, and you'll be a stick and a stone if you do, but there are beards and beards.

* * *

I have in a number of cases, in many years, drawn from my own face in the shaving mirror, and I have found that the more I looked into the whole of my face in the mirror, the more one's luxuriant growth of flowing hair grew, and immediately his ego is built up. He knows that, with a beard like that, people will be going to be much handsomer than ever before what he really looks come back.

What Goes on Under Crust?

Edmonton Journal

A California scientist I have met is the inventor of a device to be used as part of the International Geophysical Year program next year, a device which will probe deeper into the earth, to acquire knowledge of geology and of earthquakes.

The scientist is a rather striking man in human knowledge. Not only has he invented a device which is a height of over 70,000 feet and which will carry a variety of instruments, have been sent to a point of 120 miles, which is three times the height of the stratosphere and the limit of the atmosphere, but in his telescopes, instruments have been placing peer into space for distances of 1,000 million light years, and they have assisted a thousand times the normal formation about at least the nearby heavenly bodies.

Now he has scientific explorations of the earth beneath his feet have in mind. Indeed, he has a plan to drive shafts no deeper than much beyond a mile. Some of the deepest mines are only a little over 12,000 feet. Beyond that point, the only way to penetrate the earth's crust is by a steel or shock waves passed through the earth, and analyzed by an electronic brain, which produces liquid material, but under such pressure that it does not melt nor flow. The only thing to do at the surface is, for that the central core of the earth, and which has been mediately under the other shell of rock which forms the surface, are matters of dispute.

It is probably safe to say, in fact, but we know far more about the surface of the moon, or even Mars, than we do about the interior of our own planet.

The proposed bore-hole shaft would not solve these mysteries, but it should provide the first beginnings to examine "cores" of material from depths far greater than any so far reached. It is to be hoped that the project will be attempted.

B.C. Planning To Make Cider

Vancouver Sun

It is gratifying news from the Lake that cider will be soon available in larger stores. If enough can be produced to meet the demand of the public, undoubtedly there will be a return to the days when cider was a popular drink with meals. Cider is a product which has been available only in small quantities for many years, and has been largely confined to the non-alcoholic type. Some of the finest cider in the world comes from the Okanagan Valley, and it is to be hoped that it will be available in quantity.

Some of the finest cider in the world comes from the Okanagan Valley, and it is to be hoped that it will be available in quantity.

Many countries have their own particular brands of cider, and the quality and flavor depend largely on the apples used. Some countries prefer a sweet cider, while others like a dry cider. Some countries make cider from crab-apples, while others use the ordinary eating apple. Some countries make cider from a single variety of apple, while others use a blend of several varieties.

In Canada, we have a number of varieties of apples which are suitable for cider making. # Queen's Own Will Be Calgary-Bound By Rail Friday

HALIFAX (CP)—The 1rt battalion, Queen's Own Rifles today began preparing to leave here for Calgary.

The Queen's Own, originally scheduled to go to Egypt as part of Canada's contribution to the United Nations Middle East police force, were to haul kits and other battalion equipment from the carrier Magnificent. They will be Calgary - bound by rail Friday. Some were to sta:t the trip Thursday.

Magnificent's crew not must load supplies for between 500 and 600 mechanics, electricians, and signalmen, plus a host of clerks who have been ordered to Egypt.

"We're sorry to see the Queen's Own go," said Capt. A. B. Fraser-Harris, who installed the crack infantry battalion at honorary crew members of the carrier during their month-long wait here.

Col. C. P. McPherson, commander of the troops, said "friends have been made in Halifax that will last a lifetime."

The Magnificent, lying at her pier below Stadacona naval base for a month on 24-hour notice to leave for Egypt, is scheduled to sail Dec. 28.

Trucks and jeeps adorn her flight deck, while below tons of food have been stored—originally for the infantrymen but now for the administrative troops.

There won't be an operation "rapid step" to reload the ship this time, naval officials say. Equipment common to all units will be kept aboard and the rest will be placed aboard as it comes during the next 16 days.

When the QOR made its fast hop by air from Calgary last month, it took only five days to strip the Magnificent of guns, make accommodations for the soldiers, and take aboard their supplies. Then the ship made a hasty return to base here from Glasgow, Scotland.

Minister Praises 'Heroic Effort' Of West World

LONDON (CP) — Immigration Minister J. W. Pickersgill of Canada said Tuesday night the Western world's "heroic effort" to deal with the Hungarian refugee problem "still is not good enough."

The minister, who has been making a personal inspection tour of refugee camps in Austria, Western Germany, Holland, Belgium and France, said the situation in Austria is "so critical the sooner we get everyone out of there the better."

"It is my impression," he said at a press conference held within an hour of his arrival from France, "that Russia hopes the problem will get too big for the Western world to handle.

"That must never happen."

UP TO 25,000

The minister hinted that Canada will take at least 20,000 to 25,000 refugees.

"We have already made arrangements for 7,500 refugees to be in, or on the way to, Canada by the first of the year. By the end of January the figure will be approximately 10,000 refugees."

He added:

"I wouldn't be worried about trying to take another 10,000-15,000 refugees starting the first of March."

It was the first time Pickersgill has allowed himself to give the slightest hint of the number of refugees Canada might consider taking in the New Year.

He also said that Canadian Embassy officials in Austria have been approached by representatives of the Budapest Opera and Ballet Company about the possibility of company members immigrating to Canada. He said he understood discussions are going on with a group in Montreal but "I have no detailed information about it." At least 20 members of the 100-strong company are known to be in Austria.

THOMPSON—HOLBERT

Yellow chrysanthemums in tall white standards, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely background at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holbert, Rodlin, for the marriage on Saturday, November 24, at 7:30 p.m., of their eldest daughter, Una Pauline Holbert, to Elmer Freeman Thompson, of Moira, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson. The Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, officiated, assisted by Mr. George Dyson.

Mr. Fred Porter of Thomasburg, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the bride's ten-year-old sister, Miss Barbara Holbert, as she sang during the signing of the register, "Because."

The street-length skirt was gracefully full. She wore a matching blue feather hat, and matching choker with matching earrings, the gift of her bridegroom, and carried a cascade of red Premier roses with white satin streamers.

She was attended by Miss Iva Thompson of Moira, sister of the bridegroom, who was attired in cinnamon-shade crystalette, with matching feather hat. She carried a nosegay of yellow bronze mums.

The bridegroom's mother, powered in rust, wool, with black velvet hat, black accessories, and corsage of light bronze mums, assisted in the receiving line.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with a Scotch lace cloth over blue to three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and misted about the base with pale pink tulle, and flanked by tall icing candles in red-branched wrought iron candelabra. The bridal bouquet also lent a lovely magical accent.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

"Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!"

The other day we were in one of our local banks. Ahead of us at the teller's cage was a young man, oh, about four and one-half feet tall and possibly twelve years of age. The teller, a young lady, served the young gentleman. When she gave him the money, he looked at her directly without boldness and said, "Thank you and goodbye." The boy turned and walked away erect, with dignity. Anyone would take another look and no doubt say to herself, as we did, "What a splendid lad." It was his manner and his bearing. It stuck out all over him, if you will pardon the colloquialism.

As we stepped forward to take our place at the wicket, the teller was still looking after the excellent as he stepped manfully and alertly from the bank. She commented as much to herself as to us, "What a manly boy! He is certainly more polite than most we wait on. Isn't it wonderful?" We had noticed the courtesy and had been impressed, too, so we talked about the young stranger who had left his mark on each of us.

It is a little episode, a minor incident, a modest lesson, but it was an impressive experience that we are sure the teller, like us, felt better for the rest of the day. A little courtesy leads itself to respect which is a necessary ingredient of true culture. We are happy to have crossed paths with somebody's son who said — "What's more, he be a Man."

GOING SHOPPING?

In the Christmas season, candy, nuts, and fruits have a special place on the shopper's list. A large bowl of apples, oranges and grapes on the buffet or as a centre for the table is a festive sight.

We would like to say a word here about oranges. The Florida early varieties which we are receiving now are naturally pale in color even when ready to drop from the tree due to ripeness. In California, however, the oranges were colored with a dye certified by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. This year the Canadian Minister of Health has ordered the discontinuance of this practice of dyeing oranges, so that all the oranges sold in Canada are now natural color.

All oranges shipped from Florida must pass rigid maturity tests. Reports from all over the U.S. and Canada indicate that Florida oranges this year are unusually juicy and sweet. So don't be misled by the pale color of Florida oranges. They are the same product as other years. They contain more juice and vitamin C than any other oranges available at the same time of year. We have, too, that the small California orange is scarce now, so that the Californias will run to larger sizes.

Many recipes for cakes and cookies at the holiday season call for gum-drops in their many colors. You may now buy packages of small size gumdrops, especially suited for this purpose.

One item that may be on many a list for the younger set is the new hooded sweater. The bulky wool-knit hooded sweater is so practical as it is pretty. It is a delight to see Christmas wrapping colors dominating the fashion scene at this time. Bright reds and green contrast with white, silver, and gold, while sequins and brilliants put a sparkle over all. Many frocks are still of a rustly stiffness, but chiffon is also coming into its own.

It was decided to have the January meeting on January 4th, instead of the regular date, as it fell too near New Year's Day. This meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Charles Stewart.

"Family Night" is being planned for February, to be held in Sentinel Orange Hall at Petherick's Corners.

Mrs. Spencer gave a brief outline of the highlights of the short course on "Making a Good Officer," held recently at Menie Institute Hall under the auspices of Seymour East W.I. Mrs. Carl Reid was convener for the balance of the meeting.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T BE IN A HURRY TO REMARRY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My wife died two years ago, and since then my daughter, now 12, and I have lived with my mother.

During these past two years, I've gone out very little, preferring to spend all my leisure time with my daughter. I don't want her ever to feel neglected or too keenly aware that she has no mother.

Just recently, however, I met a young woman to whom I'm very much attracted. I've taken her out a few times and I feel that, if I continue to do so, it could easily result in my falling in love with her. Since the attraction seems to be mutual, I might as well admit I've been thinking definitely of marriage. There's one thing, however, that makes me wonder if I should continue my association with this young woman. This is that she seems to take no interest in my daughter and somehow has managed to give me the impression that if I ever ever to marry again, the child should continue to live with her grandmother. To this, I would never consent.

Now I'm in a state of confusion as to whether I should continue seeing this young woman and hope her attitude would change, or whether I should stay on the safe side and not risk complication before it becomes more involved.

— Henry M.

Dear Henry M.:

It would appear that your girl friend, either all by herself or through your attitude towards her, has read your state of mind very well and is not interested at the right now that she wouldn't care to mother another woman's child.

Any normal woman—or, shall we say, any woman of the type fit for a widower with a child should want to marry?—would be eager to take a motherless child into her heart and care, and would look forward with warm and affectionate eagerness to the day when she could begin trying to make up to the little girl for the loss she suffered.

The attitude you describe suggests a person who has something wrong with her emotionally, and, to me, it would be a warning signal of trouble ahead if you asked this young woman to marry you.

You're undoubtedly still a comparatively young man, with plenty of time ahead in which to enjoy a happy marriage. You tell me you've been living a very restricted life since your wife's death, so it's not surprising that the first young woman who attracted you at all should make an exaggerated impression on you. I'd advise you to go very slowly on dates with her—and, so, to put aside any thought of marriage for some time to come—and to start right now to put yourself in the way of every possible opportunity for meeting other young women.

YULE MEAL FOR DOGS

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Christmas dinner for the dogs at the city pound has arrived from an anonymous donor—just as it has for the last four years. Accompanying the 68 cans of dog food and four boxes of biscuits was a card identical to one received each year and signed "in memory of Chubby and Beauty."

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR HOLIDAY CRUISE

«If you are one of the lucky ones who "saved" your vacation and are now busily planning and packing for a holiday cruise under balmy skies, you'll not only have a lot of fun, but, from a beauty point of view, your two or three weeks can make you a changed woman—and delightfully so!

This is your chance to soak up sun, learn to relax and lose tension lines in your face, take up the sag in your figure and the slack in your posture and do a dozen other things for which, ordinarily, you are convinced you haven't the time. You can come back looking radiant and younger. These are big promises but they hold good for all the white collar misses. Fulfillment of them, oddly enough, depends not upon a strenuous program of hectic activity but a determinedly mild course of action. After all, there's nothing strenuous about lazing in the sun and that, both on ship and on shore, is what you should do if you'd make the most of your cruise.

Aside from the lovely way sunshine makes you look and feel, your muscles of lying around on the deck or tropical beach with the warm rays caressing you are wonderfully relaxing. Many of those threatening wrinkles simply vanish when you let your nerves and muscles become unkinked—and you'd have to be a terribly stubborn woman to remain tensed while sunning yourself.

If your job is one that keeps you under pressure, what you learn for yourself about relaxing during these weeks can help you to make an entirely fresh start when you return to work. Do not take your work or your family worries with you on your vacation. Be simple-minded in your play. Think only of what you are doing at the moment and enjoy it. The sun should make you feel like purring, a swim should make you feel lean-and and free; a ride, through lush, tropical vegetation, to the top of a hill should give you a delightful sense of distance and perspective.

When you are absorbed in these pleasant sensations, you nearly always forget your grievances and troubles. Try to remember that trick when you go back to your routine living.

Almost without realizing it, the slim lest white collar girl gets some exercise on her vacation. That's because exercise on vacation is classed as recreation and fun. A mere two weeks of the mildest activity can tone your muscles and put you in better shape. Sell some of your friends on the idea of swimming at a pool or playing badminton at a gym as a regular for-fun program throughout the year and you will remain in the fine shape you find yourself at the end of your cruise. Bon voyage!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DAUGHTER'S NAME IN CHRISTMAS CARD SIGNATURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. This Christmas will be a very special one for us. Now we have a little girl, and naturally we want to include her name on our Christmas cards. Recently I noticed that you stated in your column that the correct signature was the father's name first: for example, "Jack and Dot and Doris." Isn't it just as correct to write "Jack, Dot and Doris"? I've been doing this on my personal greeting cards.

2. Would it also be correct to write, "Jack, Dot and Doris says, 'Ale too!'"? — Dot

1. Yes.

2. Since I am sure you wish the "Ale too" to mean what Doris says, I suggest you make a new sentence. For example: "Christmas greetings from Jack and Dot. And Doris says, 'me too!'"

SHE WANTS TO BE PERSUADED TO TYPE CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've just received a portable type writer for my birthday. I want to put it to good use by typing my lonnage of Christmas card envelopes. Is this proper? (P.S. My handwriting is totally illegible.) — S.

I'm quite sure that you don't really expect me to tell you that it is "proper" for you to type your Christmas card envelopes! It is definitely not proper to type the names of Christmas cards . . . of the personal personality" of these non-impersonal mass items should be featured by having the envelope hand-written. It's true, . . . don't you agree? . . . that there is something very heart-warming in the familiar handwriting of a friend, and at Christmastime particularly we are thrilled to see the friend's handwriting on the envelope bringing the welcome card to us.

However, if you prefer to be so good at the flexibility of your handwriting that you won't take the trouble to make it legible, I must tell you that I can see definite legibility-possibilities in your signature, which is really a very interesting signature) and also if you are so lured by the ease of using this shining new birthday present to address your envelopes. I doubt very much indeed that you would be actually interested in being persuaded as to the propriety of hand-writing your Christmas card envelopes.

No matter what you did last Christmas, the pre-portable-type-writer Christmas' I'll wager your friends had a happy time welcoming your hand-written envelopes! And, since you didn't mention any envelope-returns, I judge you made a good effort to make your writing legible for the mail-carriers!

Soft Chiffon Scarf

By ALICE ALDEN

Chiffon is at home in fashion this year appearing in everything from exquisite day and evening things to hats, and other lovely accessories, which, of course, includes the scarf. The subtle touch of chiffon is at its best in a scarf designed to soften a simple costume or to fill in a neckline. Here we have the fragile fabric gently pasteled into soft Edwardian tints, draping gently into a floating fill-in, it shows off its border of appliqued flowers aglow with pearls.

Hold That Line

By Mary Moore

Forewarned is forearmed. This oz. water, 3 tablespoons honey is for the plumps or those who fat an alternative to 6 tablewho am 5' 4 3-4" tall—weigh spoons dextrose or corn syrup or —who am 5' 4 3-4" tall—weigh 131 pounds. In a talkative out 4 tablespoons sugar) and 1 oz. of-way I've been reducing with lemon juice. very little results for three I'm months. I want to weigh only 123 pounds.

I know very well that by the time I step on the scales on January 2nd, after all of the holiday temptations, that there may be a lot more pounds to take off—unless serious restrictions of my food consumption are planned.

So, with all this inward conviction and outward curves, I committed myself out loud to trying the fabulous formula, after reading the December issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. Now I'm committing myself on paper which is a thousand times more binding.

In telling you what I did and am going to do I want to say that if you do it too you are making your own decision after you have asked your doctor for his go ahead.

I made up the formula at night: 10 oz. evaporated milk, 8 oz. water, 3 tablespoons honey and a tumbler in the refrigerator and went to bed.

In the morning I sipped 5 oz. of it after giving it a good shake, plus 2 cups of clear coffee. It was surprisingly good and satisfying. I added a little to the oil taste. I may try olive or peanut oil on subsequent days. I am trying it one day on and one day on to avoid nutritional deficiency.

I let one pound after consuming all of the 20 oz. of formula in 1 day (3 oz. breakfast; 5 oz. lunch; 10 oz. dinner) and water and clear coffee and tea—about 4 cups in all.

Today I ate for breakfast one soft-cooked egg, I sectioned orange and 2 cups clear coffee. For lunch I will have 2 oz. liverwurst, 4 oz. cottage cheese on lettuce, 1 apple, 4 oz. skim milk. For dinner tonight I will have a broiled minced beef cake (6 oz.) and a generous serving of broccoli, a green salad with a little French Dressing and 1-2 grapefruit. Tomorrow the formula again.

I must add here that I do 20 minutes' worth of exercising every day; ten minutes in the morning and the other ten minutes spread out over spurts when I pass mirrors in the house. That mirror passing and a view of my silhouette seems to throw me into a flurry of exercising.

I feel fine too. Allick and Kee gave Marianne a birthday gift of a phone call to me and she will be home with Gary for Christmas. Wasn't it a charming gift?

Now I can go on with reducing with a will. Care to join me?

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ann Archer, DIETITIAN OF 21

Probably one of the most rewarding New Year's resolutions you and dad can make is to bring that baby biography up to date. A record of all baby's "firsts" (sprinkled liberally with snapshots) is not only fun to review and chuckle over, but provides an accurate source of information for baby's doctor.

First sparkly teeth may be a point of pride for parents, but they're often accompanied by considerable discomfort for baby. Gerber Teething Biscuits go a long way toward comforting baby. Made of wholesome ingredients, they're hard-baked to an extra-smooth surface that provides the biting satisfaction baby wants and needs. The special shape makes them easy for tiny hands to hold. And each one is wrapped in cellophane for carrying purposes when you and baby go gallivantin'.

Delightful duet for the carriage set. Gerber Strained Garden Vegetables and Gerber Cereal Squash. The Garden Vegetables are a subtle blend of peas, carrots and spinach for an unusual taste surprise—rich in iron and vitamin A value. The Squash is colorful and mild in flavor—rich in protein and calcium. These good tasting vegetables are just two of over 70 Gerber Baby Foods . . . made by specialists.

"Shop" first. If your baby has to take baby when you go shopping for baby supplies, take him after a meal. A baby refreshed from seeing less apt to fuss and more apt to coo quietly. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Dept. of preoccupation. Why is it that babies seem to wiggle most during diaper changes? Two simple ways to reduce squirming: (1) Keep a favorite toy that you give baby only at changing time. (2) Turn on the radio for a bit of background music. In both cases distract him just before you lay him down.

Springbrook W.A. Re-elects 1956 Officers

The December meeting of Springbrook United church Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Murney Mason.

Following the playing of quiet carol music by the organist, Mrs. Carman Sine, a welcome was extended to all by the president, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt.

The worship period taken from the leaflet "Christmas Service of Worship," was conducted by Mrs. Bert McCoy, the "theme being God's Gift of Light."

A duet "Silent Night, Holy Night," was rendered by Mrs. G. Bateman and Mrs. G. Bailey.

The meditations were read by Mrs. P. Smith, Mrs. G. Broadworth and Mrs. H. Haslett, followed by the carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and closed with prayer.

The members reported 43 cards and eight calls for the past month.

Reports from the flower and quilt committee were given.

The correspondence was read and dealt with.

Special thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson for the runner placed in the church porch.

Mrs. F. Cosbey, treasurer, reported on the anniversary supper showing a profit of $134.82.

Mrs. George Thompson was given an honored chair and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, president, read a presentation address after which Mrs. Kenneth Thompson presented her with a W.A. life membership pin and certificate, being donated to her by her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thompson.

Mrs. Burkitt congratulated Mrs. G. Thompson on the honor bestowed on her as a member of the W.A.

The Rev. H. Beare also extended congratulations to Mrs. Thompson on her honor and recognition.

Although completely taken by surprise, Mrs. Thompson thanked everyone who in any way had taken a part in her cherished honor.

A short program followed in keeping with the Christmas season.

The topic on "Christmas" was given by Mrs. D. Fleming and readings by Mrs. P. Smith on the United church emblem.

"Keeping Christmas" by Mrs. H. Mumby and one by Mrs. T. McKeown.

As this was the annual meeting the meeting was handed over to Mr. Beare to conduct.

The yearly reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. G. Webb and the treasurer, Mrs. F. Cosbey.

Mr. Beare thanked the organization for the co-operation during the past year and although there had been much expense and labor much has been accomplished.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The 1956 officers were re-elected for the year 1957.

The January meeting will be held in the church basement in the form of a pot-luck dinner, with Mrs. R. McKeown and Mrs. D. Fleming as hostesses.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

Bright Red Topper

By TRACY ADRIAN

From California comes the design of this graceful, swirling coat made of jersey in one of the new "hot" reds. And it is the perfect coat to see you right through the winter and on into spring.

The topper has slim shoulders, a throat buttoned high with a single self-button, and the sleeves bell out above the elbows. They are push-up styled and come to below the elbow for popular fashion length and are pictured with the longer gloves.

HUBBY'S ERROR

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP) — A woman who bought a suit at a church rummage sale learned that Bill Ward had inadvertently delivered his wife's suit, destined for the cleaners, along with articles intended for the sale. She returned it, and Bill is out of the doghouse.

STORK RACES

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Cabdriver Addie Schiavo three nights in a row drove expectant mothers to hospital. Twice he got them there just in time. But he lost one of the racers, when a baby was born in his cab just as he was pulling into the hospital grounds.

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES CLUB

Mrs. Earl Burnside opened her home for the members of Trinity Ladies Club. There was a splendid attendance with Mrs. Carl House presiding.

The ensuing business included a discussion on a proposed public address system for the church.

A nominating committee included Mrs. Howes, Mrs. Adams and Miss Anne Nickle.

The meeting was then given over to Mrs. George Devolin who had prepared a most interesting program. For the devotional period the members sang, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by a prayer.

Mrs. Devolin featured the 12 months of the year by calling on several members for stories and poems. Some of these were gay and some quite serious but all were important, reflecting through each month our way of life. Among those taking part were Mrs. Arbic, Miss Grace Roney, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Stickwood, Mrs. McGowan and Mrs. Beatty.

At the close of the program the club members presented Mrs. Ed Arbic with a cup and saucer. Mrs. Arbic expressed her appreciation. Mrs. Arbic and daughters will be moving to Bancroft very soon, where Mr. Arbic is manager of the Toronto-Dominion bank.

A pleasant social time followed.

ST. PETER'S WOMEN'S CLUB

MADOC — Miss Lamoine West was hostess to the members of St. Peter's Presbyterian Women's Club on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. K. Nicol was the program convener and the club enjoyed hearing Miss Faye Robertson give the speech which has brought her such success in the public speaking contests in the Ontario school.

Mrs. Alvey had charge of the devotional period assisted by Mrs. R. Lewis. The club was also favored by having the high school boys' quartet, Messrs Doug McGowan, Bob Reid, Larry Stickwood and Rupert Howse. The quartet is under the direction of Miss West.

Christmas songs and carol singing were enjoyed by the club members.

A pleasant social hour followed the close. Mrs. Mac Wood and Mrs. Harry Stout assisted the hostess.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD WMS

The November meeting of Plainfield WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Grant Kerr.

Mrs. Clayton Hall, president, opened with a hymn and the Korean version of the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Fred Hall took charge of the devotional. Mrs. G. Denyes read Psalm 84 and Mrs. Hall gave a meditation on "God Has His Plan." Mrs. J. Salmon read "The Case of the Forty Hungry Guests." Mrs. Hall closed with a poem and prayer.

Mrs. Clarence Hall, Christian stewardship secretary, read a letter from Mrs. G. Coulter about the allocation for 1957. The missionary for prayer is Miss Olive Shaw, Winnipeg. All branches exceeded their allocation last year.

Mrs. J. Skelly gave a temperance reading "Ten Commandments from Texas."

Mrs. Skelly introduced Mrs. Jack Williams Belleville vice-president, Belleville East Section, the guest speaker.

Mrs. Williams gave a challenge, "Go—Let Go—Help Go." She compared our way of life to the difference in India. A life span in India is 27 years and the annual income $100. There is one nurse for each 7,000 people; one doctor for each 40,000. She closed her speech with "Will you work in My fields today?"

Mrs. Middleton thanked Mrs. Williams for visiting the Society.

Mrs. W. Sills was the group leader.

Mrs. Emerson gave a reading on "Sumatra" by Robert Pierce.

Mrs. McCrea sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Sills "Wonderful, Wonderful Jesus." Mrs. Sills read "A Case of a Fire-Walking Sorceress in Africa," and the power of evil spirits.

Mrs. Sills closed the meeting.

Attendance was 19 adults and two children.

Collection was $7.49.

Mrs. Sills' group and hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Contact Club Has Enjoyable Yuletide Party

A large number of members and guests, including Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, Rev. E. P. Smith and Mrs. Smith, were present at Christ Church parish hall to enjoy the annual Christmas party of the Contact Club.

The games were varied and hilarious and the Christmas spirit prevailed the entire evening.

The program was under the direction of Margaret Wiggins and her group who started evening with a name game. Names pinned to the back of each member had to be guessed and the antics to read names without revealing your own were a sight to behold. This lively game was won by Aileen Smith.

Blowing the feather and keeping it on a sheet held at chin length, left all breathless, and realizing one is much older than one is willing to admit. Mrs. Everett Smith's team proved superior in this art.

Always a favorite game, bingo, followed and the lucky winners were: Frances Anderson, Isobel Murray, Betty Morris, Mary Rompen, Myra Cresswell and Dorothy Sloan.

Have you ever tried eating jello with a partner, the spoons tied together? Four couples tried and discovered just how awkward and difficult it was. It was a rare sight and created much merriment. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan and Marguerite Cooke finished their dish first.

GUESSING SONGS

Guessing the songs dated all, and Barbara Sweet, with almost a perfect score, had the oldest and best memory.

The film on the "Sun 'N Shade Fair," was again shown and members enjoyed seeing themselves as others see them.

Mr. Smith and his eight teammates lifted the cotton snowballs with a spoon faster than the other teams and won the last game of the evening.

With only the soft glow of the Christmas tree lights penetrating the room the members sang the beloved Christmas carols with Dorothy Sloan at the piano.

Catherine Roulet read the old standby poem, "'Twas the Night Before Christmas," and then gifts were distributed by Santa and her assistants, Aileen Smith and Betty Ling.

After the enjoyment of the gifts, Margaret Wiggins and her group presided at the buffet luncheon table which was gaily decorated with candles and a charming centrepiece of green boughs and choir boy candles.

NEW OFFICERS

The newly elected officers for 1957 were introduced and Catherin Roulet thanked all the members and her 1956 executive for their co-operation and wished Alice Wonnacott every success in the coming year.

The lively program of entertainment, the feeling of good fellowship and delicious refreshments, all blended to produce a successful party and everyone departed glad they had come.

Costs and gains in an expanding economic horizon

Extracts of addresses
delivered at the 90th Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce

"Today we consider ourselves faced with the problem of reconciling the diverse aspects of economic growth with the desire to maintain a measure of stability," said James Stewart, C.B.E., President, addressing the 90th Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

SINCE we met together a year ago we have seen a further resurgence of the dynamic growth which has generally characterized the Canadian scene during the past decade. A little time ago, concern was expressed by some observers as to the vitality of our economy. The recovery experienced in 1955 to which I referred last year was notable in itself, but it is even more encouraging to witness continuing strong and favourable economic forces throughout the country.

I think it a fair appraisal of attitudes that economic growth generally is desired. Moreover, I would venture that the kind of expansion we have been experiencing is anticipated to continue in the months and years ahead of us, although the pace may slacken for a time. Unquestionably this desire for expansion is laudatory, but at the same time it must be emphasized that economic growth creates costs as well as gains.

Only two years ago we were concerned with the question of how best to regenerate our lagging rate of expansion. Today we consider ourselves faced with the problem of reconciling the diverse aspects of economic growth with the desire to maintain a measure of stability.

AT the present time we seem to be facing a dilemma and before considering the forces involved in our current position I shall, in brief compass, outline this problem as it presently appears to me. Assuming that we want economic growth, we should ask ourselves if we can contain through appropriate policy measures the distortions that necessarily accompany changing economic relationships. Perhaps we should put more emphasis on creating a wider awareness of the costs as well as the gains in this economic phenomenon and that one of the costs is reflected in relatively higher income levels. If, on the other hand, our sights become focused on economic stability — however this may be interpreted — are we in danger, in applying various brakes, of dampening out or drying up the forces responsible for our present economic growth?

We must continually remind ourselves that our economy has two major facets — the domestic and the international — and the international facet influences the domestic scene.

On the international side, it is well to keep in mind that, although our industrialization grows apace, we can not, for the foreseeable future, expect to achieve economic self-sufficiency. Despite, or it may even be because of this industrialization, our imports have grown rapidly and far from even approaching self-sufficiency it would seem that we shall end the year with a deficit in our merchandise balance of payments of record proportions. We have not yet developed a wide diversity of exports — — which continue to be represented, in the main, by raw materials or partly processed raw materials indigenous to this country. I am compelled to suggest that we must give an increasing amount of attention to widening and diversifying our foreign markets. And while I am on the subject of current trade imbalances, which to the present have been offset by foreign investment, has not our expanded industrialization generated the very trends in capital inflows that are being criticized in some circles?

OVERALL business activity has been more than sustained during the year. To some the situation as reflected in national aggregates might further reinforce the view that we now have the formula for perpetual prosperity. To my mind this is indeed far from the situation, which is, in point of fact, a growth phase and not to be confused with the former — comforting though the thought might be. I am compelled to wonder, however, at the rate of increase in activity during this past twelve-month and to raise the query as to the best way to govern our expansionary forces.

Consumer disposable income is above the level of a year ago by some six per cent and the level of consumer purchases in total over the year has risen from the peaks established a year ago. — — With few minor exceptions there appears to be a healthy balance between production and consumption. Statistical evidence in the consumer segment of the economy dilutes the "too much money chasing too few goods" concept of inflation. Changes in costs of production often are reflected in price movements and also manpower shortages in some sectors of the economy have been instrumental in altering cost-price relationships.

At the beginning of the year, capital investment intentions suggested increasing pressures throughout the year on available resources and skilled manpower. At mid-year the estimate of capital requirements was again upgraded above the earlier estimates, although it now seems questionable whether we will achieve the mid-year forecast. However, this does suggest a backlog of capital projects and a continuing high level of capital formation for at least the year ahead of us.

The increase of close to half a billion dollars in the mid-year revision of capital expenditure estimates is a reflection in part of the increasing momentum of business and in part of a slight increase in costs during the first half of the year.

The present need, arising out of the great demand for industrial materials in evidence over the past two years, and the need for power and other energy resources associated with a buoyant industrial situation, has dictated certain shifts in the direction of investment.

OUR relatively high capital spending program leads to consideration of another facet of the economy, namely, the credit situation.

A policy of general restraint has been followed in Canada. Early in November the rediscount rate was placed on a "floating basis" tied into the rate at which treasury bills are sold from week to week by the Bank of Canada. Rising long-term interest rates have tended to depress the bond market, and some municipal and other issues have been underwritten in the United States, where interest rates have been lower. Avoidance of direct controls has been the general objective of policy.

People affected by credit restraints tend to find reasons for objecting to the halters placed on them. Yet, most people would agree that our capital spending has been proceeding at a rate which cannot be sustained on the basis of existing manpower and other resources; and we could not have continued this course without unpleasant consequences at some future period.

A FEW years ago I discussed the relationship of equity to debt in the industrial community. It is possible that currently high interest rates may serve to alter attitudes towards borrowing yet I would recall my earlier position The advantages of tax savings on fixed charges look attractive but such advantages can be temporary and can when any serious slackening in production emerges, become a disadvantage if not a burden."

---

AT the outset of my remarks I made reference to what I consider a growing conflict in objectives. Are we in favour of encouraging what is commonly regarded as economic growth or are we concerned with the concept of stability? If the manifold pressures of economic growth are viewed as too seriously distorting the economy are we in danger of further distorting it by shifting our sights from growth to considerations of stability on the assumption that growth can be effectively delayed or postponed or even re-initiated by fiat?

Here I would raise a question whether or not we have become too prone to over-emphasize short-run considerations. — — I would suggest for reflection that inherent in private enterprise capitalism is a process of discontinuous expansion — a continuous pressure for growth broken into distinct steps necessary for consolidation of gains in capacity and periods for taking stock of the situation.

In the attempt to contain obvious distortions in our economic development we must be aware that the weapons now considered applicable are relatively new to our society. The manipulation of interest rates is capable of working deep changes in the way businessmen spend their money.

Monetary policy is, of course, only one of the many government approaches affecting the amount and kinds of business activity. High corporate and personal income taxes have been part of the fiscal fabric for so many years that the rates are coming to be regarded as built into the economic structure. Let us not lose sight of the fact that these levies draw off a vast pool of savings and loanable funds each year.

Considerations of economic growth also call for reassessment of our attitudes towards the relative position of primary and secondary industries in the Canadian economy. Along with monetary and fiscal policies, attitudes towards tariff protection and industrial concentration have an important bearing on our problem of securing diversification of investment and economies of scale in line with future market development. While there might have been room for doubt some years ago — concerning the course of our expansion — there does not seem be much now. Despite the undoubted significance of our primary industries to the over-all national well-being, nevertheless manufacturing has been increasing in importance until at the present time it accounts for about a third of the nation's net domestic product. We have set ourselves on the road to industrial nationhood.

ON the basis of the present evidence it would be within the bounds of possibility that we shall, next year, break through the $30 billion Gross National Product barrier — and the problems of growth must be examined in a dynamic not a static framework.

When we look to the year ahead we can see certain favourable and some unfavourable factors facing us. Among the unfavourable aspects, as I see them, are:

(1) The unsettled international situation.
(2) The possible continuation of tight money and its concomitant, high interest rates.

The more important favourable factors which I see are:

(1) The continuing desire to increase standards of living with a resultant high consumer spending potential.
(2) The continuing pressure for capital spending which is part of our growth potential.

I anticipate that policies will be developed during the coming year to maintain an atmosphere conducive to orderly economic growth.

Neil J. McKinnon, Vice-President and General Manager, after reviewing the balance sheet, highlights of which are summarized, said in part:

The ninetieth Annual Statement once again shows the total assets of the Bank at a new high record. During the year deposits increased by $68,000,000 and assets by $78,000,000 to a total of over $2,434,000,000.

Business conditions during the year continued at an extremely active pace in every field. There has been full utilization of facilities and labour and the physical resources of the nation have been under strain to meet all the demands especially in the capital expenditure field. These have been reflected in the financial markets with a growing demand for finance of all kinds against a diminishing available supply. Bank loans continued to rise during the first half of this year but levelled off about mid-year and the banks presently are fully occupied in meeting essential business needs without enlarging the aggregate of loans. The cash reserves of the chartered banks have been kept under close control by the Bank of Canada and the ability of the banking system to finance any further expansion of consequence in loans is presently limited.

During the past year the role of the Canadian banks in financing and facilitating Canadian business has become more evident than for many years past. Canada is an under-capitalized country and the banks fill an indispensable role in mobilizing the savings and working funds of the nation and putting them to use in financing current business. This responsibility of the banks in the financing of agriculture, industry and commerce in all its forms both small and large is vital to the country. In an economy which is short of working capital it would be a disservice to the nation to immobilize any serious part of the deposits in the banking system through fixed long-term investments as to do so would mean that much of the business conducted throughout the country could not be carried on.

The principal changes in the Balance Sheet this year are reflected in an increase of $173,000,000 in commercial and other loans and a reduction in investment holdings of $220,000,000, principally in Government of Canada bonds which matured or were sold during the year. Cash and cash items increased by $42,000,000 and call loans increased by $39,000,000.

The Statement of Undivided Profits shows an increase in profits, after taxes, of $632,000 and after providing for dividend payments an amount of $1,891,000 was carried forward which with the amount remaining from last year left a total in Undivided Profits of $3,290,000 from which $3,000,000 was transferred to the Rest Account. The Rest Account was further increased by a transfer of $6,000,000 from tax-paid and other reserves.

Once again it is a privilege to pay tribute to the loyal and devoted service of members of personnel during the year. Banking administration under conditions of restricted credit is not the easiest task and I want to refer especially to the branch managers and the branch officers who have displayed a sense of responsibility worthy of high praise. The Chairman and President and, I am sure, the shareholders as well will wish to be identified with this message of appreciation to all the members of personnel.

SAFER COLORS

BRANDON, Man. (CP) —The hunter of tomorrow will wear either an orange of yellow jacket, says the Manitoba federation of fish and game associations. The present favorites, red and white, offer nothing in the way of protection against color-blind hunters, it says.

Tweed

TWEED.— R. E. "Bob" White, who has been sales representative for Canada Packers products in the Tweed district for the past five years has been transferred to Peterborough. Mr. White with his wife and family, left last week for their new home in Peterborough.

Les Jones, who has been a salesman for Canada Packers in the Peterborough area, has replaced Mr. White in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. White came to Tweed from Peterborough and have made many friends during their stay here, who will be sorry to see them leave. They are members of St. James' Anglican church.

Mrs. White has been interested in the evening Bible Study group of the church.

Mr. White was a member of Tweed branch of the Canadian Legion. Mr. White's new position entails a change in the products he will sell. He will now be sales representative for the "C.P." Company, a subsidiary of Canada Packers with headquarters in Ottawa. This company manufactures all Canada Packers soap products and peanut butter.

SANTA PAYS VISIT

Santa Claus paid his official visit to Tweed on Saturday morning. The weather was ideal and a huge crowd of children with their parents were on hand to greet the jolly old fellow. The village children were on hand in large numbers at nine o'clock at Santa's new location at the lot adjacent to Guy Hughes' store on Victoria Street, where they were all given a treat of candy and fruit.

In conjunction with his visit, the youngsters were given free entertainment at the Victoria Theatre, both morning and afternoon. The morning showing was for the town children at 10 o'clock; while the afternoon presentation at 2.30 was especially reserved for out-of-town children. It was impossible to accommodate all the children who turned up for this show.

THE TOWN THE OIL BOOM PASSED BY

The southwest Saskatchewan town of Cabri —a community of 500 people—gave its name to one of the area's most productive oil fields and this year became a base of operations for the first 100-mile unit of the Trans-Canada natural-gas pipeline. The oil boom left no permanent marks on Cabri and it expects only a brief boost in business from the pipeline. The town, whose grain elevators make it one of the biggest points in grain-shipping points, remains tied strictly to agriculture. In this photo, a transport with a load of 34-inch pipe for the pipeline passes some of the elevators. (CP Photo).

Cabri, Sask., Becomes Base For First 100-Mile 'Spread' Unit of Trans-Canada Line

By DON HANRIGHT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CABRI, Sask. (CP)—Four years ago this small town, one of the chief wheat - shipping points in Saskatchewan, was a stepping stone in the race to find oil in the area.

This year it became a base for crews working on the first 100-mile "spread"—construction unit —in the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. Such a role will be played by scores of Canadian communities before the 2,35-mile pipeline is completed.

In 1952, oil men and equipment began filtering into and through Cabri and neighboring towns. That year brought 10 discoveries of medium-gravity crude oil in this southwest Saskatchewan area, about 200 miles west of Regina.

DOTTED WITH WELLS

The oil companies spent millions in developing what now are the well-known fields of Centaur, Forterion, Success and Battrum. All of them are within about 30 miles of Cabri.

The countryside now is dotted with 316 oil wells capable of production. In the latest month for which figures are available—last July — the four fields produced 460,000 barrels of oil.

Business soared for Cabri merchants during the two-year period of exploration and development. But the oil industry—centred as it was in Swift Current, 70 miles southwest of here—left no permanent marks on the town. Cabri still is strictly a farm community with a population of 630.

Nearby Forterion offers a more notable example of this situation. The town which gave its name to the most productive of the four oil fields now is no more than it was 10 years ago—simply a grain elevator, two houses and a crossroads general store.

After this experience, Cabri expects nothing more than a brief boost in business from the trans-Canada crews.

The payroll on the first spread, running from the Alberta - Saskatchewan border near Burstall to the town of Lehman, Sask., is estimated at $25,000 weekly. The working force numbers 250.

WELL-BEHAVED GANG

Most of these men—and their wives in many cases—live in a well-kept trailer camp at Cabri.

"They're an awfully good gang," says elevator agent Pete Theissen, president of Cabri's board of trade. "There has been no trouble in town whatsoever.(

"We never see the men around town during the day, though at night the town is loaded with cars. When the oilfields opened up, there was lots of trouble in Cabri. There's none of that now."

Nearly every merchant in Cabri says his business is booming. The exceptions are the garage operators, for the pipeline contractors take their own vehicle - maintenance equipment with them.

Meanwhile, the trans - Canada workers went about their business of building one link in the $378,000,000 pipeline.

In the shadow of 10 huge elevators with almost 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, big cranes mortared 34-inch pipe in 40-foot sections from railway flatcars to trucks.

As winter approached, the job was nearly complete in the first spread.

Soviet Russian Influence Seen Everywhere in Red China Except in Social Activities

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

PEIPING (AP) — The influence of Soviet Russia is evident in every aspect of Red China's development.

This is seen everywhere — from the posters on the walls to trade marks on machinery.

But while there are plenty of Russians in China, they do not mingle socially with the ordinary Chinese.

China has leaned heavily on the Soviet Union in her expansion program. From one end of the country to the other Soviet contributions are not only obvious but are pointed out proudly and gratefully by Chinese officials.

NOT BLINDLY

"We have followed Russia and patterned ourselves after her, but we have not followed her blindly," said an official from Peiping's foreign office.

"We have adapted and molded the Soviet system to meet our own needs; but we have also made note of her mistakes and tried to avoid them."

From the steel mills and heavy industrial plants in the far northeast, to newly spawned industries along the Yangtze River, engineers and government officials tell the same story of Soviet support.

AID JET BUILDUP

The still secret jet planes from the Russian - built and closely guarded factory at Wuchang on the Yangtze are being produced under Soviet supervision. Close copies of Russian aircraft, the jet interceptor was designed on Russian drawing boards.

Mukden's largest industrial plant is the No. 1 Machine Tool Works. It was developed during the Japanese occupation and subsequently wrecked and looted when the Russians marched in at the end of the Second World War. Now it is stocked with Russian-made machinery like every other factory in Manchuria.

"We couldn't possibly have restored the plant and got it into production during the first five-year plan without the advice and aid of the Soviet experts," the manager acknowledged.

Almost every factory manager in the northeast prefaces his explanations with the approved phrase: "Thanks to the selfless generosity of the Soviet Union. . ."

LIVE SEPARATELY

In some of the newly established factories, stern - faced Russian supervisors move among machines which bear Slav - lettered trademarks. They refuse to talk to foreigners. They shy away quickly when a camera is pointed at them.

The Russians, in their sloppy bellbottom pants, deadpan expressions and carrying bulging briefcases, can be seen on the streets in often large groups of passersby who form a ring and burst into applause. No matter what the visitor's nationality, he is inevitably taken to be a Russian, and the hand claps follow him wherever he goes.

RUSSIAN SLANT

Menus are printed in Chinese and Russian. On trains dill pickles are served for breakfast and everything but the marmalade is flavored with liberal portions of garlic. Mao himself never ventures almost fortively. In factory towns and major cities the permanent Russian resident lives in his own quarters, separate from the Chinese. There is no Sino - Soviet social life at all except at official functions.

The Russian sees only the eager Chinese who gather around his machine or learn technique, and he is constantly accompanied by one or more interpreters. Aside from them he has few or no Chinese acquaintances. He has strict travelling papers. When his job is done and the technique passed on he leaves.

School textbooks are Russian-slanted, and students from seven years old on get a thorough grounding in Russian revolutionary history.

"My son's science textbook says the steam engine was invented by someone whose name ends in 'ski,'" said a European Chinese in Shanghai. "I can't remember what it was, but it certainly wasn't James Watt."

Pressure Grows For New Round Of Price Hikes

NEW YORK (AP) — Pressure is growing for a new round of price increases in the American steel industry, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

Last week's rise in nickel prices will soon be reflected in higher lags on nickel-bearing steel alloys, and a leading producer of stainless steel will announce price boosts of as much as three cents a pound this week, the magazine adds.

The Iron Age comment was prepared before announcement Tuesday of price increases by Allegheny Ludlum for nickel-bearing stainless steel. The increases for most common grades ranged from 1.75 cents to six cents a pound.)

Yugoslavian Trial Opens

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The trial of Milovan Djilas, former vice-president of Yugoslavia and ex-politburo member, on charge of hostile propaganda against the state opened here today. Western news correspondents were excluded.

This ban was ordered after prosecutor Aleksander Atanackovic had requested at least hearing on the grounds that "essential questions of Yugoslavia's foreign policy and her relations with other countries will be discussed."

HEATED ELECTED

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Deputy returning officer C. G. Niblock thinks the recent civic election was the hottest and dirtiest he has known—while he was counting ballots an overheated oil burner exploded and covered him with soot.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The young people of the United Church gathered in the vestry last Wednesday evening and organized a teen-age group, under the supervision of Mr. George Dyson.

The bazaar and card party sponsored by the Guild of Christ church, Thomasburg, in the IOOF hall on Friday night, was well attended. Various articles of sewing including two quilts were offered for sale as well as a tempting array of homemade candy and home cooking.

Fifteen tables of euchre were played after which lunch was served by the ladies.

Several from here attended the Elders' meeting of the Thomasburg West Huntingdon pastoral charge of the United church, in Moira Church, on Friday evening.

The younger residents of the community journeyed to Tweed or Belleville on Saturday to see Santa Claus, and to remind him not to forget to visit them on Christmas Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Vance, Sharon and Linda were Sunday guests of Mrs. W. Cox, of Flinton, Ont.

PORCUPINES TARGET

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario lands and forests department has asked hunters to shoot porcupines on sight, to combat an invasion by the animals in southern Ontario. The prickly creatures do considerable damage in trees and often kill hunting dogs.

Little Benny's Notebook

I came back from the drugstore with 3 cigars for pop, and I said, Hay pop, did you ever vanish a coin up your sleeve like a magician?

I'm glad you asked me that, pop said By golies that takes me back many a year. I used to practise that trick by the hour when I was just about your age. I was good at it, too, and I wouldn't be surprised if I could still do it. They say if you once really master a skill, you never lose it. I read about a man who celebrated his 90th birthday riding his grate grandson's bike around the clock, although he hadn't been on a wheel for 85 years, and I actually knew a man who got swept out of his depth in the ocean. He hadn't swam since he was 7 years old, but he decided to try just for the devil of it, and sure enough his stroke came back to him like a long lost friend and saved his life, pop said.

Then O, pop, try it, I said. Try to vanish a dime up your sleeve, I said.

Which he did, trying it with a dime out of his pocket, and the dime vanished all right, but not up pop's sleeve, and I found it after he gave up looking, and I gave it back to him, saying, Here it is pop, now we're exactly even. I lost your dime on the way home from the drugstore trying to vanish it up my sleeve. Oh boy, am I lucky I found your dime after you gave it up for gone. I was scared you would take it out of my allowance, pop, I said.

Yee gods, you win, pop said.

Anglican Church Unfrocks Vicar For Unholy Acts

CHESTER, England (Reuters) —A Church of England court has unfrocked a vicar who was found alive and living with a woman after allegedly faking death by drowning.

There were two complaints against the clergyman, Rev. Philip Wilson Rose, 52. The first was that in the summer of 1955 he "wilfully abandoned the pastoral care" of his parish at Woodford, Chester, in such a way as to receive people into believing he was dead.

Second was that from August, 1955, to Nov. 17, 1956, he had "habitually committed adultery."

The vicar did not appear in court but filed an admission of the charges and consented to sentence.

MOURNED BY PARISH

His wife, family, and parishioners mourned him last year when he vanished after ostensibly going swimming. His clothes were found on the beach.

This year he was found living under an assumed name in Switzerland with a wealthy, middle-aged English business woman.

The Bishop of Chester, Dr. Gerald Ellison, pronounced sentence and also said that Rose should be deprived of "the glebe, fruits, tithes, rents, salaries," of his living. He had "caused grave scandal to the church and to his holy orders."

The sentence was the maximum which the church can impose under the Clergy Discipline Act of 1892.

Govt. Says Property Will Be Seized

VIENNA (AP) — The Hungarian government announced over Budapest radio that property of all persons who have left Hungary since the start of the anti-Soviet rebellion Oct. 23 will be seized by the state.

More than 130,000 refugees, who have registered in Austria, presumably will be affected by the new government measure unless they return before March 31, 1957. This is the amnesty date previously set by the government for persons who have fled from Hungary.

Janitors in Hungary were ordered to report within three days the names of all persons who have left their homes. Authorities then will make an inventory of all property left there.

Canada's Dream Of Changed NATO Now Step Nearer

PARIS (CP) —Canada's cherished dream — an Atlantic community integrated politically as well as militarily—moves a small stage closer to realization today.

The impulse to unity comes from a 30-page report which may breathe new life into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The report contains recommendations of a three-man ministerial committee and may be a milestone in the seven-year history of the alliance.

If approved by NATO ministers at the four-day council meeting which opened Tuesday, it would get NATO off the ground, politically speaking, and ventures like the Suez crisis would be nipped in the bud.

Briefly, the report—drafted last September and rewritten mainly by Canadian experts after the Suez crisis—provides for consultative machinery. NATO countries would clear with treaty partners any action which affected other members.

WATCHDOG GROUP

One specific idea is for a kind of watchdog committee. It would consist of permanent representatives from three countries with the NATO secretary-general in the chair.

It would attempt to deal with disputes before they reach the action stage. The committee's jurisdiction would include potential trouble spots outside NATO's geographical area, such as Cyprus.

Members of the three-man ministerial committee — sometimes called the Pearson committee— are External Affairs Minister L.B. Pearson of Canada and Foreign Ministers Gaetano Martino of Italy and Halvard Lange of Norway. They were appointed last May to investigate the views of their NATO colleagues on co-operation in non-military spheres and report to the December council meeting.

The major problem in these proposals is that fully applied they would take sovereignty from individual nations—and nations are jealous of their sovereign power.

"You can't make anything work just by paying lip service," says NATO Secretary - General Lord Ismay.

RULES OUT SURPRISE

So advocates of a real Atlantic community hope that if NATO adopts the Pearson committee report they will live up to its provisions. If they do, there need be no repetition of surprise moves such as Anglo-French intervention in Suez which, whatever its rights or wrongs, has saddened and shocked those who counted Britain a prudent nation, and which will mean cold homes and unemployment in many European countries this winter.

The consensus after Tuesday's opening sessions appeared to be that world tensions are easing. The possibility of a full - scale atomic war seemed to be receding, the ministers agreed, but the danger of miscalculation by the Russians increases the possibility of small wars which could lead to fiery conflagrations.

The major powers adhered to their former positions. State Secretary Dulles contended on behalf of the United States that Anglo-French intervention in Egypt was wrong and immoral.

Foreign Ministers Lloyd of Britain and Pineau of France claimed their action was absolutely imperative.

Delegates believe, however, that despite this apparent clash of views, resentment among Western countries gradually will fade, leaving the way open for a fresh start.

SMALL BEAR

The panda bear, found only in the Himalaya mountains, does not grow bigger than about 30 inches long.

SAYS NOT BETTER

TORONTO (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Tuesday that Quebec isn't getting a better deal than other provinces in the federal government's new tax - sharing plan. Under the new per capita tax basis Quebec's advantage is the same as that of Ontario, he told the Toronto Business Men's Club.

OFFER REFUGEES SHELTER

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 500 Roman Catholic families in the Ottawa diocese have offered shelter and jobs to Hungarian refugees, the Canadian Catholic Conference said Tuesday.

Hap Day Not Too Happy Over Attitude Of Several Maple Leaf Players

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

RUFF 'N RUGGED!

What started off in what appeared to be a nice, tame-like battle, albeit the bunting was a bit rugged, mushroomed into a lionish third period that almost wore the official thumb down to the second joint.

Twenty-four items went into the charge-sheet before peace was declared and Rene St. Hilaire had fired the clincher to bring the McFarlands their fourth straight victory over the cellar-dwelling Kingston CKLC'ers.

Any resemblance to an outstanding hockey battle was nullified in the torrid third period when tempers flared, sticks took off and a flagless parade wore the ice thin to the penalty box.

It was a typical old-fashioned Kingston-Belleville brawl in the final chapter and even the Kingston goalie got into the act with a brace of minor penalties.

The shining light in this get-your-man ice melodrama was the outstanding performance of Moe Benoit on the Belleville defence. Moe took all of 'em on. He rocked 'em and rolled 'em and he has no better witness than the veteran Bob Lundy. Marse Robert ran into a Benoit stonewall once that left him groggy and sleepy-eyed.

The McFarlands, at least, retrieved their shooting eyes although only four of their shots hit pay-dirt. They fired 37 shots at Brayshaw in the Kingston net, while Belchandied 34 drives. Both goalies were outstanding at times with Bell standing out with his thwarting of foemen racing in on him alone.

Both defences stood out with a three-man Kingston squad holding off the Macs in a furious third-period drive. Both bulwarks used the body with telling effect and it could be that the rugged bodying of the first two periods fueled the twelve-penalty hassle that was the third heat.

Anyhow the win gave the Macs sole possession of second place until tonight at least when Detroit takes on the CKLC's in Kingston. A Chevies' win would again even them in the runner-up spot with the Macs. The Ottawa Canadiens are here Friday night and that should be one for the book.

ATTENTION KIDS!

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association is showing some interesting hockey films in Memorial Arena tonight starting at 7.45 o'clock. These films are educational and if you want to learn a lot about playing hockey don't miss them. They will show you how to shoot, pass and skate as well as other good hockey requisites. The first showing is slated for seven, and another at 8.30. Be on hand.

JUNIOR "B"

The Belleville Lamberts' junior "B" hockeyists will practice in Memorial Arena Thursday night starting at 9.30, Manager Mel Richards said today.

Speaking of the 11-2 defeat at the hands of the Queen's University "juniors" the other night, Mel said: "We have no idists either we had three defencemen off with injuries, but it does seem a shame that youngsters 16 and 17 years of age are pitted against players six and seven years older in so-called junior hockey."

It seems Queen's University prior to joining the league received permission to use players above the regulation junior age and this they are doing with little or no restraint. According to observers it looked as though some of the Queen's seniors were frolicking out there at the Juniors' expense and making a night of it.

In addition Richards said, the ice was in terrible condition in the Jock Harty arena. There was not a line or circle visible and how the referees found out where centre ice was is a miracle.

Efforts to revive junior "B" hockey after a dormancy of four or five years were made this year with five clubs entered. If the OHA wants to make a success of it, it should show favors to none but keep the classification within its own limits, age and otherwise. Affairs like what was reported the other night in Kingston are not going to do the game nor the junior players any good.

No Reason for Complacency In Toronto Players' Ranks; Kennedy Not Finding It Easy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While one veteran worked hard for a comeback in the National Hockey League, another appeared to be on the way out.

Frank Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens, said Tuesday 35-year-old Ken Mosdell has decided to retire—temporarily.

Mosdell, oldest player in the league, was loaned to Chicago Black Hawks this year after 12 seasons with the Canadiens. Selke said he was told by general manager Tommy Ivan of Chicago that Mosdell "may consider returning to hockey if he feels in condition after a month or so."

Conditioning also was a problem for Ted Kennedy, pondering a return to the game in Toronto after 14 seasons to help the plodding Maple Leafs.

TROUBLED WITH PINS

Kennedy, 39, "retired" twice. He decided to quit at the end of the 1953-54 season but was persuaded to captain the team for one more year.

Teeder has been skating around with the club in Maple Leaf Gardens and general manager Hap Day said Tuesday he is about to step up the training tempo. So far, Ted hasn't been finding it a cinch.

He can keep up with the youngsters for about half a game. Then the spring goes out of his legs.

Day has said from the start that Kennedy won't be pushed, that it's strictly up to the veteran if he plays or not. In Tuesday's workout he centred a line with Barry Cullen and Bob Pulford.

UNHAPPY WITH SOME

Day, in fact, was more concerned with some of the younger and supposedly more vigorous players. He let coach Hap Blecker know he wasn't happy about the casual attitude displayed by several of his warriors.

There is no room for complacency in the Leaf camp. Wally Lail, currently locked in a battle for fourth place with New York Rangers. Toronto trails the Rangers by two points.

Coach Phil Watson of the Rangers is optimistic. While Red Sullivan is still out with a spleen injury suffered when checked by Montreal's Doug Harvey two weeks ago, centre Bruce Cline has been showing well and scored the winning goal against Detroit Saturday night.

The Rangers signed Quebec scout Yvon Prudhomme a couple of weeks back in the hopes of digging up some French Canadian talent. This week he signed his first player—a guy named Norman Dube.

NATS SIGN COACH

CHICAGO (AP) — Washington Senators' Tuesday signed Walter Beck as their pitching coach. Beck fills a vacancy left by the promotion of Joe Haynes from pitching coach to general manager.

Beck, 52, a former pitcher with six major league clubs, retired as an active player in 1945.

Hamilton Coach May Not Return

HAMILTON (CP)—J. G. (Jake) Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said Tuesday that head coach Jim Trimble may not be back with the Big Four football team next season and may accept a coaching position with Indiana University.

"It's a 50-50 chance whether Jim decides to go to Indiana and if he doesn't, he'll likely return to Hamilton," Gaudaur said.

The Ticat president said Trimble probably will make a decision in about a week.

"This would be a big move for Jim and it probably would be permanent so he naturally wants to be certain before making a decision," Gaudaur said.

Indiana University is Trimble's alma mater and he is reported to have received an offer of a 10-year contract to become the university's athletic director. The new offer is believed to concern coaching only.

Trimble signed a one-year contract with Hamilton at a reported $16,000 salary last spring after being released as head coach of Philadelphia Eagles of the National League.

Says Players Regarded Game As 'Expenses-Paid Good Time'

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa halfback Don Pinhey was reported Tuesday to have been so disappointed at the attitude of the Eastern team towards the Shrine football all-star game at Vancouver Saturday that he thought of coming home before it was played.

The Rough Rider player's views were reported by sports editor Bill Wenzell in his column in The Journal. He quoted Pinhey as saying on his return:

"I've thought this over a great deal and I can only say that a great majority of our Eastern stars looked on this game as a good expenses-paid trip and a good time in Vancouver.

"There were some players who arrived in Vancouver on Friday night and the first we saw of them was straggling into the hotel on Monday to begin practices. This lackadaisical attitude towards the game was quite apparent all week."

Pinhey cited an incident he said occurred in the Eastern team's dressing room after they had been drubbed 35-0 by the Western all-stars in the game, proceeds from which will go to aid work with crippled children.

"Pinkey Lewis, the veteran Hamilton trainer for us, was mad at the display," Wenzell quoted Pinhey. "And he put up in the room and told us just exactly what he thought of it. He lambasted the team when he saw most of the players sitting around laughing and kidding.

"It was shocking to me the way this trainer was abused . . . but he was really abused by the players for his remarks."

Pinhey confirmed the denial by Montreal Alouette centre Tom Hugo of a report that the Eastern players had threatened to strike for more expense money before the game. The Ottawa player, used mainly on punt returns, said "there was absolutely no word of a strike."

In Hamilton Lewis said his first thought after the game was to get the players warm, but after they got on the bus to return to the hotel, "I gave them hell. I was pretty bitter. I thought maybe we could have played better."

"But later on, I apologized to some of them. They are 36 swell fellows and Don Pinhey is one of the best. I wish we could have 100 like him."

He said he tried to help the players out by taking down all their expenses and turning them in. Lewis said some of the players had spent up to $388 on expenses and were anxious to get it back.

"I think their complaints were justified," he said. "It could have had something to do with their attitude towards the game."

"The Eastern players asked before the game that unused players' share be raised to $400 and expenses each from $350 and expenses and that the losing players' share be $300 and expenses instead of $250 and expenses."

"This is all a tempest in a teapot," Lewis said. "It was played for those (crippled) kids and they're the ones that are going to suffer. I think some things could have been arranged better, but that's not the one who should comment."

Penalty-Riddled 3rd Period Features McFarlands 4-2 Win Over Kingston

Twelve Sentences Dished Out In Boisterous Final Chapter; St. Hilaire Scores Clincher

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

What started out to be more or less a tea-party ended in a rough, rugged, typical old-time Kingston-Belleville battle here last night when the McFarlands defeated the CKLC's 4-2 to take over undisputed possession of second place in the Eastern senior "A" circuit.

It was Kingston's seventh straight setback and the first victory for the McFarlands in three starts.

All the excitement occurred in the penalty-riddled third period when Referee Dalt McArthur, of Stouffville, handed out twelve of the game's 34 sentences. The teams split the whole, but Belleville drew seven of the third period dozen. McFarlands' playing coach Bep Guidolin drew a minor and misconduct as did Kingston's Don Senior in the torrid third heat, both within seconds of each other. The Kingston goalie Bert Brooks was assessed two minors.

The penalty box at one time looked like a political convention with the tumbleweer biting his nails. Six men at one time cluttered up the hoose gow.

Minnie Menard drew a pair of consecutive minors, one for "spearing" Brookes when he goalie cross, checked him at the goalmouth. Bob Londry was good for a pair of minors while Benoit, St. Hilaire, Willie-Menard and Thomson drew singles.

With the score 2-1 for the Macs going into the third period, Londry and Brooks drew penalties within seconds. But the Macs failed to dent the Kingston defence until seconds after the sinners' return when Guidolin drove home Minnie Menard's pass to give the Macs a two-goal lead.

Then the parade started. Guidolin and Londry drew high-sticking penalties. Forty seconds later Brooks allegedly cross-checked Minnie Menard who was charged with "spearing" the goalie. Thomson got into the fray and he drew a minor along with Brooks while Menard grabbed a pair.

Buchanan raced into the clear and Willie Menard chased him, caught him and got the gate for holding. By now the teams were playing three men a side. Then Benoit who was easily one of the stars of the game got hoisted for holding at 10:10 and while he was off Bellringer got credit for a Kingston goal when the puck got jammed in Bell's pads and rolled clear but into the net.

Then Rene St. Hilaire was thumbed off and the Belle defence held but trouble came when Guidolin drew a ten-minute misconduct for "threatening a linesman." This was nullified twenty-seconds later when Senior drew a misconduct for bad behavior and the misconduct paid off for the Macs. With less than two minutes to go St. Hilaire took Keith MacDonald's pass and in front of the Kingston net and his blazing slapshot beat Brooks for the insurance marker.

MAURICE BENOIT
. . . Rocked 'Em, Rolled 'Em

While the first two periods were more or less tame compared with the third, it was rugged hockey all through with both defences hitting hard and often. Benoit was a stone wall on the Macs blueline and was called the player of the night.

Belleville went two up in the first period when Floyd Crawford beat Brooks after three minutes, taking Willie Menard's left wing pass on a three-prong foray. Five minutes later Johnny Murdoch slid the puck neatly under Brooks' prostrate form from Davy Jones' rebound.

Play was faster in the second heat with Kingston scoring the only goal when Hub Mastey took Buchanan's pass to beat Bell while Minnie Menard was in Belleville. Both goalies were outstanding in this period, in fact throughout the game, each coming up with sparkling saves. The McFarlands outshot Kingston 37-31.

Kingston played a much better brand of hockey than they did in their last two appearances against the McFarlands.

Kingston meets Cornwall in Kingston tonight while the Macs play host to the Ottawa Canadiens.

Will Receive Writing Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Graham, veteran columnist for the New York Journal-American, has been named to receive the James J. Walker Memorial Plaque "for long and meritorious service to boxing over a period of years."

The United States Boxing Writers' Association voted unanimously to give the award to Graham, who has written knowledgeably of boxing for many years in his "Graham's Corner" which appears daily in the Journal-American. He will receive the award at the writers' annual dinner Jan. 24.

"Notice their morale? I gave 'em two bits apiece and told 'em to run downtown, get a hot dog, and run back!"

Russ Athlete Stage Employee Says American

YORK, Pa. (AP) — America's Olympic weightlifting coach Tuesday criticized the Russian "amateur athlete" as "nothing more than a state employee.

"The Russians don't give it the old college try, they give it the old business try," says coach Bob Hoffman who returned home last Saturday from the Games at Melbourne.

"They (the Russians) take these athletes away to camps for months at a time and train 'em hard with every possible minute of the day. This gives them stamina and endurance such as can't be built up by American athletes who have to share their time among school, work and practice."

He said the Russian influence is the same in the Olympics today as was the German influence before Second World War when "we had to worry about the German government sending judges into wrong decisions on close ones and now we have the same thing with the Russians."

"The Russians and competitors from Communist — run countries and some neighboring countries never would give us a fair shake on a close one," he said.

The U.S. weightlifting team beat the Russian entry by four to three in championships won.

Rosewall Joins Kramer's Crew

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Ken Rosewall will join Jack Kramer's professional tennis tour after the Davis Cup challenge round in Adelaide, but teammate Lew Hoad will remain an amateur at least another year it was learned authoritatively today.

Rosewall has agreed to terms guaranteeing him $50,000 over a 12-month span, but he is unable to make any commitment or comment on the matter because it would endanger his amateur status.

Kramer hoped to get both Australian Davis Cup aces but found it impossible to crack the determination of Hoad to make one more tour of the amateur circuit and try for the tennis grand slam which escaped him last season.

Hoad won the Australian, French and Wimbledon championships only to be beaten in the finals of the U.S. tournament at Forest Hills by Rosewall.

TO OPPOSE PANCHO

In the new professional setup Rosewall will be sent against Pancho Gonzales recognized professional champion, in featured singles matches.

Tony Trabert, badly beaten by Gonzales on the last tour is expected to drop out entirely and enter business, in Los Angeles.

Pancho Segura and Rex Hartwig of Australia will continue to play important roles.

It is known that Kramer, who has had his eye fishing in the capital cities of Australia, came here with the specific intention of signing both Rosewall and Hoad, who Kramer says signed contracts with him a year ago but recinded under heavy Australian pressure.

Grey Cup Two-Game Series Gets Almost-Unanimous 'No'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian football clubs, wary of tampering with what has proved an extremely good thing financially, are almost unanimously against an idea that the Grey Cup championship should be extended to a two-game series.

Leo Dandurand, president of Montreal Alouettes, broached the plan Tuesday, but was met with an almost solid chorus of "noes" from his fellows across the country.

The only voice raised in favor was Lew Hayman, a former associate of Dandurand's and now general manager of Toronto Argonauts. Two clubs—Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Saskatchewan Roughriders—have not yet cast a verbal ballot.

Dandurand, who suggested the idea last year, said he will present it again at the Canadian Football Council meeting in Winnipeg Jan. 19.

BETTER FOR FANS

In support of the plan he said it would give a much more ideal national champion than a single game, this club was defeated 26-27 by Edmonton Eskimos this year) and by having one game in the East and one in the West would eliminate buybcars of ticket distribution, hotel accommodation and transportation which are up front the organizers and fans.

Other clubs' spokesmen based their opposition on the fear that interest in the championship, now possibly the greatest sport spectacle in Canada, would be slight, for the second game of the first proved a rout, as this year.

M. I. «Mot» Lieberman, president of the Eskimos, said he is "absolutely opposed. . . It would lose its whole attraction if more than one game were played."

Bob Mosienko, playing manager of Calgary Stampeders, said the single game "has proved too successful" to be changed and would mean "an awful lot of problems."

WOULD LOSE INTEREST

"Some of the interest would be taken away from the game," if it were split between the East and West," said Don McKenzie, president of British Columbia Lions. He said Lions opposed the idea last year and still felt the same.

Sam Berger, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, said he does not like the plan and thinks the majority of the other clubs do, either. "The Grey Cup is a classic and, if it were played in two games the second would be anticlimactic," Berger thought.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers were willing to give it some thought but felt there were a lot of factors to be considered. President J. T. Russell echoed other opinion that the second game might be a "bust," but said if the date were advanced in order to give Prairie cities to have the game, instead of Toronto and Vancouver, he might be more favorable.

ONE TWO-GAME FINAL

The championship, except in 1940 when there was no East-West final and Ottawa and Toronto played a two-game total-point series, has always been one game since its inception in 1909. In the last two years it has alternated between Vancouver and Toronto.

Clubs were not much warmer towards Dandurand's announcement that he would "insist" the Shrine East-West all-star game be played at the beginning of the season, instead of after the Grey Cup.

Most club officials thought the coaches would oppose it, fearing player injuries.

Whatever reception Dandurand's suggestion meets at the CFC meeting, final decision would have to be made by the Canadian Rugby Union.

Seixas Injury Jolts Cup Hopes

PERTH, Australia (AP) — The almost non-existent American Davis Cup hopes received a jolt today when veteran Vic Seixas turned up with a shoulder ailment. Seixas said it was so painful he could hardly hit a backhand.

Captain Bill Talbert, who had nominated Seixas and Herb Flam for Friday's opening interzone doubles against India, said he hoped to use Vic, but would await the outcome of an examination.

Talbert said he was not overly worried about the injury and believed it to be minor.

Seixas said afterward he had no pained muscle or strain, but thought his neck and shoulder merely had been irritated by the wind during practice.

"I am sure I can play," he said. If unable to play, Seixas will be replaced by Sam Giammalva.

Talbert, referring to the interzone matches, had said earlier:

"We think we can win but we expect an easy time of it."

The draw is scheduled for noon Thursday at which time it will be determined how the two American faces off against 19-year-old Jaidip Mukerjea Krishnan and Naresh Kumar, India's two-man delegation.

Talbert said he would not decide on his doubles combination until after the opening singles.

"If we go two up on first day, I probably will use Seixas and Sam Giammalva in doubles," he said, "but if we have trouble, I will go with Flam instead of Giammalva."

May Invite Olympic Games To Moscow

HONOLULU (AP) — Nicolai Romanoff, who is in charge of Russia's vast sports program, said Tuesday the Russian government is "thinking" about inviting the 1961 Olympic Games to Moscow.

"We can carry out the Games in Moscow—we have the equipment," he declared.

The site will be chosen—before the 1960 Games in Rome.

Romanoff headed a group of 18 Russian coaches and trainers who are flying home from Melbourne via Honolulu and Los Angeles.

ANNOUNCE TITLE FIGHT

MILAN (AP)—European lightweight boxing champion Duilio Loi of Italy will defend his title here Dec. 26 in a 15-round match with Jose Hernandez of Spain. Hernandez held Loi's champion to a draw over 15 rounds in a non-title match here May 12.

Patterson Named Fighter of Year

NEW YORK (CP)—Floyd Patterson, youngest heavyweight champion in the history of the prize ring, Tuesday was named winner of the Edward J. Neil Plaque as "fighter of the year" by the Boxing Writers' Association.

The 21-year-old former Olympic champion who climaxed his spectacular rise by knocking out Archie Moore in five rounds, at Chicago Nov. 30, will receive the award at a dinner here Jan. 24.

Patterson was the writers' unanimous choice.

The Neil trophy, the most prized of all boxing awards, is presented annually to the fighter of the year or the man who did the most to advance the sport during the year. It is awarded in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed in 1938 while serving as a war correspondent in Spain.

It took a 75 or better to make the field of 120. Some 120 players teed off for the 54-hole open event. Sixty were exempt from the qualifying round, among them Al Balding of Toronto, the defending champion.

Plante Tops National Goalies

TORONTO (CP) — Goaltender Glenn Hall of the powerhouse Detroit Red Wings had his poorest showing of the National Hockey League season last week.

Last season's rookie-of-the-year, he was beaten 11 times in 192 shots for a .932 "fielding average." He dropped five points to 911 for the season and fourth place in the efficiency ratings of regular NHL goalkeepers.

Lorne Worsley, New York Ranger goalie, vaulted into third place one point ahead of Hall.

Meanwhile, Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens is showing no signs of relinquishing his hold on first place. Plante added a point to his total for the season, 330, last week. His margin over second-place Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins is 27 points.

Chadwick of Toronto Maple Leafs added five points to his total of 709 and Chicago Black Hawks' Al Rollins gained one point to 304.

Ottawa Canadiens Dump Teepees

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Junior Canadiens dumped St. Catharines Teepees 7-1 Tuesday night in a World Junior Hockey League game.

Officials handed out 21 penalties including two misconducts and 10 majors.

Centre Ralph Backstrom paced the winners with a three-goal performance. Bill Carter notched two and singles went to Gilles Tremblay and Claude Richard, brother of Maurice (Rocket) and Henri (Pocket Rocket) of the National Hockey League Canadiens.

Jack Stanley scored the lone St. Catharines marker in the last period which both were short handed.

Tempers flared from the opening whistle and the game broke into a donnybrook with only 38 seconds remaining.

Murray Balfour of Canadiens and Victor Stasiuk of Teepees were the principals in the battle. Both received majors and misconducts. Four others were also given majors.

Major Leagues Assist Minors Loose Kick at College Ball

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Major league club owners, in a surprisingly hot winter meeting, ordered a helping hand to the minor leagues and tossed a swift kick at college baseball.

The owners Tuesday concluded their Chicago conclave a day ahead of schedule after:

1. Setting a 25-player limit per club for opening day which will hustle as many as 64 players to an April major league start.

2. Rescinding a rule banning the signing of a U.S. college player after he has reached his sophomore year. The rule prevailed three years.

The latter action brought a howl of protest from collegiate baseball coaches who depicted it an obvious move to steal talent from campus diamonds.

Commissioner Ford Frick explained that the old rule was unworkable because the minor leagues never agreed to any collegiate restriction and the majors could sign college players through the "back door."

The minors can sign a collegian for $4,000, but by making an approach, a big league team previously could "make an arrangement" with the college star through its minor league affiliate regardless of his college, he said.

Ethan Allen of Yale, president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches, said at New Haven, Conn., the new major league policy will prevent many athletes from completing their college education. He estimated that about 75 per cent of the college boys signed by pro baseball before their graduation never return to get a degree.

The major league club owners adopted all measures passed by the minors at Jacksonville, Fla.,

Under the old rule, a maximum of 40 players could be retained by a major league club up until the 25-player deadline in mid-May. The minors, of course, will assign surplus players to lower clubs for seasoning.

The majors agreed to hold their annual winter meeting with the minors in the same city, meeting at a minor league city in odd years and at a major league city in even years.

A second attempt by Hank Greenberg of Cleveland Indians to get approval of his inter-league baseball proposal was blocked by the National League. Earlier, the owners of the seven minor league clubs whose lineups previously have remained in a state of flux until the season. Now they will get a windfall of between 30 and 44 good players in April.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stratford Indians proving once again that you don't have to score a lot of goals—only more than the oth : team—have moved back into sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Western Division.

All season Indians have been a relatively low-scoring team, averaging a little better than three every game, but defensive squads, such as Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs, have rattled along at a five-or-better clip. Yet, all season Indians have been at the top.

Tuesday night they trimmed last-place Owen Sound Mercurys by a typical 3-1 score and moved two points ahead of Dutchmen.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group North Bay Trappers stayed on top by whipping the visiting Sudbury Wolves 5-3 and host Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds pushed Sault Ste. Marie Indians further into the cellar by defeating them 5-2.

Belleville McFarlands regained the sole hold on second place in the OHA Senior A Eastern Division by edging Kingston CKLC's 4-2 at Belleville and in a Porcupine Mines Senior game at Athlit Timmins took South Porcupine Porkies 5-1.

Stratford plunked in a goal in each period. Scorers were Don Heinbuch, Dinny Obrigewich and Joe Schertzl. Jerry Reid ruled Bruce Dale's shutout.

Owen Sound drew a total of 81 minutes in penalties, Stratford getting 41 minutes and Mercurys 40.

Bob Barlow collected two goals for North Bay. Walt Atanas, Bill Needham and Don Hogan the others. Nick Tomiuk, Frank Kennedy and Hub Beaudry scored for Sudbury.

INDIANS PROTEST

Soo Indians announced they will protest last night's game. Coach Joe Forbes disagreed when a Greyhound player was allowed out of the penalty box after his team was scored on, under a rule approved earlier this year. Forbes objected because one of his men was still in the box.

Mike Hatfield led the winners with two goals. The others were scored by Chick Chalmers, Don Day and Sherri Clements. Eddie Joss and Russ Kowalchuk scored for Indians.

South Porcupine also entered a protest after its loss, objected to a major penalty given to Doug Hunter along with a match penalty. Eskimos scored twice during the five-minute major.

At The Park

John Wayne, Skipper of Tramp Steamer in "The Sea Chase."

John Wayne, who in his film career has commanded every type of sea, air and land craft you could shake a stick at, for the first time is in command of a tramp freighter in "The Sea Chase," CinemaScope and Warnercolor thriller opening Thursday at the Park Theatre.

As commander of the 5000-ton steam schooner, Wayne was on the bridge of the ship trying to run a blockade from Sydney, Australia, to the North Sea.

In "Operation Pacific" Wayne was the skipper of a PT boat and in "Wake of the Red Witch" he was a star of a full rigged sailing ship; in "Sands pf Iwo Jima" he commanded a landing craft.

In one of his recent pictures, "The High and the Mighty," Wayne was second in command of an airliner fighting its way across the Pacific after developing engine trouble far out at sea.

Undoubtedly Wayne's most memorable command in regard to handicraft was the sleazy driver in "Stagecoach," the picture that established him in stardom.

In "The Fighting Seabees" Wayne commanded a bulldozer, hardly as glamorous as a clipper ship but just as useful to his beloved piece of functional machinery during the wars of the Pacific theatre.

Joan Blondell, Veteran of 25 Years, Still Going Strong

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A 25-year veteran in Hollywood and becoming a grandmother, Joan Blondell is still as saucy and successful as ever in movies.

Joan is batting her long eyelashes and acting with her usual verve in This Could Be the Night, her third film in quick succession. Earlier she did The Opposite Sex and Lizzie; next she goes into The Desk Set with Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. And she says her agent has another assignment warming in the bull pen.

All of which proves that talent tells. Back in the early '30s, she and a kid named James Cagney were picked out of a Broadway show and brought to Warner Bros. by stock company head Brothers. For 10 years she served along with Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Warren William, Aline Jenkins, etc.

"Oh, those were hectic times," she reminisced. "I was literally going two and three pictures at a time, and not just walk - ons, either: I was all through each picture. One day I discovered I was playing in five different pictures on Hollywood Boulevard. It's a wonder I survived."

THROUGH WITH MEN

But survive she did. She has always kept active in films, mixed time out for matrimonial and other ventures.

What about men?

"Men?" she exclaimed, throwing her hands. "Honey, I'm through men to me. I'm through with them."

She could change her mind any edition, of course, but you can see her point. She had unsuccessful marriages with George Barnes, Dick Powell and Mike Todd.

Now her interests are her children, but neither bi's shown any real interest in show business. Joan is just as happy about that, despite the acting tradition that stretches far back in her family. She herself was the daughter of a vaudeville family, and the Blondell line is traced back to the minstrel for Richard II.

At The Belle

Tense Drama Reaches Screen In New Films

A most unusual love and suspense story, "The Man in the Vault" co-starring William Campbell, Anita Ekberg and Karen Sharpe, is the major attraction today at the Belle Theatre.

Motion Picture Studio Drama

The story of the girl who had to live her love life twice, comes to the screen in "As Long As You're Near Me," in Warner Bros. presentation, and is announced as the worthy companion feature opening today at the Belle Theatre.

According to advance reports, "As Long As You're Near Me" is the story of a motion picture director whose search for realism leads him to film the dramatic love story of a young girl. A suspenseful climax is reportedly reached when the director, driven by his love for the girl, tries to alter her story to include himself in her life.

"As Long As You're Near Me," popular Orville Fisher is the name given to the actor who leads the distaff side of the popularity balloting in the European magazine sponsored by Paramount. Harold Baron is the director.

The Belle News of the World will be presented with the two popular time attractions now showing at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

CONSERVATION

Ketch's Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the

CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

Anyone who drives the highways these days must be impressed and sad towards the ever increasing the number of animals both tame and wild which have been killed by motorists. In addition, there are many of our insect destroyers—birds, which have also met an untimely end by contact with a moving vehicle.

There can be no question that many of these animals, noticeably skunks, must have been deliberately killed (skunks are slow moving) in the mistaken belief by the driver that (1) they are offensive to most people (2) that no nocturnal person will see for every one killed the more desirable species have a better chance to live.

Unfortunately, this is not always the case. The skunk or fox for that matter any predator has a place, a definite place, in Nature's scheme of survival and the destruction of any species is bound to have a very detrimental effect upon all forms of wild life in the food chain.

A question to which I often allude when speaking on Conservation is as follows: "The dictate of nature assures that each form of life shall fulfill its destiny, that no chaos of individual choices shall destroy nature's balance of resources — and that no essential job shall remain undone. The very fact that a form of life exists is clear testimony to its rightness and each form has its essential role in a healthy community."

It is a mistaken belief that ridding the country of skunks or wolves or cats either wild or tame, bears or snakes, hawks, crows or any form of predator, will be of any benefit or effect on their natural prey.

Man himself is not the final arbiter of what is right. He is but one of the animal or bird should prey on. He is not the final and absolute judge of slaughter which at times they are forced to view, at the scene of a motor vehicle, as a matter of survival.

At times their judgment is far too hasty, occasioned no doubt by the evidence of savagery which is left before them; and equally true their reactions are usually in favor of the victim rather than that of the victor.

Despite the gruesomeness of the picture, quick retribution should not occur, for its represents the result of a battle with the only weapons nature has bestowed upon the participants.

Were it not so—man himself would suffer grievously to such an extent, that it would be no place for him on this planet.

Let us be the eaters in Nature's scheme of things, and there is much evidence that in some species that under varying circumstances, they are reaping a bumper harvest at best by the arbitrary judgments made by earlier members of their race.

The moral is obvious. With the weapons man has devised, including the automobile, irreparable damage to wild life can accrue and the dead animals that greet the sight of the passing motorist with scarcely a second thought, will bear mute testimony to this tendency to judge arbitrarily.

Movie Censors Revise Code

NEW YORK (AP)—Movie industry censors have revised their code for the first time since it was adopted in 1930.

New standards, stricter in some senses and more lenient in others, were announced Tuesday by the Motion Pictures Association of America, the movie industry's self-imposed censorship board.

The new code permits the treatment "within the limits of good taste," of such themes as sex perversion, the kidnapping of children and the illegal traffic and use of narcotics.

At the same time it rules standards "that shall not be the form of merry killing, blasphemy and double meanings."

Under a general section entitled "Sex" the new code specifically bans "open-mouth kissing," adding this to a section that already forbids "lustful kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive posture and gesture."

Little Benny's Notebook

The mail came while we were eating breakfast, and pop had a letter with a long list of names and addresses on it, and she said to pop, Goodness, somebody has sent me one of those chain letters I've just heard about. I'll throw it out.

Tear it up and forget all you've ever heard, pop said, and ma said, But William, I have to do it or I'll send a dollar bill to the first name on the list, and then make 10 copies of the rest of the list and include my own name, and send them to 10 of my friends, and after that the money will come rolling in indefinitely. It's a chance of a lifetime, William, she said.

It's the bunk of the ages, pop said. You'd have more chance to make a killing playing mud marbles, he said, and ma said, But William, there's a special note at the attached warning me I'll have bad luck if I break the chain. Oh dear, you know how superstitious I am, I feel unlucky at the very thought, she said.

I'll soon fix that, pop said, and he took the chain letter and started to write fast on the back of it, saying, Here, I've changed the list to 10 other people and every one of them is you. I'll deliver this list to myself, which means I have to give you 10 one dollar bills, he said, and ma said, Why William, you've felt so lucky.

The trouble is, I haven't got 10 notes, and if I give you this single 10, it might change your luck again, pop said, and ma said, Oh William, that's silly. William, however, after all, it's the principal of the thing that counts.

Well, then we'll take a chance, pop said.

And he gave her the 10 dollars and kissed her goodbye and left for his office.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain. Doctors have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinkage) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were recorded over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those suffering from a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing!

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne has been used in the hospitals, clinics, and offices of many doctors.

The new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.® Individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Conservative Candidates Claim Leadership Gains

OTTAWA (CP) — Top battlers for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party were exuding confidence on the eve of today's opening of their national convention.

All were claiming gains among the voting delegates who have been gathering here since Monday and who will decide Friday on the next leader of the party and possible prime minister of Canada.

In interviews Tuesday night their varying contestions hinged mainly around the question of who will be getting the main support from the pivotal group of Quebec province delegates.

Donald Fleming suggested he will get from 80 to 85 per cent of this key delegation behind him, but John Diefenbaker and Davie Fulton sniffed at this thought.

LOOKS WIDE OPEN

From outside indications, it still looked like a wide-open shootout for the succession to Hon. George Drew, who resigned this fall. Some delegates were committed, but many were holding off disclosing who they were supporting.

Powerful support for all three of the candidates became manifest Tuesday.

Hon. W. Earl Rowe, acting leader of the party since Mr. Drew stepped down because of ill health, let it be known he is backing 51-year-old Mr. Fleming, a Toronto lawyer who sits in the Commons for Toronto Eglinton.

Premier Hugh John Flemming of New Brunswick, who has whipped the Liberals in his province in two elections, said Tuesday night he will formally nominate John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old Commons member for Saskatchewan's Prince Albert riding. Many think Mr. Diefenbaker is the front-runner at the moment.

Davie Fulton, 40, member for Kamloops, B.C., got a combination of prairie and eastern support when it became known he would be nominated by M. A. (Murdo) MacPherson, a revered elder statesman of the party who swings much weight in its councils. Mr. MacPherson, a Regina lawyer born in Nova Scotia, was a strong contender for the leadership at two previous conventions.

What weight the influence of these leading party figures will loss into the scales for the respective candidates is a matter for pure speculation now. The tale will be told in the balloting of Friday afternoon following Thursday night's nominations.

Meanwhile, all aspirants for the Opposition leader's job in the Commons that calls for $27,000 a year are professing confidence and saying they are picking up support from arriving delegates.

Mr. Fleming said he was "extremely gratified" by the support of Mr. Rowe—last surviving member of the late R. B. Bennett's cabinet—and with support coming from other quarters.

He said the Quebec delegation seems "virtually solid" for him and added he has been told his Quebec support could run between 80 and 85 per cent of the voting delegates from that province.

Mr. Fleming has been working hard for the Quebec vote, starting with French lessons before the 1948 convention in which he ran third to Mr. Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker. He now is fairly fluent in the language.

But of his claim of Quebec backing, Mr. Fulton said that all percentage estimates of delegate support for other candidates "bear no relation to reality."

He said he is receiving increasing support from all provinces—especially Quebec—and likely will take the leadership on the second ballot.

Mr. Diefenbaker commented tersely:

"I am very encouraged by the number of votes I'm going to receive from Quebec."

Policy Discussions Occupy Attention Of PC Delegates

Warm Tributes Given Drew At Opening of Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative delegates today open the convention formalities for choosing a new national leader, having bidden an emotional farewell to the old one.

Hon. George Drew stepped out of the spotlight Wednesday amid warm personal tributes and exhortations from top-ranking Conservatives that the party fight for the improvement of national unity and the supremacy of Parliament.

Most of today's morning and afternoon sessions will be occupied with discussion of policy and resolutions. Tonight the machinery for picking a new leader will start, under way with the nomination of candidates, to be followed by balloting Friday.

As the bombarding of delegates for votes continued through all of Wednesday's opening day and far into the night, campaign leaders of the three avowed contestants all were displaying confidence.

PREDICT WIN

Supporters of John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old Commons member for Prince Albert, Sask., were predicting an easy win on the first ballot. The camps of Donald Fleming, 51, MP for Toronto Eglinton, and Davie Fulton, 44, MP for Kamloops, B. C., were more guarded.

"Diefenbaker is sweeping them", said George Hees, Toronto Broadview MP and former national party president, who said he has been trying vainly to get down to the first ballot with his own man.

Alvin Hamilton, party leader in Mr. Diefenbaker's home province, said that by late Wednesday the lanky westerner could count on about 1,000 of the maximum 1,421 voting delegates. Half the ballots polled are required for a win.

But Mr. Fleming said that "things are getting better all the time."

PC Platform Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of a new party platform placed before the Progressive Conservative national convention today for approval:

Reduction of taxes by eliminating federal budget surpluses and raising basic personal exemptions from income tax.

Introduction of a hospital insurance plan covering all types of ailments including tuberculosis, insanity and diseases of the aged with any province immediately it agrees to the plan.

All present hospital insurance premiums to be wholly deductible from taxable income and provide more generous income tax deductions for medical expenses.

Higher pensions for the needy over 65.

Maintain flexible farm price supports and dispose of surpluses in some foreign markets at reduced prices.

Raise veterans' disability pensions and extend to veterans who served in Britain during the First World War.

Pay municipalities full taxes on crown property; allow municipalities and school boards sales and excise tax exemptions on their purchases.

Establish an independent regulatory board for radio and television broadcasting.

Provide tax exemptions for pension-plan payments made by self-employed persons such as farmers and fishermen.

Call federal-provincial conference to reform Senate with particular attention to method of appointment and tenure of office.

Immediate adoption of a national flag.

Maintain regular armed forces at full strength; revitalize reserves; exercise greater control over defence spending to eliminate extravagance.

Extend provisions of National Housing Act to purchase of existing houses in good condition.

Co-operate with provinces in resources development by union of highways, access roads, reclamation and conservation schemes.

Make sure provinces and municipalities have adequate financial resources.

Clearly define allocation of taxing powers so provinces not wanting to rent tax fields to Ottawa can raise necessary revenues.

NATO OPPOSES LIBERATION WAR AGAINST REDS

Right of Satellites To Freedom Stressed

PARIS (AP) — The Atlantic alliance today called for freedom in Eastern Europe, but pledged itself against a war of liberation.

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization endorsed a five-point declaration of policy on Eastern Europe submitted by West German foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, emphasizing that Brentano's proposal was a Western statement of policy designed to allay any fears in Russia that the West is preparing to launch an attack to liberate the peoples of Eastern Europe.

The statement of principles stressed the right of peoples in Eastern Europe, who have risen against Soviet tyranny, to full freedom. But, Brentano said, this must be achieved peacefully, through negotiations and social contacts with the peoples there.

CAUTION NECESSARY

Speaking with the situation of Eastern Germany in mind, Brentano said NATO must treat the whole question of Soviet satellites with great caution. Any "dramatic action" would only be disastrous for the people involved.

He warned that an uprising in Eastern Germany would have as an almost irresistible appeal to the population of West Germany, and that this might be enough to set the brick of full scale war.

The five points in Brentano's proposal were:

1. All peace-loving peoples shall support the right of the countries of Eastern Europe to self-determination and self-government in full-freedom.

2. The political order in the countries of Eastern Europe shall be—based on national independence, sovereignty and the banning of any imperialistic subjugation of small countries.

FREE ELECTIONS

3. All countries in Eastern Europe shall have the right to decide for themselves, in full free-dom on the social order in their territories.

4. The internal development of the countries of Eastern Europe shall not be influenced by military force or threats or by economic or political pressures.

5. The human rights of the people of the countries of Eastern Europe shall be inviolable.

Brentano's fourth point evidently would apply to NATO countries as well as to Russia.

RCAF Survival Course Saves Trenton Flier and Companion

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)—An RCAF training course on survival paid dividends for two airmen who were forced to spend two nights in rugged bushland after bailing out from their crippled CF-100 jet fighter Monday.

FO Donald F. Reid, 24, of Trenton, Ont., and FO John J. Paskaruk, 20, of Moath Park, Sask., were rescued separately Wednesday from a mountainside near Lac des Mariens, 75 miles northeast of Quebec City. They were found by a search plane.

Reid, the pilot, and Paskaruk, the navigator, had both taken a course on how to survive in the bush a day before they abandoned their craft while on a routine training flight from this base town 150 miles north e Quebec.

Neither airmen knew the other was safe until they were taken to the RCAF station there. Their twin-jet aircraft has not yet been found.

The two men were reported to be "feeling well," although Reid was suffering from a stiff knee.

Paskaruk bailed out first when the plane was at 22,000 feet and Reid jumped at 20,000 feet. Strong winds blew the men apart and on opposite sides of a mountain.

Paskaruk made a beeline from his parachute to shelter him from the cold. Reid's parachute was ripped when it fouled in a tree as he came down. Both men had emergency equipment and enough food to last more than a week.

Lower Taxes, Higher Pensions Conservative Platform Planks

OTTAWA (CP)—A new party platform, presented to delegates at the old-age pensions for the needy and an immediate comprehensive hospital insurance scheme, was placed before the Progressive Conservative convention for its approval today.

Published by the party's 161-member policy committee, the proposed platform contains something for almost everyone. It would have the Conservatives, if elected, boost veterans' pensions, allow more generous income tax deductions for medical costs and eliminate waiting periods in unemployment insurance payments.

Farmers would be aided by the maintenance of flexible price supports and the disposal of surpluses in some foreign markets at reduced prices, though there was no clear indication of how much of the loss would be borne by the federal treasury.

And while the proposed platform, linked in the maintenance of free enterprise, spelled out a lot of possible benefits for the voters, it made no mention of some of the more controversial proposals made by the party's local bodies and apparently eliminated in committee debate.

SOME OMISSIONS

Some of the party's constituency organizations had proposed elimination of the sales tax—particularly from the party name but there was no mention of this in the final draft of policy planks.

Neither was there any mention of such other initial proposals as compulsory military training, the banning of Communist propaganda and the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican.

On defence, the committee said the party would maintain regular forces at full strength, reinforce reserve forces, exercise greater control over defence spending and support immediately adoption of a national flag.

On the international front, it would urge that the United Nations Emergency Force be maintained in Egypt until a peace treaty is worked out between Israel and Egypt and equal trade rights of passage through the Suez Canal are guaranteed to all countries including Israel.

The party would seek permanent machinery for a United Nations police force for use in any part of the world. It would recognize Canada's "senior" position in the Commonwealth and use Canada's close connections with the United States to iron out differences between the U.S. and British governments.

Weather Better As Planes Hunt Missing Airliner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirteen RCAF aircraft took off early today under vastly improved weather conditions to hunt for a missing airliner believed to have crashed with 62 persons in the mountains at southeastern British Columbia.

RCAF search officials, who earlier said one hour of "unlimited visibility" might be enough to find the lost Trans-Canada Air Lines' plane, described weather conditions as the best since the search began four days ago.

The main search area was 6,500-foot Silvertip Mountain and 6,900-foot Mount Cheam, both in the Hope area, 100 miles east of here.

"We have not lost hope of finding survivors," an airline official said Wednesday, but he agreed that if any of the 59 passengers and three members were still alive, "they can't hope to survive much longer."

Low cloud and snow, rain and turbulent air conditions since the TCA plane disappeared soon after 7 p.m. Sunday have blanked the area. Planes have been ready to scan a 1,200-square-mile area centred about 75 miles east of here but only 17 are all that have been able to take to the air at one time.

British Gales Take Four Lives

LONDON (AP) — The worst gales of the winter swept over sections of Britain today, killing at least four persons and bringing heavy snows to parts of Scotland.

Two men died at Mid Yell in the Shetland Islands when their small boat capsized in a gale which reportedly reached a velocity of 104 miles an hour.

An assistant lighthouse keeper was swept out to sea and drowned in the Outer Hebrides and another man was killed near Sheffield when a high wind blew a bus shelter over on him.

Snow fell heavily in many places in Scotland. Road patrols reported snow-covered roads near Dumfries and in the Devil's Elbow mountain pass. Roads were icebound in Edinburgh.

RUSSIAN SECRET POLICE BOSS RULES HUNGARY

Rumors Heard Kadar Has Committed Suicide

By ERIC WAHA

BUDAPEST (AP) — Tens of thousands of Budapest workers quit work again today only a few hours after returning to their factories at the end of a two-day general strike.

The new walkout was in protest against the arrest of the chairman of the Budapest Central Workers' Council and his chief assistant by the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar.

Informed sources reported irreconcilable rifts in the ranks of Russia's secret police. Gen. Ivan Serov, has taken over control of Kadar's government in a desperate effort to end the continuing widespread resistance to communism and Moscow control.

A communications blackout which had been in effect almost four days was listed shortly before noon as Western correspondents here made representations to the Hungarian foreign ministry.

The general strike was accompanied by riots and clashes throughout the country with at least six persons killed.

Rumors circulated through Budapest that Premier Janos Kadar had committed suicide or had vanished. Neither report could be checked, however, and appeared to be more wishful thinking than anything else.

ARREST LEADERS

Although Budapest was quiet this morning, it seemed certain that new fuel had been added to the fire by the arrest of Sandor Racz, president of the Budapest Central Workers Council which spearheaded opposition to the Kadar regime, and the council vice-president, Sandor Bali.

Reports said the two officials were arrested by a Communist tank, and "doublecross" was a heated word on Budapest streets this morning.

NATO Approves 'Wise Men's' Plan In Principle

PARIS (CP)—The North Atlantic Treaty council today approved in principle a plan to set up a political co-operation committee of the alliance.

The plan, prepared by NATO's three "wise men"—foreign ministers of Canada, Italy and Norway—is expected to be published Friday.

The report, which also provides for a greater exchange of information, general's direction of disputes involving any of the allies, was approved by council members without any serious debate.

The Canadian and France proposed amendments to the report, among them suggestions for "tonthe-moon" zones of the European continent.

Exact details of the amendments, or of their fate, were not immediately known.

Think California College Student Murdered by Reds to Silence Him

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A veteran investigator of subversive activities predicted today a link between the mysterious death of a University of California graduate student and the slaying of several other unexplained deaths across the United States.

Richard Combs, counsel for the California state Senate committee on un-American activities, told reporters that the case fitted into a pattern of Communist intrigue and violence covering two decades.

He said he was convinced that Sheldon Abrams, 25, is at least the sixth victim of Communist assassination in the U.S. since 1936.

The technique varied, said Combs, but in each case the motive was the same—to silence someone, either in or out of the party, who had too much information and was no longer considered a good risk.

The Senate committee opened its hearing on the circumstances of Abrams' death police considered the case closed. Their investigation report said he had died accidentally of carbon monoxide poisoning in his room.

But Wednesday, after two toxicologists testified that it would have been "impossible" for Abrams to have died accidentally under the circumstances in which he was found, the committee announced that the eight-month-old case had been reopened.

Die In Head-On Collision of Two Cars Near Camp

RCAF Instructions Prevent OPP From Giving Details

CAMP BORDEN (CP) — Five airmen from the RCAF station here were killed early today and three other airmen injured in a head-on collision of two automobiles near the camp.

An RCAF official said the names of the victims will not be released until their families have been notified.

The official also said he had no information on a sixth reported fatality. Two of the injured airmen were in the Camp Borden hospital and the third was taken early today to Sunnybrook military hospital in Toronto.

Details of the accident were meagre. The RCAF said the two cars were in collision on the main road between this large service camp and Alliston, about 40 miles north of Toronto. It occurred about 12:30 a.m.

Police in nearby Alliston said the only details they had were that five airmen were killed in the head-on collision of two cars about 12:30 a.m. They confirmed that three other airmen were injured and were taken to military hospitals.

An Ontario Provincial Police constable said RCAF "instructions" prevented him from giving further details of the accident.

One officer said: "We haven't got the bodies sorted out yet."

Early report said both vehicles were owned and driven by RCAF personnel of the Camp Borden station.

The accident occurred on a paved stretch of road 1½ miles north of Alliston. Police said the highway was clear but snow began falling heavily immediately after the crash.

Three of the dead men were reported to be from Ontario and two from Western Canada.

Permanent UN Police Force Urged by PC's

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of permanent machinery for a United Nations police force to keep world peace was urged today in a draft platform placed before Progressive Conservative party.

A foreign policy statement, proposed by the party convention's resolutions committee, said Canada should seek such a plan at the UN.

The statement said Canada should take a clear stand within the UN for a solution of the Suez Canal problem, guarantees of equal access for all countries, including Israel, and for UN recognition of the "illegality" of the seizure of the waterway.

The party should provide for settlement of boundaries, guaranteed by the UN, of territories forced by Arab refugees.

"We urge on the United Nations Emergency Force be not withdrawn from Egypt until these responsibilities are discharged."

IRA Raids Said Biggest in Years

BELFAST (Reuters) — Tuesday night's daring raids in which an armored lorry was attacked by installations in Northern Ireland, were the biggest of a series of the outlawed Irish Republican Army in many years.

If anything, they pointed to the continuing buildup of the illegal army which in recent months has almost openly been engaged in training men in the hills and countryside of the Irish Republic, whose government has outlawed it.

The raids were part of a long series of anti-British acts dating back to Easter Sunday, 1916, the day on which the Irish rebellion against British rule began in Dublin.

Cold Revolution Unseats Dictator, Victory for Haiti's 'Man on Street'

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) A "cold revolution" has toppled Gen. Paul Magloire's week-old dictatorship in Haiti, restoring constitutional authority, in the little Caribbean republic's history.

Magloire said Wednesday night after three days of strikes virtually throttled all normal activity in the country.

As the constitution prescribes, the president of the Supreme Court, Joseph Nemours Pierre-Louis, took office temporarily. He will govern until a new president is named in a national election.

Magloire's fall represents a victory for the man on the street in Haiti's turbulent history — for the shopkeeper—who fought for liberty with the only weapon he had: a refusal to work.

Unarmed and poorly organized, they countered Magloire's seizure of power by simply staying home, by closing business establishments, and paralyzing transportation. Except for the wounding of a soldier, no blood was spilled. The strike did not even attempt to demonstrate in the streets.

Magloire, a husky professional soldier, was elected in 1950. He was the first president in Haiti's history named directly by the people.

Since the constitution prohibits two consecutive terms for a president, Magloire last May ordered election machinerys to be set up for choosing his successor.

But on the night of Dec. 6 he stepped out as president—and stepped back in as "chief of state."

The answer of the people—strikes—was not long in coming.

Canada's Known Uranium Reserves 225 Million Tons

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government said today that Canada's known reserves of uranium ore are estimated to be 225,000,000 tons.

This is the first time that Canada's reserves of uranium have been made public. The announcement means that Canada has vast quantities of the atomic material available for use in its atomic energy power program and for export to other countries.

Canada exports now only to the United States but is expected to ship the ore to Britain, Japan and other countries of the Western world which lack uranium supplies of their own.

Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, the crown-owned company responsible for Canada's uranium production program, also said that by Dec. 31, 1956, Canadian uranium production will be at the rate of 5,300 tons a year.

RESERVES CONFIRMED

"On the basis of known information Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited estimates that Canadian uranium ore reserves are sufficient to support at a minimum content of 237,000 tons," the announcement said.

"Canadian uranium production as at Dec. 31, 1956, will be at the rate of 5,300 tons per year. This production will be contained in a high-grade concentrate. The rate is expected to increase sharply in 1957 and by mid-1958 it is estimated that Canada's production of uranium will be between 14,000 and 15,000 tons per annum.

"The gross income from this production will be approximately $300,000,000 per annum. In excess of $300,000,000 will have to be expended on production, buildings, equipment and services."

FLOODS TAKE TOLL

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Sixty-six persons have been killed and 14 are missing in flooding in floods now sweeping East Jays, it was reported here Wednesday night.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

BROWN TERRIER, PET OF FAMILY, DEAD

There is a touch of sadness in the home of Mrs. Doris Deryaw, 34 East Moira Street, Trenton, a brown terrier and the pet of the neighborhood is dead. He was estimated to be nearly eighteen years of age and three years ago, he probably saved the family from death by fire, when he aroused all by barking and hurrying from room to room in the house.

Both city and provincial police reported a quiet week with no accidents or break-ins.

Two city public works employees reported finding a 16-foot boat in the lee and almost obscured in the weeds off Cold Creek Island. The boat was first seen about a month ago when it drifted into the cove. It then disappeared. It is believed the boat may have broken loose from its mooring during a heavy wind and drifted down the bay.

Thrillin' with his new purchase the youth immediately started out on a frolic and found himself in Belleville, where he was stopped in a routine check by police officers. When unable to produce a driver's licence he was detained at the police station for questioning.

Ratepayers of Three School Areas Against Annexation

Ratepayers of Holy Rosary, Prince of Wales and Bridgewater school districts met at Prince of Wales school last night to discuss problems involved in annexation to the city.

Before the meeting adjourned a fact-finding committee was nominated to study the pros and cons of annexation and report the findings to the group.

Mr. Jack Sproule, chairman of the school board of S. S. 5 Thurlow, presided over the meeting and called on the audience to present its views. The general attitude was darkest of the pessimism.

Mr. E. Reed moved that a committee be set up to look into the matter. This motion was seconded by Mr. R. Coulombe and passed. Mr. Sproule left work in co-operation with committees from the school areas of Belleville and Sidney, which have been formed already. Mr. Sproule stated that, united, these groups could be more information than if working separately.

He said that Belleville would be adding more than $3 million in ratepayers' taxes and was threatened. Belleville's mill rate would increase by 10 mills if the annexed area would have an increased mill rate. The chairman continued that Mayor Mills and commissioner Reid had hydro expenses would be cut by 50% if the other half-land would increase considerably.

One woman present, Mrs. W. N. Pontin, strongly against annexation, saying she could not see any benefits to it. She also stressed the opinion that a country school was the better education-al facilities than those found in a city school, which she described as "jungles." On other hand Mr. Sproule added that cost of education in the city is almost double.

When one man asked what could be done to prevent annexation, Mrs. Ponton replied "Stand up and fight". Mr. Sproule elaborated on this point, telling the people they could best annexation if they fought against it. He said they would probably have the aid of the municipal council.

The area involved includes the Holy Rosary school area on Dundonald Street to the CNR railway tracks, College Street to Highway 62.

The fact - finding committee, which includes representatives from each section, consists of E. Reed, J. Sproule, F. Mulvihill, E. Hall, R. Dafoe, C. Orr and D. Morrice. The ratepayers will be called together again as soon as these men are prepared to present their findings.

Staff members and their wives from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Napanee, Tweed and Madoc were in attendance and thoroughly enjoyed the delightful turkey dinner prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association. Nearly one hundred sat down at the tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Ted Jones, district manager of the company with Mrs. Jones, Danny Cox, assistant district manager and Mrs. Cox were head table guests and during the evening, Mr. John Harwood, president each with gifts to show the esteem of the employees to the newly-elected officers. Mr. Jones and Mr. Cox sincerely thanked the donors for the fine gifts and for the fine co-operation that had been existing between them. Mr. and Mrs. Cox particularly thanked the truckmen for the fine job they have done during the past year.

Short addresses were given by Claude Rose, the newly appointed and elected Monday as a councillor at Napanee; W. B. Purtelle of Picton and Mr. Claude D. Tice, who extended greetings to those from outside the city, on behalf of Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester. Thanks were extended to the ladies who so delightfully prepared and served the turkey dinner.

Taxi-Licence Policy Causes Furore in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) —City council Wednesday voted to ask the Ontario attorney-general to investigate the city's taxi-licence policy, which is said to have caused private licence-trafficking at inflated prices.

The council, after hearing evidence this week that some holders sold or leased their licences at prices up to $5,000, though their official price is $15, approved the move unanimously.

However, Mayor Nathan Phillips said he will make an official statement defending the police commission, which until 1957 controls the number of licences issued.

Next year the power will pass to a Metropolitan licensing commission, which has threatened to issue permits on an unlimited basis if the trafficking is not stopped.

Argos Should Sign Her Up

She dropped her school books, gave chase and landed the culprit with a shoestring tackle. They struggled for the purse a moment, then Marcia landed a roundhouse right to the nose, and the thief dropped the purse and sprinted away.

Hardly ruffled, but shaking a little from shock, Marcia gave police his description.

Jackie Robinson Traded to Giants For Hurler, Cash

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants announced today they had obtained Jackie Robinson from Brooklyn Dodgers in exchange for pitcher Dick Littlefield and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, and Dodger head Walter O'Malley, closed the deal at the major league meetings in Chicago earlier this week, but withheld the information until the players could be advised.

Although the amount of cash involved was not given, there were reports it was around $50,000.

Robinson began his major league career with Brooklyn at the start of the 1947 season, joining the club from its Montreal farm club. The International League Negro has played first base, second base, and in recent years at third and the outfield.

Littlefield was obtained in the Alvin Dark deal with St. Louis Cardinals last summer.

He had a 4-4 record with the Giants this season.

Bill Rigney, Giants manager, said Robinson would play first base for the Giants.

FIRST NEGRO

Robinson, who will be 38 Jan. 1, was the first Negro to play in the majors, and has a lifetime batting average of .309.

At his home in Stamford, Conn., he said he was surprised when he first heard the news Wednesday night from E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi, Dodger vice-president.

"I am naturally disappointed leaving Brooklyn," he said. "But that's baseball for you. I've had wonderful years in Brooklyn, received wonderful treatment from the Brooklyn fans.

"There are no hard feelings. The Brooklyn club has to protect its own best interest, I thought, till last night, that they (Brooklyn) have a lot of nice young players. I hope they can win again, unless the Giants can win it. I've always heard nice things about Mr. Stoneham."

Jackie said his son, Jackie, Jr., cried when he heard the news "but we explained to him that was all a part of baseball."

Egyptians Fight British Patrol

PORT SAID (AP)—The Egyptian underground ambushed a British patrol under a hail of machine-gun fire Wednesday night in a new show of defiance for the withdrawing Anglo-French forces. The patrol squirmed out of the Egyptian trap without any casualty.

It was almost an exact duplicate of the ambush set up earlier this week in almost the same spot on the edge of Arab Town, a crowded slum quarter with narrow alleyways and tall dingy buildings packed with Port Said's poor.

Two tanks moved into the ambush area early this morning as troops combed the area. Egyptian civil police also took part in the search. Anglo - French headquarters announced, but by dawn not a trace of the ambush party had been found.

Flexible Farm Price Supports Proposed to PC's

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party was asked today to adopt an agricultural policy of flexible price supports and export disposal of farm surpluses.

The proposal was put before the party's national convention by a policy committee which also recommended endorsement of advance payments on farm-stored Western wheat.

The committee's draft resolution said that under a Conservative government farmers would not bear the loss alone if wheat and other farm surpluses were sold at cut prices to "good customers" abroad or if food commitments were made to needy countries.

The resolution, which is subject to change by the convention, did not specify that the federal treasury would help absorb the loss.

The domestic price support program would provide "a fair and reasonable price for various products announced well in advance of the production season, as required."

SECRET POLICE

Race and Ball were reported seized when they left the relative safety of a factory and went to the Parliament Buildings for discussions at the invitation of the Kadar regime.

It was a repetition of the same sort of treachery which led to the arrest of the military commander of the rebels some weeks ago. It also resembled the seizure of former Premier Imre Nagy when he left the sanctuary of the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest. Yugoslavia circulated that a number of other labor leaders also were arrested Wednesday.

REMAIN ON STRIKE

Although most Budapest factories were working again, workers at the electrical plant where Racz was employed remained on strike in protest against his arrest.

"We continue the strike until Racz is back," crowds of workers at the factory told Western correspondents.

While there was no official confirmation of the Serov report, the situation in Hungary is so chaotic that the Russians are reported running matters entirely—in effect replacing Kadar's puppet regime.

A Hungarian informant said Serov "is now running what is left of the Kadar regime, whose members are fighting among themselves."

Russian tanks and armored cars this morning were blocking the approaches to the Parliament Buildings.

(Serov, as secret police chief, has a long record of execution and deportations from the Soviet Union. Named to the top security post in 1954, he was picked by Nikita Khrushchev to look after personal security of Kremlin leaders on their visits abroad. When Serov went to Britain last March to make security arrangements for the visit of Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin, the British papers assailed him as an "odious thug," a "jackal" and a "murderer.")

POLICE KILL TWO

A clash in Budapest occurred at noon Wednesday while demonstrators were burning Communist newspapers and were attempting to halt streetcars which police and militia were forcing employees to operate. The police finally opened fire on the demonstrators and at least two were reported killed.

Details on reported clashes in Eger and Miskolc were scarce, but other deaths were reported there.

High Level Talks On Future of Cyprus Ended

LONDON (AP) — High-level talks on the future of Cyprus ended in London today. There were cautious hopes for a speedy settlement of the British-Greek dispute over the strife-torn Mediterranean island.

Britain's three key negotiators left the capital by air after 10 days of conferences with Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd and other government ministers.

Field Marshall Sir John Harding, Governor of Cyprus and Britain's ambassador in Greece and Turkey, Sir Charles Peake and Sir James Bowker, had been called home to outline their views on a draft constitution for Cyprus prepared by legal expert Lord Radcliffe.

Official sources said a government announcement is expected shortly on the draft constitution, under which Cyprus will be offered limited self-rule within the Commonwealth.

The British government hopes the proposed constitution will provide a basis for agreement among Britain, Greece and Turkey, all members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Two Greek Cypriots were shot dead by masked gunmen Wednesday night in Nicosia, Southern Cyprus, it was announced today.

Survival Kits Enable Two Airmen To Exist Comfortably in Woods

MONTREAL — Two airmen who ejected themselves free of a disabled CF-100 Jet on Monday evening and parachuted to safety survived two days and two nights in rugged Quebec bush country, told about their experiences while resting comfortably at the RCAF Station hospital in Bagotville.

"It was about 5 o'clock Monday evening when our aircraft developed trouble. I jumped first," said F/O John J. Pasaruk, the 30-year-old navigator. "I wasn't sure if Don got out or not."

The pilot was F/O Donald F. Read, Trenton, Ont.

"I parachuted into bush country. There was no sign of my buddy," Read said. "I didn't know until the Otter aircraft landed to pick me up that Pasaruk was safe two miles away on the other side of the hill.

"On Monday evening, I heard an aircraft overhead. I shot a flare from my Verey pistol. But I guess visibility was so bad the men in the aircraft didn't see me.

"That night, I made myself comfortable and had a sleep in my sleeping bag. (The RCAF's survival kits include such items as sleeping bag, matches, flares, a .22 calibre rifle, and enough food for a man to exist for more than a week.)

"I had a good sleep, too. It was surprisingly warm both nights I was out."

In answer to a question by a CBC newsman who conducted an interview at the hospital, F/O Read said quietly but firmly, "I am going to fly again."

F/O Pasaruk said that once he had parachuted safely he no idea where he was. But he thought he was about 30 or 40 miles from base. The young fliers were about 20 miles from Murray Bay on Lac des Martres.

"I flagged up a tent with my parachute," Pasaruk said. "I was happy to have such accommodation. It was quite an experience but I'm sure that I will fly again—quite definitely."

MAKE IT A SAFE CHRISTMAS

The varied-colored lights serve a double purpose, presenting a pretty picture to our eyes and reminding our hearts that the Christmas season is upon us.

It is too early, though, to duplicate these Christmas decorations indoors.

One of a list of precautions recommended by the All Canada Insurance Federation is to keep Christmas trees and boughs outside as long as possible. Otherwise the trees and boughs may dry out and create a dangerous fire hazard. Every Christmas death and injury result from carelessness with Christmas decorations.

Once the tree is inside, it should be provided with a hearty drink, to keep it green. Drinks for other members of the household, though, do not lessen the fire hazard and this fact should be kept in mind. Burning cigarets and cigars should be kept away from the tree.

Many people place Christmas presents under the tree as they are received, and in these days when so many are listening to the radio, to mail early some of these presents arrive many days before Christmas. They could be just more fuel for a fire. Keep them away from the tree until just before Christmas. Once they are opened, remove the wrappings promptly. Surely the most hazardous hour of the whole Christmas season must be that one immediately after the opening of the last present, when everybody relaxes after the tension and feels much too lazy to undertake such an unChristmassy chore as tidying up the living room!

Of course, few people now indulge in the hazardous practice of lighting the tree with candles. But electric lights are dangerous, too. Make sure they do not overload circuits. Re-arrange them on the tree when they start to dry out neighboring needles. Turn off the lights when the house is unoccupied. Nor are the lights the only electric hazard. Keep portable heaters away from the tree. That applies to other types of heaters besides electric ones, of course.

Do not place trees in front of doorways or staircases, where they would get a good draft if they caught fire, and do not put them near fireplaces. A small tree can be just as pretty as a big one—and it is far less likely to get knocked over. Even if it does catch fire, there is less of it to burn.

Once the needles start to fall off the tree, remove it from the house. Not only is this less messy, giving the overworked housekeeper less exercise with the vacuum, but a tree that is shedding its needles is just giving proof that it is dry as tinder.

Oh, yes, the tree is not the only Christmas fire hazard. There is the turkey, too. Avoid accumulations of grease in ovens and on stove burners.

And at this season when there are so many exciting things going on that small children cannot be expected to remember to be careful, make sure they are kept away from open fireplaces and stoves. Choose their toys with care. Chemistry sets, firearms and toys requiring the use of kerosene or other inflammable liquids can cause a tragedy.

LAWSY ME!

Somewhere, out in the wilds of British Columbia, wanders a man with an idea, an idea which if the authorities ever take it seriously is going to make the Federal public works appropriation look like the bill for a small job.

This gentleman, pondering the oft-repeated warning that ignorance of the law is no excuse, decided that there must be an awful lot of laws about which he and his fellow citizens were completely ignorant.

He therefore wrote a letter to the Vancouver Sun, advocating that something be done about this deplorable and perilous state of affairs.

What he wanted done was to make available to the populace all the country's laws—by posting them in a public place as the legislative mills grind them out.

He suggested public offices.

The task of building post offices big enough to provide billboards for all the laws would make the sandsweeping of the Sahara look like the amateur hook like an after-four detention for a kindergarten type.

Nor is this the worst danger inherent in this suggestion. Think of what would happen to the government, after posting the laws, passed another law requiring all of us to read these laws!

ITALIAN DOUBLE-CROSS

CITY LIFE

Ask for silence; few will hear.
Barking dogs will gather near,
Droning seems to fill the sky
As the planes go speeding by;
Truck gears clash as oft they will,
City life is never still.

Motor horns sound night and day,
Fire truck sirens clear the way
Followed shortly by police;
Bells and sirens never cease.
Here's a truth, though not profound;
City life is full of sound.

World wide little girls and boys
Gayly make a lot of noise.
The incessant sounds of strife
Seem to be a part of life.
Brave the clamor year by year;

Memory, Magic Mirror

Montreal Gazette

One day Leslie Ward was visiting the studio of artist, Sir John Everett Millais. Sir John was painting a portrait. Leslie Ward was astonished at his method.

Instead of looking straight at the person sitting for the portrait, he would walk to a full-length mirror which stood a few feet away, and sit the other end of the room. He would look intently at the model as seen in the glass, then he would hurry back to his canvas and paint the reminiscent reflection.

Leslie Ward could only remark to the amazed artist, which Millais painted a portrait .. to me was something quite novel." And yet it may be true that most things seem more interesting, more impressive, more their real selves when seen in reflection, than when seen in the larger confusions of the boundless world.

• • •

The method followed by Millais in his studio was very much the same as that followed by the Norwegian playwright, Ibsen. There, when he studied the human scene.

Every afternoon he would go to his favorite table in a certain cafe. There he would sit obliquely, facing a mirror. It would raise a newspaper before him, so that he himself would be unnoticed. But he would look into the mirror through his gold-rimmed spectacles and command a view of the whole room.

His biographer, Sir Edmund Gosse, tells us that Ibsen, in this interval, every couple that conversed, one immediately after the opening of the last present- ing the table, to mail early some of these presents arrive many days before Christmas. They could be just more fuel for a fire. Keep them away from the tree until just before Christmas. Once they are opened, remove the wrappings promptly. Surely the most hazardous hour of the whole Christmas season must be that one immediately after the opening of the last present- when everybody relaxes after the tension and feels much too lazy to undertake such an unChristmassy chore as tidying up the living room!

Man Mountain To Be Pitied

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Everybody must feel a great deal of sympathy for 30-year-old Robert Earl Hughes of Fishkook, Illinois. He weighs 975 pounds, and is growing fatter all the time. He has returned to his home after a tour with a circus side show 95 pounds heavier than when he started out in the spring—not summer.

Hughes weighed 11 pounds at birth, so he was always on the big side, and when he was ten years old he was pushing 200. He is a six-footer, but is such a rotund figure that he looks like a "freak" even when he stands up. He has a farm home at Fishkook, and when he moves at all he has to be lifted on it.

It is almost impossible to realize the difficulties that prevent the comforts of weighing over half a ton, being six feet tall and confined around the world. It would be impossible for Hughes to dress himself, because he could not reach around to his buttons and he certainly could never bend over to put on his shoes. Some years ago there was a professional "wrestler", modern style, who was so fat that he was brought to the ringside in a wheelbarrow and hoisted into the ring with a crane. That was just showmanship.

But Robert E. Hughes could never bear the burden of walking. Even if he could, he would be compelled around would be by rolling him along the floors or the ground. We assume that he just stays put on going to bed and getting up, and never moves more than he can help. He could do very little for himself anyway.

Physicians seldom agree with a stout person's suggestion that his or her fatness is due to glandular disorder. They smile to themselves and attribute it to overeating and underexercising. But there is no doubt that Hughes' tragic fate is due to glands gone haywire. A man could never eat himself to that size. Such a man will have a short and miserable life—and he merits our pity.

Arbitrary School Rule

Sudbury Star

Because Robert Pherretten likes to wear his hair like a man named Elvis Presley, he has been barred from the school at Wawa, Temagami, Michigan.

Pherretten's parents took the matter to court, but the ruling went against them. "Respect for constituted authority is a lesson that should appropriately be taught in the classroom," said the presiding judge. A fair enough ruling, but what kind of authority sets up a ruling that decrees a boy must have his cut illegal?

If a boy can't go to school with his hair cut like Mr. Presley, why can he go with a crewcut? Or with a Tarzan bang? Or a senile, falling away on both sides, if boys still get their hair cut that way?

The same arbitrary rulings have cropped up at other times and in other places. Students have been barred over the issue of slacks vs. skirts and sundry other matters.

In the Presley issue, the elder generation is up in arms at the time vested authority because the hillbilly singer vocalizes the way they highly with most of them. That merely obscures the issue. If the boy likes to cut his hair in the way that doesn't, say get it cut—provided it is not so extreme as impair his writing ability who's to say — with logic — that he can't?

Certainly it is a teacher's responsibility — and that of the parents, of course — to see that children are clean and tidy at school. But for a school to get itself up as a style arbiter is something else again. If young Master Pherretten's hair was clean and his deportment otherwise satisfactory, the way he cuts his hair should be only his own concern.

A bald-headed spokesman for the school board had the temerity to remark that long hairiety seemed to go with criminality marks. Maybe the type of boy who would want to imitate Elvis Presley would get low marks, but we're pretty sure shorter hair wouldn't raise them.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PLOWSHARE AND PRUNINGHOOKS

Both the prophets Isaiah and Micah speak of beating swords into plowshares and spears into pruninghooks. Probably very often together, that the prophet Joel (3:10) put it the other way around. Instead of beating plowshares into swords and pruninghooks into spears, he solemnly cried Joel, "Let the weak say, I am strong . . . Put ye in the sickle; for the harvest is ripe; come, tread ye; for the wine press is full, the vats overflow; for their wickedness is great."

We like Micah in the spirit of Joel, but our hope is justified that Words will become plowshares and deeds will become pruninghooks, because religion is dynamite and when it begins to operate on false systems men have built up, something is bound to happen. Slavery, intemperance, and all other social corruption have in the past so often been attacked and overthrown, established that any prospect of getting rid of them seemed a hopeless, dream, that when they were established from the earth. Totalitarianism is the tragic today with intelligence and vigor. The moral ideals of humanity improve with the passing of the years.

Most of us may never live to see the elimination of war, but that elimination will finally come. Isaiah and Micah will triumph over Joel—plowshares and pruninghooks over swords and spears.

Many Forget Golden Rule

Salt Lake City Tribune

A youngster in a crowded elevator brushed his melting ice cream cone across the back of a woman's dress.

"Don't do that, Junior," scolded the child's mother, "You'll get germs in your ice cream."

The story introduces the lesson for today — considerateness. It was inspired also by a sweety, exasperating as a bar with the electric license plates, asking the location of a certain address. When it was pointed out to him across the street, he asked, "why can't people have house numbers you can read?"

Why can't they? Such consideration would be appreciated by deliverymen and strangers, as well as friends. Having a house number that can be read from the street is just a matter of everyday kind of courtesy.

Another section of the little golden rule: A woman pushing a baby in a cart detouring into the roadway to buy a waffle advertised because a lawn sprinkler swept across the sidewalk. How would the offending householder feel if the mother and baby were hit by a car? Lack of consideration dulls the lustre of a green lawn.

The little golden rule applies, too, to the man starting up his noisy, smelly power lawn mower a few feet from where a family is enjoying an outdoor dinner, in the use of a malodorous insecticide or in allowing a dog to bark or howl all night.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Preventive Medicine And Personal Health

A Pennsylvania reader, the mother of eight children ranging in age from 13 years to 6 months, writes that since the oldest began to go to school, winters have become one long series of illnesses, with respiratory illnesses leading the field. She has read this column for many years. She wishes more members of the medical profession practised Preventive Medicine. How wonderful life would be.

All good doctors practise preventive medicine more or less, depending on the scale of intelligence of their clientele and how much time they can afford to devote to unpaid service.

It is conceivable that a doctor might build a practice in preventive medicine exclusively if he had the means to support himself for, say, ten years until he could make a living in practice.

I have often thought of hanging out my shingle in some town where I haven't now and never have had any newspaper publicity, limiting my practice not to preventive medicine, for I could do little if anything in that field that any good doctor can't or doesn't do. I'd limit my practice to personal health, for I believe I have learned many things in writing this health column that would make people willing to pay for my service.

For years I have been dropping hints that my unprecedented career in the health column racket entitles me to suitable recognition, such as an honorary degree of P.H.D. (not Ph. D., stupid) from some suitable educational institution. As the first Doctor of Personal Health I might start something. Never can tell. Once or twice I even announced that I might set up a chair, a foundation or an endowment but even at that price, no institution saw eye to eye with me. So I decided the heck with it. In my files there is ample evidence that many grandparents, parents and children have found health and happiness in this column.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is seldom much use knowing the top man in any business or enterprise. The man to know, for action, is somewhere fourth or fifth down from the top.

Some lady friends of mine belong to one of these militant national societies devoted to culture. They figured it would be wonderful to have a booth from which to sell memberships at one of these big automotive shows presenting the new 1929 models. So they account their membership for the right contact to reach the president of one of the automobile companies involved. They got her; a lady high up in the social world, who knew all presidents, chairmen of boards, prime ministers and so forth, called upon the automotive president. He, dear man, agreed to everything! And did nothing.

At the last minute, just before the show opened, the lady-in-charge had come regarding the setting up of booths and finishing touches, the round woman of the committee confessed that an uncle of hers was a plant superintendent who might have something to do with the show. She telephoned him. Her "Sure, baby, bring your booth along," he said. "We'll set it up somewhere."

And they set it up very prettily indeed; and signed on over eighty members.

Top men in business, industry, public life, society seldom rise to the top through their gift of saying yes and doing nothing. Some lady friends of mine, let alone our political life, consists of pretty promises! Up at the top of all enterprise there should be a man of very special gifts, a man who can keep a whole throughout many years, a man liked by a strong touch here, a touch as delicate as a feather there. And he should see that the orders are promises or undertakings forgotten or left undone.

Besides which, many men at the top are dilatory from over-exertion and fail to look to the future advancing age; or from plain contentment. Napoleon was the top man, but the real bosses are down below them, in second, or even third place.

"As a general rule," said a well-known public relations man yesterday to a gathering of newspaper women editors and writers, "don't waste time cultivating the top men in business, industry and public life. Those are the executives frozen down at management or civil service level. That is where the top men get their information."

And until they get it, they are liable to do nothing.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE POWER OF THE MIND

Even after so many years of research and experimentation, what we know about the human mind is very little. No one has yet measured its power, its capacity, or its possibilities. We take it for granted that it is very wonderful because of what miracles it performs again and again.

There seems to be no end to what the mind of man can do. It fully trusted and understood—at least so that it will increase the use of it in other people, we will be bringing happiness to others. None of us who now live may ever know the future discoveries about the power of the mind, but it's there today, and what it's capable of will perform if we but had sufficient faith and belief in the promises of our Heavenly Father. We are protected this great instrument pf power to us in the first place.

Perhaps it is going to take a long time yet before we shall be worthy to gain the power that could be ours. We have educated, in a measure, the mind of ours, but it is still only partially educated. The same is true of the heart. Spiritually we are but orphans! I believe in prayer. I believe that God can heal the body; that we don't use apoorly as we might.

Whenever I look upon a beautiful piece of art, a piece of painting, or a thing of woven beauty, I see the touch of the mind and heart there. We make things quickly with machinery, but in earlier days we had those who put their hands and hearts to work, so that it is still with us in many instances today in our homes to testify to the love of beauty in all hearts.

I come to the point of use the word "can't" from his dictionary. He has said

Young Couple Honored by Many Friends

IVANHOE — A large number of friends and neighbors gathered in Huntingdon township hall, Ivanhoe, on Saturday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blakely (nee Jean Haggerty).

The first part of the evening was spent in dancing. The gathering was called to order by Warden Elmer Wood, who acted as chairman for the following program:

Solo, with guitar accompaniment, Mrs. Doug Francis; duet, "Open Up Your Heart," Elsie Barnard and Shirley Wickens; reading, "Men, Women," Miss Margaret Wright; trio, "How Far Is Heaven?", Sheila, Gail and Sharon Francis.

An address, extending best wishes for a long and happy married life was read by Mrs. Carman Mullett, who presented the newlyweds with a purse of money.

After Jean and Carl had expressed thanks all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Jean has grown up in this community and has always participated in all community and church activities. She was a valued member of Bethesda United Church choir.

Coming of a musical family, she has given much pleasure with her banjo playing. Carl, who is also musical, is well known and well liked in this district.

The best wishes of this community for health, happiness and prosperity go with them to their new home in Peterborough.

Policemen Asked To Accept 44-Hour Week

TRENTON, (Special.) The local police association wanted the Trenton Police Commission to approve a 40-hour work week, better condition in the constable's room and a wage increase of $200 a year for all members of the Trenton force.

Tuesday the Commission committee, Judge J. C. Anderson, Magistrate T. Y. Wills and Mayor Ross Burtt gave the proposal consideration and then requested the association to compromise on one point; accept a 44-hour week. The Commission emphasized the department would have its continued co-operation.

Sgt. D. Bradshaw, Constables J. Graham and Max Gainforth represented the Association.

Local policemen now put in 48 hours of duty a week.

MERCHANTS CONTRIBUTE

Refugees Will Be Given Warm Hand at Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—Halifax, which for years has watched immigrants pass through the city with little display of emotion, is preparing to pull out all stops for the first about 5,000 Hungarian refugees who will arrive here between now and Jan. 7.

The first group of 120 refugees is to arrive here Friday on the liner Ivernia and the long piers will be filled with welcoming committees, including officials, perhaps dancers, and Hungarian-Canadians.

Hungarians who can play a musical instrument will be supplied with the facilities. Food and personal needs will be given out by the Red Cross, Salvation Army and other agencies.

Meanwhile, at Saint John, N.B., the luxury liner Empress of Britain is due tonight with 361 Hungarian refugees, second largest contingent to arrive in Canada.

Relief organizations report all in readiness to care for the refugees who are expected to remain at Saint John until Tuesday when they will leave for the Hungarian transit centre in Toronto and new homes in Western Canada.

A giant welcome is planned by the Saint John diocesan Hungarian relief committee. Members are expected to wave placards greeting the refugees in their native language. Roman Catholic Bishop Alfred R. Leverman will be at the dock and will celebrate a special mass Sunday morning.

About 200 Nova Scotians have invited Hungarians to spend Christmas with them. But is is not known how many will be stopping over here. There have been offers of employment and to adopt Hungarian children.

belonging to Gladys Whitmore of Trenton, was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. The car became stuck two miles east of Castleton. Mr. Whitmore got out to push it and a fire started in the trunk of the car, presumably in the vehicle. Provincial police from Brighton, who investigated, believe the fire was caused by a short circuit in the tail-

LOWER TAXES.

These and other proposed party planks will be taken up for immediate, detailed examination by the convention today and Friday. Some may be approved as they stand; others may be amended or thrown out and new ones inserted. The moves will be up to the voting delegates.

The proposed social benefits, anticipated to add about $165,000,000 to existing federal social costs, likely will become a major plank in the party platform.

As outlined, it would allow all present hospital insurance premiums to be wholly deductible from taxable income and would provide more generous income tax deductions for medical expenses. At present, deductions are allowed for payments in excess of three per cent of taxable income.

The health proposal also promises to negotiate with individual provinces for a comprehensive hospital insurance plan, covering all types of ailments including hysteria, insanity and diseases of the aged. The plan would go into effect immediately between any province agreeing to it and the federal government.

Existing private insurance plans, such as Blue Cross, and provincial schemes would be used, and the "remainder of the cost" shared by the federal and provincial governments according to mutually acceptable financial arrangements."

WOULD BOOST PENSIONS

Present old-age pensions for the needy—those 65 years and over—would be boosted; veterans' disability pensions would be raised and the provisions extended to those served only in Britain in the First World War.

Other proposals:

Extend the provisions of the National Housing Act to the purchase of existing houses in good condition; prevent credit curbs from discriminating against development of low-cost housing projects.

Affirm the sovereignty of Canada as an independent country; affirm loyalty of Canada to "the Queen of Canada"; resist encroachment of communism or fascism on freedom.

IMMIGRATION AIMS

Encourage a vigorous immigration policy consistent with Canada's absorptive capacity and skilled workers; establish an "independent" appeal board to which New Canadians could appeal departmental rulings.

Hold a federal-provincial conference to reform the Senate.

Agree to a program of tax rentals for such provinces that want them, and clearly define allocations of taxing powers so that provinces which do not want to rent their tax fields to Ottawa may be able to raise their necessary revenues.

Reduce income taxes by eliminating surpluses; provide tax exemptions for pension payments made by self-employed persons, such as farmers and fishermen; raise basic personal income tax exemptions if possible; pay municipalities full taxes on crown property; allow municipalities and school boards sales and exercise tax exemption on their purchases.

BROADCAST CONTROLS

Establish an independent regulatory board for radio and television broadcasting.

Make the maintenance of full employment and the highest possible living standards a primary objective; increase unemployment insurance benefits; eliminate waiting periods in payment of insurance benefits.

She was attended by Mrs. Bob Brayne, of Frankford, as bridesmaid, gowned in ballerina-length net over pink taffeta with corsage of lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. Bob Brayne, of Frankford, attended the bridegroom.

The wedding reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother, wearing blue grey with corsage of lily-of-the-valley received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in navy blue with lily-of-the-valley corsage.

The evening was spent in games and contests. Mrs. Morrison gave two readings. The home was decorated with pink and white streamers and a white wedding bell over the table laden with gifts.

A "Recipe Book" was made for the bride-to-be during the evening.

Fiorenza Drew Given Pendant By PC Women

OTTAWA (CP)—Florenza Drew Wednesday night held an antique jewelled Florentine pendant in her hand and said to a small knot of listeners: "I can never tell you how much I will cherish this."

The wife of Hon. George Drew, retiring Progressive Conservative party leader, stood beside her husband in the nearly-empty Coliseum here at the end of the first session of the party's leadership convention.

Mrs. Drew spoke to Mrs. Roland Michener, wife of the Conservative MP for Toronto St. Paul's, who had just presented the pendant on behalf of Parliament Hill's Conservative wives.

In her small audience were about half a dozen members of the Conservatives' Wives Association, the Drews' teen-age son and daughter, Sandra and Edward, and a few of the 2,800 attending the convention.

CAME FROM ITALY

Yet little of the girl's significance was lost in its unobtrusive presentation. It came originally from Florence, the Italian city where Mrs. Drew was born, Florenza, in Italian, means Florence.

Set in silver, with a rose diamond, eight rubies, two large pearls and a large baroque pearl centering a large emerald, the pendant was purchased in London by Mrs. Michener. She arrived here with it only Wednesday.

Mrs. Michener said she had done much searching in Europe for the piece of jewelry, which dates back to the 1700s.

PIONEER COURSE

Women's H.A. Presents Slate Of 1957 Officers

A gay little table set just inside the door greeted those who attended the Women's Hospital Auxiliary December meeting. Each member and guest added her contribution to the Christmas gift table, the contents of which will be on sale at the Opportunity Shop for the reasonable price of 50 cents or less.

The Opportunity Shop has met with such success that the convener, Mrs. L. B. Fonger, presented Mrs. J. L. Smith, president of the auxiliary, with $1,200, making the total amount given to the auxiliary for the year 1956 come to $2,600. This does not include the month of December. Mrs. Fonger said the success was not due to one or two but to the customers, those who donated articles and those who helped serve.

In the absence of Mrs. Kenneth Smith, the president reported on the success of the "Fashion Flents" and thanked all who had helped in this connection.

CORRESPONDENCE REPORT

Mrs. B. E. Burley reported on correspondence sent out including a letter to Mrs. J. Ker on re-election to mayor. Also to Mrs. B. Safe for her generous gift, and to the many people who had made the Fashion Show so successful.

A letter was read from Miss M. Peart, Director of Nursing, thanking the auxiliary for the contribution to the Belle-Gen Club, also one from Mrs. E. L. Scott who has been in hospital.

Receipts from the Coffee Shop increase each week, Miss Dickens said. Among those who come to the shop, it is the custom for blood donors at the hospital to have their coffee there.

Plans for the annual luncheon in January are under way. The president announced that Mrs. Mervyn Jones had agreed to accept the convenership and that Dr. Evelyn Williamson would be the guest speaker.

It was announced that the Alpha Lambda chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority, who provide supplies for the Samaritan Cupboard at the hospital, are in need of wool and flannelette and other materials. It was decided to donate $100 for this purpose.

Miss I. Dickens is convening the Christmas Cheer plans at the hospital.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Gilbert Scott presented the slate of officers for the year 1957 recommending the faithful service of the executive of the past year.

The election of officers was as follows: hon. president, Mrs. W. C. Mikel; past president, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith; president, Mrs. W. H. Finkle; 1st vice-president, Mrs. B. E. Burley; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. E. G. Kennedy; treasurer, Mrs. W. Dallas; recording secretary, Mrs. S. C. Angus; corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. B. Fonger.

Mrs. A. S. McConnell extended a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president. Mrs. Smith expressed appreciation of all that the members had done. "Work has been successful because of the co-operation o the auxiliary," she said.

Miss Peart announced that she would like to express her appreciation and that of her staff for the interest the auxiliary was taking in the student nurses. Miss Dorothy Riddell, Inspector of Schools of Nursing, who visited the Belleville General Hospital recently, was impressed by the work the auxiliary is doing in the school program. She considered it one of the most outstanding contributions to Ontario, Miss Peart added.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. E. Buchan, provincial president, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Sharon McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McDonald.

Sharon, who was born in the Belleville General Hospital thirty years ago, is at present a pupil at Bloomfield School. She has twice won the Hastings County gold medal for public speaking, also the won the Hastings County gold medal, Vanderhoof Trophy, the Senator Fraser trophy, and the Central Ontario trophy. She is an accomplished pianist, interested in the ballet, and an ardent horsewoman. Her latest prize-winning talk, "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps," is close to the heart of all auxiliary members. Mrs. Buchan concluded.

HOSPITAL DEVELOPMENT

Miss McDonald cleverly traced the development of hospitals and the position of the hospital nurse from the original status to the present efficient organizations. "Hospitals are now the centres of hope, health, happiness and usefulness," she said as she described the function of the different departments.

"Long after factories and other businesses have closed for the day, the hospital is never ceding light for life. Twenty-four hours a day, every day, in your community every day, it continues its dramatic work, ushering new lives into the world and returning health to the sick and injured. Yes, the hospital is truly guardian of the people's health! It is the Sentinel That Never Sleeps."

Mrs. McConnell, in offering a vote of thanks, expressed the hope that this clever young orator should continue her good work.

Christ Church P.G. Sponsors Pot-Luck Repast

In place of the usual monthly business meeting, Christ church parish guild had a pot-luck luncheon and Christmas party.

Seated at the head table were, Mrs. Lois Beeby, president of the Guild; Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, immediate past president; Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and Mrs. Creeggan; Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. Smith; Rev. J. Cantrell and Miss Cantrell; Mrs. I. Winters, Mr. J. B. Herdman, organist of Christ church, and Mrs. Herdman.

Everyone on a diet forgot to count calories and all did justice to the good things set before them.

Mrs. Beeby welcomed everyone and gave a special welcome to the guests.

Archdeacon Creeggan, Rev. E. Smith and Rev. J. Cantrell each spoke briefly.

Plans were made for Christmas remembrances for shut-in members.

1957 OFFICERS

Mrs. E. Hickey presented the slate of officers for 1957: president, Mrs. L. Beeby; vice-president, Mrs. Vi Slavin; secretary, Mrs. Ina Cobean; treasurer, Mrs. A. Watkin. All other business was laid over until the January meeting.

While the tables were being cleared, Mrs. Lil Jordan played for community singing, after which a short program was given.

The first item on the program was a melodrama with Mrs. E. Hickey as the Mistress of Ceremonies. In her opening remarks she said "Punchinello is the oldest form of entertainment that has been handed down through the ages." An enjoyable skit was then given with Mrs. E. Hickey as the narrator.

Taking part were: Mrs. M. Colling, Mrs. L. Bishop, Mrs. R. Follett, Mrs. S. Walkin, Mrs. W. Kempston, Mrs. G. Button, Mrs. M. Punchinello, Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. K. Lazier and Mrs. L. Jordan.

The costumes and props added much to this skit and caused a great many laughs.

The next item on the program was "Pete and Repeat", who were Mrs. Lois Beeby and Mrs. B. Wonnacott, most tastefully (?) attired. They did a song and dance, which just about brought down the house.

Several of the members had brought pictures of themselves when they were children which showed that styles sure have changed in the last 50 years. The winner of this guessing contest was Mrs. H. Bateman.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to everyone there. Miss F. Fitzgerald was Santa Claus.

Archdeacon Creeggan gave the closing prayer and an enjoyable afternoon came to a close.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TO TAKE A STAND WILL CLARIFY THE MATTER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There's a fellow 22 years old that I've been going out with for nearly a year, I'm 20.

He's told me many times that he loves me, and I know that I love him, but the queer thing is that while he's always talking about getting married in a vague sort of way, he never proposes. Instead, he's always trying to get me to have an affair with him, and I've told him that I'll never do anything like that. Yet sometimes I'm afraid that I won't have enough will power to keep to this.

Why do you think a man would take up all your time for so long, keep saying he loves you and yet never ask you to marry him?

— Connie

Dear Connie:

Well, why do you think a man would behave this way? Hasn't it ever occurred to you that an affair may actually be all he really wants of you, and that if you broke down and did as he suggests, you'd probably never see him again? A man who really wants to marry a girl doesn't leave her in any doubt about it.

No matter how much you may think you love this man, it's high time you took a definite stand and stopped letting matters drift towards something that will certainly make you very unhappy. I doubt very much that this fellow has any intention of marrying you and however much it may hurt you for awhile, I'm sure you'd be wise to put an end to things as they are. If you'd take such a stand you'd very quickly find out just how sincere he is when he talks about loving you.

TAKE YOUR TIME, PETE. THERE ARE LOTS OF OTHER GIRLS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a sailor and have been dating a certain girl for about six months. She's a very nice girl, and I like her and she likes me, but now I've met another girl I think I like even more.

How can I find out whether or not this second girl would like to go out with me, because I'm not sure she would, I'd stop dating with the first one, if we're.

Dear Pete:

Give yourself another year, or perhaps a few more months, and in that time you'll have met a third girl you like even better than this second one, and a fourth you'll like even better than the third, and so on. That's the way things go at your time of life.

So if you want my advice, you'll date whichever of these two girls you feel like going out with at the time, instead of being so impetuous as to rush one and brush off the other.

And the way to find out if a girl would like to date you, is to invite her on one. It's that easy.

Christmas Supplements

By Mary Moore

Over the past four weeks I have given you several recipes for fruit cakes, cookies, puddings and other luscious foods that we look forward to at Christmas time. You and I though, have more on hand with our three-a-day and our entertaining as the exciting tempo increases right up to the day.

You are bound to have guests over the two weeks before and after Christmas that do not quite rate the Christmas Day family gathering. So you will want some specials that keep the cooking culture high and your reputation growing by leaps and bounds.

I made some muffins yesterday with lemon juice and cornmeal in them. The recipe made 24 muffins. The three of us who ate them all like hot cakes (which indeed they were) could have managed more, so if you are tempted by this recipe and you have as many as five to feed double it—especially if any one of them eats like Pete or Danny. With them I served an oversize omelette for Sunday brunch. The whole meal brought some expected compliments.

LEMON CORNMEAL MUFFINS

One-half cup each butter and sugar, 2 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1-2 cup juice, 1 tablespoon sifted all-purpose flour, 1-3 cup yellow cornmeal, 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup lemon juice, grated rind of 1-2 lemon. Cream butter until light and cream the sugar into it until very light, add yolks and beat well. Sift the sifted flour with the cornmeal and baking powder and salt. Add it alternately with the lemon juice to the creamed mixture. Carefully fold in the stiffly beaten whites and grated rind. Turn into well-buttered muffin tins, filling them 2-3 full. Bake at 400 degrees Fahr. about 15 minutes. (Pete says: "Mum they are terrific, but next time try half that much lemon juice." I think they did not agree with him.

Do you always eat plum pudding for dessert on Christmas? If not you may want a dessert that is festive but not too filling. This one is a honey. You have to taste the puffy batter to believe its feathery lightness.

FRUIT PUFF PUDDING

The choice of fruits is endless. Use 1 jar, 28-oz. can fruit well drained. This may be peaches or half and half peaches and apricot or 3 cartons frozen cherries or raspberries, or in summer 4 cups pitted raw Lombard plums with extra sugar; 3-4 cup juice from canned fruit (you may have to add water); 2 tablespoons lemon juice, maraschino cherries for fruit contrast, 1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Batter—1-3 cup sifted flour, 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, 2 egg whites, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Bring to boil fruit lemon juice and fruit juice. Mix together tapioca, sugar and salt. Stir carefully into fruit; boil gently 1 minute. Pour into buttered baking dish. Beat sugar into yolks until light. Add to whites beaten stiff with salt and cream of tartar. Fold in flour. Pour over hot fruit. Bake at 325 deg. for 50 minutes. Serve warm with pouring cream.

WEDDING BELLS

PORT LAMBTON, Ont. (CP)—A summer romance blossomed into marriage for Willard Simpson and Mrs. Annie Hay, who were wed recently by Rev. D. K. Cameron. Mr. Simpson, 85, and Mrs. Hay, 83, met at a resort near Kingsville last summer.

Mother's Helper

LITTLE FOLKS are sometimes hard to see, if they're playing in the very large sandbox. So, when you buy that winter snowsuit or jacket, how about choosing a really bright shade of red or blue? If you live near a busy road, the color is a value...for safety measure, especially for walkers-to-school.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

HOW TO ADDRESS CHRISTMAS CARD TO CLERGYMAN, PRIEST

To a Protestant clergyman: The Reverend Paul Brooks.

To a Protestant clergyman with a degree (D.D., for example): The Rev. Dr. Thomas Hall (or The Rev. Thomas Hall, D.D.).

To a clergyman and wife: The Rev. (or The Rev. Dr.) and Mrs. Peter Lee.

Or: The Rev. Peter Lee and Mrs. Lee

Or: The Rev. Dr. Peter Lee and Mrs. Lee.

To a Roman Catholic priest: The Reverend Joseph Keiss. (This is the correct form of address also for Greek Orthodox priests, and Anglican priests who are addressed as "Father.....")

The initials of the order may be added: The Reverend Joseph Keiss, S.J.

To a Monsignor: The Right Rev. Monsignor James E. Breslin (Or: The Very Rev. Monsignor—, depending on his rank.)

This is most important: The word The should always be written before the word Reverend used with the name of a clergyman or priest. The Reverend—. The Reverend Dr.—. The Right Reverend. The Very Reverend. And why is this? Because "Reverend' is not a title . . . like "Mr." or "Dr." "Reverend" is an adjective, an adjective of courtesy used in addressing those in the spiritual profession. Therefore never write "Reverend John Goode" . . . always The Reverend John Goode.

WHY SHE SHOULD RETURN ENGAGEMENT RING, A CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Christmas Day this year will not be a happy day for me, because of my memories of a wonderfully happy day last Christmas, the day on which my engagement was announced. Now I have a problem concerning my engagement ring. My fiance (at that time) gave me the engagement ring which was also my Christmas present. I have just broken the engagement, and the newspaper-announcement of the broken engagement has been made. I realize that under usual circumstances when an engagement is broken, the engagement ring should be returned. But should this rule also apply to the engagement ring which was also a Christmas present? To tell you the truth, I just don't want to return it unless it is absolutely incorrect for me to keep it. (The diamond is a beauty, and I could have it reset so that the ring would look like a very different ring.)

Reader

Certainly you should return this ring to your ex-fiance. Although the ring happened also to be a Christmas present, primarily it was to be considered as your engagement ring, and as such, should be returned when the engagement was broken. And, although you may not think so now, you will be much happier not to have in your way-of-life this symbol of an engagement that no longer exists. If you don't do what you should do, if you tenaciously hold on to something that now in reality doesn't belong to you, if you are willing to consent to "change" the setting to make the ring look like another type of ring, your exfiance may well feel that it is perhaps best that the engagement was broken. Please be too fine and too proud not to do the right thing.

GIVE A LILT TO YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD SIGNATURES

Do it yourself . . . word your message-and-signature on Christmas cards to your dearest friends so that, when your cards arrive, your friends will feel that you are there "in person." Rather than just signing your name in the same old way to the same old message, why not make a bit of a debonaire how to your friends? It's fun.

All you need is a few high-hearted words that will sing a happy little Christmas song. For example: "Hi! It's Christmas! And here come your loving friends, Peter and Polly, to sing joyously to you, 'May your Christmas be happy and bright!'" Or: "Here are the Blakes happily greeting you at Christmastime, Jonathan and Lorraine, and Shirley and Johnnie, too!" Or: "To you two beloved friends there, we here are singing 'Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.' Arthur and Sandra." Or: "To the Three Thompsons every good wish for the Season's happiness from the Four Fosters, Tom and Marie, and Ann and Henry. P.S.: Laurie says a joyous way to say, 'Me too, please!'" Or: "With a song in our hearts to you dear friends at Christmas time, And our prayers that your New Year be bright with happy days and happy ways!"

By MME. QUI VIVE

BEAUTY GIFTS FOR THE SMALL FRY

As one who's always considered little boy children just as cute and just as smart—even if a little more mischievous—than little girl children, I've always thought it rather unfair to insist that the former were made of "snips and snails and puppy dog tails" while their little sisters got the credit for being "sugar and spice and everything nice." But I think I've finally figured the whole thing out. It isn't that little girls are any better than little boys when it comes to looks, personality or character. It's all a matter of grooming. Every mother knows the aggravation of telling Sonny Boy over and over and over to "wash behind the ears," and every mother delights in the fact that, contrariwise, his little sister loves to get "dolled up" like a "real, grown-up lady." There, my friends, is the difference.

Wanting to look pretty as the proverbial picture seems to be inborn in the female of the species—at least until the tomboy stage sets in. Which is why, perhaps, that cosmeticians have been going all out during the last couple of years to create all sorts of good grooming gadgets and fragrance items for the female small fry. As Christmas gifts this season you'll find more of them than ever, and they are truly enchanting.

As one famous woman cosmetician puts it, "after all, Christmas is for children,' so she's created a special new line for little girls which literally has a special charm of its own. Each individual item and set in the line carries a different 14K gold-plated charm ready to put on a bracelet. Toilet water, bubble bath and bath mitt are packaged separately and with soap in sets of pink and lilac dotted swiss motif, decorated with little girl silhouettes. A pink heart-shaped soap comes in two sections which open up to reveal a "hidden charm." There are three different sets—toilet water, hand-lotion and hidden-charm soap; toilet water and bath mitt with charm; and toilet water, bubble bath, hand lotion and three soap bonbons. The scent is a delicate floral and there isn't a little girl in the world who wouldn't delight in any of the items.

Another firm has put out a junior manicure set for little girls called "beginner's lucky." And, "just like mother's," it contains natural polish remover, cuticle remover, emery boards, cuticle stick and a book of instructions to teach good grooming—all enclosed in a shiny black plastic patent snap-up case. When you go to your favourite cosmetics counters ask especially to see these and other new products especially created for little girls. There are so many this season it would be impossible to list them all.

For little girls—gifts of fragrance which contain pretty charms for her bracelet.

For Happy Holidays

By TRACY ADRIAN

This charming skirt was designed with the Christmas holidays in mind and will be a perfect choice for many an important date.

It is made of one of the new wonder fabrics which has been improved to better softness and drapability. Other advantages are that the material is crease resistant and can be hand laundered or dry cleaned. The skirt has radiating pipes of black against a brushed brown background that fall from a waistband of black velvet. With it is worn a plunge-back blouse of brushed nylon.

Christmas Concert

UNITED CHURCH S.S.

KYLSTONE — The Sunday School of Kylstone United Church held its annual Christmas supper and entertainment in the church on Friday evening with Rev. H. E. Beare as master of ceremonies for the program, which was as follows:

Christmas carols: "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Silent Night," and "O Come All Ye Faithful"; recitation, "My Brother Bob," Bonnie Bothwell; recitation, Leola Radcliffe; song, "I'm Gettin' Nuthin for Christmas," Wayne Miller; "Christmas Song," Randelle Radcliffe; recitation, "Welcome," Brian Thomson.

Vocal duet, "It Is No Secret," Lynne and Suzanne Spencer; solo, "Red Riding Hood's Christmas Day," Barbara Milne; recitation, Gail Radcliffe; piano solo, "I'll be Home for Christmas," Miriam Rutherford; recitation, "I'm Shy," Tommy Thomson; ballon drill, Patsy and Sherry Spencer and Bonnie Bothwell; recitation, "My First Speech," Dennis Finch; piano solo, Carol Milne; guitar solo, Medley of Christmas Carols, Fred Spencer.

Recitation, "Peace on Earth," Garland Finch; recitations by junior pupils, Billie and Margaret Meikinjohn and Suzanne Mumby.

Mr. William Donaldson of Petterborough, showed pictures of local scenes including "Santa Claus Village," and others, which were much enjoyed by all.

Jack Spencer, superintendent of the Sunday School, spoke briefly and thanked Bill and Jean Donaldson for their pictures.

Santa Claus made a visit to the children and each received a gift. Candy was also served at the close.

President of PC Women to Act As Chairman

For the first time in the history of any Canadian political party, Miss Janzen will do more than merely sit silently among platform guests, the role which women have assumed in the past.

Instead, the newly-elected president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association is acting as a temporary chairman during opening sessions of the leadership convention.

"It's not so much a tribute to me, as a tribute to the women in the party," she says.

HAS GROWN

Interviewed in her office along committee-room row at the Coliseum here, Miss Janzen said the Conservative women's organization has grown steadily since the last party convention in 1948.

She says much of the credit for growth of the women's organization goes to retiring party leader George Drew, who gave "great encouragement and assistance."

A resident of Kitchener, with sparkling brown eyes and brown hair, this attractive party supporter traces her political interests back to her grandfather, Henry L. Janzen, who was once Kitchener's mayor.

RAN AS CANDIDATE

She tried her own hand at election campaigns in 1952, when she contested a federal by-election in Waterloo North, and again in 1953 when she ran as a general election candidate.

Both times she was up against Liberal Norman Schneider, who won each contest.

Now, with plans for a cross-Canada tour next year of more than 500 PC women's organizations, she says "I really can't consider running in the next election."

However, she says she hopes many capable women will let their names stand in future elections.

Women will be well represented at convention sessions. As delegates, observers or visitors, they are expected to form about 40 per cent of an expected 3,000 convention comers.

HELPED IN ARRANGING

As a member of the convention executive committee, part of the convention organization and arranging has fallen to Miss Janzen. But such tasks didn't appeal to ruffle her.

Perhaps it's because her work as organizer of Young Progressive Conservatives in Waterloo North, as past president of the Waterloo North and Western Ontario PC Women's Associations and as a YWCA committee member have proved helpful training.

She has also been secretary-manager of a family realty company since 1946.

DELIGHTFUL DATE DRESS

Bright red and bright green are two colors that are extremely successful just now. Red silk faille is used for a very easy-to-wear and good-to-look-at date dress. Setting off the long sleeves are cut-outs at the shoulders, nicely pointed up by little self bows. The bodice buttons to the waist with self buttons. Slit pockets are worked into the side seams of a skirt that is subtly draped and taffeta-lined.

Queen Victoria H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

On Monday evening, Queen Victoria Home and School Association held its annual "Open House."

Mrs. J. Winstanley presided over the business period, welcoming the new members and wishing everyone compliments of the season.

The honor at winning the room count with most parents present went to Mrs. Smith's morning kindergarten class.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. J. Carswell, who together with Mr. R. Mercer conducted a spelling bee. Six children considered to be the best spellers in the school, took part: Mary Beth Follwell, Sharon Locke, Helian McCauley, Bill Walsh, Gary Pottruff and Bob Smith will represent Sharon Locke and Bob Smith will represent the school in the city finals.

PUPILS' WORK VIEWED

After the spelling bee, parents visited the various class rooms. They were welcomed by the teachers and admired the children's work which was proudly displayed. The rooms were festive for the Christmas season. Many Bethlehem scenes, prepared by the pupils, were in evidence. The kindergarten had large jolly red pantas to decorate the small chairs. Christmas trees were bright and gay.

The fifth Belleville Guide Company, which meets at Queen Victoria school, held a home-bake sale at the back of the hall to raise funds for their company. Mrs. Burgar, captain, her patrol leaders, and seconds, displayed a large array of pies, cakes, cookies, and candy, which were soon sold.

Mrs. J. Kingston and Mrs. D. Leckie, served refreshments to close a successful meeting.

WINNING SUIT

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Black wool broadcloth set off by a shawl collar of natural mink plus beautiful cut and detail, adds up to a pretty impressive dress-maker suit for town wear. Curved seaming on the jacket defines a brief peplum, a few gathers softening the line above the waist which has a tab-tie closing. The sleeves are cut in one with the body of the jacket and the skirt is smartly slim. A good choice for the more mature figure, and just as handsome for the younger woman.

RAISE FUNDS

OTTAWA (CP)—Wives and children of men in Canada's 2nd Brigade in Germany raised $2,438 for Hungarian refugee relief in a tag day recently, army headquarters said Wednesday. Tags were sold in the Canadian community at Soest.

St. Andrew's WMS Installs New Officers

The Woman's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held its December meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school hall.

The president, Mrs. V. Weir, opened the meeting with a short devotional period. Minutes, treasurer's report and business of the month followed.

The annual meeting of Kingston Presbyterial will be held in St. Andrew's church, Belleville, in January.

Mrs. C. Baragar was convener of the December meeting and took the chair at this time. A pleasing duet of a favorite Christmas carol "Silent Night" was sung by Carolyn Bowler and Judy Wodzak, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. Boyce.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. J. Collins and Mrs. F. Parsons.

A chapter from the study book "The Church in Southeast Asia", was made interesting being presented in a panel by Mrs. Baragar, as a Canadian visitor, attending a conference in Bangkok; Mrs. Parsons representing India-China; Mrs. Miller, Thailand and Mrs. Darvell, Burma. These representatives answered many questions asked by a Canadian visitor, through which the audience learned many interesting and timely facts concerning the people and their religion, also the part Christianity is playing in Southeast Asia.

In conclusion, the Canadian visitor brought home this impressive statement that "The obstacles facing the church today are fast proving to be the source of her greatest opportunity." Through them still may be a long way to go, the movement and the direction are certain.

December being the annual meeting month, reports were read by the secretaries of each department.

The treasurer, Mrs. Diamond, reported the stewardship plan had proved satisfactory with increased givings over last year.

CHILDREN'S GROUP STARTED

A new children's group was started in the fall, which is called "Children of the Church." This group is under the leadership of Mrs. A. Cummins and includes all children of 6, 7 and 8 years of age.

Mrs. R. Carmichael gave the report of the nominating committee and read the slate of officers for the coming year.

The Rev. D. D. MacLean, in a most solemn and impressive ceremony, installed the officers for 1957 which are as follows:

W.M.S. OFFICERS FOR 1957

Honorary president, Mrs. R. D. MacLean; president, Mrs. V. Weir; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Parsons; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. P. Barlow; secretary, Mrs. Flemming; treasurer, Mrs. Diamond; Home Helpers, Mrs. Mantle; literature, Mrs. Beavit; "Glad Tidings", Miss M. Mackintosh; supply, Mrs. Baragar; press secretary, Mrs. Rollins; welcome and welfare, Mrs. Kane and Mrs. Yorke; cards for shut-ins, Mrs. Bell; pianist, Mrs. Boyce; assistant pianist, Mrs. Fleming.

A social cup of tea and cookies served by Mrs. Baragar, Mrs. Kidd, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Fisher, concluded the final meeting for the year.

Pot-Luck Supper Enjoyed by Chapter 55 O.E.S.

Last Friday evening, the annual Christmas pot-luck supper of Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S. was held in the Masonic Temple.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated in the Christmas tradition and a large number of members and guests enjoyed a bounteous repast.

The speaker was the Rev. Alexander McDowell of Eastminster church, who pointed out the difference between the approach of the Wise Men and that of the Shepherds to the Babe of Bethlehem, and said that the goal of Christianity can be reached by a diversity of methods, all of them worthy.

He was introduced by Mr. David Hollinger, Worthy Patron, and thanked by Mr. George Maybee, Associate Patron, who expressed the matron's appreciation for the thoughtful message.

Mr. Eric Smith, Associate Patron of Trenton Chapter, played two lovely cornet solos, "O Holy Night," and "Away in a Manger."

Santa arrived amid a chorus of "Here Comes Santa Claus" and led the group in singing Christmas songs. With the help of the Chapter officers he distributed gifts to everyone and a happy evening came to a close.

Centre Street W.A. Elects 1957 Officers

The regular monthly meeting of Centre Street United church W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. Lucille Collins, Cannifton Road.

The subject of the meeting was "Christmas."

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Keitha Ferguson, who read the "Opening Thought."

The members sang the carol "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," followed by prayer by Mrs. Ferguson.

The Scripture reading was from St. Luke's Gospel, Chapter 2:1-16 read by Mrs. Clegg.

The devotional reading was read by Mrs. Vanderwater, followed by the carol "Joy to the World".

There were several readings given by the members the theme being "Christmas."

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Gladys McLeod and the treasurer's report by Mrs. McLeod, showing a nice balance on hand.

The election of officers was held with the following result: president, Mrs. Keitha Ferguson, re-elected); vice-president, Mrs. Madge Vanderwater; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Gladys McLeod (re-elected).

Mrs. Besley gave a few pleasing remarks and wished the members a most successful year.

"Silent Night" was sung and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

The members exchanged Christmas gifts, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Ferguson thanked Mrs. Collins for her kindness in opening her home for the members.

A social half hour was enjoyed by all.

JUST AS DEADLY AS HE APPEARS

Enough to frighten most persons out of a year's growth is the sight of a deadly, year-old Indian cobra poking his head from a shull at Miami, Fla., serpentarium. A foot long, the cobra even at this tender age can inflict a lethal bite. He will reach a length of six feet fully grown.

SOFT TREATMENT

LONDON (CP)—A woman told a juvenile court that she took her 16-year-old son a cup of tea each morning while he was in bed. Said the magistrate: "When I was a boy no one brought me a cup of tea—they threw a cup of water over me."

H-S Assoc. Bazaar Most Successful

Last Friday, the Shannonville Home and School Association held a most successful bazaar in the Orange Hall which was prettily decorated with Christmas garlands and red and green streamers.

Mrs. McKenzie, the president, acted as hostess, welcoming the many guests.

In charge of the fish pond were Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Hill and of the bake table, Mrs. B. Cook.

The fancy work table was filled with pretty aprons, stuffed animals, dollies, dolls' clothes, babies' outfits, and a Christmas tree decked with corsages. Mrs. Seed and Mrs. Holland were the conveners.

Tickets were sold on a doll and cradle donated by Mr. Fuller. The lucky ticket for the electric skillet was won by Mrs. Willis Wilson, and the basket of groceries by Mr. Will McFarlane, and the cradle, by the teacher, Mrs. Carlshore.

The turkey supper went 'over the top'. The two long tables which occupied the space in the centre of the hall were loaded with many good things and were in charge of Mrs. Kilburn, assisted by Mrs. S. Doye; Miss Hogerward, Mary Lowie, Dorothy Crale, Miss Marshart, Gail Juby, Mrs. Nugent, and Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Herrington.

In the kitchen Mrs. W. Brant, Mrs. Crawford, Mr. Fuller, Mrs. Juby were busily employed, while Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Wilson sold supper tickets at the door.

The music for dancing was provided by Rombrough's orchestra, with Mr. McKenzie in charge of the dance tickets at the door. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller sold hamburgs, hot dogs and soft drinks.

At the close of the dance, the president, Mrs. McKenzie, thanked all those whose help had made the bazaar so successful. The proceeds received amounted to $383, which would be used to complete the playground in the spring, and for extra slides.

Fabulous Costume Jewelry

By TRACY ADRIAN

These jewels were designed for evening elegance and are pictured worn with chic in the Parisian manner. They appear, here, as the perfect complement to a black formal evening dress.

Shown dramatically above the low decolletage is an impressive jeweled collar combining emeralds, Madeira topazes, smoky topazes and Aurora Borealis. Wide flexible bracelets, repeating the necklace's many tones, are paired off on the wrist for dual fashion excitement while stone-set fleur de lis drop from buttons on the ears.

Three Women Steal Show At Convention

OTTAWA (CP)—If anyone stole the show Wednesday at the opening session of the Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention, it was three women.

And the three—Ottawa Mayor Charlotte Whitton, Mrs. George Drew and Elizabeth Janzen of Kitchener—didn't vie for attention in the gaily decked Coliseum with exotic hats, furs or teacups.

Instead, more than 3,000 convention comers—an estimated 40 per cent of them women—heard the trio speak, and speak exceedingly well, with sureness, charm and wit.

The capital's fiery mayor, who retires this year after hitting Ottawa newspaper headlines for nearly five years, did appear in eye-catching dress.

WORE HER ROBES

She wore her flowing red and white mayor's robes with her gold chain of office, topped by an office-holding black hat.

But the convention listened and applauded when 68-year-old Miss Whitton, a Conservative herself, called on Conservatives to "state your faith, clearly and unequivocally."

Later, she presented a key of the city to retiring PC leader George Drew, with an official presentation address which sparkled with samples of her quick wit.

Florence Drew, wife of the retiring Conservative leader, was faced with making a different kind of speech.

A tall, striking woman in a smart Dior blue dress, she faced a battery of cameras, while her husband made his farewell speech.

Her voice vibrant with emotion, and speaking in English and fluent French, Mrs. Drew told party followers "... your friendship has tied us to each other.'

"This is a day George and I will never forget.'

HER SECOND SPEECH

It was Mrs. Drew's second speech of the day. Shortly before public convention sessions opened, she addressed some 800 women attending a luncheon in her honor.

"The men admit that women can do a job, although I've always known it," the said then.

Elizabeth Janzen, the trim, attractive president of the national PC Women's Association, did her speech-making to help start the wheels of convention moving.

Capably acting as temporary chairman for opening sessions, she made history for women in all Canadian political parties. When she stepped from her platform seat to speak, it marked the first time a woman had actively helped guide convention proceedings.

A BRIGHT RED plastic plunger in the bathroom can be a visit that means "Danger — Germs!" Keep one in reserve for use only by mom and who has a cold. Draw a Monster Germ on the glass (with plastic paint) to add to the reminder that this plunger isn't for general use.

Centre Street Church Holds Christmas Party

The Christmas party of the Centre Street United church was held in the church auditorium on Monday evening, with a large number of children present.

Mrs. Ferguson thanked Mrs. Collins for her kindness in opening her home for the members.

A social half hour was enjoyed by all.

"It's going to go the right way" he said. "Don't pay too much attention to bandwagon ballyhoo."

CLAIM QUEBEC SUPPORT

Fulton supporters contended the British Columbian was picking up surprisingly strong support from Quebec, where the Fleming group has been claiming anything up to 55 per cent of the 342-member delegation.

Meanwhile, influential Premier Frost of Ontario remained silent as to whether he would try to exert weight one way or another with the Ontario delegation of 312, largest at the convention.

"I'm merely here," he said when a reporter asked him how he stood.

So far, the only provincial premier definitely committed is Hon. Hugh John Flemming of New Brunswick, who has announced he will formally nominate Mr. Diefenbaker. New Brunswick has a bloc of 39 delegates.

Canada's newest Conservative premier and the convention keynoter—Nova Scotia's Robert Stanfield—has not publicly declared himself.

URGES UNITY

His keynote address Wednesday night stuck to general party policies. He urged that the party master the "challenge" of attaining national unity, and he said it can do it.

He advised Conservatives to avoid "narrow partisanship" and to exercise moderation towards those with differing views, accusing the Liberal party of having "perfected the art of manipulating prejudices and convictions" over many years.

In Canada and the world today, narrow partisanship was "out of season." The times demanded discipline, restraint and moderation.

Canadian unity would not emerge if the party were to exploit dissension or dwell on our differences.

Party policy should not be based on regional or sectional interests. The convention should draft a program dedicated to the interests of Canada as a nation.

"The present relations between the provinces of Canada and the central government," the 42-year-old premier said, "are unhappily strained. . . .

"Canadians have watched and wearied of this contest. And since it has been my experience that they are less and less susceptible to the harsh and divisive tactics which have dominated election campaigns for over two decades, I believe their will seek an end to this era of ill-will.

PREVIOUSLY ENCOUNTERED

"The challenge of uniting Canada was met and mastered by the fathers and founders of this Conservative party. I believe the challenge of re-establishing this unity will be met and mastered by the Conservatives again."

Mr. Drew, whose resignation as party leader after eight years in office was dictated by ill-health, also threw out a challenge to his former followers.

He called on them to stick fast to the traditions of the party.

"There are no short-cuts to power," he said. "In politics, nothing is sacred but the integrity of our own minds.

"However long the road, the well-defined principles of our party offer the greatest hope of success for ourselves and for Canada. . . .

"For all of us, tomorrow is a new day. May the plans and decisions you make contribute not only to the success of our party but to the advancement of our country and the prosperity and happiness of all our people."

The word "conservative" meant progress by sound and tested principles.

"Above all, let us be sure that we conserve in living reality as well as name the supremacy of Parliament and the rule of law, for in these principles we find the source of all our freedom."

SAVED PARTY

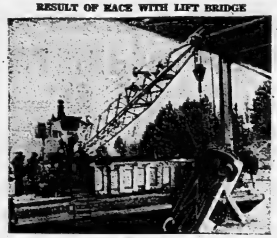
Grattan O'Leary, vice-president of the Ottawa Journal and prominent in the party, said Mr. Drew probably saved the party from extinction.

Just before Mr. Drew became leader in 1948, the party had "come on evil days," said Mr. O'Leary in his tribute to the former Ontario premier.

In Quebec, the party had been a spent force for more than a decade. It was unable to find a candidate to "march openly under its banner." But Mr. Drew reversed that situation.



"He struck the strongest blow in half a century for Canada's national unity," he said.

"George Drew probably saved the Conservative party from extinction and thereby preserved our two-party system."

WAS WITH ABITIBI

TORONTO (CP) — John O. McKerrow, 69, former general traffic manager of Abitibi Power and Paper Company Ltd., died at his home Wednesday. Born and educated at White Lake, near Renfrew, he joined the paper company in North Bay. Survivors include his widow, a son, brother and sister.

RESULT OF RACE WITH LIFT BRIDGE

Although he managed to escape from his car after it had plunged into Welland ship canal at St. Catharines, Ont., George Hornbergen, 24-year-old resident of Hamilton, later drowned in icy waters of the canal. Attempting to outrace a rising bridge, the youth ducked past the flagman in his little car and went part way up the bridge before slipping back into the water. (Central Press Canadian).

HEADS INVENTORS

All kinds of inventions, ranging from an electric mouse-trap to a box to catch bank bandits, pour through the office of Bill McIntyre. McIntyre, who operates his own manufacturing business in Swift Current, Sask., is president of the 1,000-member Canadian Inventors' Association. He is also an inventor himself. In this photo he shown a scale model of a machine designed to load hay bales. Many of the 200-odd inventions that have come to his attention have something to do with farming. (CP Photo).

Canadian Inventors' Assoc. President Amazed at Some Of Smart Ideas Coming In

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) — W. J. (Bill) McIntyre talks of better mousetraps and horse-collars. Improved catnip bottles and bush sleds.

He describes a virtual parade of newfangled rotary tillers, sandsifters and parlor golf games. Here is a square-wheeled tractor, and there a corpse - condensing machine to save on graveyard space.

Eventually, as president of the Canadian Inventors' Association, he will swing around to his favorite topic—his opinions on the country's patent system.

HELPS SELL IDEAS

"Only about three per cent of those who take out patents ever get anything out of them," he says. "That's ridiculous.

"We have around 1,000 members in this association now, and we have two jobs. First, we want to protect the inventor's idea long enough for him to improve it instead of taking out a premature patent. Second, we want to help him sell that idea.

"We'll take everything except perpetual-motion machines."

There is good evidence of that in the gimmicks and designs and contraptions which clutter his office.

"I must confess that fully half these ideas aren't worth much," he says. "On the other hand I'm amazed at some of the really smart ideas coming in."

MANY FARM DEVICES

Fully one-third of the inventions have something to do with farming. There are electric-fence improvements, power saw guides, grain augers of revolutionary design, rotary tillers and harrows, straw choppers, bale - loading machines and trailer hitches.

Other inventions reach into almost every field.

There is a "better-fitting" child's stocking, a device that turns off an electric mower when its oil runs low, a "simplified" method for steering a bobsled, a "new and remarkable" design in horse collars and a baby-carriage chassis "permitting better steering and short turns."

There are mousetraps galore. One type electrocutes the mouse and throws it on a tray. Another is operated with a trigger, releasing acid which "slowly deteriorates the rodent."

"We get more mousetraps and toilet seats than anything else," says Mr. McIntyre. "But that old business of 'build a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door' just doesn't hold true these days."

SUCCESSFUL INVENTOR

The 45-year-old association president can be counted among the successful inventors.

He owns and operates a firm in this southwest Saskatchewan city which turns out hydraulic truck hoists, a fill drill for grain seeders, a seed treater, grain loaders and grain driers capable of handling 250 bushels a day.

All were designed by Mr. McIntyre, who claims he lost $30,000 promoting one of his inventions before sales perked up.

Meanwhile, the inventions continue to pour into his office here from many parts of Canada.

There is a sure-fire cake tester and a bobbypin-straightener. One inventor solved a problem of long standing when he soldered a long, thin spoon to the cap of a catsup bottle.

"If an inventor approaches a manufacturer by himself, he often gets the 'cold' he the cold," explains Mr. McIntyre. "Working as an association, we hope to get more attention and respect."

COSTLY INTERVENTION

PARIS (Reuters) — France's part in the Egyptian intervention cost her an estimated 90,000,000,000 francs (about $250,000,000), sources close to the finance ministry said Tuesday. The bulk of the costs are being covered by credits earmarked in the current budget for Algeria and national defence.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott of Wellmans celebrated their 30th wedding day Wednesday. They were married in 1926 by the Rev. A. E. Balfour of Rawdon circuit.

Miss Mary Sharp, New York City, and Miss Grace Sharp, Oshawa, spent the weekend with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell was hostess for the annual Christmas meeting of the Mount Pleasant W.A. with 30 ladies in attendance. The home was nicely decorated with a lighted evergreen tree.

The president opened with the theme song and prayer, with Mrs. Harvey Couch at the piano.

Mrs. James Heard gave her report. The proceeds from the recent bazaar were $200. The W.A. has been alloted two sales at Heard's on January 28th and April 29th in 1957.

OFFICERS ELECTED

President, Mrs. Don Johnson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Ira David; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Merle Spencer; past president, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver; recording secretary, Mrs. James Heard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grant Hubble; treasurer, Mrs. Raymond McConnell; pianist, Mrs. Carleton Potts; assistant, Mrs. K. Weaver; flower committee, Mrs. C. Potts and Mrs. Herbert Smith; auditor, Mrs. Irvine Potts; nominating committee, Mrs. Grant Hubble, Mrs. William McAdam, Mrs. Frank Spencer, Jr., and the president and program committee, Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Mrs. John Morgan and Miss Ruth Lind.

The Christmas program was centred around Christmas hymns with Mrs. Ira David reading the Bible lesson and Mrs. Doug Campbell the meditation.

Mrs. Will Jeffs sang, with guitar accompaniment; Mrs. Marguerite McMullen read a Christmas story; Mrs. Will McAdam and Mrs. Carleton contributed a vocal duet.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, closed the meeting with prayer.

The lunch committee served fancy cookies and fruit bread; all enjoyed a brief chat.

Your Rawdon reporter received a Christmas message from A.C.W.W. headquarters at London, England, on Friday. Beryl Hearndon enclosed a printed message, part of which reads: "Three years ago in Toronto at the Triennial Conference I was asked to write stories of our members all over the world and forward them to ACWW reporters in Canada and other countries to be used in the various newspapers. I have done my best but I feel my efforts have been colorless compared to the actual happenings in this vast, varied and exciting organization to which we have to honor to belong. Still I have enjoyed writing the letters, and your replies telling me where and how you used them have made the job even more worthwhile."

In closing she expressed personal good wishes and grateful thanks to all of the ACWW women all over the world.

BELIEVED TO BE CANADA'S YOUNGEST BANK PRESIDENT

Canada's youngest banker, in all probability, poses with a model of the bank of which he is chief executive, the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Toronto, following his recent election at annual meeting. Forty-six-year-old Neil J. McKinnon began his banking career at the age of 14 in the silver-mining town of Cobalt, Ont., where he was born, after deciding that his preference lay in that direction and not in his father's lumber business. From then on he was gradually promoted until now is the president of Canada's third largest chartered bank with assets of over $2.4 billion. (Central Press Canadian).

EQUIPPED FOR RESISTANCE IN SUEZ

Along the banks of the Suez canal, U.N. troops are establishing machine-gun posts, though their purpose for being in Egypt is to stop war not to wage it. General E. L. M. Burns has said the force would resist attack and would be equipped for resistance. (Central Press Canadian).

NATO OPPOSES

RIGHT TO MEDIATE

The Atlantic allies also authorized NATO's secretary-general to mediate disputes among them.

The most critical such quarrel is between Greece and Britain over control of the strategic Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Britain, Greece and Turkey—who also has a direct interest in the Cyprus issue—voted for the measure, which was adopted unanimously by the foreign ministers.

It gives the secretary-general powers of "inquiry, mediation, conciliation or arbitration" in such member quarrels.

The resolution further urges all members to submit their disputes to this procedure before resorting to any other international organization, such as the United Nations.

JOLTED BY DULLES

The NATO council had received a jolt earlier from State Secretary Dulles, who told the ministers that the United States reserves the right to act alone in certain parts of the world without consulting NATO.

His warning put the U.S. in the position of having upbraided its two closest allies—Britain and France—for attacking Egypt without consulting other powers while reserving for Washington the right to do much the same thing.

Dulles pointed out to the NATO Council session that the U.S. has mutual protection treaties with 44 countries—30 of them outside the North Atlantic community.

CONSULT WHEN POSSIBLE

He assured the council that whenever possible Washington would consult NATO on its policy and projected actions. But he said that defence of Chiang Kai - shek's Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa, for example, might call for independent American action without NATO consultation.

Dulles was explaining why the U.S. could not give unlimited support to a report of the Three Wise Men calling on all NATO members to talk things over "before any new policy is adopted which might affect NATO."

The report, prepared by L. B. Pearson of Canada, Halvard Lange of Norway and Gaetano Martino of Italy, was approved by the NATO foreign ministers in principle. Final action was held up after France's Christian Pineau and von Brentano said they wanted to add amendments.

Although Rich Prospector Will Go on Searching

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — The man who pointed the way to the $175,000,000 Moak Lake - Mystery Lake mining development in Northern Manitoba will go on looking for mineral riches.

Walter Johnson, 68, said his share of the more than $500,000 paid by the International Nickel Co., for claims in the area 400 miles north of Winnipeg would do little to change the rugged life he has lived in the northern bush for 32 years.

"I'll have a few more comforts but most important is the fact that there is now more money to operate with a heap more confidence," he said. "Prospecting is like playing poker. If you don't win a pot it becomes very discouraging."

Mr. Johnson said in an interview while visiting here that he has plans to lead two crews to investigate the Herb Lake area of Northern Manitoba.

The crews will be equipped with geophysical and electro-magnetic equipment. The hunt prospector, after years of tramping the bush, doesn't believe in luck.

He said it was circumstance that led him to capitalize on Mystery Lake mining claims.

Gordon Murray first staked the area back in 1926," he said. "Two years later he dropped the claims.

TOO COSTLY AT FIRST

"What proving he did at the time showed the ore to be of low grade. With nickel bringing only 35 cents a pound it wasn't commercially sound to develop it."

When nickel reached 50 cents a pound in 1948, Mr. Johnson went into the area with a partner and began staking claims.

"When we had staked a bit around Mystery Lake we had to find out what was actually there before we could interest a mining company in the property," he said.

"It takes money to prove claims—money we didn't have, so Cliff Kerr and I formed the Jay-Kay syndicate and began looking for fellows in Flin Flon and The Pas who would put up the money to let us go ahead."

The group staked 150 claims at Mystery Lake and Inco bought 2 of them in mid for $2,000 cash and a $250,000 2½ year option.

"When the option came up in 1951 we finally netted the $10,000 cash for all rights to those 2 claims," Mr. Johnson said. "The syndicate got 40 per cent for backing us."

The prospector carefully pointed out that he and his partners did not find the Moak Lake deposits. "We did lead Inco into the area and they stumbled on Moak Lake themselves."

The group of prospectors had other claims around Moak Lake, however. They sold 121 of them to Inco for $468,000.

Stagecoach Resurrected In England

MARCH, England (Reuters) — Local antique dealer Janet Frost will get around gasoline rationing by introducing a stagecoach service between here and neighboring Wisbech.

Miss Frost has purchased a coach called the Cheltenham Flier, last used in the 1870s.

It will carry 16 passengers in less than modern standards of comfort—but Miss Frost believes it will fill a public need after rationing starts Dec. 17.

Battlefield Strewn With Dead and Croaking Frogs

PENANG, Malaya (Reuters)— More than 1,000 giant frogs were locked in mortal combat near here Tuesday on a battlefield strewn with dead and croaking wounded.

The frogs were fighting over females.

The battle started when a group of land bullfrogs invaded water frog territory in search of mates. Quickly the water frogs rlaged their pond as their females retreated to safer positions behind the "lines."

In a bitter life - and - death struggle that lasted several hours, frogs clutched each other's throats and death croaks from hundreds of dying sounded over a wide area.

Villagers who saw the battle said the land frogs forced the water frogs to retreat. The land frogs plunged through their enemy's broken ranks and carried off protesting female water frogs.

To the villagers, Tuesday's "war" was an ill omen.

They recalled that a similar frog war broke out just before the Second World War and before the Korean war.

WEEK'S SHIPMENTS UP

CLEVELAND (AP) — Iron ore shipments from upper lake ports last week were 614,940 gross tons compared with 91,172 in the same week a year ago, the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association reported Tuesday. The total shipments for 1956 were 10,220,103 tons under those for last year. This year's total is 77,189,750 tons.

Red Amazon Just Like Any Woman

MELBOURNE (Reuters)— Despite their bulging muscles, Communist Olympic amazons are women after all.

As Russian and Czechoslovak athletes left Tuesday aboard the Olympic ship Grusia, photographers mobbed the Czech discus gold medal winner, Olga Fikotova, who beat Russia's Nina Ponomareva in the finals.

GULLS CLASH WITH PLANE

LONDON (Reuters)—A flight of more than 200 seagulls ran into a Constellation airliner approaching London airport from New York Tuesday, severely denting one wing. The plane, with 13 passengers aboard, landed with two dead gulls lodged in an engine cowling and the nose landing gear.

Two of World's Largest Steel Companies Merge

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the world's largest steel companies plan to merge despite notice by the United States Justice department that it will move promptly to block the consolidation.

Bethlehem Steel Corp.—second in the American industry behind U.S. Steel—and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., sixth largest, announced Tuesday an agreement under which Bethlehem would acquire Youngstown in exchange for Bethlehem common stock.

In Washington, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell immediately said that the justice department will take prompt action in the federal courts seeking to bar the proposed merger.

Department officials said preliminary work already has been completed on a civil suit it will file "to enjoin this acquisition by Bethlehem." The two companies said they hope the government's legal action will be "speedily determined by the courts."

WON'T AFFECT POSITION

The proposed merger would not affect U.S. Steel's position as largest in the industry, but the merger would be one of the biggest in history, creating a company with assets around $2,500,000,000. The justice department for more than two years has opposed the proposal on the grounds that it would tend to lessen competition.

The companies' announcement came immediately after the close of trading on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday. Bethlehem common had gone up 12 cents a share for the day, closing at $18.25. Youngstown common had declined 37½ cents to $137.75.

On the west coast markets, which were still open because of the time differential, Youngstown rose $3.25 and Bethlehem fell 50 cents a share.

The combined rated annual capacity of Bethlehem and Youngstown is 25,750,000 tons, compared with U.S. Steel's 39,215,000-ton capacity.

Basketball Comes Under Business Judge Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has declared professional basketball a business, subject to anti-trust laws.

The ruling was made Wednesday by Federal Judge Sidney Sugarman in denying motions by the National Basketball Association and others to dismiss a million-dollar anti-trust suit brought by a Washington, D.C., group which failed to land an NBA franchise.

Sugarman found the Washington Professional Basketball Corporation has legal grounds for the suit, thereby over-ruling the NBA's contention that it was not a business and not liable to anti-trust laws.

The suit was brought in May, 1955, with the Washington group alleging the NBA and its members conspired to prevent it from buying the bankrupt Baltimore franchise.

In addition to the NBA, the suit named Maurice Podoloff, its president and treasurer; Madison Square Garden Corp., Inc.; Syracuse Professional Basketball Club Inc.; Boston Celtics Basketball Club Inc.; Zollner Machine Works, Inc., and Minneapolis Basketball Inc.

All-Stars Play Blue-Grey Game

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—When 48 college seniors show their football abilities in the annual Blue-Grey game here Dec. 29 every position will have a man who made honorable mention on The Associated Press all-America list.

Of this group of 13 standout performers, eight will play for the Confederate Grey Dixiers and five for the Yankees.

Despite the southern squad's numerical superiority among the country's best players, the most impressive record belongs to a northern invader, quarterback Len Dawson of Purdue.

His has completed 243 of 452 passes covering 3,325 yards in three years of college participation.

Bears Take Over Top Position

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Two quick goals at the start of the third period gave a 3-1 Western Hockey League win over Hershey Bears a 3-2 victory over Springfield Indians and first place in the American Hockey League Wednesday night.

Springfield opened the scoring with a goal by Dale Anderson but Lorne Smith tied it just before the bell ended the first period.

The Bears' Al Nicholson slid a shot into the net in the first minute of the final period and Dunc Fisher followed with the clincher less than two minutes later.

Bob McCord scored for the Indians midway through the period.

Tennis Stars Arrange Benefits For Art Larsen

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Budge, one of the top tennis professionals, and Dick Savitt, one of the leading amateurs, joined Wednesday in arranging the first of what they hope will be a series of benefits for injured Art Larsen.

Larsen, former national champion, was injured in a motor scooter accident Nov. 10. He only recently recovered consciousness, but is almost completely paralyzed and unable to talk coherently.

Present plans call for a series of exhibition matches in New York, Jan. 11.

Trappers Must Sell Shares For Survival

NORTH BAY (CP)—It doesn't always pay to lead the league. North Bay Trappers, currently leading the Senior A Southern Group of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, announced Wednesday night they will have to sell shares to the general public to make up for an $8,000 deficit.

A public meeting will be called, and if enough interest is shown, officers will be elected and the team will become the property of the shareholders. No price per share has been set, but it is reported that financial support will have to be forthcoming if the club is to carry on.

The team, which has a high payroll, has had disappointing support from fans. Nevertheless, the team is leading the league by 11 points, with 37 points to Sudbury's 26.

Chicubs Still In Trade Mood

CHICAGO (AP) — The trade-minded Chicago Cubs Wednesday brought up Pacific Coast League all-star shortstop Kendall Wise from Los Angeles in a move apparently aimed at acquiring a new centrefielder.

In exchange, the Cubs gave catcher Joe Hannan.

Although the Cubs have an established second-base combination in shortstop Ernie Banks and second sacker Gene Baker, rumors persisted Manager might be traded bait for a centrefielder.

Minor Hockey

Belleville Memorial Arena was a hive of activity last night as the squirts and midgets played their regular scheduled games, the juveniles held a brisk workout and movies were shown to one and all.

Recreational director "Red" Dineen ran eight films, received from the OHA, on the fundamentals of hockey, covering every phase of the game. The films stressed the necessity of fast and hard but clean play.

Gordie Bell, ex-National hockey league goal tender, put a pair of makeshift juvenile squads through a workout following the regular games. While there is no juvenile league here, Bell will select the best of the crop to form a team of OMHA playdowns.

SQUIRT

Canadiens downed the Black Hawks 5-3 with Brian Smith potting a pair of goals for the winners. Dave Hurst, Paul Williams and Peter Thorne had the other Hab markers. Robert Chappell and Don Muldoon scored for the Black Hawks.

Rangers squeezed out a 2-1 victory over the Bruins with Billy Hallam playing a star role. Hallam fired both Ranger goals while Ritchie Fraser scored the lone Bruin goal.

Red Wings had the only shut-out of the Squirt division, a 3-0 win over the Barons. Carl Hanna and Doug Stickle each fired a goal for the Wings.

Browns and Maple Leafs played to a 2-2 deadlock in the third Leaf markers with Ron Post and Byron Parks splitting the Brown goals.

MIDGET

All midget games were evenly fought. Team Five shaded Team Two 1-0 with Bill scoring the game's lone goal.

F. Smith tallied twice to give Team Four a 3-2 win over Team Six. Loveless had the other goal while Ivo Regent assisted on all three. Doug Moreau potted both Team Six markers.

Team One edged Team Three 4-3. Bernie Boulier had a goal and assist for the winners with Scottsdale, Ari., on Feb. 22, one Keller and McKenzie. Adams, Potts and Hallam earned assists. Billy McGuire fired two goals for Team Three while Moore had one goal and one helper. Hunter also drew an assist.

TIED AGAIN!

Cornwall Chevies, moving lately as a dangerous contender for the top slot, moved into a second-place tie with the McFarlands last night, handing the hapless Kingston CKLC's a 7-5 defeat for their eighth straight setback.

Kingston definitely needs reinforcements, and the acquisition of Bucky Buchanan has given them some needed spark. According to reports the club has three cards remaining and all efforts will be made to secure experienced senior "A" players, or reinstated pros.

Meanwhile the Maes face a tough assignment tomorrow night when they host the starry Ottawa Canadiens. And it will be just as tough Saturday night when they trek to Whitby to take on the Dunphy Dunlops. Bep and the boys can give Belleville fandom a Merry Christmas by knocking off a couple of wins.

TRAPSHOOTING

A few months ago a group of men in the city, the majority of them hunters, decided to revive a sport that boasts an age of over 200 years. They inaugurated what they called the Quinte Trap and Gun Club, and the youngster has flourished from birth.

The other day George Haggis, first president of the new organization, summed up the first year's operations. "It was terrific. We have 110 members with at least 65 per cent shooting participation."

Trapshooting caught on here immediately. Time was when the more rabid enthusiasts got together and went to out-of-town ranges to enjoy their favorite off-hunting sport. Then the boys got their heads and fingers together and acquired a piece of property near Canniffon where they installed their range.

An average, or nearly so, of 65 shooting members attended each shoot during the season. And there were many spectators, too. President Haggis looks for a bigger and better season next year when it is hoped the club will see its way clear to expand its facilities not only for members but spectators as well.

To some, trapshooting is primarily a training ground and an off-season substitute for game-bird shooting. To others it is a complete and satisfying sport in itself. There are some duck-hunters we know to whom the Trap and Gun Club should prove a training blessing. Judging from their ability with the gun when in the duck haunts.

Trapshooting is believed to have originated in England. It was well known in 1800 and was known as the "Old Hats" because old headgear covered holes in the ground, from which live pigeons, the targets, were released.

The target today is an easily shattered saucer of molded pitch and cement dust and is hurled from a spring-loaded machine. The first artificial targets were glass balls, some of which contained smoke-producing gas... Others were filled with feathers to give a natural touch.

When trap-shooting first became known in Canada, individual performances more than the tournaments of the modern era were the order of the day.

And some of the oldtimers were Dead-Shot Dick with their trusty weapons. The records say a Captain Bogardus undertook to kill 500 live pigeons in 645 minutes using a muzzle-loading gun. He did it in 323 minutes. In 1875 he shot at 5,000 glass balls in slightly over six hours, breaking 4,344.

The sport is popular in Canada with practically every province having a trap-shooting organization. In 1900 the first large-scale matches were fired at clay pigeons.

Canadian competition in world-wide trapshooting events can be judged by participation in the Olympic Games. A few ers dawned in 1951 when George Genereaux, a 17-year-old boy from Saskatoon won the North American Junior championship. The next year he placed second in the world championships at Oslo and two weeks later won the gold medal for trapshooting at the Olympics.

Last year Genereaux won the Class AA title at the Grand American Championships in Ohio and distinguished himself as a member of the record-smashing five-man team. Vern Thornberrow, Hamilton, won the preliminary handicap crown in 1954 with a perfect score of 100.

Thanks to the efforts of the Ontario Trapshooting Association which did much to form the Canadian organization, the sport is going ahead by leaps and bounds in this province. The enthusiastic reception given the new Quinte Trap and Gun Club in its first year of operation augurs well for success here.

The membership is composed of a cross section of city life. Doctors, lawyers and other professional men belong to it. Hotelkeepers, railroaders, mechanics and laborers enjoy the sport. And it is quite likely the advent of spring will see an even greater turnout of sportsmen than that which helped make the initial year the success it was.

Blood Infection Puts Star Out for at Least Two Weeks; Raw Rookie Is Replacement

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The critics who said Boston Bruins were leading the National Hockey League only because of Terry Sawchuk, their great goaltender, will have a chance to test the theory tonight.

Bruins were hit a heavy blow Wednesday night with the announcement that Sawchuk, one of the league's stars, will be lost to them for at least two weeks and possibly two months because of a blood infection.

"It's like getting hit between the eyes," said coach Milt Schmidt when told about his ace netminder.

Sawchuk, three-time winner of the Vezina Trophy, was sent to hospital Wednesday with infectious mononucleosis — a blood disease. He was expected to develop blisters and causes a loss of energy. Dr. Edward D. Browne, Boston club physician, said first tests indicated the 26-year-old goalie will be lost for at least two weeks.

COULD MEAN FIRST

The loss came as a crippling blow to the surprising Bruins who hold first place by a three-point margin over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sawchuk is considered the key to Bruins' rise in league leadership after they picked to finish fifth or sixth—and miss the playoffs—in pre-season forecasts. So far, he has allowed only 56 goals, an average of slightly more than two a game.

As a replacement Bruins have Norm Defelice, spare goalie for Hershey Bears of the American League. Defelice, 25-year-old, has no NHL experience and has played fewer than 50 games in the last two years.

He will be making his debut tonight against Chicago Black Hawks, the league's lowest-scoring team. Hawks have won only four of 26 games this season and have averaged fewer than two goals a game.

FULL SCHEDULE

All four other teams are active tonight. Toronto Maple Leafs will be at Montreal against Canadiens, who expect to have Maurice Richard back, and Detroit is at home to fourth-place New York Rangers.

Defelice has been unimpressive at Hershey but league officials declined to comment on their next move, but it was believed an attempt would be made to purchase veteran Harry Lumley from Chicago. Lumley has played with Detroit, Toronto and Chicago and now is tending the net for Hawks' AHL farm team in Buffalo.

Dr. Browne said Sawchuk will remain in the hospital for tests every few days to determine how the disease "is progressing or remitting." He added:

"On the basis of one laboratory test it is impossible to determine how long he has had the disease or how far it has progressed."

ROCKET READY

In Montreal the return of the great Rocket should give Canadiens their best chance this season of getting into the top spot that was predicted for them, especially with Bruins in a bit of a slipping.

Richard had bone chips removed from his elbow during his seven-game absence and is fit again, but Bernie Geoffrion has the same complaint and may be out only for power plays tonight.

If Leafs continue to break a slump as they did last weekend with a win and a tie in two games, they could put a serious crimp in Montreal's hopes.

Still having trouble, with injuries to forwards Gerry James, Rudy Migay and George Armstrong, Leafs were told by former star Ted Kennedy Wednesday that he doesn't see how he can begin his proposed comeback after an 18-month retirement before the new year.

London Lords Defer Rehiring Of 'Indian Jack'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Rehiring of Indian Jack Jacobs as coach of London Lords of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union was deferred at the club's annual meeting Wednesday night until the fall 1957 executive considers the question.

However, Ralph Duffus, re-elected president, announced he favored the reappointment of Jacobs, as well as the hiring of a full-time general manager.

In his first year in the ORFU, the former Winnipeg Blue Bombers quarterback led London into the playdowns, turning back Toronto Balmy Beach but being defeated for the title by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

In a portait statement on finances, the club said expenses in the freshman season exceeded receipts by $17,000. It was pointed out, however, that the club has assets of $20,000.

The Lords at home outdrew all other clubs in the circuit, with paid attendance reaching from 4,000 to more than 8,000.

The executive ventured no opinion on whether there should be a replacement for Rochester, N.Y., in the United States entry in the ORFU which dropped out in midseason because of money troubles.

Rosewall Won't Admit Pro Turn

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australian tennis star Ken Rosewall would not say yes or no today to questions whether he had signed with Jack Kramer's professional troupe.

All he would say was, "I hope to play well at the Victorian championships and in the Davis Cup challenge round—let's leave it at that."

Asked if Kramer had made him a 30,000 pounds Australian ($67,200) offer, Rosewall said "Kramer made me an offer about a year ago, but it wasn't as high as that."

J. G. Wilson, assistant managing director of the Kramer company which employs Rosewall as a part-time salesman, claimed today Rosewall had signed a contract with a sports goods manufacturer which top umpire Rosewall—not to turn professional for at least a year.

Rosewall later said, "I have contracts with both these firms, but never mention the question of my turning professional."

Balding Ready To Defend Title

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Al Balding of Toronto, who last year came unheralded out of the field to take top money in the Sanford Open, today began the defence of the title against 131 other golfers.

Prize money for the four-day tournament totals $15,000, with $2,400 for the best workman. The 6,160-yard Mayfair course has a par 36-36—70. Balding, first Canadian to win a big tournament in the U.S. pro circuit, won with 269 last year—11 under par.

The tournament has a baseball atmosphere—it is sponsored by New York Giants of the National League with president Horace Stoneham as host. Three baseball figures are competing in the amateur section: Fred Hutchinson, St. Louis Cardinals manager; Carl Hubbell, farm director of the Giants, and Tom Sheehan, Giants' scout.

Cornwall Defeats Kingston To Regain Second-Place Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston CKLCs, so to speak, are the bane of the Eastern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A Series. They are in the cellar.

What's more, the CKLCs may be carrying the rest of the league for a long time if they don't snap out of a slump.

CKLCs, shredded their eighth successive defeat Wednesday night, a 7-5 decision to Cornwall Chevies.

In the Western Division Stratford Indians extended their first-place lead to four points by dumping Chatham Maroons 6-2.

YEAR'S SMALLEST CROWD

At Kingston, Chevvies led 3-1 after the first period, 6-3 after the second. Only 1,543 fans—smallest crowd of the season—watched the action.

Guy Henri was top marksman for the winners with three goals. Singles came from Gerry Plamondon, Ritsole Jeannette, Bingley and Limoges.

Kingston scorers were Rob Blacey, Ted Toppazzini, Buck Buchanan, Don Bellringer and Thompson.

At Stratford, George Aitken, Jack White, Jimmy Flanagan, Bill

Chuck Speiser Has Eye on Archie's Crown

DETROIT (AP) — Muscular Chuck Speiser is quite willing to become the second man in recent history to make the jump from Olympic boxer to world champion.

Although a pronounced title bout between the 27-year-old Speiser and light heavyweight champion Archie Moore is just in the talking stage, the former Olympic boxer (1948 and 1952) will resume training next week "just in case."

Moore, turned back in his bid for the heavyweight crown by former Olympic titlist Floyd Patterson, must defend or relinquish his light-heavy championship by March 18. Speiser, a former Michigan state boxer who knocked out Willie Hoepner in his last start a couple of weeks ago, is first in line as the No. 1 challenger for Moore's diadem.

"I've watched Archie's style for a long time," said Speiser. "Since I was ranked first among the light heavyweight contenders. I watched closer than ever at ringside the night he lost to Patterson."

Speiser has had 24 fights, winning 19, losing four and drawing one.

Seixas Has Quick Recovery Starts Davis Cup Play Today

PERTH, Australia (AP) — The official draw today pitted Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., with Ramanathan Krishnan for Friday's opening match of the interzone Davis Cup finals between the United States and India.

But it was a meagre development compared to the overnight recovery of U.S. ace Vic Seixas, the 33-year-old cup veteran from Philadelphia.

Seixas, who will play the second singles match against India's captain, Naresh Kumar, reported his ailing shoulder greatly improved when he arrived for the ceremonies at the Royal Kings Park clubhouse.

A doubtful starter until then in the series to determine Australia's cup challenger, Seixas said last night administered by a doctor Wednesday night had removed all pain from his shoulder.

"It might have been just nervousness or the wind that caused the sudden pain, but tightness yesterday afternoon," Vic said, "but I'm okay today."

U.S. captain Bill Talbert said he was pleased with the opening lineup but refused to commit himself on his team for the doubles Saturday. "That'll depend on the result of the Flam and Seixas matches," he said.

The first match is scheduled for 1-15 p.m. (12:15 a.m. EST, Friday).

The Americans are favored to score a 5-0 sweep although Krishnan, a vastly improved 19-year-old who beats two victories over Jaroslav Drobny, figures to be tough.

Krishnan and Kumar Jaf, carried Seixas and Ham Richardson to five sets in doubles play at Wimbledon this summer. Talbert will pair Seixas with Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., in the doubles if Vic and Flam win their singles matches Friday. If there is an upset, Flam will be substituted for Giammalva.

Costa Defeats Paul Jorgensen

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe it was the big town jitters. Or perhaps it was the TV tremors. Whatever it was, Paul Jorgensen of Port Arthur, Tex., had it in bad in his first New York fight.

The 21-year-old featherweight who hadn't been beaten in 16 previous starts, was apologetic for his poor performance in being awarded a unanimous 10-round decision to Carmelo Costa Wednesday night.

"I don't want to make any excuses," he said in his dressing room. "But something was wrong with me. I didn't even get going.

"Maybe fighting in the (Madison Square) Garden for the first time bothered me. It always has meant something big to me, like Carnegie Hall. Maybe it was seeing New York and being on TV. I don't know. I just didn't fight my fight."

WON TWO EARLIER BOUTS

Jorgensen who had fought a draw with Costa, July 31 and had beaten the flashy Brooklyn boxer, Nov. 30 in two Houston matches, didn't even make it close this time. Referee Jimmy Kessler had it 8-1-1, Judge Al Singer 7-3 and Judge Artie Aidala 6-3-1, all for Costa who weighed 129½ to Jorgensen's 127 3-4.

Costa, a 2½-to-1 favorite before Wednesday's bout, will be inactive over the holidays but hopes to get another match with Cherif Hamia, the No. 1 contender who decisioned Costa was ranked No. 2 in Ring and No. 7 with the National Boxing Association while Jorgensen was No. 2 in Ring and No. 4 in the NBA.

Jorgensen, unbeaten in 12 previous 1956 fights, hadn't last since he dropped a decision to Teddy Davis, Aug. 30, 1955. His record now is 48-5-1 to Costa's 36-5-2.

Many Oddities In Football

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The oddity of the year in U.S. college football was a blocked punt, blocked, that is, by the kicker's own team.

It happened at Seattle. UCLA's Kirk Wilson had just punted 53 yards. The ball slithered parallel to the goal line and stopped about six inches away.

Dick McVeigh, a Washington end, went behind his own goal line to kick out of danger on first down. Tackled up to protect his kicker, Al Ferguson, Washington quarterback, was struck on the back by the punt. The ball sailed straight up in the air and finally was recovered by UCLA's Don Shinnick on the Washington two.

Three plays later UCLA had its first touchdown and was on the way to a 13-8 victory.

CASUAL ENDING

Like to hear some more?

Well, there was the punt in the Catawba-Appalachian game that bounced down field, was touched by a member of the kicking team but never was blown dead. Willie Campagna of Catawba watched the Appalachian man walk away, then picked up the ball and started to walk away himself.

Pretty soon he started to run. Before he stopped he had run 70 yards for a touchdown that won the game.

A Compton punt went out of bounds on the Cameron 30. The ball was placed 15 yards from the sidelines and Cameron went into a huddle. Four players neared the sidelines, not over the ball. Suddenly the Cameron center trotted out of the huddle, strolled casually to the ball, picked it up and whipped it 15 yards to the sidelines. A halfback grabbed it and, behind the entire Cameron team, ran 67 yards for a touchdown.

Bombers Report $3,239 Profit

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union reported an estimated profit of $3,239 for the 1956 season at the club's general meeting Wednesday night.

The profit was estimated because the club does not yet know exactly what it will receive from the WIFU playoff and Grey Cup pools.

Estimated gross revenue for 1956 was $481,288 compared with $452,793 last year and expenses were $478,049 compared with $331,-743.

Biggest expense was $266,575 for salaries and bonuses to players, coaches, the manager and trainer and the remainder of the team's staff. This is a drop of almost $20,000 from 1955.

Gate receipts increased $12,351 to $353,468. The team's two exhibition games on the road this year earned $19,781 while the two home exhibition games in 1955 earned $38,062.

Barrie Dumps Biltmores 4-1

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers dumped first-place Guelph Biltmores 4-1 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Wednesday night.

Barrie scored four goals in the first two periods before allowing Guelph its lone goal in the third.

Billy Forhan scored in the first period while Guelph was shorthanded. Jack Kane, John Charszewski and Danny Patrick scored the other Barrie tallies. Eddy Shack scored Guelph's goal.

Guelph outshot Barrie 25 to 21.

"Let's let the kid tackle you on the 1 yard line. His dad's a big industrialist an' we'll be looking for jobs after this season!"

Ray Robinson Fullmer Resume Training Grind

NEW YORK (AP)—Both Sugar Ray Robinson and Gene Fullmer were back at their training camps today, ready to resume preparations for their postponed middleweight title bout.

The bout, originally scheduled for Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden, was put off until Jan. 2 when the champion came down with a cold.

Robinson, reporting himself completely recovered, returned to his camp at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., Wednesday and said he expected to resume boxing over the weekend. Fullmer reopened his camp at Grossinger, N.Y.

WINS TRIP

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. D. J. Broadwell, Windsor, Ont., physician, has won the all-expense trip to Europe in the draw of the Quarterback Club of London Lords.

Hamilton Ti-Cats Will Demand Trimble Decision

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union said Wednesday night they will talk with Jim Trimble today and ask for a decision on whether he will coach Ticats next season.

Club officials are reported nearing the end of their patience in waiting for Trimble's decision.

Trimble, who took over the coaching job last season, is said to be considering several offers from United States teams.

It was learned here Wednesday night that Trimble had applied for the head coaching job at the University of Indiana. He is an Indiana alumnus. Bernie Crimmins has resigned as the university's football coach after several losing seasons.

Frank Allen, athletic director at Indiana, said Trimble is a candidate for the position, but denied that he or any other college official approached Trimble.

"He made the original contact," Allen said. "We have a number of applicants for Crimmins' job, but won't make a decision for a couple of weeks. We hope to have a man chosen by the end of the year. Admittedly, he (Trimble) is the type of man we would like to have but that doesn't mean he is the leading candidate."

SET DERBY DATE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The 1957 Kentucky Derby will be run May 4 at Churchill Downs.

The board of directors fixed the date Wednesday. The directors also said the race again will carry a $125,000-added value. The 1-¼ mile classic attracts the nation's top three-year-old thoroughbreds.

Irish Spirit Strong as Ever Says Hornung

NEW YORK (AP) — If there was anything wrong with the famed Notre Dame football spirit this year quarterback Paul Hornung couldn't detect it.

Hornung met the New York press at a luncheon Wednesday preceding the annual Heisman Trophy dinner at which he was to receive the award as the outstanding college football player this season.

He sternly avoided a direct reply to former Notre Dame coach Frank Leahy, who recently criticized the Notre Dame team for lack of spirit and "letting down" the college by failing to show enough fight. But in response to questions he said:

"I don't think the Notre Dame spirit was dimmed a bit. Before every game we thought we had a good chance of winning. I don't think the Notre Dame spirit will ever die."

In the middle of a round of banquets and awards, Hornung plans to play in the East-West game at San Francisco Dec. 22 and in the Hula Bowl game in Honolulu before returning to complete his studies at Notre Dame. Then he "supposes" he'll play some pro football for Green Bay Packers, who picked him in the pro draft.

TRYING COMEBACK

SAULT STE. MARIE Ont. (CP) Right winger Marty Burton, a star forward with Sudbury Wolves of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group four years ago, will attempt a comeback with Sault Greyhounds, it was announced Wednesday.

Rawdon

RAWDON — A large number of Rawdonians journeyed to Campbellford on Saturday and enjoyed the Santa Claus parade.

The W.M.S. supply department of Mount Pleasant held a quilting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Linn, and completed two quilts for Mrs. Milford Wrightman. The ladies enjoyed a delicious pot-luck dinner.

Just a word of warning to motorists! Do be careful of your speed when rounding a sharp curve. You never know what may be on the other side of the hill. There will be no excuse for the teacher that would imperil your life as well as the lives of others. On Saturday last this reporter and some 20 other folk were badly scared when a car travelling at an excessive speed topped a hill in Campbellford and, as the car driver found herself in a precarious moment. She must have been quick on the wheel, for the front end of her car in such a way that no accident occurred. However, it was a lucky break for her that she did not smash into a car, or go over the steep embankment on the other side. The driver went merrily on her way, unaware of the danger and the passengers in four or five cars nearly had a heart attack at what might have been a fatality were thankful that all was well.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Ronald Hoard and Mrs. Robert Merrick attended a party given by their mutual grandmother, Mrs. Brad Spry, who was celebrating her 75th anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Farrar, of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore, of Brighton, visited Mrs. Milford Wrightman on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe and family, of Hoards, on Sunday evening.

Mrs. George White and Miss Mildred White, of Stirling, visited Mrs. Fred Jeffs on Sunday.

Members from Mount Pleasant who attended the funeral of Mr. Clifford Sharp on Saturday were, Mr. and Mrs. Percy McMichael, Mrs. Paul Sharp, Misses Sharpe, Mrs. Gordon Sharpe, Mrs. Sharpe, Blake Sharp, Jack Sharp, Leonard Sharpe, Burton Sharpe and others.

The Christmas concert held in Christmas party at the church on Friday evening. The platform will be decorated with Santa and his reindeer.

The president, Mrs. Francis Wrightman, presided over the Christmas program which opened with "Jingle Bells," for the children.

Mrs. Carleton Potts officiated at the piano. All sang, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Mrs. Kenneth Weaver read the Bible lesson.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell and her group won the attendance prize.

About 20 children delighted with recitations, solos and piano selections.

Santa arrived and distributed candies and other confectionery to the children while the adults exchanged their gift parcels.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith and their group served doughnuts, cheese and coffee.

Plenty of Color and Sadness As the Drews Bid Farewell

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative national leadership convention opened Wednesday with a lump in its throat.

Under shifting colored lights, a huge tinfoil maple leaf in the centre of the auditorium for the speakers' platform moved through the green, gold and scarlet shades of its seasons again and again.

Below on the platform, Hon. George Drew and then his wife, Florenza, spoke their farewells. For them, it was the end of a season.

The main auditorium of the Coliseum, a big, drafty building where bingo games and livestock shows are held at other times, was bright with bunting, flags and many powerful lights as the party gathered to choose a successor to Mr. Drew, retiring because of ill-health.

The rows and rows of creaky wooden folding chairs began to fill an hour before the convention opened at 2:37 p.m.

As the starting hour approached, a line of supporters of leadership contender John Diefenbaker marched through into the auditorium. A woman playing an accordion led the placard - bearing marchers.

LED BY PIPES

The skirl of bagpipes, playing Bonnie Dundee, rose through the auditorium and a five-man pipe band from Ottawa's Canada Highlanders led the platform guests through the emptying lobby and up the centre aisle. At the head of the group behind the pipers was Leon Balcer, the party's national president. Mr. and Mrs. Drew, waving to friends as they passed, followed.

The preliminaries were soon over, but not without a touch of confusion.

A 60-voice choir, as directed beforehand, sang O Canada first in French, then in English. The crowd of about 3,000 opened up in both languages. Mr. Drew sang in English, his wife in French. On the second time round, however, there was unanimity in English.

The preliminaries over, the day thereafter belonged to the Drews.

When Mr. Drew went to the podium to make his speech of farewell, the convention gave him a standing ovation and three hasty cheers. His wife sat wistful and wide-eyed, watching. The big Quebec delegation then broke into Ile Cagne ses Epaulettes—the French equivalent of For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Holding his glasses in his hand, Mr. Drew spoke slowly at first. The auditorium became quiet. Men looked at their hands or turned eyes upward to study the navy signal flags decking the rafters. Women sat listening and watching the tall, silver-haired figure on the platform before them.

SPEAKS SLOWLY

Mr. Drew spoke of "the disappointment of ... and it is very great" and his voice softened a little. But "now the time comes to hand over the helm," he said, the old power of his voice returning, and he did so with fine restraint and dignity.

He seemed a little thinner, but his face had its usual ruddy hue, although disappointment and ill health seemed to pinch it a little.

GREET MRS. DREW

When Mrs. Drew went to the podium to thank the convention for a bouquet of yellow roses presented to her moments before, the Quebec delegation again greeted her with a familiar French song. Vive La Canadienne—in which the singers referred to a woman's "sweet eyes."

"This has been a day that George and I shall never forget," she said. Then, speaking briefly of their life together, she mentioned days of triumph.

She added: "Today I know his sorrow."

Praise and gifts were showered on Mr. Drew and his wife, who was at his side for most of the afternoon day.

Before he spoke at the opening session of the convention he met with a group of cheering members of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada.

They presented him with a painting, Spring Shower, by the contemporary Canadian artist Tom Roberts. Mr. Drew urged them to continue efforts to arouse the political interests of youth.

At the convention itself he was given another painting, Baie St. Paul, a Quebec landscape by Clarence Gagnon.

Ottawa's fiery Mayor Charlotte Whitton, herself retiring from the city's politics, presented him with the key of the city.

Mayor Whitton, a staunch Conservative, cracked that the three-colored civic ribbons attached to the key contained the red of the Liberal party "at that time when they were liberals."

HAD GREAT DISTRESS WITH GAS, PAINS, INDIGESTION

"Felt Sick All Over", Tells How Syntona Helped Him. Also Rheumatic Pains.

When food fails to digest properly, but ferments causing gas, sourness and a full-bloated sensation many symptoms may often follow. Syntona has proved a blessing to thousands of men and women and may be just what you need.

A Recent Example

Mr. John May, 148 Woodworth Ave., St. Thomas, Ont., told of his experiences with Syntona as follows: "After suffering with my stomach for the past two years I have found great relief by taking Syntona. The gassy pains, indigestion and sourness kept me feeling sick, nauseated and miserable from day to day. Sometimes the trouble left me constipated, dizzy and headaches and couldn't seem to get my proper sleep at night.

"My wife had used Syntona before and finally insisted that I try it. To my surprise my food soon began digesting better. The gas, pains and sour indigestion soon cleared up. Now I rest better, sleep well at night and I am relieved of constipation and headaches. My rheumatic pains have relieved aches and pains in my arms, limbs, and shoulders that had been troubling me for a long time."

Syntona is sold and recommended by Dolan the Druggist.

CAMPBELLFORD

Over 5000 Attend Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD— A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 persons turned out to watch the Santa Claus parade in Campbellford on Saturday afternoon.

More than 40 floats, five bands and dozens of clowns and other fancy-book characters, delighted the bystanders. When the parade was over, Santa handed out about 1,000 bags of candy and fruit to children who gathered at the Community arena on Front St.

Parade committee officials commented on the quality of the floats this year, saying that many of the firms and businesses who entered floats appeared to have spent more time and effort on the decorations and authenticity of the floats than in previous years. The parade, which took about a half hour to pass, was led by parade marshal, Fred Pallister.

Groups of drum majorettes and baton groups, dressed in colorful uniforms, drew rounds of applause from the persons lining the route. The more than three dozen floats taking part depicted many of the story-book characters associated with Christmas, and one float added a modern touch with Elvis Presley playing to a group of swooning teen-agers.

The parade is sponsored each year by the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce, and is the largest annual event to take place in the town. Merchants of the town donate to the expense of the parade. Costumes are rented from a Toronto firm, and members of the committee work long hours for several weeks prior to the event, planning the many details involved in an undertaking of its size.

Quebec Bank Robbers' Loot Was $189,000

CHARLESBOURG, Que. (CP)— Burglars who broke into the Banque Canadienne Nationale here Tuesday escaped with about $189,000 in cash, securities and travellers cheques, bank officials reported Thursday night.

The loot originally was estimated at $82,000 when the burglary was discovered early Wednesday.

A check by bank officials established the thieves escaped with $44,000 in cash, $110,000 in securities and $35,000 in travellers cheques. It was not disclosed whether the securities were negotiable.

The break-in was made just before the Charlesbourg branch was closed for deposit at the main branch of the bank in Quebec City, 13 miles south of here. The thieves used acetylene torches and other burglary tools to break into the combination safe.

They entered the bank through a rear window.

Pope May Name First Negro As Cardinal

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The first Negro to wear a cardinal's red hat may well emerge from the next consistory to create members of the Roman Catholic Church. And the consistory, whenever it is held, also could see an increase in the number of American cardinals, now four.

Should Pope Pius reject a Negro, it would conform with the Pontiff's expressed desire to keep the church's high body as representative as possible.

During the last 10 years the church's membership in Africa has increased from 12,000,000 to more than 20,000,000—outstripping the rate of worldwide growth. The church's membership today totals 472,000,000.

Vatican circles believe that prelates under consideration for cardinals could well include Negro Archbishop Joseph Kiwanuka of Masaka, Uganda. He is 39 and has increased from 12,000,000 to more than 20,000,000—outstripping the rate of worldwide growth. The church's, membership today totals 472,000,000.

In addition to recognizing Catholicism's growth in Africa, a choice also could contain a slightly sentimental note. Pope Pius, in one of his first acts as Pontiff, consecrated the Negro bishop in 1939 in St. Peter's Basilica.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The weather is cloudy and cold with very light snow and cold Northern Ontario today. Over Southern Ontario skies are cloudy and temperatures are expected to be 20s.

An extensive area of rain over the eastern United States is spreading slowly northward and promises to edge in Southern Ontario late today. A band of freezing rain along the northern edge of this rain area provides a threat of hazardous road conditions in the lower peninsula tonight and On Saturday cloudy and a little milder weather is in store for most of Ontario.

OTTAWA (CP)—The initial skirmishes are over, the new platform is virtually completed and the big three-day Progressive Conservative convention reaches a climax today with the election of a new leader.

From the trend of arena gossip, the standing ovations and uproar during nominations, it appears that despite widespread Quebec opposition to him, John Diefenbaker will win on the first ballot, with Donald Fleming, the Quebec favorite second, and Davie Fulton, third.

Politics is a fickle game. Anything can happen until the actual balloting begins at 2:15 p.m. EST. Words and I a writer can be broken and reshaped. But so far it appears that a majority of delegates are for the 61-year-old MP from Prince Albert, Sask., making his second try for the leadership.

TREND SHOWS

The trend showed-up Thursday night during the nominations uproar. A large majority of the delegates—some 1,241 empowered to vote—stood and applauded when John Diefenbaker got his big mover and seconder rose to speak. The Quebec delegation was the maximum of 342 votes—was silent.

In contrast, the Quebecers cheered, chanted and sang for Donald Fleming, the 51-year-old MP for Toronto Eglinton. But most of the other delegates were silent. Davie Fulton, 46-year-old MP for Kamloops, B.C., got only scattered cheers.

And after the floor demonstration, George Hees, former national president and a strong Diefenbaker supporter, estimated that the number of delegates rising to cheer for their respective favorites appeared to be roughly 350 for Mr. Diefenbaker, 350 for Mr. Fleming and 150 for Mr. Fulton.

On the basis of a maximum 1,472 voting delegates, about 735 would be needed to elect a candidate on the first ballot.

National president Leon Balcer, one of the Quebec delegates, said French - speaking voters were "shocked and angered" by reports that Mr. Diefenbaker had neither a flower nor seconder who was French-speaking.

Moments of Suspense and Hilarity Warm up Conservative Convention

OTTAWA (CP)—There were moments of suspense and hilarity. More than anything, there was just plain whoopee!

The atmosphere of the main auditorium in the Coliseum Thursday night began to swell with exuberance long before the Progressive Conservative convention heard the nomination speeches of the leadership candidates.

It burst with tumultuous demonstrations the moment the three contenders appeared. It was at first on the scene. Two minutes before the speeches were to start, he and his wife headed for the platform. A crowd of shouting, pushing, waving supporters followed in their wake.

It was just a preliminary. A minute later, supporters of Donald Fleming injected a Dixieland air into the proceedings with a band and a song to their candidates personal theme song, "Bringing Back Mary" of When the Saints Come March-

BUDAPEST STEEL WORKERS STAGE SITDOWN STRIKE

28,000 Copper Workers Join Other Strikers

BUDAPEST (AP) — An estimated 28,000 workers in Hungary's Budapest industrial area, the huge Csepel iron and steel works south of Budapest, defied the secret police and troops today to stage a new sitdown strike.

About 25 per cent of the Csepel works' force of more than 36,000 joined thousands of workers in a dozen other Budapest factories in demanding that puppet Premier Janos Kadar's regime release the workers' two chief labor leaders. They refused to return to their plants but refused to produce.

At Budapest's biggest electrical products plant, the Bojdanski electric factory, 6,000 workers refused to turn their machines in defiance of troops and police who had seized their plant.

Other workers told reporters they would hold out until Sandor Rev, the labor chairman of the outlawed Budapest Central Workers' Council, and Sandor Bali, the council's vice-chairman, are released. The two, who ordered the two-day general strike which paralyzed most of the country's industry and commerce Tuesday and Wednesday, are held by Premier Kadar's Russian-impaced government.

SHORTAGES HIT

Workers explained that another factor hampering production was shortages in the nation's electric power. Electricity was shut off this morning in many hotels in the Budapest district.

Kadar's government broadcast today that it would release workers if coal miners who have stayed away from the pits since the outbreak of the October revolution do not return to work.

Newsport Radio said there is a view of the increasing danger of inflation. The government can no longer bear the responsibility of paying idle factory workers.

The government promised a special "loyalty bonus" and "government credits for the building of homes" to miners who return by Dec. 15.

U.S. to Give Its NATO Allies Atomic Guns But No Warheads

PARIS (AP)—The United States today promised to supply weapons capable of firing atomic charges to its NATO allies, but made it clear that the U.S. will retain possession of the atomic warheads.

A U.S. source said the new decisions to be made available have "dual capacity," meaning that they can fire either conventional or nuclear explosives.

He said that because of the U.S. law prohibiting transfer of military atomic elements to foreign countries, only the conventional explosives would be furnished to forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The U.S. statement was planned to answer the mounting desires of the European allies to transform their armed forces in line with the realities of the atomic age.

British, French and other ministers at the NATO conference have emphasized the security threat to Russian attack but also their resolve to cut their defence bills by dependence on smaller armies with more modern weapons.

The ministers also were expected to complete a secret political directive spelling out new orders for a modernization of their forces from the age of gunpowder to the era of nuclear power. Precise terms of the directive will remain top-secret, but all 15 NATO members have accepted the essential points in principle.

Terse talk into account that the nature of the struggle against communism has changed since Stalin's death and will go on changing. They also recognize the flexibility in Communist technique.

Also considered is the likelihood of conflict without the leadership of the Soviet Union in view of the anti-Stalin campaign and its reverberations in Red China and Poland.

The conclusions listed in the political directive will shape the final form of allied military goals for 1957 and for the years to follow. They are to be approved formally before the ending of the conference, scheduled for tonight.

Conservative Meeting Adopts Outline of Party Philosophy

OTTAWA (CP)—A broad declaration of Progressive Conservative principles, stressing freedom of opportunity in a competitive economy, was adopted today at the party's national convention.

Here is the declaration, in the form of a preamble to the more specific platform worked out by delegates:

"We believe in freedom of worship, speech and association, and loyalty to the Queen of Canada; and the rule of law. Believing these things, we hold, with history, that vigilance over our parliamentary institutions is the best guarantee of such traditional freedoms.

"We believe the state should be the servant of the people and that our national progress depends on a competitive economy which, accepting its social responsibilities, allows to every individual freedom of opportunity and initiative, and the peaceful enjoyment of the fruits of his labor.

"We believe that progress and stability can best be achieved by building on the firm foundations of those things proved good by experience.

"We believe in a Canada, founded on these principles, of many creeds and many cultures, united in its aims and aspirations, and in particular, among the nations of the world.

The declaration, proposed by William Hamilton, Commons member for Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace, was an amendment to a shorter platform preamble brought to the convention by its policy committee. Committee co-chairman Joseph Seligman, of Dauphin said Mr. Hamilton's draft was an improvement.

Earlier some convention delegates had been trying to get the party leadership to have the convention embody a declaration of principles separate from the platform as a guide to basic party thinking. But the Hamilton version was adopted without discussion.

The idea of a separate document emanated with a group of westerners who were understood to feel unsuccessfully to have the policy committee bring in a draft resolution of theirs.

Twenty Planes Aloft to Search For Airliner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty planes were aloft at 9 a.m. today to take advantage of the best weather in five days to press the hunt for a lost airliner and its 62 occupants missing since Sunday night.

The aircraft, to be joined by 30 others later in the day, brooded through scattered cloud conditions for the mountains of southwest British Columbia, 100 miles north of here, where the Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star is believed to have crashed.

A score of ground parties also combed an allied search.

Search officials still expressed hope that the missing plane may be found despite considerable snowfall in the mountains in the last five days.

FISHERMEN RESCUED

KOKUEA, Japan (AP) — American and Japanese helicopters Thursday rescued eight Japanese fishermen who were stranded on a rock for 15 hours in the Japan Sea. The fishermen's boat rammed a rock and sank off the northern Japan coast. Rescue boats could not reach them because of a rough sea and reefs.

EDEN FLIES HOME TO FACE GRAVEST POST-WAR CRISIS

Papers List Some Of Major Problems

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden was flying back to Britain today to take over again the reins of a government faced with mounting economic and political problems in the wake of the Middle East crisis.

Since he left three weeks ago for a Jamaican holiday because of ill health, the political climate in Britain has cooled considerably, compared with the bitter strife over the Egyptian intervention which divided the country more deeply than at any time in years.

Now Britain faces the economic and political bills which have piled up as an aftermath of the crisis.

The tone of Eden's homecoming was set by editorials in two leading morning newspapers, The Times and The Daily Telegraph.

LIST THE PROBLEMS

After expressing the hope that Eden is fully restored to health, they list some of the major problems waiting to be tackled. Both the independent Times and the Conservative Telegraph give the frank opinion that Eden must either resign or take a holiday now or make way for someone else.

The Times says: "Either Sir Anthony Eden must now resume the task which he had a vigorous, progressive, efficient government was carrying on with considerable success or he will demand someone else."

The Daily Telegraph warns: "The prospect is that we shall have to fight for our economic life and for our international status for months and possibly for years to come.

"If Sir Anthony can bear it and give the leadership for which the country is crying out, well and good. If not, another must step into the breach."

The mass-circulation Daily Mirror, which supported Eden's Middle East policy, makes no bid to compromise with his home coming. Instead, it devotes most of its front page to a cartoon of Eden and headlines: "Home today."

The cartoon shows a sun-tanned Eden just cutting a main road—and telegraph and telephone wires cut.

Today's raids came almost 48 hours after a series of more than a dozen bomb and gun attacks at scattered northern island points.

The attacks followed statements issued in Dublin Wednesday night by the IRA and the Sinn Fein republican organization acknowledging responsibility and threatening further action against "British aggression" in Ireland.

Security reports indicated that casualties on both sides were light.

Reinforcements were reported from Belfast. Throughout the six Northern Ireland counties all police were called to duty and special police mobilized as a dragnet spread for the raiders.

BORDER CLOSED

The whole length of the 180-mile border was sealed, traffic stopped and drivers held at gunpoint, asked to account for their movements.

Lisnaskea is the constituency for which Lord Brookborough, prime minister, sits in the Northern Ireland parliament.

This premier suggested today that the raid on the police station there was a reply to a statement by him Tuesday night in Belfast condemning the Ira.

Predicts Surplus Of $400,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — A leading authority on fiscal matters predicted Thursday that the federal government will have a surplus of $400,000,000 when budget-time rolls around next spring.

J. Harvey Perry of Toronto, director of the Canadian Tax Foundation, suggested this "sizable surplus could be used to liquidate outstanding debt and financially-embarrassed provinces."

Speaking to the Canadian Tax Executive Club of Ottawa, he said the surplus figure does not take into account the $100,000,000 recently pledged by the government to the projected Canada Council.

Negro Foundling's Voice Fails Her As She Sings for Marian Anderson

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A little girl sang Thursday for the great lady she idolizes but collapsed in tears as her voice failed.

The girl, Harriet, a seventh grade student at St. Teresa's Roman Catholic school here, has been the adoption of her dreams. It had been arranged for her to meet, and sing for, famed Negro contralto Marian Anderson.

Harriet was a special guest of honor at a luncheon here introducing Miss Anderson to a new audience by Ary Lord, What a Morning.

The Negro child is the adopted daughter at the age of three months and taken in and raised by an aunt, Mrs. Beatrice Hall, a domestic. Miss Anderson was born and reared in the same neighborhood.

Harriet's recital, Harriet announced in a nervous voice her first selection would be O, Holy Night. In the throat, raved, voice of a 13-year-old—a talented one, to be sure—she proceeded, her eyes fixed on the ceiling. But her voice faltered.

The second selection was It Because, The child seemed more confident as she began the difficult selection; handling the higher notes with ease. She swayed rhythmically from side to side and unconsciously toyed with her fingers.

Suddenly she paused for breath, coughed and stopped completely. Miss Anderson, the great, accompanist and voice teacher, finished. Harriet turned and buried her face in the teacher's shoulder to muffle her cries.

The concert sat numbly. There wasn't a dry eye visible. Miss Anderson herself, broke the spell of abject embarrassment, rising from her place and going over to Harriet, sheltering her in her arms.

Later, Miss Anderson explained that she would arrange to hear Harriet sing again and in more private surroundings, most likely her school choir.

Irish Republican Army Repeats Attack On Ulster

Border Raids Are Staged On Cold and Stormy Night

BELFAST (Reuters)—Irish republicans staged a fresh wave of bomb and machine-gun attacks against Northern Ireland early today, barely 48 hours after Wednesday's initial offensive.

A band of about 40 raiders, their faces blackened with camouflage, stormed two police barracks near the border under cover of a hail of machine-gun fire and tried to blow them up. In both cases they were repelled by police gunfire.

There were lesser attacks at scattered points elsewhere.

As the raiders escaped back over the border into the southern republic, northern government quarters were reported preparing an emergency decree imposing wider arrest powers and a frontier curfew.

The Northern Ireland prime minister, Lord Brookborough, hinted at even stronger measures if necessary.

"Some action we may take might cause inconvenience to the law-abiding citizens of Northern Ireland, but I am certain that seeing the danger facing us they will back [illegible] the government," he said Thursday night.

The raiders, members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, picked one of the worst nights of the year for their attacks—blown by sale-force winds and temperatures near freezing.

As gunfire and explosions lit up the countryside, a general alert rang out over the whole of Northern Ireland's County Fermanagh, and all available police rushed to the border area.

The raiders bombed and shot at police stations at Lisnaskea and at Derrylin, about a quarter of a mile away. Both towns are less than 10 miles from the border.

BRIDGES BLASTED

Bridges also were blasted—in one spot cutting a main road—and telegraph and telephone wires cut.

Today's raids came almost 48 hours after a series of more than a dozen bomb and gun attacks at scattered northern island points.

The attacks followed statements issued in Dublin Wednesday night by the IRA and the Sinn Fein republican organization acknowledging responsibility and threatening further action against "British aggression" in Ireland.

Security reports indicated that casualties on both sides were light.

Reinforcements were reported from Belfast. Throughout the six Northern Ireland counties all police were called to duty and special police mobilized as a dragnet spread for the raiders.

Toronto Council Powerless to Order Judicial Injury

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts said today Toronto city council was correct in his opinion that it is powerless to order a judicial inquiry into alleged "black marketing" of taxi cab licences.

Thursday he had refused to order an investigation on the ground the city was empowered to do so itself under the Municipal Act. The city contended it was up to the attorney-General.

However, Mr. Roberts made it clear today that only the entire cabinet could order the investigation. To have the power to order a probe than anyone has,[illegible] he said.

His department was studying the situation to determine whether the cabinet could start an inquiry under the Public Inquiries Act, he said.

LICENCES SOLD

City council asked for an investigation after hearing reports that 315 taxi licences were being resold for sums up to $5,000. Number of licences issued is limited to 1,000.

Meanwhile, The Telegram says it has learned that about half of 79 taxi licences issued by the Toronto police commission last June now are in the control of a "substantial syndicate."

The Telegram says the 79 licences "were the core of the present judicial query into the city taxi licences." The newspaper said this is the "mystery man" is safe from action by the police commission because it is the control of cab licences is "vested in I.O.U.s held by the man."

CONSENT ACTION

Alderman William Dennison said that one Toronto taxi company, within hours of the council's move for a judicial inquiry, called in its I.O.U.s and tried to present them to hand in their old contracts for licences and sign new ones.

"The company wanted to destroy the old contracts overnight," he said.

The Star says that some cab owners balked at the prospect of losing their commanding position through licence reforms, and warned their drivers to "keep quiet" or start looking for new jobs.

POPULAR PLACE

LONDON (CP) — Brig. E. C. Pepper, speaking at a meeting of the London Society of Arts, said some 715 Canadians had stayed at London Society of Arts, said some 715 Canadians had stayed at London House since it opened 25 years ago. Altogether, 5,304 men have stayed at London House which has had post-graduate students from the Commonwealth and United States.

Council Committee Approves New Proposal of Bus Line

Residents of the Parker-Wellington street areas will continue to receive bus service under the terms of a counter-proposal offered to city council by the Rawson Bus Company and which was approved by council at a committee meeting earlier this week.

Under the terms of the counter proposal offered by the bus company the Crosstown bus would cease operation as was previously suggested, but the "Dunbar-Geddes" bus would be re-routed to give service to the Parker and Wellington street areas.

PROPOSALS OFFERED

Full conditions of the counter proposal offered by the bus company are as follows:

(a) The "Dunbar-Geddes" and "Bonaventure-East Hill" buses be allowed to commence operations at 6:45 a.m. instead of 6:15 a.m.

(b) The "Dunbar-Geddes" and "Bonaventure-East Hill" buses be allowed to cease operations on Saturday and Saturday evenings at 6:15 p.m.

(c) The "Crosstown" route cease operation effective at once.

(d) The "Parkwood Heights" bus not return to Front Street Terminal by Victoria Avenue, instead of Bridge Street, East.

(e) The fares be changed from 2 tickets for 25c to 2 tickets for 25c plus a 1c cash single fare and children fares be altered to 7c each single fares.

(f) The "Dunbar-Geddes" would be re-routed to include the Parker-Wellington area.

(g) There fill be no further assignment of the Priscilla without the permission of the city.

The bus company controversy jumped into the news several weeks ago following the claim of the company management that due to falling revenues, increased fares and curtailment of certain services were necessary.

Among the curtailment of services suggested was the elimination of the Crosstown bus route.

CAVE TENTATIVE APPROVAL

Council originally gave tentative approval to the bus company request but before the by-law was approved a storm of protest arose from West Hill residents over the proposed elimination of the Crosstown route.

This resulted in council holding up passing of the amended by-law and new clauses were written into the agreement.

The new clauses suggested by council did not get favorable reception from the bus company which in turn made the present counter proposal which has been accepted by council in committee.

Members of Fire Department Excellent Hosts at Banquet

Members of the Belleville Fire Department are excellent hosts, and—take it from approximately 150 guests, who last night attended the annual firemen's banquet—they need not play second fiddle to professional chefs.

Members of city council, civic officials, representatives of district fire departments with W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, as special guest, attended the banquet at No. 2 firehall on West Moira Street, and all were unconvinced of the firemen's hospitality.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance, as master of ceremonies, said the annual banquet was always staged with the purpose of fostering good public relations between the department and the city officials and organizations.

RECEIVE PLAUDITS

And if such terms received the plaudits of various speakers with special mention being made of their good humor at the supper, the annual Santa Claus parade, decided to be only "second to Toronto."

A highlight of the banquet program was the installation of Archdeacon J. B. Creegan of Christ Church, and Father Murphy of St. Michael's Church, as padres of the fire department. The installation was by W. J. Scott, Ontario fire marshal, who in a brief talk praised the efficiency of the Belleville department.

Mayor Jane Forrester told the banquet guests that Belleville firemen were well trained, alert, and in addition to their efforts in connection with the annual Santa Claus parade, spent many hours in repairing toys which are presented to underprivileged children at Christmas time.

PRAYERS FOR DEPARTED MEMBERS

Prayers for two departed members of the department—Captain Stanley Woods and assistant operator George Fordyce — were said by Archdeacon Creegan.

Chief Vance assured that the banquet preparations were completely within the department. The roast turkey was prepared by firemen as were the other essentials which went into the dinner. However, firemen drew a line at the pies, and received the help of their wives in this department.

Other speakers heard briefly included Frank Follwell, M.P.; Alderman Fred Grandmont, the city chairman of the council fire committee; Mel Tucker, Ottawa, vice-president of 2nd district, Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters; District Chief Lorne McRoail of Ottawa; city manager Dennis D. Herring; city solicitor R. A. Pringle; Hydro commissioner W. Harry Rollins; Alderman William Fargey, Alderman Effie McCabe; city clerk Mrs. Anne Haggerty, and police chief Walter Probert; Ontario Provincial Police Inspector A. McDougall and George Foster of the CNRAA.

Jimmy Conrad presided at the piano.

A collection taken up for less fortunate children amounted to $80.

Other fire departments represented at the banquet included Kingston, Ottawa, Oshawa, Cobourg, Batawa, Ajax and Toronto.

Charles Coliton Burned to Death In Small Trailer

Charles Coliton, 66, retired veterinarian, living alone in a small trailer at the Quinte Fair Grounds, lost his life early today when his trailer home was completely destroyed by fire.

Dying with his master in the fire was a small black spaniel, which Mr. Coliton kept as a pet.

The blazing trailer was discovered about 1:30 this morning by George Linz, who spotted the flames from the street as he was on his way home. He tugged in the fire alarm but already the trailer was completely enveloped in flames and firemen had no opportunity to save any of the occupant of the trailer.

Cause of the blaze is unknown. Mr. Coliton used both an electric heater and a propane gas heater to heat the trailer.

A former inspector with a meat packing company, Mr. Coliton was now retired and came to Belleville from Picton. During the past summer he assisted in looking after race horses which were kept at the horse barns at the fairgrounds.

The blazing trailer was situated close to the fairground building, merely used to house poultry for fair exhibition and the shedding was badly scorched as firemen fought to keep it from catching fire.

Santa Claus Is Calling All Children

Calling all boys and girls in Belleville for Christmas!

For, least, that's what Santa Claus intends to do.

As many of the young fry know by now Santa Claus is going all out this year with a "get-acquainted" program for all youngsters in Belleville before he makes the rounds Christmas morning.

All this week the Old Gentleman is busy phoning children in the city passing on his personal greetings, finding out what they want from him this year, and generally taking as only Santa Claus can talk.

However, last night he was particularly busy and so probably missed out on a few calls. Not that he couldn't have used his help! But by the time he got around to the end of his list of children to phone last night, he decided some of them might be in bed. So, he decided to let another phone line lie and made a note of the calls he didn't make. Tonight he intends to catch up with his list.

So stand by again tonight children.

Acting as Santa's helpers in the Belleville district is the city's recreation committee, which aids Santa in securing the names and addresses of all the boys and girls who wish to hear from him this Christmas.

Remand Accused In Custody For One Week

Howard "Muppy" Dean, 22, of Belleville, faced Magistrate T. Y. Wills yesterday for preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking, entering and theft in connection with an early morning raid on a men's wear store in Stirling last month.

Earlier in the month Dean pleaded not guilty and elected trial by jury. Belleville lawyer Ben Harper is defending the accused and Crown Attorney John Pringle is acting for the prosecution.

After listening to Crown witnesses for nearly three hours, the magistrate remanded Dean in custody for one week, when the final Crown witness failed to appear. Neal Hubble, of Trenton, was to have testified for the prosecution but car trouble on the highway kept him away. He was placed on two years suspended sentence a few weeks ago after the magistrate found the guilty of a like offence.

One of the witnesses, 18-year-old Shirley Sharpe, of Belleville, told the court that on the night of November 21 Hubble had told him, Dean and Garry Lewis (who is also on suspended sentence), that he knew where a store could immediately he would lend them his car for the journey. Some time after midnight, Sharpe testified, they arrived in Stirling and drove to the rear of the men's wear store for a while. Then Sharpe and an unidentified youth went to the front of the car, eased Patterson's Men's Wear, and Sharpe smashed a large plate glass window with a fire extinguished entry to the store.

SAYS DEFENDANT IN CAR

Sharpe maintained that Dean remained in the car while this was going on. He testified that he and (Sharpe) was the one who stole about $100 worth of merchandise from the store. He did not remember his accomplice.

After parking the car the quartet went into the hills behind Oak Lake where they burned the celophane wrappers protecting the new garments. And because of the November cold, Sharpe said he and his pals each donned a plaid shirt and sweater each, which they had stolen from Mr. Patterson's stock. Then they returned to Belleville some time between 4 and 5 a.m. November 22.

Sharpe identified the clothing exhibits as being among the loot taken in the raid.

Earlier in the day Magistrate Wills sentenced him to six months definite and six months indefinite in reformatory on conviction of a like charge.

City police constable Jack Kent found a raincoat, six pairs of socks, a plaid shirt, a pair of gloves, three price tags and three woollen coats in Hubble's car on the night of November 22. The next day he uncovered one plaid shirt, a pair of socks, a sweater coat and two pairs of socks in a field behind Sharpe's summer cottage.

OPP Constable Jack Fullerton, who investigated the break-in, said he arrived at the store at 5.10 a.m. on November 22 and found the heavy plate glass door window smashed and glass strewn around the interior of the store. Belleville proprietor Robert Patterson who unlocked the store so that the constable could begin his investigations.

Douglas Patterson, son of Robert and an employee in the store, identified the clothing on two of Constable Kent's price tags as his own.

40th Anniversary of Meagher's Men's Wear Store Celebrated

The 40th Belleville anniversary of a men's wear store which actually had its beginning in Fenelon Falls just 39 years ago, is being celebrated in the city this week by Meagher's Men's Wear, well known local haberdashery.

The business, now a father and son partnership, had its start in Fenelon Falls in 1916 on a site now occupied by Kresge's by brothers Charles and George Meagher.

George Meagher is now retired, but Charles is still in the business which he operates with his son William.

Haberdashery is a family tradition with the Meagher's. Back in 1867 at Fenelon Falls in the pre-Confederation area, William Meagher, grandfather of the present William Meagher, opened a clothing store and the family has been in the business more or less ever since.

In 1902 the Meagher brothers, who were later to locate in Belleville, opened a men's wear store in Napanee, which they operated for four years.

Then came the call of the West and the brothers went to Western Canada and later still to Grand Rapids, Michigan, where George and Charles, along with a third brother, William, all worked for the same clothing firm.

They then returned to Belleville and worked for the Bradford Rubber company before opening their own store in 1916.

GEORGE RETIRED IN 1948

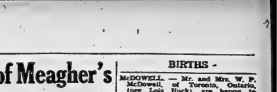
Both brothers continued in the business until 1948 when George Meagher retired and Charles took his son William into the firm. William gave up a position with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company in Montreal to go into business with his father on his uncle's retirement.

Styles in men's clothing may change but the name Meagher has remained in Belleville as a symbol of quality merchandize. Also remaining at Meagher's is a hat stretcher used at Fenelon Falls nearly 90 years ago.

"That same old hat stretcher is still in use in our store today," noted William "Meagher, junior member of the current father and son partnership.

Police Officers Kept Busy Probing Mishaps



Three accident reports within five minutes of each other put into the hop yesterday at noon as they investigated mishaps in which two children were struck by cars and a third minor collision between two autos.

On Foster Ave., Judith Bradshaw, age 5, was struck by a car as she ran across Foster Avenue, while on her way home from school. She was taken to the Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance but is reported by police that the girl escaped with a shaking up and a bump on the head.

On Charles street in the vicinity of the Belleville high school girl, Marlene Fremming, age 8, of 285 Charles street, also ran into the side of a moving car but again the child escaped without injury.

Otherwise on the police blotter a Charlotte street man reported two youths tampering with his car during the night. When alarmed they ran along Charlotte toward Wellington and police officers arrived were nowhere to be found.

Several men were apprehended on IZA counts including Hamild Stafford Fleury, 36, no given address, was apprehended on two charges of shoplifting at two local department stores.

The city dog pound is literally swamped with dogs and cats, some of which have been picked up by the city dog catcher and others which have been brought in by residents in hopes that a permanent home can be found for them.

Many of the dogs are animals which have been picked up in the neighborhood of schools and police officials would appreciate owners calling for their pets.

Farm Management Subject of Talk

The annual meeting of the Hastings County Soils and Crop Improvement Association was held in the Stirling Community Hall, Wednesday night, with President Allan Ketcheson in the chair.

Prof. A. C. Robertson of the Economics Dept. OAC, was the special speaker and delivered a very instructive address on "Farm Management." With the assistance of members of the audience he established the investment in the average farm in Hastings County at $24,000, and the minimum gross income required to operate such a farm at $8,100. This did not provide for depreciation or profit. It was required to lined several improvements that might be made in farm management in the area.

FILM SHOWN

Mitchell Challis, field officer of the Moira River Conservation Authority, showed the film "Moira River," and Ken Fallis, fieldman of the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, spoke on provincial activities in the crop improvement field.

Conservatives Decide Not To Change Name

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative convention today voted overwhelmingly against a motion to shorten the party's name by deleting the word Progressive.

Only about 25 persons voted for the motion. It was beaten down about 25 to 1 in show of hands.

The party was known as the Conservative party until the 1942 convention when the name was changed to the Progressive Conservative party.

MOVED FROM FLOOR

The motion, proposed from the floor of the convention hall as discussion of the new party platform neared an end, provoked a flutter of clapping and cheering, mainly from the Quebec delegation's section.

Joseph Sedawick of Toronto, co-chairman of the resolutions committee, immediately told the convention that in the absence of Premier Frost of Ontario he had the premier's permission to say that Mr. Frost is "vigorously opposed" to changing the party name.

He said the premier pointed out that the party has won five straight elections in Ontario under the name Progressive Conservative and it had also won in New Brunswick and this year in Nova Scotia.

COMES FROM WEST

The motion was proposed by Manitoba delegate Alf Warkentin and seconded by Jean-Paul Boisvert of Montreal.

Mr. Warkentin, from Provencher constituency, said "no less than 10 constituency and conservative associations or organizations saw fit to submit resolutions to this convention . . . requesting that the name of our party be changed simply to that of the Conservative party of Canada."

He referred to resolutions to this effect submitted before the convention opened Wednesday. However, after closed discussion in the committee, the long list of resolutions offered for convention approval contained no mention of the controversial suggestion.

Cars Travelling At High Speed As Five Killed

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP)—Five airmen returning from leave were killed and three others were injured Thursday when two cars travelling at high speed hit headon near this RCAF-army training base.

Dead are: Cpl. D. H. McVeity, 23, of Regina, LAC Andrew Garland, 27, of Richmond, Ont., LAC Hugh Graham, 31, of Russell, Ont. LAC Albert Heitmar, 25, of Saskatoon, and LAC K. J. Drummond, 28, of Gladdon, Sask.

In hospital at Camp Borden are LAC John H. Smith, 21, of Stratford, and Gordon MacCubbin, 22, of Alliston, Ont., LAC James Judge, 23, of Grand Falls, Nfld., was taken to Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital.

Four of the men, police said, must have died instantly. The fifth died shortly after arrival at Camp Borden hospital.

JAMMED AT 85

A garage attendant who worked with police trying to free four of the men from the wreckage said the speedometers were both jammed at 85 miles an hour.

The impact on the icy Highway 8 made more treacherous by a light fall of snow, scattered wreckage over a wide area. The two vehicles were found in the ditch 100 feet apart.

"It was like trying to dig through the wreckage of a collapsed girder bridge," said a policeman who worked more than an hour during a heavy snowfall to free the victims.

WHY IS A BRIDE LIKE A DOG-BITING MAN?

Although June is only a dim memory—or a distant promise—there is one June flower that is still with us. That is the bride—always pretty although, perhaps, not at this part of the twentieth century still blushing.

The June pages of the newspapers' picture pictures which could pass as regular June fare if there were some slight changes in the captions. "Snowflakes Make Confetti for Brides," for instance, would be one slight alteration. In June, brides are bathed in golden sunshine, or are dewy-eyed as the soft dawn.

Brides, though, are always news, no matter what the season, a state of affairs which may appear normal to the society editor but proves puzzling to the city desk.

What similarity is there between a woman who gets wed and a man who bites a dog? Yet the dog-biting man, we are informed, is news because he is doing something unusual. The woman who weds is not doing anything that her mother and her grandmother and her four great grandmothers before her did not do —and many, many other mothers and grandmothers and great grandmothers beside. Why, then, is a wedding news?

Somebody may reply that a wedding is news because it means that a man and woman are about to start the most important business of their lives—getting married and raising a family. This reply is begging several questions, including the one about why it is the bride, rather than the bridegroom, who merits all the attention. Let us, however, skip these questions and ask another. If it is the establishment of a family which is the news-making event, why is the bride pictured on her wedding day, rather than the mother on her home-coming from the hospital with her first-born?

Perhaps some will say that a wedding is primarily a religious ceremony. But, if this be the reason why a bride merits a picture and a mother does not, why are there no pictures of baptisms and confirmations?

Perhaps it may be suggested that a wedding is an event of considerable importance in the commercial world, that it signifies the establishment of a vast new market for a wide variety of goods, houses and cars and fur coats and diapers and lawn mowers and washing machines and TV sets and linen sheets and carpets and dish towels.

But what pictures marked the original establishment of these two markets now joined, the births of this man and this woman?

Oh, some may say, you have the wrong idea entirely, a wedding is a social event; the bride's picture is on the society page. So it is—but why is there such a fuss to be made over social events of much wider interest than the weddings pictured—and these social events get only passing mention. In the smaller centres, where important social events are few and rare, many of the brides whose pictures appear in the paper cannot be said to belong to "society" in any other sense than that in which we all belong to the dirt in the shack by the railroad to the millionaire in his mansion.

No, these explanations do not help. And please, please, do not suggest that newspapers use pictures of brides because newspapers are always eager to use pictures of pretty girls. Even if every bride were as pretty as the society editor says she is, no news photographer whose real reason for taking a picture was a search for beauty would permit her to pose in such a conventional manner, such charm-hiding attire—instead of on water skis or careening at the end of a speed boat, hair adrift, or with a wind veiling her face with her hair and unveiling her figure.

No—the way of a society editor with a bride passeth the understanding of the city desk.

ACCENTS

The other day, in his column "The Packsack" on this page, Gregory Clark, delivered a deserved spanking to those Canadians who, after visiting England, come back with affected English accents.

His rebuke was occasioned by hearing a TV program on which a Canadian-born actress called a jackdaw a "jeckdoe."

As Mr. Clark remarked, the Canadian way of saying "jackdaw" cannot be improved upon; the pronunciation here is the same as it is among the best-spoken people in England.

It struck us, though, that some of the people who are accused of deliberately affecting an English accent may be the innocent victims of a natural imitativeness.

A child learns to speak by imitating the accents of the people around him. Once that accent is acquired, it may stick with him the rest of his life. Here in Canada many of us know people who were born in England or Scotland but came to Canada at an early age. The English accent, or the Scottish burr still remains with them. But these people have assimilated to this country when considerably older, and have been here only a comparatively few years, whose speech is indistinguishable from that of a Canadian-born. The difference may not be one of choice. And if anybody doubts that statement, let it be said that it is made from personal knowledge, by an English-born person who has not the slightest knowledge of when he lost the two accents he brought to this country, the West Country dialect and the standard English tone.

Perhaps the same thing happened to the Canadian-born actress who says "jeckdoe." One must admit, though, that if this is true she should be more careful of the company she keeps or her stage diction is going to become a horrible hodge-podge as she travels about England and Scotland.

FAMILY QUIZ

Once more they casually inquire
What size of gloves I wear
Or what for Christmas I desire,
As if they didn't care.
At dinner table round and round
The conversation goes,
Until they're sure they've slyly found
What everybody knows.

My size of shirt is talked about,
My neckties are discussed;
They know my needs, beyond a doubt,
But talk of them they must.

But at the table I pretend
Such talk I never hear
And do not know the quiz will end
When Christmas Day is here.

Well, that's an annual device
That loved ones apply unto
A family scheme that is so nice
It's one I'd never lose.
Time takes away the dearest sweet away
In its incessant sweep,
But all the fun of Christmas Day
Always I want to keep.

Red Leaders Confused

Manchester Guardian

"There is no need for everybody to have his hair cut to the same pattern." Thus "Pravda" in its considered reply to Marshal Tito. But what if the chief barber still has no implements other than the rough-bowl and the giant garden-shears which he as been using all his life?

Pravda's article, which seems to bear the marks of Mr. Khrushchev's personal, rather pedestrian style, shows us the leadership of the Soviet Empire groping in the dark. Quite possibly, as Marshal Tito has suggested, it is groping so rather than acting in several directions at once.

* * *

The Eastern European crisis has shown how heavy a burden is the concentration of power which Stalin bequeathed to his successors. Too heavy for one man to bear alone, it has driven them to act together; yet the very strain leads them to go off in divergent ways.

Their task is further hampered by the disembowelling operation which Stalin performed on international sovereignty. The Soviet leaders seem not to know what to do with them.

In their reactions they show themselves in various guises—men who have lost their way, men driven to brute force when they are frightened, Russian nationalists in the Russian way, by the revelation that Russian mastery does not evoke un-Russian loyalties, men compelled to find their reforms carried beyond what they had meant by members of national power who dare yield no fraction of that power; members of a collective who dare not who wish, even at some cost, to be the last to compromise.

What is clear is that, for all their power, the situation has over-taxed them. They have not the tools for the job.

* * *

This alone can explain the desperate shifts and contradictions of Soviet policy since the Poznan riots. Thus, on the day when Hungary lies under a pall of snow of mourning, and of Soviet military rule, "Pravda" announces that Soviet forces will certainly withdraw as soon as the Hungarian Government thinks fit and order is restored.

Thus it concedes, more readily than ever before, that the workers played a "considerable" part in the Hungarian rising, but at the same time goes on parroting the lie that Russia was forced to it by the imminence of a Fascist coup.

Thus, again, it sets out to address Marshal Tito as an equal who should be kept in the fold, yet it cannot help objecting when Tito's "Yugoslav road to socialism" is held up as equally open to all Communists with that followed by the "the Soviet Socialist camp, including the Soviet Union." And earlier the same day Khrushchev and Mr. Gomulka, who is carrying out a policy not unlike Marshal Tito's.

* * *

What emerges confusedly from all this seems to be an attempt to set up a "National Communism" where it has made headway, but to keep it somehow within the bounds set by Soviet military and political needs.

"You can call yourselves independent if you like," Mr. Khrushchev seems to say, "and we will release you from damaging trade agreements, give you economic aid, and even perhaps withdraw our troops from your soil some day; but you must remain loyal to our alliance, keep the Party in control, and do not get out of your way to show that you diverge from us on the aims of a Communist society."

* * *

The trouble with this is that, first, some other Communists seem to fear that even such concessions will not work, and secondly that the "National Communists" themselves have to reckon with their own people, for whom the concessions are too small. That Polish politicians are still going beyond Mr. Gomulka in their calls for reform, and the Hungarian Government is not settling into power only through despair of the alternative.

Power rent by contradictions spells uncertainty and danger. To the leaders of the Soviet Empire we now need not Marx but Tacitus.

Must Rebuild West Alliance

Christian Science Monitor

We welcome the statement in the current White Paper on British financial weekly the Economist calling for the re-building of the Atlantic Alliance. It is a bold statement, because it calls on Britain to accept as "dead" "we are not the Americans' equals now, and cannot be."

On this basis it asks that Britain accept American leadership. But if American policy is to be based on this compliment they will be missing the point of the alliance. This point is that if America's allies are to follow American leadership, it must be leadership and not worship.

The Economist regards Britain's mere loss of power as unfortunate, and adds that "much the largest casualty . . . must be seen to be the transatlantic alliance." It is bold Americans should also remember that it is to this alliance that the alliance questions have sometimes recused their allies to feel that the U.S. was trying to weaken rather than strengthen them.

The alliance will not survive if some American thought does not, simplify the colonial picture. But the years of patient building which powers could be helped in the collective struggle for the liberties of the underdeveloped nations by heeding the best American views.

Perhaps the American contribution must include understanding of the intellectual ferment in Britain. This is harder to give than advice.

What makes the Economist's statement so pertinent is the fact that not only in London and Paris but in Washington too there is an acute sense that due to the rift in the Western Alliance Moscow has seized an opportunity to make important gains on the world front. This all-round weakening to the importance of the alliance provides big opportunities for rebuilding where it must begin — in the understanding of the peoples whose peace and security are at stake.

Milk Price And Value

Brockville Recorder and Times

Milk could go as high as 30 cents per quart if the customer were forced to pay for its ingredients at the same rate he pays for beef by the roast or pork tenderloin, the Agricultural Institute of Canada reveals.

The Institute says that the breakdown of a quart of milk, if sold at the rate which the same nutrients in meat bring, would result as follows: Protein, 45.6 cents; fat, 2.4 cents; carbohydrates, 1.4 cents, a total of 49.4 cents. The average for milk per quart across Canada runs from 20 to 24 cents.

Netherlands Sound Good

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Right now we're in the market for a pair of Netherlands. Life in the Netherlands, we feel, should suit us very well.

There is no irony in this. It is based on cold figures. Look.

In The Netherlands, it says here, life expectancy for females is 72.9 years. On this continent is is only 72.7 years.

The difference of 0.2 years — about 73 days — is hardly worth joke going to all that trouble for, does it? — but probably lose more time than that packing up, travelling and learning to speak Dutch.

But then we aren't females, either. In The Netherlands, males is 66.8 years: in The Netherlands, 70.4 years. A difference of four years is worth something. So The Netherlands it is.

That's a country where a man can hold his head a little higher. Here at home he gets little healthy appreciation for women has a faint green tinge of envy, because they figure to outlive him by more than four years. In The Netherlands it is more than two years, to be sure, but people who have just made a big play are more likely to let a little thing like that worry them.

Besides, we always did like the way Dutch windmills look. Wonder what a second-hand windmill costs?

Cow Best Surveyor

Wall Street Journal

At the upper end of Manhattan Island, on the heights overlooking the Hudson River, Monsignor C. K. G. Gillings built a palatial mansion.

While the huge edifice was going up he addressed himself to the problem of constructing a roadway up the steep and rocky hill to the mansion, and consulted a friend as to how the task might best be accomplished.

"If you are in a hurry," the friend replied, "get a cow to help you."

"A cow?" Billings rejoined.

"Yes," the friend explained. "Give her a stall on the top of the hill, then take her down to the bottom every day — and let her find her way back. Trust her to lay out a path on the easiest and most comfortable grade."

Billings thought the idea, and, at length, the cow's meanderings were duly perpetuated in a smooth, winding asphalt highway.

Boy Has Best Phone Reply

Chicago Daily Tribune

We know a boy, 4 years old, who, when he answers the telephone, says, "Who is it?" If the caller is known to him, he refuses on a conversation; if not, he hangs up.

The young man's mother, a stickler for politeness, is distressed by this procedure and is trying to teach him to say "Hello," according to the family custom. So far he has resisted, and we hope he holds out. There never was any sense in the salutation "Hello" in answering a residential telephone.

There are some who contend that the proper form is "Smith residence." Others say you ought to recite the telephone number. Both forms are foolish. The caller knows he is calling the Smith residence, and he knows the telephone number. The best salutation is one that forces the caller to identify himself as quickly as possible.

When a person answers a telephone call he is acquiring audience. The caller may be somebody selling storm windows, or magazine subscriptions, or distributing extracts, who is imposing on your time. Maybe he has the wrong number. To say "Hello" or "Smith residence" only encourages a long sales talk. If the caller is a friend, he, too, should be obliged to state his name immediately, without any cute preliminary talk.

Therefore we favor our young friend's blunt "Who is it?" He deserves to be on the payroll of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed Reed

"No, you needn't tie him up . . . I'll just put your meter reading down at an estimated fifty dollars this month."

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SPIRITUAL CURE NEEDED

One of the most outstanding impulses in the human make-up is the feverish desire always to get a little more. The man who is moderately satisfied regarding riches of how rich he becomes. Each new advance in fortune is only a plateau on which he may rest temporarily until he can go higher.

The world conquerors have demonstrated this characteristic in a devastating fashion. No matter how great their conquests, they were never satisfied to stop. Alexander the Great, Napoleon, Hitler and Stalin have all shown how apparently irresistible is the desire for extensive domination once a person gets under its power.

Jealous people are people who never have enough—enough prefer-ence, flattery, build-up is the eyes of their associates. The real tragedy is one person in the world above them, they must tear him down. Their own inner satisfied and dedi-niers is never enough. They are ravenously unsatisfied and beyond this.

The mental dispositions, of course, indicate the presence in one's blood—and especially in one's soul of a potent, abnormal craving. Hence, it is natural for people to want to excel, but to excel at the expense of others is something beyond normal aspirations. People who are obsessed with such advancement are sick—sick of mind and soul. What they need is not treatment but cure—spiritual cure for a spiritual disease.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

How's Your Ingrowing Nail?

Every doctor, orthopedic surgeon, podiatrist or chiropodist is sure to have his or her own ideas about the cause of ingrown toenail and the proper way to prevent and treat it.

I will agree that for prevention or treatment of ingrown nail pressure must be avoided, pressure from shoes that are too short, too narrow across the front of the foot or too tight for comfort.

Some experts insist he nail does not "grow in," but the flesh grows up over the edge of the nail. I won't say you can search me, because if you did, you might find that my nail grows into the flesh. Even if I'm wrong in my view of it, I might find that these new methods of treatment keep the toe comfortable — until I hurt it again, carelessly nicking a bowl back to the firing line instead of pushing it back with the orange stick. I'll be wound up in toppet without stitches by a suitable wet dressing and complete healing takes about ten days.

In my opinion it, is a mistake to habitch wide strips of adhesive plaster about ⅜½ inches long, which goes under toe, then up up to the end of the skin just behind the nail. Keep the groove between edge of nail and the flesh dusted with powdered alumin.

2. If the nail is evidently thicken, or excessively curved (convex) from side to side keep the nail filed, rasped or thinned down, easiest by use of a kind of pumice called "Lavaiane." This favors flattening the nail and less curling down as it grows.

Wearing shoes which make any pressure on the toes, even for an hour or two a day, will defeat all efforts at conservative treatment of ingrowing nail. If you must put shoes on, cut out the upper around the affected toe, or wear only sandals that give the toes room, or go barefoot.

The radical treatment of ingrown nail, consists of injecting a local anesthetic as far back as the base of the toe and removing a wedge of tissue, including the entire edge of the nail and the flesh bordering it. The wound is put together

Matador Co-operative Farm Biggest Venture in Canada Composed of Only 17 Veterans

BY DON BANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MATADOR, Sask. (CP)—There is a neat crescent of 17 modern houses and a few nondescript buildings at Matador. Except for bald prairie clear to the horizon, there isn't much else.

The bungalows were built on this lonely site 10 years ago for an average $9,000 each. Now, they are rented for about $15 a month by farmers who earn $1,800 a year in wages and live in city-like comforts envied by most of their isolated country neighbors.

As a group, the 17 farmers here have close to $300,000 in assets. Besides buildings and machinery, they have their fingers on thousands of bushels of unsold grain, most of it piled uncovered on the ground.

But individually they have virtually nothing they can call their own and perhaps a car. They don't own land or a house or even a chicken.

STARTED IN 1946

That is the way the Matador Co-Operative Farm operates. It is the biggest co-operative farming venture in Canada.

The Matador farm was started in 1946 when the 17 service veterans pooled everything they had—Land Act grants, to lease 10,000 acres of pasture 45 miles north of Swift Current.

Written into each of the 17 separate leases was an option to purchase after 10 years. The provincial government now is attempting to evaluate the land, and within a few weeks each member must make a decision, which could make or break the project.

The farm is three miles wide and 10 miles long. Should two or three members decide to buy out, say, 400-acre strips, they would become private farmers in the middle of a co-op. There would be the problem of roads and power and telephone cutting through the Matador spread, and the co-op would have to change its farming scheme entirely.

Lack of personal security probably would be the chief obstacle for any withdrawals from the co-op. To compensate for that, the co-op now is attempting to draft some sort of superannuation plan.

VALUABLE ASSETS

Most farmers here claim that the Matador project has proved itself an economic one, considering the $34,000 original assets. Value of the machinery alone, including eight tractors and six combines—exceeds $90,000.

Each man has a share of the loan capital, which fluctuates because of the differences in initial investment. The members pay themselves $150 a month, and at the end of the year distribute dividends.

Farm expenses average $62,000 a year. After taxes, the profit is distributed according to the number of hours worked by each man. At Matador they keep a time-sheet for each member. The work is allocated at weekly meetings.

"I'm completely satisfied," said Lorne Dietrick, one of the originals. "I could never have done this well farming individually, and the same goes for the others."

Of course, two-crop farming isn't an answer to the agricultural crisis. We can't stand piling grain on the ground any better than a single farmer.

Pointed to the storage bins and the huge open piles.

"There's about 180,000 bushels sitting there. Even before we took off this year's crop, we figured it would take us three years to sell our grain on a delivery quota of eight bushels an acre."

START CATTLE HERD

To assure a more reliable cash income in the future, the farm is starting to build a cattle herd. It already has 200 head.

Questions are raised by some members. One complained that he can't supplement his income by living and working in town during the winter, and another built a house and land.

"I have a son who might want to be a farmer," said a third. "What can he do? The co-op is closed."

"You'll find more satisfaction here among the women than among the men," said Mr. Dietrick. The main reason for that is that almost all the wives are farmers' daughters who can appreciate what Matador has to offer—electric stoves, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners.

The women run their own stores, distributing milk and eggs free and buying most other food at wholesale prices. And here there is a community life, with little of the winter isolation which has helped produce thousands of "suitcase farmers" who spend their winters in town.

In one way, this social life is one of Matador's main weaknesses.

"In an agricultural slump, the individual farmer probably could take a far bigger beating much longer than we could," said member Bob O'Mara. "We're used to good living. Would this group stick with it, if it came to pork and beans seven days a week?"

BBC Program On Prostitution Most Frank

LONDON (Reuters)—The BBC in one of the frankest television programs ever screened, turned its spotlight Thursday night on the problem of prostitution.

It presented viewers with the case history of an imaginary good-time girl who becomes ensnared in the vice racket.

The program, called Without Love, traced the story of Jacky Hart, fictitious 19-year-old provincial girl from an unhappy home who has a liking for heavy make-up and sexy clothes.

Lured by the bright lights of the city, she goes to London to join a friend who works as a nightclub hostess. She has an illegitimate baby by an American soldier who deserts her, takes to drink, and ends up on the streets.

Street scenes showed heavily painted girls sauntering through London's crowded west end. They were actresses made up for the part and photographed by BBC camera men from passing cars.

The script for the 90-minute program was carefully checked by BBC executives before it went on the air.

One hour was devoted to the story of Jacky Hart and the remaining 30 minutes to a discussion of the problem by a panel of two women and three men, including a doctor and a lawyer. None put forward any solution.

Introducing the program, Mrs. Mary Adams, BBC director of television talks, told viewers: "I believe the BBC is right in presenting this program, and probably only the BBC could do it.

"Most people, when they discuss prostitution—if they do—dismiss it with a shudder or a joke. Here is a situation where the facts do not speak for themselves. They lie hidden behind court files, blue books (official publications) and police reports."

Colin Morris, who wrote the story of Jacky Hart, and Gilchrist Calder, the producer, interviewed scores of prostitutes in London and other big cities to gather material for the program.

'Three Wise Men' Say Powers Lag In Co-operation

PARIS (CP)—The report of the "three wise men" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, published today, accuses the big NATO powers of lagging behind in co-operation to an effective collective defence.

"Security is today far more than a military matter," the report says.

Ministers of the NATO council Thursday adopted the report of the "wise men"—the foreign ministers of Canada, Italy and Norway—aimed at promoting NATO non-military co-operation and alliance unity.

Conference sources indicated that some hard-hitting parts of their report—critical of some of the allies—were deleted.

The report says Atlantic political and economic co-operation "will not be brought about in a day." The process would be slow at the best, though steady and sure.

DEMANDS CO-OPERATION

"This will not be the case, however, unless the member governments—especially the more powerful ones—are willing to work in a much greater extent than hitherto, with and through NATO, for more than purposes of collective military defence."

Here are some of the main proposals which the Atlantic partners have agreed to implement:

1. A great increase in the status of the secretary-general, who will have the authority to take the initiative in trying to settle inter-member disputes.

2. Appointment of a committee of political advisers to make specific suggestions on ways of settling disputes.

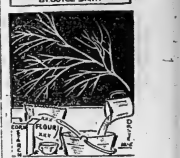
3. Authorization for the secretary-general to call on not more than three permanent representatives for their good offices in arbitrating disputes.

4. Appointment of economic consultants and recommendations for a closer relationship between parliamentary associations and NATO.

POLITICAL EMPHASIS

The three foreign ministers—Pearson of Canada, Lange of Norway and Martino of Italy—had to consider economic and social aspects as well as political ones, but the emphasis in their report was mainly on political consultation because of the psychological shock of the situation created by the Anglo-French Egyptian intervention.

Proposal No. 2 is the so-called "Canadian clause," which Pearson long has sought as part of the NATO co-operation.



The report says one of the long-term aims of NATO is to develop an Atlantic community with roots deeper than the need for mutual defence.

"If we are to secure this long-term aim, we must prevent the centrifugal forces of opposition or indifference from weakening the alliance," it says.

"NATO has not been destroyed, or even weakened, by the threats or attacks of its enemies. It has faltered at times through the lethargy or complacency of its members, through dissention or division between them, by putting first national consideration above the collective interest. It could be destroyed by these forces, if they were allowed to subsist."

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

The lovely tradition of greens in the house at Christmas goes back to primitive man who sought a blessing for his home through woodland spirits which he believed dwelt in all growing things. Add a touch of red to accent the greenness and tuck in a few bare white branches for a wonderfully festive look. (Whiten branches by dipping in paste of two cups cornstarch, one cup flour and enough water to make thick batter. Dry slowly).

Weddings

COOK—WILKINSON

White and mauve chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely setting in Christ church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 17, at 3.30 p.m., for a very pretty wedding, when the Rev. Everett P. Smith, assistant rector of the church, united in marriage, Leona Elizabeth Wilkinson of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilkinson, to William (Bill) Glen Cook, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cook. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, played the wedding music, and accompanied six choirboys who sang four hymns, led "The Lord's Prayer," during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of nylon tulle over taffeta in ballerina length, with fitted bodice and lace jacket having a standing collar and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in points over the wrists. She wore a matching lace cap and fingertip veil of tulle illusion, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Esther Wilkinson, attended her sister as bridesmaid, attired in orchid tulle over taffeta in ballerina length with matching lace jacket. She carried yellow and bronze 'mums, and wore a matching headdress.

Mr. Robert Hughes of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Ronald Giles, of Ameliasburgh and Richard Laney of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Cook Gardens, Cannifton Road, where the bride's mother, attired in grey wool with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore blue wool with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, and flanked by the bridal bouquets.

For travelling to Brockville, Smiths Falls, and Ottawa, the bride chose a cornflower blue wool ensemble with black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are residing in Kingston.

Guests were present from Toronto, Deseronto and Kingston.

The bride was the honored guest, previous to her marriage, at a presentation given by the Loblaw staff of which she was a member, of a beautiful jewellery set and lingerie. A miscellaneous shower was also held for the couple at Tobe's County Gardens by their many friends of the Massassaga and Rossmore communities.

Needles Do Not Fall off Balsam Christmas Tree

OTTAWA (CP)—In the remembered days father shouldered his axe and tramped through heavy snowy woods to select and cut his own Christmas tree.

But times have changed. Christmas trees have become a commodity usually bought on a corner lot and trundled home with the groceries a few days before Christmas.

However, few persons who buy Christmas trees nowadays know what they are buying, say forestry experts in the federal resources department.

"Get a Christmas tree" is a ratner ambiguous command—but one often found on shopping lists. Sometimes the added details call for a tree small enough to sit on a table, or tall enough to reach from the living-room floor to the ceiling.

TYPES OF TREES

What happens if one gets choosy about a Christmas tree and demands a balsam fir, spoken plane-douglas fir or a spruce?

These are the most popular types of evergreens sold for Christmas trees. Their needles, and sometimes the bark, provide the best means of identification. Forestry experts suggest these tests for identification:

If the needles can be rolled easily between the fingers, the tree is a spruce. If the needles are soft and won't roll, it's a balsam fir.

Scotch pine has short, bluish-green needles growing two needles in a bundle and its bark is reddish - brown. White pine needles grow in bundles of five.

Red pine has long needles and a light red bark, and jack pine is recognized by its short, yellowish-green needles and greyish-brown bark. Both the red and jack pine carry their needles in bundles of two.

Falling needles create another problem. It's an unhappy holiday when a housewife realizes her Christmas tree is no longer a gay and green decoration, but a useless skeleton.

PRESERVING FRESHNESS

Buying a balsam fir helps solve the needle - falling problem. Its needles don't fall off.

Another way to preserve a tree is to keep it outside until it is needed, then place it in a waterfilled tree stand inside the house.

Firmly anchoring a tree in water and placing it away from heat is a step toward fire prevention, says Ottawa's Chief Maynard Dolman. Christmas lights, decorations, toys, and wrappings are potential fire hazards.

Chief Dolman urges use of approved lighting sets and an annual check for frayed wires, loose connections, broken sockets, overloaded fuses and circuits.

Decorations should be made of non-combustible materials, electric trains shouldn't be set up under Christmas trees, and wrapping paper shouldn't be allowed to accumulate, he said.

New Quebec Code To Give Women Equal Status

MONTREAL (CP) — Rt. Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret, former chief justice of Canada and now chairman of a commission to revise the Quebec Civil Code, says his report will recommend that men and women be given equal status before the law in the new code.

Mr. Rinfret told a meeting of the Montreal Council of Women Wednesday that the present Civil Code, drafted by Napoleon III and his commissioners in 1866, is the enemy of married women.

"There might have been some excuse for accepting it at the time, but life and mentality have changed greatly since then," he said. "The law must be adopted to our complicated modern civilization."

His report probably would not be ready for five years. He has been at work on the code for more than a year.

The Quebec code had long been criticized for its common property clauses, which make it legally impossible for a married woman to hold property separately from her husband unless a special contract is arranged at the time of marriage.

CONVENTION CHAIRMAN

IODE Giving Comfort Bags To Refugees

TORONTO (CP) —Hungarian refugees coming to Canada are receiving colorful little gifts of articles that, to them, must be sheer luxury.

The gifts are comfort bags, presented by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. They contain toilet goods—soap, towels, toothbrushes — not enjoyed by some refugees for weeks.

Mrs. R. C. Latimer co-ordinates the efforts of more than 32,000 women, in 971 IODE chapters from St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver in Operation Comfort Bags.

"We offered to prepare the bags for distribution by the Red Cross after Immigration Minister Pickersgill said last week that the refugees needed toilet articles badly. We plan to have 10,000 prepared and shipped by Jan. 31."

If you want to help patchen in a hurry, let them stand in boiling water for 15 minutes before putting them in the oven.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

THE SECRET OF BEAUTY—SERENITY!

"Relaxation's the key to good looks" . . . Claire Luce.

If you were to ask one of the most dazzlingly beautiful women of the theatre for her most precious beauty secret, you'd get a surprising answer—serenity.

Claire Luce, maintains Claire Luce, whose beauty is acclaimed internationally, is the most valuable factor today in any woman's good looks simply because it is the one which has the greatest beneficence on her entire life in these hectic, disturbing times.

Does that smack of philosophy? Well, to quote Miss Luce: "You have to acquire a good, tough philosophy to get along. Learning to control your mental reactions is, I believe, the first problem to be faced in the irksome business of living."

This is not easy, she admits, but the philosophical approach to troubles can be learned. "When I say 'philosophical,' I mean 'acceptance' to a certain extent. I believe very deeply in trying hard for what you want, but some times we fight too hard for things." She is sure that "eventually you'll get the things you truly want." You, of course, will have to help. But allow a reasonable amount of time, keep working, and don't get wrinkles trying to realize your dreams overnight.

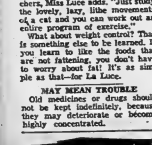
To put this high thinking on a very simple, practical basis, we'll say you have suddenly decided to do something about your figure. Undoubtedly you have seen Miss Luce in one or the other of her many dazzling stage performances and, undoubtedly, you'll see her when she makes her forthcoming nation-wide tour in a one-woman show titled "The Bodies Called Love." Her figure is tough to make the average woman decide it's time to make changes.

"But if you do, don't take up strenuous exercises or dieting. Miss Luce is a great disbeliever in the strenuous.

She did a great deal of ballet work, and still does, and thinks it has no match for giving a gracefully-proportioned figure. "Of course, there's a lot of stretching in all ballet," she observes, "and there is the lift one gets from the music."

She suggests you do your calisthenics to music and get in as many stretchers as you can possibly manage, like the back of a straight chair for a practice rail, and hold onto it while you bend sideward and toe for those high side and back kicks. Do the bending and lifting in a slow-motion manner to give your muscles a thorough, but easy, stretch.

An exercise of which Miss Luce does heartily approve is this simple one: Lie on your back on the floor, arms out at sides, knees flexed, and feet on floor close to hips with toes pointed to arch the feet. Keep small of back flat against floor and toes pointed as you slowly slide the feet on the floor. "This gives the body an terrific stretch," she says.



Every time you pass through a doorway, you can give yourself a wonderful stretch. Just reach up with both hands and grasp the framework above the door with your fingertips, so that you feel it all through your muscular network. Hold it for a second, then relax.

Cafeteers should have no difficulty in devising their own stretchers, Miss Luce adds. "Just study the lovely, lazy, lithe movements of a cat and you can work out an exlire program of exercise."

What about weight control? That is something to be learned. If you learn to like the foods that are not fattening, you don't have to worry about fat! It's as simple as that—for La Luce.

WEDDING PROBLEMS WHEN BRIDE'S PARENTS ARE DIVORCED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've read your letters to others, and have felt they must have been greatly helped by your understanding answers. Now I'm facing serious problems myself, and I would deeply appreciate your help. I am divorced and have remarried. My first husband has not re-married. We have a daughter who has lived with me since the divorce, but spends some time with her father. They are fond of each other, and congenial. But he does not speak to me. Now, he's soon to announce her engagement. How should the newspaper engagement announcement be worded: "Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Smith, who is the daughter of Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Henry Brown" or "Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Smith's daughter, Miss Mary Smith"? Or is there a better way?

2. Should the bridegroom's father and I share the wedding expenses equally—or should the question of which the bride's parents normally assume? He is more financially able than I am, but I've always been more liberal than he has.

3. My daughter would want both her father and her stepfather in the receiving line at the reception. How would we take our places?

Mother

1. In your circumstances this is an excellent and very-often used form for the newspaper announcement of the engagement:

"Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Smith, daughter of Mrs. Henry Brown, of this city, and of Mr. John Smith, of Nearby City, to Mr. Arthur Hall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, of....." (Other details may be added, as to schools, colleges, positions, and so forth.)

2. You and your daughter's father must solve this problem by sharing wedding expenses. However, since the bride-to-be and her father are food of each other and she spends some time with him, I believe (and hope) they will discuss this problem of expenses and will arrive at a fair and friendly solution.

3. It is not customary and definitely not good procedure for the bride's father and stepfather to be in the receiving line. Usually, when the bride has both a father and a stepfather, neither is a member of the receiving-line (both mingling with the guests, making introductions), and rightly so. You and your husband would be hosts at the reception and the bride's father would be an important guest. Since you and your former husband are on such unfriendly terms, you and your daughter must give serious thought to the plans for the wedding procedure, so that there will be as little awkwardness as possible.

ON MAN'S GIFT, INITIAL OF HIS LAST NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When buying a handkerchief or a necktie for a man, which initial is usually chosen—"J" for John or "S" for Smith? — R.

For a man's gift the initial of his last name is usually chosen — "S" for Smith. (The initial of the first name for a girl or woman . . . "M" for Mary.)

DRAPED DESIGN

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The good black dress is having a fine time of it this season, being well represented by striking models from the leading designers here and abroad. Black silk crepe is used for a frock that is extremely slim despite the draping which is beautifully asymmetric. The neckline is deep and square and the sleeves are short. Seaming shapes the long torso bodice and the line of draping starts from a rosette of the fabric placed high at one side of the bodice. The drapery extends past the seaming at the hips to fall in a cascade of graceful folds to the slim hem.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOME MEN ARE INCURABLE IN THIS FOOLISHNESS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I don't think I'm the jealous type, but I must say I get very annoyed with my boy friend because he notices every girl he sees and comments on how pretty she is and what a nice figure she has. While we're not engaged yet, this fellow and I expect to marry soon, and he's very handsome and ambitious, and seems to have a fine future ahead of him. Perhaps all this should satisfy me, but this habit of commenting on other girls has begun to get me down.

I don't dare say anything about it to him, because I know he'll think I'm jealous. Perhaps you could tell me what the smartest way is to handle the matter? I don't think it would be right to start pointing out to him every handsome man we see. — Lenlie

Dear Louise:

Maybe it would be smart of you to do just exactly that—begin pointing out and commenting on the men you see when you're out with this chap. It might make him realize how annoying such a habit can be.

On the other hand, you might simply laugh it off and refuse to let it assume so much importance in your life.

Of course it's perfectly true that there are men who are incurable in regard to giving girls the eye. Actually, with most of them, the girls they comment on mean actually nothing except the passing pleasure of seeing a pretty face, a trim figure and a slim ankle. But any young woman who marries a man of this type might just as well make up her mind that she is going to have to listen to these comments forever, so if it gets on your nerves, you had better be warned in time.

And just one more thing:

Don't kid yourself that there is not at least a little bit of jealousy in the feelings you have, because you wouldn't be human otherwise. If, however, you'll just remember that jealousy is almost always a sign of lack of self-confidence; that the jealous woman doesn't feel quite sure she's holding her man, it may clarify things for you. The wife who is perfectly certain that she really is first in her husband's heart can take this with complete indifference or the childish thing it is and not be upset by it.

TOU CAN help preserve the looks and life of your mud-collecting man's non-washable jacket by sponging off dust and dirt with a damp—not wet—cloth. Do it at night, to give the surface a good chance to dry. Brush a velvet jacket carefully and often.

MISSION BAND

MARSH HILL — The Christmas meeting of the Marsh Hill Mission Band was held Friday night in the Marsh Hill School, with 15 members present.

The president, Marilyn Finkle, opened the meeting with a reading "When Jesus was Born," after which all sang, "Away in a Manger" and then Marilyn led in prayer.

The following Christmas program was presented: piano duet, "Now Sing We All Merrily" by Linda Finkle and her mother, Mrs. Leslie Finkle; recitation, "Christmas is Coming" by Carolyn Finkle; a reading, "Christmas", by Carol Lankfield; piano solo, "Jingle Bells" by Elizabeth Finkle, a reading, "The Meaning of Christmas", by Gwenda Detlor; a reading, "Christmas Night", by Harold Finkle; piano solo, "The First Noel", by Marilyn Finkle; Elaine Lindenfield read the Christmas story, "What the Shepherds Say".

Mrs. Harold Detlor, leader of the Mission Band, thanked the members and mothers for their co-operation during the year. She told the children that she had sent the bale. Mrs. Detlor also gave two chapters from the study book, "The Secret" and "The Christmas Party."

After singing, "Little Helpers for Jesus" all repeated the Lord's Prayer.

At this time each member received a bag of candy.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I would greatly appreciate it if you could send me the recipe for your 1954 Christmas cake. . . we all liked that . . . I am planning a buffet lunch—cold meat cuts, fresh vegetable salad, my own frozen corn on the cob, mince-meat tarts, Christmas cake etc. . . . Is that right for that time of evening . . . I want something more special than sandwiches.—Mrs. H. L. F.

ANSWER:

EMEN'S 1954 CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

One lb. each chopped citron peel, mixed red and green glace cherries, seeded Valencia raisins, light Sultana raisins, dark Sultana raisins, 1-3 lb. each currants, blanched almonds chopped, choice pecans, butter, brown sugar; 1 20-oz. can crushed pineapple, 3 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon each baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, or teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 6 eggs, 1-2 cup sweet cider or canned apple juice. Leave cherries and pecans whole. Sift together the flour, baking powder and spices. Measure out 1 cup. Have all fruits (except pineapple) and nuts in very large bowl and dredge them with the 1 cup of flour-mixture until well coated. Cream the butter until very light, beat in sugar accordingly. Line them with triple wax paper and butter last layer. Bake at 275 deg. F. for about 3 to 3 1-4 hours, with waterpan under them all the time. Water will be replenished about three times.

I think you should omit the mixture of flour and corn on the cob. You should tell your guests that they are being served a substantial repast after choir practice.

They'll sing all the better on empty stomachs anyway! Ure all your Christmas leftovers and serve a big bowl of molded red jelly to give the food Christmas color.

QUESTION:

I enjoy reading your recipes . . . could you send me recipes for Pickled Eggs, Pickled Wieners and Pickled Polish Sausage? . . . would like to do these down soon but am afraid there are too many requests ahead of mine.—Mrs. E. M.

ANSWER:

We are burning the midnight oil here to keep the letters answered.

PICKLED EGGS

Hard cook 18 eggs, starting them in cold water to cover and simmering 30 minutes. Drain, chill and remove shells. Boil together 4 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoon each dry mustard, salt, pepper (and if desired 1 bay leaf and slice of onion), for five minutes. Pour vinegar in glass jar with spices left in. Drop in eggs. Cover and let stand at least ten days in refrigerator. S.O.S. treasurer—I have not heard of pickled wieners or Polish sausage. Would readers who have this come to our rescue, please?

DREW'S FAREWELL SPEECH

The camera catches George Drew's facial expressions as he addressed the Progressive Conservative convention called in Ottawa to elect his successor as national leader of the party. Mr. Drew's address was his first public appearance since severe nervous and physical fatigue forced him to leave last summer's session of the House of Commons before it ended. He told the convention he stepped down from the national leadership with disappointment he could not conceal. (CP Photo).

Chief's Dismissal At Grimsby Still Not Decided

TORONTO. (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal reserved judgment Thursday on the question of whether a municipal council has power to dismiss a chief constable without a hearing.

Centre of the case is William Johnston. He was dismissed as chief constable of Grimsby last May by the town council and was not given a hearing or reason for his dismissal.

M. A. Seymour, counsel for the town, said the chief constable is a municipal officer as well as an officer of the crown, and that a council does have power to delegate authority to him. Thus, Mr. Seymour added, he is a municipal officer who holds his job "at the pleasure of council."

Mr. Justice Laidlaw said "you can't dismiss a man as chief constable unless you also dismiss him as a constable, and you can't do that without a hearing."

W. C. Bowman, representing the attorney-general's office, said the Police Act and its regulations set a code of offences for which a chief or an officer can be dismissed by council.

"But," he said, "there is absolute prohibition against dismissal without hearing."

H. F. Gibson, counsel for the Chief Constables' Association, said the chief constable and other officers are not dependent on council for authority, but have power as municipal police anywhere in Ontario.

GALAXIES CREATED IN TEST TUBE

These sequence photos offer for the first time experimental evidence of the possible origin of the infinite universe of stars and galaxies. The photos show the evolution of a miniature eight-armed "galaxy" which was formed in a small glass chamber at the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J. It was "created" by a specially designed "atomic gun" which shot electrified atomic particles carrying both negative and positive charges into a tremendous magnetic field. Dr. Winston Bostick, 40, head of the physics department at Stevens Institute, was the first to observe this phenomenon and has been able to "create" all the principle formations of the "island universes" that go to make up the cosmos. Thus in a fraction of a second the laboratory can simulate an evolutionary process that takes billions of years. (Central Press Canadian).

Finland's Former President Dies

HELSINKI (AP)—John Paasikivi, Finland's president from 1946 until last February, died today. He was 86.

Paasikivi had a long political career going back to the days before the First World War when Finland was still a part of Russia. When the Bolsheviks granted Finland independence, he served as the first premier.

He was born Nov. 27, 1870, in Tammerfors, the son of a businessman. He studied in Finland and Russia and later taught at Helsinki University. From 1914 to 1934 he was also head of a big commercial bank.

In 1944 he became premier again and was named president two years later to succeed the national hero, Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim. Four years later he was re-elected to an unprecedented second term.

Paasikivi had considerable influence with the Russians. Even Stalin apparently respected his abilities.

RETIRED LAST YEAR

His death was due to a heart condition. He retired from the presidency at the end of his second term last February, and was taken to hospital late last month.

MORE VISITORS

LONDON (CP)—In the first 10 months this year Britain welcomed 1,065,000 visitors from overseas, a seven - per - cent increase over the same period of 1955. This is the first year in which the 1,000,000 - mark has been passed by the end of October.

Won't Ask Recount

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—After correspondence with Most Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of London, lawyer Cameron Killoran said Thursday he would not ask for a recount in last week's separate school board election when he was defeated for Ward 4 seat by four votes by Dr. Cyril Sullivan.

Mr. Killoran had charged Msgr. J. A. Feeney, paid secretary-treasurer of the board and rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, had "plugged" parishioner Dr. Sullivan in his church bulletin. He said he was making a protest to the bishop.

Msgr. Feeney denied using undue influence.

Mr. Killoran said Thursday "I feel that the cause of better education of our children and the interest of taxpayers have been submerged in the resultant controversies...."

Prime Minister Nehru Leaves For Washington

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru left today for talks in Washington with President Eisenhower which many Indians feel could be the most important he has ever undertaken with a foreign statesman.

The talks will take place at a time when goodwill for the United States in India is the highest in many years because of American policy in the Middle East crisis.

Eisenhower is held in highest regard here, and the fact that he appears to have played a dominant role in his country's foreign policy recently has led to optimistic hopes that the discussions will inaugurate a new era of Indian-American co-operation.

CO-OPERATIVE APPROACH

No major policy changes are expected, but political circles here believe there is a possibility of a co-operative approach developing on the Middle East crisis.

The Chinese Communist prime minister, Chou En-lai, who has just concluded a visit to India, gave in statements at a press conference almost a free hand to Nehru to speak for China in Washington.

Nehru is convinced that China should be admitted to the United Nations, and he believes that the U.S. should recognize the Peiping regime.

Nehru also believes that the West should encourage liberalizing tendencies in Communist countries, but should not do anything that might force the Soviet Union to return to Stalinist ways, which he sees based mainly on fear that the West intends to wipe out communism.

HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN

Increasing numbers of boys and girls from Ontario and many other parts of Canada come to the Hospital for Sick Children each day. A bad burn brought two-year-old Diane to the hospital for skin grafting, but even the plaster cast she now wears has not dulled her interest in pretty dresses. The cost of caring for Diane and the thousands of other children who come to the hospital each year is constantly increasing. This means that the hospital's revenue from all sources is always less than its costs. Deficit this year is $231,925—slightly larger than last year—and it is this loss that is being met by friends of the hospital who are sending their cheques to the Christmas appeal. Please send donations to The Hospital for Sick Children, 555 University Avenue, Toronto.

Criticizes Help For 'Aggressors' And Not Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt's foreign minister Thursday criticized moves to provide economic aid for Britain and France—"the aggressors"—while "hardly anything" is being said about helping Egypt to recover from war damage.

At the same time, Mahmoud Fawzi disclosed that Egypt has interned 1,373 British, French and Jews in Egypt "for valid reasons of public security." He also reported in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon that "only 280 stateless Jews" have been ordered deported.

Fawzi said he made these statements to dispel what he called "a very dark and disturbing picture which has been portrayed abroad about Jews, Frenchmen and Britons in Egypt." He noted there are 66,000 Jews in Egypt, 11,000 British subjects and 7,000 French residents. Of this number, he said, 740 Frenchmen have been interned, 713 Britons and 120 Jews.

Frogman, Jeep Combine to Recover Purse

KINGSTON (CP) —A frogman and a jeep combined Thursday to prevent Mrs. Whilamina Mary Klages from having an unlucky 13th and giftless Christmas.

The pair were called into action after Mrs. Klages, a cook aboard the freighter Franklin Brown from Fort William, dropped her purse containing $660 in cash, money orders and travellers cheques into Lake Ontario.

The jeep and several bystanders pushed the Franklin Brown away from the dock. The frogman, Ronald Huff, climbed into a rubber suit, dropped into the icy water and reappeared a minute later with the purse, soggy but intact.

"On January 13th," said Mrs. Klages, "I'll stay in bed."

Withdraws Claims

LONDON (Reuters) — British novelist Evelyn Waugh Thursday withdrew his damage claim against author Rosecca West and the court agreed that records of the libel case should also be withdrawn.

Waugh had complained that Miss West suggested in The Meaning of Treason that he implied in his novels that dissolute people were more worthy than virtuous ones.

The judge pointed out that on receiving Waugh's complaint, the defendants immediately withdrew unsold copies of the book and promised not to issue any others that contained the offending passages.

TUG SINKS, 2 RESCUED

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Two men were rescued Thursday when the tug Swiftsure V sank in Cadboro Bay, six miles north of Victoria, owners of the tug said here.

PC Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—John Higgins, delegate from St. John's, Nfld., apologized for his hoarse voice Thursday while speaking from the floor of the Progressive Conservative convention. "If I was home I would have had a couple of drinks of good Newfoundland rum last night and would have been able to speak with a silver tongue."

Most of the proposed resolutions were passed at top speed. Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who had presented a resolution on low-rental housing, was leaving the platform about an hour later. At that moment her resolution was put to the convention. Before she could climb back to the platform it had been passed.

Mayor Whitton, dropping out of civic politics at the end of the year, told a reporter asking about her immediate plans that she's going to head south for a little while and take a rest before she looks into the future.

Mrs. Grace Hartman of Sudbury, who successfully appealed to the convention to state its stand on family allowances, told a reporter she has no children. "I'm just interested in other people's families."

QUEBEC MINISTER DIES

LEVIS, Que. (CP) — Tancrede Labbe, 69, minister without portfolio in the provincial cabinet, died Thursday night in hospital here. Mr. Labbe, a Union Nationale cabinet minister since 1944, suddenly became ill while driving to his home at Thetford Mines. Mr. Labbe, a grocery wholesaler and mayor of Thetford Mines, was first elected in 1931 and 1935 and for one term in 1947, was first elected to the legislative assembly in 1935.

Police Caught Girl Trying to Play Santa

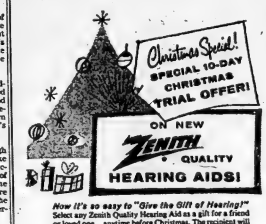
TORONTO (CP) — An 11-year-old girl who tried to play Santa Claus to her four fatherless brothers was caught shop-lifting Thursday, but police are assuring the five will have lots of presents.

The girl and two of her younger brothers were found in a shop with toys they had not paid for. She said their father had deserted the family last August and since then she was afraid her mother would have no money for presents.

At her York Township home police found games, cowboy sets and other toys, wrapped and labelled for her four brothers. Not one was for herself.



The township police placed the girl on probation and said they will take care of the family's Christmas.

CARRIED MAIL

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Trans-Canada Air Lines plane missing on a flight from Vancouver to Eastern Canada since Sunday night carried 871 pounds of mail and freight, TCA and post office officials said the load consisted of 37 bags of letters, 831 pounds of flowers, television film and electrical equipment, and 90 pounds of express parcels.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was coming home from the market with a dime change in my pocket, and I took it out to see if I could guess the date on it, thinking. Oh boy, I bet it will be good luck if I guess it exactly right.

And I guessed 1903, and I looked to see, and it was 1853, and just then the dime rolled out of my fingers and out of site while I was still trying to watch where it went. Proving at least it was bad luck to guess wrong, and I hunted for about 10 minutes, thinking Heck, gosh shang the luck, and Lucky Leroy Shoorter came up, saying, What did you lose?

A dime, and it's gone, I said. Even you couldn't find it, I said.

Him being a famous lucky finder, and he said, I bet I can, but I wont even try unless you give me half if I find it.

It's not my dime, I said, and Lucky said, Then owe me half.

Well, okay, I said. Heck, that'll be twice as good as having the whole thing took out of my allowance, I said.

Probably being just what it would be took out of, and we both started to hunt without either of us finding it, and all of a sudden Lucky Leroy found a nickel, and I said, Hay, half of that belongs to me. You were working for me when you found it, so you found it on my time, I said, and he said, Then I resign from your time, and that means past and present, and my father is a lawyer so I ought to know.

Being what he always says to win arguments, and he walked away, and I thought, Heck, I'm going to keep on looking for that dime if it takes the rest of my life.

Which it didn't, only taking about 10 more minutes and proving if you do all your own work yourself it may take longer but you get more done.

HIT JACKPOT IN MANITOBA

Prospector Walter Johnson, 69, doesn't have to remember far back to recollect the days when he was broke and even hungry. For most of his 32 years as prospector, he was more often broke than wealthy. But now his wealth runs to six figures and even that is small compared to the $175,000,000 the International Nickel Company will spend on the claims bought from him. Johnson headed a syndicate which stocked the claims around Moak Lake, Man., which will eventually rival Inco's nickel development in Sudbury. He still retains other claims in the area which, with the money he now has, he will drill and perhaps uncover even greater wealth. (Central Press Canadian).

Tribe Split Over Boundary

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—A Canadian chief of the St. Regis Indians Thursday offered to smoke the peace pipe with U.S. members of the tribe who are seeking to oust the Canadians from land south of the border.

Chief Frank Leaf called on members of the tribe on both sides of the international boundary to look on each other as "one people and one blood.' Leaf is elected chief of the Canadian Indians but lives on the U.S. side of the reservation.

He made his plea following disclosure Wednesday that the U.S. St. Regis Indians have gone to court in a move to keep the Canadian members of the tribe in Canada.

The U.S.-Canadian boundary bisects the St. Regis Indian reservation, about 70 miles east of here.

ELECTION PLATFORM INTRODUCED AT CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

Ottawa's Coliseum is crowded as 1,400 delegates to the Progressive Conservative convention discuss and consider qualifications of candidates for leadership. The convention, in between cam-paign speeches, argued the merits of the new party election platform, a 21-page report of the policy committee which aimed at both reducing and boosting expenditures. (Central Press Canadian).

Quebec Delegates Taking 'Anti-Diefenbaker' Stand

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A virtual boycott of Quebec delegates by John Diefenbaker in his bid for the Progressive Conservative leadership is not expected to cause more than a ripple in a mounting wave of support for the Saskatchewan lawyer-MP.

Most of the Quebec delegation, obviously critical that Mr. Diefenbaker did not choose a French-speaking mover or seconder of his nomination at the party's national convention, decided at a caucus Thursday night to take "an anti-Diefenbaker" stand.

Later, during the nomination speeches by the three leadership candidates, this Quebec group, about 325 out of a possible 342 voting delegates from the province, cheered wildly and sang for their favorite, Donald Fleming, MP for Toronto Eglinton, or applauded politely for Davie Fulton, MP for Kamloops, B.C.; and Sen. in story silence for Mr. Diefenbaker.

SPOKE IN FRENCH

Apparently conscious of the Quebecers' mood, Mr. Diefenbaker broke into a halting French in one of the rare times he has spoken in that language on a public platform and said:

"I want to say thank you. I am still your friend and shall always be your friend."

There was a scattering of applause from the Quebec delegation corner and from other parts of the convention hall. Then Mr. Diefenbaker, still struggling in French, pledged himself to defend the rights, privileges and language of French Canada.

Quebec's discontent stems mainly from the choice of Mr. Diefenbaker's mover and seconder. Premier Flemming of New Brunswick, who proposed Mr. Diefenbaker's nomination in both French and English, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., who apologized in one sentence of French to the delegates for his inability to speak the language.

Some Quebec delegates have intimated privately that they stood a better chance of obtaining greater support from the electorate with a leader other than Mr. Diefenbaker.

After the convention adjourned George Hees, MP for Toronto Broadview and a leading supporter of Mr. Diefenbaker, said he had not expected the Prince Albert candidate to take more than 30 or 40 votes from Quebec delegates.

FAVORED FLEMING

However, he said that at the convention that selected retiring leader George Drew in 1948, the Quebec delegation had appeared to be against Mr. Drew and in favor of Mr. Fleming.

In the 18 hours before the voting the Quebec delegation, aware of the widespread support Mr. Drew had in other sections of the country, had rallied to his support side. Mr. Drew was elected party leader on the first ballot.

Mr. Hees predicted a Diefenbaker victory on the first ballot.

Some Quebec delegates said their group would await the result of the first ballot before deciding which of the other two candidates they would support en masse.

They reached their decision in a 45-minute caucus in a smoky committee room from which reporters were barred.

EVERYTHING "ROSY"

Leo Boivin, MP for Trois-Rivieres who is president of the National Association and conducting the caucus, presided at the caucus, which he described as "a family affair." He declined to make any comment other than to say "everything was rosy."

But before the meeting he said the Quebec delegates were "divided and vexed" by Mr. Diefenbaker's decision not to have a French-speaking seconder like the other two candidates.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in an enthusiastic reply to this criticism, told the convention that when the late R. B. Bennett was chosen party leader in 1927 the mover of his nomination came from New Brunswick and the seconder from the West.

Mr. Bennett went on to become elected prime minister in 1930, the last time the Conservatives gained power. The Hon. Diefenbaker said, had been a winning combination which he hoped to repeat.

Mr. Hees, Mr. Balcer's predecessor as national president of the PC Association, said Mr. Balcer's statement was "very foolish thing. As president of the association he should not have expressed himself in that way."

Inside Red China

Lu Ku Centre of Sino-Soviet Development After Landlords Dispossessed of Their Lands

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

PEIPING (AP)—Lu Ku is a shabby mud-walled village outside Peiping which looks as though it has not changed in the last thousand years.

But behind the sun-baked walls on the unpaved street where the mule carts raise a cloud of brown dust, lives have been altered and traditions shattered.

Now a propaganda poster is pasted to the wall of an outdoor latrine. There are telephone wires over the street and a red star over the door of the meeting hall.

Lu Ku is the centre of the Sino-Soviet friendship agricultural co-operative. It is a sample of the socialization which has transformed the lives of 108,000,000 families in China and, to all appearances, brought them abruptly the minimum subsistence level that has haunted Chinese peasants for 5,000 years.

EARN $222 A YEAR

Now a family in Lu Ku, by hard-tilling the soil seven days a week for eight months and working with a mule cart on contract loan projects for the other four, can earn the equivalent of $222 in a good year. Even in China this is not much money, but it is more than the peasants of Lu Ku have ever had before.

Without benefit of machinery, workers from the 19 villages which comprise the communal farm have by official report increased production from the time-worn soil by 600 per cent since socialization.

Hoping to see a not-too-rifled picture of China's hand reform, I had asked to visit a small co-operative. The next day I was driven to the Sino-Soviet, a thriving establishment of 1,504 families 45 minute caucus in a smoky com-miles from the heart of Peiping.

Everything this could be interpreted as small by Peiping standards, for this is "Liberation Year" co-operative movement that has since swept across 110,000 villages. Co-operatives here are no longer new.

KNOWS HER FACTS

A director named Kuo Chen told of the co-operative's development. His practised, sing-song recitation never hesitated for a fact or statistic. Mrs. Kuo Chen, a widow, spent some story many times to many visitors.

Both wizened women with nine-tine-stained teeth and head-scarfed faces framed feet rivalled modded approvingly as Kuo Chen spoke glowingly of the future. The women were among the 15 members of the management committee, which with Kuo Chen and four vice-directors is elected by the peasants in the co-op. decisions on crops and methods for the 6,400 persons in the co-op.

Landlords were dispossessed and land redistributed on a communal standard among peasants in 1950. In 1951, said Kuo Chen, the village families formed two mutual aid teams of five families each, retaining their own produce of land but working in concert on them.

Last year, production of grain, by official reckoning, was six times the amount produced by individual labor. The average family income climbed from less than 200 yuan a year to 1,332 yuan ($222).

The surrounding villages combined into one advanced co-op of 15,000 mou (about 3,000 acres). All but animals and farm equipment were pooled into common ownership. Animals, also, were sold only for labor contributed.

Kuo Chen was asked what happened to the landlords who once owned the village.

"The landlords and the rich peasants now are in the co-operative," he replied.

"With equal privileges?"

"Oh, no. They're third-class comrades."

Second and third-class co-op members have no voting rights in community matters, and are paid on a salary basis.

Among the co-op's new assets are five new schools for 1,260 children, a fully equipped clinic, a co-operative general store selling merchandise at city prices, and a short-range radio transmitter supplying music and news of a sort through village radios and loud-speakers in the street.

The next step, Kuo Chen explained, was to mechanize the co-op with surplus funds accumulated in the last year.

The chances of the village had not yet reached the fields. Here groups of men squatted, cleaning the ground by hand for fall plant-ing. A blindfolded horse plodded in a slow circle, turning an irrigation waterwheel.

BOUNDARIES REMOVED

But family boundaries between the minuscule fields had been removed, and now the divisions were several acres apart.

Women play a large part in the field work, do lighter work and have shorter hours than the seven-day-week sunrise-to-sunset shift worked by the men.

One of the few women who did not do farm work was Liu Shu-ching, 55-year-old grandmother.

"Before the liberation we had nothing, no land, no money," she said. "Now look."

In the house were two wooden beds, a smoking coal stove, a dirt floor and a picture of Mao Tse-tung stuck to the flaking plaster wall. Along one wall was the big brick kang, heated by a bed of coals underneath, where five persons slept. No decorations, no amenities, just the barest of essentials in one room.

PC Platform Will Require Huge Expenditures

OTTAWA (CP) — A sweeping new Progressive Conservative platform—one that would require huge federal expenditures—took shape Thursday night as it was the hope of one critical group that it may finally lead the party to an election victory.

"Workers and adherents of our party," said the Toronto Daily Star Conservative Association, "are tired of being cast in the role of permanent opposition and expect in the forthcoming election to be provided with a platform that will show why a Conservative government should be elected."

The club was what the party's 162-member policy and resolutions committee tried to do in presenting the convention with 21 pages of proposed resolutions and principles for adoption. But though most of the proposals were expected, differences arose from the floor on a number of issues. Some had to be held over for review and discussion.

HEADED IT OFF

The committee resolved with most of the proposals getting convention approval with little argument. But on one point the delegates appeared to be heading for a major battle. Over the objections of the committee on social benefits, opposition developed to put it against the allowances but is opposed to increases, feeling more urgent increases, such as for old-age pensions, are needed at this time.

But he moved to insert a statement into the platform to the effect that the party support the baby bonuses to head off any suggestion that the Conservatives do not approve of them.

Canadian Girl Washed Ashore As Yacht Sinks

MADRID (Reuters)—A 13-year-old Canadian girl was found ashore on a Spanish beach Thursday after being washed ashore from a wrecked yacht in which her parents, her brother and two British sailors died.

She was identified as Anita Goertz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helmuth Goertz of Victoria, B.C., who were drowned when their 45-ton yacht, Goodeave-Michel —bound from Britain to the Mediterranean on a honeymoon trip—foundered in a storm Thursday morning.

Also dead were Anita's 18-year-old brother, Richard, and two sailors, said to be British.

JOHN DIEFENBAKER

John Diefenbaker, a wiry, vigorous Saskatchewan lawyer who left his belt 16 years of prominent parliamentary service and two unsuccessful attempts, to win Progressive Conservative leadership when he decided this year to try again for the party's top post.

He entered the Commons in 1940 from a law career and became his party's spokesman on foreign affairs and western agriculture.

He placed third among five candidates for the Conservative leadership in 1942, and ran second in a three-way race at the 1948 convention which chose Hon. George Drew who resigned this year through illness.

EARLY DISAPPOINTMENT

But the 61-year-old MP from Prince Albert, Sask., came close to dropping out of politics altogether 17 years ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker likes to tell how he was nominated in 1929 in his Saskatchewan constituency of Lake Centre which gave him his first election success and set-back.

Until then he had had little luck in politics. Then in the fall of 1926, he had tried and failed to enter the Conservative fold. He contested Conservative leader in Saskatchewan but lost a bid to enter the legislature.

He says he was practically through with politics at that point but went to the Lake Centre nomination meeting only to back his backers. Instead, he was named candidate and since has won three straight elections.

Before the 1953 election, Lake Centre was merged with three other constituencies and he decided to run in his home city of Prince Albert which had not elected a Conservative since 1911. Prime Minister Mackenzie King had held the seat from 1926 to 1945, Mr. Diefenbaker won in 1953 with 200 votes over his nearest rival.

CAMPAIGN PLANKS

Last spring he set out the main principles on which the Conservatives would fight the next election.

They included freeing Parliament from "captivity by the cabinet," a "statutory policy to encourage more domestic manufacture of raw materials, and a better deal for agriculture involving a national board to co-ordinate the sale and distribution for farm products.

Mr. Diefenbaker was born in Grey County, Ontario, but when he was eight his parents went to homestead near Saskatoon.

He went to the University of Saskatchewan where, in 1915, his class president predicted he would be opposition leader in the Commons in 40 years. Next year he went overseas in an infantry line tenant and was invalided home in 1917.

He graduated as a lawyer in 1919. He smokes and drinks sparingly and has an enthusiasm for western history and duck-hunting.

His first wife Edna Brower, a former Saskatchewan school teacher, died several years ago and in 1953 he married Mrs. Olive Palmer, a widow from Willowdale, Ont., a Toronto suburb. He has no children.

WORKING PRINCESS

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Princess Benedikte will be full approval of her father, King Frederick of Denmark has begun work as a filing clerk at the regular rate of pay in the Danish foreign ministry. ### BARGAIN RATE

DONALD FLEMING

For 11 years Donald Fleming has been one of the Progressive Conservative party's sharpest critics of the government in the Commons. Thus, this fall, it was only a step for him to jump into the contest for the Conservative leadership.

"Persistent" and "pugnacious" are words often used to describe the 51-year-old MP for Toronto Eglinton who is in his element on the attack. He won his political spurs as a Toronto alderman.

In 1948 convention which chose Hon. George Drew who resigned this year through illness.

DAVIE FULTON

Davie Fulton, 40-year-old British Columbian with politics in his blood, set out this fall to try to become the youngest leader the Progressive Conservative party ever had.

If John A. Macdonald was 41 when he took the leadership of the newly - formed Conservative party just over a century ago.

But youth, and a family political background, are not the only claims for consideration put forward by the Commons member for Kamloops, who has been in Parliament for 11 years and held his own in debate with Cabinet stalwarts.

SOLDIER'S CANDIDATE

In 1944 Mr. Fulton was serving in Italy as an officer of the Seaforth Highlanders when he learned that he had been nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate in Kamloops for the next federal election.

He accepted and the next year, at the age of 29, was election with a 17-vote edge. In the 1949 election his opponents were able to poll even half of his total vote, and all lost their deposits.

In the Commons he has a reputation as an effective debater, his persistent campaign for legislative control of crime comic books was instrumental in support of a bill he sponsored for that purpose, something quite unusual.

He is party spokesman on immigration and justice matters.

His biggest test as a parliamentarian came this year during the bitter pipeline debate when the government used the closure device to push through its legislation. Mr. Fulton and Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre, top opposition experts in Commons procedure, fought the government's tactics for nearly two sixty days to block the measure's passage by the government-set deadline.

POLITICAL FAMILY

Mr. Fulton comes by politics naturally on both sides of his family. His grandfather, A. E. B. Davie, and his great-uncle, Theodore Davie, were both B.C. premiers and an uncle, C. F. Davie, was once speaker of the B.C. legislature.

His father, Frederick John Fulton, was B.C. minister of lands and works 30 years ago and from 1917 to 1921 was member of Parliament for Yale as a Conservative Unionist.

Davie Fulton won a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University in 1936 and had just begun his legal practice back at Kamloops when the Second World War began in September, 1939.

He was married in 1946 to a Winnipeg girl, Patricia Mary Macdonald and they have three young daughters.

Quebec Delegates Taking 'Anti-Diefenbaker' Stand

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A virtual boycott of Quebec delegates by John Diefenbaker in his bid for the Progressive Conservative leadership is not expected to cause more than a ripple in a mounting wave of support for the Saskatchewan lawyer-MP.

Most of the Quebec delegation, obviously critical that Mr. Diefenbaker did not choose a French-speaking mover or seconder of his nomination at the party's national convention, decided at a caucus Thursday night to take "an anti-Diefenbaker" stand.

Later, during the nomination speeches by the three leadership candidates, this Quebec group, about 325 out of a possible 342 voting delegates from the province, cheered wildly and sang for their favorite, Donald Fleming, MP for Toronto Eglinton, or applauded politely for Davie Fulton, MP for Kamloops, B.C.; and Sen. in story silence for Mr. Diefenbaker.

SPOKE IN FRENCH

Apparently conscious of the Quebecers' mood, Mr. Diefenbaker broke into a halting French in one of the rare times he has spoken in that language on a public platform and said:

"I want to say thank you. I am still your friend and shall always be your friend."

There was a scattering of applause from the Quebec delegation corner and from other parts of the convention hall. Then Mr. Diefenbaker, still struggling in French, pledged himself to defend the rights, privileges and language of French Canada.

Quebec's discontent stems mainly from the choice of Mr. Diefenbaker's mover and seconder. Premier Flemming of New Brunswick, who proposed Mr. Diefenbaker's nomination in both French and English, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., who apologized in one sentence of French to the delegates for his inability to speak the language.

Some Quebec delegates have intimated privately that they stood a better chance of obtaining greater support from the electorate with a leader other than Mr. Diefenbaker.

After the convention adjourned George Hees, MP for Toronto Broadview and a leading supporter of Mr. Diefenbaker, said he had not expected the Prince Albert candidate to take more than 30 or 40 votes from Quebec delegates.

FAVORED FLEMING

However, he said that at the convention that selected retiring leader George Drew in 1948, the Quebec delegation had appeared to be against Mr. Drew and in favor of Mr. Fleming.

In the 18 hours before the voting the Quebec delegation, aware of the widespread support Mr. Drew had in other sections of the country, had rallied to his support side. Mr. Drew was elected party leader on the first ballot.

Mr. Hees predicted a Diefenbaker victory on the first ballot.

Some Quebec delegates said their group would await the result of the first ballot before deciding which of the other two candidates they would support en masse.

They reached their decision in a 45-minute caucus in a smoky committee room from which reporters were barred.

EVERYTHING "ROSY"

Leo Boivin, MP for Trois-Rivieres who is president of the National Association and conducting the caucus, presided at the caucus, which he described as "a family affair." He declined to make any comment other than to say "everything was rosy."

But before the meeting he said the Quebec delegates were "divided and vexed" by Mr. Diefenbaker's decision not to have a French-speaking seconder like the other two candidates.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in an enthusiastic reply to this criticism, told the convention that when the late R. B. Bennett was chosen party leader in 1927 the mover of his nomination came from New Brunswick and the seconder from the West.

Mr. Bennett went on to become elected prime minister in 1930, the last time the Conservatives gained power. The Hon. Diefenbaker said, had been a winning combination which he hoped to repeat.

Mr. Hees, Mr. Balcer's predecessor as national president of the PC Association, said Mr. Balcer's statement was "very foolish thing. As president of the association he should not have expressed himself in that way."

Orange Lodges Protest Aid to Catholic College

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two local Orange units, Hackett Lodge No. 805 and Crystal Chapter No. 18, Thursday night protested the Anglican synod of Huron plan for support to the $1,250,000 expansion campaign of Roman Catholic Assumption University in Windsor.

The synod executive a few days ago authorized Bishop George N. Luxton to ask the diocese after Assumption's announcement al (1) An invitation to Anglicans to attend a course in religious knowledge; (2) A welcome to the establishment of an Anglican residence near the campus; (3) an exploration of the suggested building of an Anglican liberal arts college on the campus.

The Anglican college appar-ently would be an Assumption affiliate and there would be interchange of lectures. Until a few years ago when it became a full-fledged university, Assumption was an affiliate of the University of Western Ontario.

Christians Should Be Gentlemen

By ROY L. SMITH

The American consul in Hong Kong had been called upon by a tourist to perform a very difficult, and a rather distasteful errand. It was one from which any man would have shrunk, but it had to be done to protect the interests of a friendless woman in great need. When it was all over, someone said to him, "You have rendered a splendid service, and the government ought to be proud of you," to which the consul replied, "I am not very smart, and there are a lot of things I do not know about diplomacy, but I have the feeling that the representative of the American people ought at least to be a gentleman."

PAUL'S GREAT HYMN

To get any real concept of the meaning of this famous chapter on Love, we must read the last verse of the 12th chapter of I Corinthians and the 1st verse of the 13th chapter of I Corinthians. Then Paul has been discussing the matter of speaking with tongues, and other wild matters of excitement, and he concludes with the words, "I will now show you a better way."

The 13th chapter of I Corinthians is that description. Interestingly enough, it does not require any theological or university education to understand it. One does not need to subscribe to any creed to practise it. It is not necessary to join any lodge, club, or mystery to come into possession of it.

In thirteen brief verses, and in language that is understandable even by a child, it presents the complete picture of the "greatest thing in the world."

DOCTRINES IMPORTANT

This is not to say, of course, that Christian doctrines and creeds are unimportant. As a matter of fact they are very important. Clear and accurate thinking in spiritual matters is as important as scientific thinking in the field of chemistry. It is only to say that unless our doctrines are authenticated by our actions, they lose all their significance. And the one unanswerable argument in support of the Christian faith is the loving lives of the Christians.

BASIC ESSENTIAL

Reduced to its basic essential, that which is the true character of the Christian life is love, and Christian love always makes a man into a gentleman.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for December 16: "The Way of Christian Love," I Corinthians 12:27—13:13.

Boorishness, egotism, vanity, self-assertion, and contending for one's rights are as surely heretical as failure to subscribe to a popular creed. The official member of a church who boasts that he has been "born again" and is also determined to rule or ruin contradicts himself.

The Christian who is hard to get along with and better examine his religion, no matter what his theology may be or how correctly he believes. The church which is constantly stirring up divisions inside a community is as unchristian, and as anti-Christian, as a society of freethinkers who deny all faith in any religion. God and the Church have a right to expect to be represented by gentlemen.

Dr. John Short, a famous Canadian clergyman, has said in explanation of this chapter that "Love never falls down on its job," which is another way of saying that "love, if it is really Christian, never lets us down."

Inco Research helps Canada Grow

This is how a Nickel mine is born

New mines in Northern Manitoba will help add over 100 million pounds to Nickel output

1. How these mines were discovered—For years Inco used airborne devices to scan vast areas. The possibilities of ore deposits in this area suggested further exploration.

2. How ore bodies were probed—Diamond drills then began bringing up samples of rock and ore from underground; another step toward exploring the size and location of ore bodies.

3. How an exploration shaft was sunk—This was the toughest job of all. Only a few men could work at a time. Their air-powered drills could drive only a few feet a day. After each blast, the shaft was scaled and shattered rock mucked out—long hours of work between each round of drilling.

4. How the ore is reached—A completed shaft is like a "door" to a mine. Once production shafts are finished, crosscuts will have to be driven toward the ore deposits, then drifts driven through them. Only after these are completed can mining of Nickel ore begin.

Ten years and ten million dollars ago, Inco launched Exploration Project Manitoba.

Purpose of the project: to discover new deposits of Inco Nickel, new sources of mineral wealth deep in the woodlands.

The exploration project having revealed sufficient ore to warrant mining, Inco will now develop its new underground mines and processing plants in Mystery-Moak Lakes area of Northern Manitoba.

To get them into production calls for a new railway, townsite, power plant, schools, hospital. This $175,000,000 project is part of an Inco four-year expansion program expected to help add over 100 million pounds a year to over-all Nickel output.

FRAMEWORK OF SMELTER

The steel frame-work of a giant aluminum smelter being constructed at Baie Comeau, Que., presents an interesting pattern in this photo. The $200,000,000 project, being constructed by Canadian British Aluminum Company Limited, will provide a variety of employment opportunities for Baie Comeau whose only industry has been newsprint production. The smelter is scheduled to be in operation by November, 1957. (CP Photo.)

Giant Aluminum Smelter, Being Built at Baie Comeau Will Employ Thousand Men

BAIE COMEAU, Que. (CP)—A giant aluminum smelter is taking shape in this town where employment has mostly been in newsprint production since the community was carved out of the wilderness 20 years ago.

The multi-million dollar smelter, scheduled to be in operation by November, 1957, will change the area's outlook both physically and financially.

The town, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river 400 miles northeast of Montreal, was built during the depression years by the late Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, when he decided to tap virgin timber limits for newsprint.

CREATE MORE JOBS

His Quebec North Shore Paper Company, whose newsprint is sold mainly to the New York Daily News, has prospered. But the younger generation in the town of 4,500 has complained of the necessity of having to move away to find work in other than newsprint production.

The new industry will open up a variety of employment opportunities. New homes will be built to handle an anticipated sharp increase in population. A shopping centre and a new school will be built.

The change in the town's status results from the "marriage" of the Quebec North Shore Paper Company and the British Aluminum Company Limited of England. Together in 1955 they formed the Canadian British Aluminum Company Limited.

The smelter will have an ultimate annual capacity of 180,000 tons of aluminum ingot. The project is being undertaken in four stages, with the first stage capable of producing 45,000 tons of ingot each year to be in operation next fall.

In addition to the smelter, Canadian British Aluminum is building a deep-sea harbor capable of accommodating three 10,000 - ton freighters, constructing new roads and a housing development. Existing power facilities are being expanded to supply the smelter's needs.

The smelter project is expected to cost $200,000,000.

With completion of the first stage next year, the town's population is expected to jump to 6,000.

Baie Comeau was chosen as the site because of its proximity to a source of adequate power supplies and good location for development as a port to bring in raw materials and export the product.

The alumina required for the smelter will be imported from British aluminum sources in the tropics. The produced ingot will be mainly for British consumption.

The Manicouagan Power Company, a subsidiary of Quebec North Shore, is expanding its generating capacity to provide sufficient power for production of some 65,000 tons of ingot annually.

British Aluminum has a 60-per-cent interest in Canadian British Aluminum and Quebec North Shore holds 40 per cent. In turn, Canadian British Aluminum has a 40-per-cent interest in Manicouagan power.

A 1,000-man gang now is building the smelter. The site was cleared of trees in the summer of 1955, but it wasn't until last spring that the main task was begun.

The second stage is scheduled for completion late in 1958, doubling the smelter's annual capacity to 90,000 tons.

The new harbor is being built about a mile from the existing port of Baie Comeau. Scheduled for completion next summer, it will have three 500 - foot long berths each capable of handling 10,000-ton vessels. The existing port can accommodate only one 10,000-ton ship and smaller vessels.

The power development on the nearby Manicouagan River, which mainly has provided the needs of the newsprint company, is being expanded from two to five 30,000-horsepower generators.

To provide the power house with an adequate water supply, Quebec hydro is building a storage dam north of here on Lake Ste. Anne. The reservoir will hold 120,000,000,000 cubic feet of water.

The power house when fully expanded will provide power sufficient only for the first stage of the smelter and part of the second stage. For additional power, Canadian British Aluminum has completed an agreement with Quebec hydro.

The new housing development will become a suburb of the existing town and will have its own school and shopping centre. By 1959 the development is expected to contain 530 units.

Canadian British Aluminum expects to employ 660 men, mostly from Baie Comeau, to operate the first stage. The number is expected to rise to 1,000 with completion of the second stage.

Petes Dump Teeps Cubs Nip Marlies In Rough Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The accent was on rough play in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Thursday night. In two games, they were 39 penalties, including two misconducts.

And it would appear that the weaker teams get much the best of the rough play. Last — place Peterborough Petes upset fourth-ranking St. Catharines Teepees 4-2, and fifth-place Hamilton Cubs turned back Toronto Marlboros, who are third, 5-4.

At Hamilton, 1,600 fans watched Cubs' mastery over Marlboros. In four games this year between the teams, Cubs have taken seven points on three victories and a tie.

The game saw only 2 penalties, but two match misconducts led to a full-scale brawl. . . . Box fight, which required the intervention of police early in the third period.

ROE LEADS ATTACK

John Roe fired two goals and contributed three assists for the Cubs, other goals coming from Murray Oliver, Brian Smith and Jerry Sullivan. Bob Nevin had three for Marlboros, Bob Murchie netting the other.

In the third, Doug Risely of Marlboros and Hamilton's Gerry Luyben were sent off together for slashing. In the penalty box they started their feud again and police had to part them. They were given game misconduct penalties.

At Peterbough, the first period was little more than a parade to the penalty box as 13 players marched off with two-minute penalties.

Guy Black paved the way to Peterborough's victory with two goals. Gary Thurby and Bill Mahoney scored one each. Bob Hull and Ed Hockstra counted for Teepees.

Russians Liked Olympic Games

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union put its official stamp of approval on the Melbourne Olympics Thursday and declared other nations should be exacted to prevent players under 20 from turning professional. Far too many left home and school too young.

"Make the clubs with a payroll go professional, he said, "and let the small communities and hockey clubs have a chance to compete for high amateur honors without going bankrupt."

SET RYDER DATE

LONDON (AP)—Because of a $28,000 gift to the British Professional Golfers Association, the 1957 Ryder Cup match between British and American golf pros will be played at Lindrick in the north of England, Oct. 4-5.

"Soviet sportsmen . . . must keep in mind they lagged behind other countries in a number of sports. Soviet athletes and trainers gained considerable experience in Melbourne and our task is to generalize this experience and use it for further development of Soviet sports."

Door Still Open For Comeback Says Marciano

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano indicated Thursday night that the door is still open on a possible return to the ring.

Marciano, who retired undefeated earlier this year said his idea now is to stick to his decision of last April, when he stepped down from the ring.

But as to the future?

"Right now I haven't changed my plans, but I have a lot of things to think over. You hear so many things.

Asked whether he thought he could whip the new heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, Rocky replied: "Oh, I wouldn't like to say. You're putting me on the spot."

The 34-year-old Marciano said he likes Patterson.

"He's quick and he's young. Especially he's quick," said Marciano.

Marciano wrenched his back while playing with his daughter last summer. But he said his back gives him little trouble now.

Pembroke Kings Raise $1,800 At Banquet

PEMBROKE (CP)—A group of Pembroke district hockey fans heard appeals Thursday night for complete reorganization of Canada's amateur hockey setup.

Max Silverman, veteran Sudbury hockey promoter, spoke at a $10-a-plate benefit dinner which raised about $1,800 to help finance Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division.

He said big clubs are pricing smaller clubs out of existence and advocated complete revamping of the amateur hockey setup.

Silverman proposed forming a three-man commission and a board of governors to govern amateur hockey in Canada. He said legislation should be enacted to prevent players under 20 from turning professional. Far too many left home and school too young.

"Make the clubs with a payroll go professional, he said, "and let the small communities and hockey clubs have a chance to compete for high amateur honors without going bankrupt."

Hungary's Role As Sports Nation Ends Indefinitely

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungarian sports authorities admitted privately Thursday that Hungary's role as a major sports nation has ended at least for some time because of its revolution.

Forty-four Olympic athletes remained in Australia when the Melbourne games ended. Another 11 defected in Singapore on their way back to Europe, a high ranking sports official said.

The remainder of the team has arrived in Milan, Italy, and it is expected that some others will remain abroad, he said.

Meanwhile, Hungary's soccer stars, who have been touring Western Europe for a month, are not showing the slightest inclination to return home "and there is nothing we can do about it," the official said.

Giants, Eagles In Crucial Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — New York Giants, bolstered either a victory or a tie to win the Eastern Division championship of the National Football League, close the regular season here Saturday against the punchless Philadelphia Eagles.

Coach Jim Lee Howell's rugged aggregation carries a 7-3-1 record into this crucial game, a game ahead of the fast-moving Washington Redskins. If the Giants win or tie, it would eliminate the Redskins, who have two games left to play—one with Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday—and sport a 6-4 mark. Ties do not count in the NFL standings.

Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions meet in Chicago Sunday for the Western Division title. The Lions held a half-game lead.

New York should win easily if Philadelphia's game runs true to form, something the NFL isn't especially famous for. In the first meeting between the clubs, the Giants won 34-3. At that time the Eagles were near full strength. Saturday, the winless Birds, resting in the Eastern Division cellar, (3-7-1), will be lucky if they can field eight backs effectively and defensively.

In other weekend games, Chicago Cardinals play the Browns at Cleveland, Green Bay Packers meet the Rams at Los Angeles and Baltimore Colts and the San Francisco 49ers play at Detroit. All three will be played Sunday.

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Saguenoens faltered Thursday night and dropped a 3-2 decision to Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, but still command a one-point Quebec Hockey League lead over Quebec Aces.

Quebec Aces shut out Montreal Royals 4-0 behind the sharp goaltending of Al Millar, Chicoutimi has 38 points and four games in hand over Aces.

THE SCORES ARE STATE SECRETS

Prime Minister St. Laurent, left, is the first to admit that he can't give President Eisenhower much competition in golf. But that didn't prevent them from having an enjoyable game at Augusta, Ga., the president's holiday spot, where Mr. St. Laurent was guest. The scores are state secrets, but the prime minister admitted he's a century player. (Central Press Canadian).

Need 8 Million To Complete Squaw Valley

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California taxpayers — who already have put up $3,000,000 for the 1960 winter Olympics—will be asked to contribute up to $3,000,000 more to make the Squaw Valley site a permanent state winter park.

Olympic planners said the exact amount will not be known until final revisions are made—in time for submitting a figure to the legislature which opens next month.

Squaw Valley is 200 miles east of San Francisco.

Hungarian Team May Tour Here

TORONTO (CP)—Hungary's national soccer team has been invited to tour Canada next summer.

William Simpson, council member of the Football Association of Canada, met Thursday with the Canadian-Hungarian Federation to map plans for the tour. He said the team would be welcome to join the National League if it decides to stay in Canada.

Simpson also announced that the Football Association probably will accept an offer by Hearts of the Scottish League to tour with the Hungarians providing Tottenham Hotspur of the English League declines an earlier invitation.

OTTAWA TONIGHT

An array of scintillating young junior stars, augmented by professional veterans, will afford the opposition to the McFarlands in a scheduled Eastern senior "A" league game here tonight.

They are the Ottawa Canadiens (see the Baby Habs), who not only have been cutting a wide swath in Junior "A" circles, but have made a highly creditable showing in senior hockey as well as in the professional Quebec Hockey League. In addition they have played exhibition games with all the clubs in the National Hockey League, being defeated by very low scores.

The Ottawans boast a number of potential National Hockey leaguers in their voteless ranks. Some of them have already done a three-game stint with the parent Montreal Canadiens, and emerged with flying colors.

Included in the galaxy of Ottawa junior stars are Ralph Backstrom, with seven goals and one assist; Bill Carter with seven and five; John Annable eight and five; Gerry Wilson eight and five; Murray Balfour three and eight; Claude Carrell two and six, and Dick Dumochel four and eleven. Their goalie, Gilles Boisvert, who is the property of the New York Rangers, is the leading netminder in the senior "A" circuit, with a goals-against average of 2.12. He has one shutout.

The Ottawans also boast two or more victories against the powerful professional clubs in the Quebec League. They have taken the measure of the majority of Shawville's crack junior "A" squads in the race for the St. Laurent trophy.

In senior "A" company they have won seven, lost two and tied one. Kingston defeated them 5-2 in one of the biggest upsets of the season, while the other loss occurred when the Canadiens edged them 5-4. The tie game was played with the McFarlands when, it is recalled, the Ottawans scored the tying goal with one second to go in the game, then went on to battle the McFarlands in ten minutes of sudden-death overtime.

On both previous occasions the McFarlands met the Canadiens, the games went into overtime. In the last game regular time ended in a 5-5 stalemate, then Ralph Backstrom fired the winner in exactly 19 seconds of the overtime period. Both games among the best seen in senior "A" hockey this season, and there is no reason why tonight's tilt should not be as good.

Don't let the word "junior" fool you. This Ottawa club is as good as any in the senior "A" circuit, with their pro strengthening, and they have defeated every club in the league. They humbled the proud Whitby Dunlops 7-5 right in Blairville and defeated Cornwall by 5-0 and 5-4 scores. They knocked off Pembroke's Lumber Kings 3-1 and battled Kingston to a 3-3, 8-6 victory, besides, as was mentioned before, edging the McFarlands 6-5 in an overtime tussle. They hold a 47 for, 32 against, goal record in the senior loop, or an average of nearly five goals per game.

Meanwhile the McFarlands are reported to be in good shape for tonight's tussle with the classy Ottawans. The defence has improved greatly of late and led by Maurice Benoit they came up with a fine display of defensive hockey against the improved Kingston squad the other night.

Floyd Crawford, Lionel Bolley and "Bouncing Bernie" Lamonde gave Gordie Bell some fine protection. The tall goalie, the best to show his wares here in some time, came up with a fine exhibition, especially when the Kingston forwards got through to his doorstep. The imperturbable Bell appears to be as cool as the proverbial cucumber when under fire and his play has injected a lot of confidence in his blueliners as well as the troops up front.

Johnny Whalen was not in uniform the other night and there is reason to believe he will be cut from the McFarland roster. 'Real Larouche is still out of action with a fractured jaw and it might be some time yet before he dons a uniform.

Rene Villaire, back in the hockey wars after a painful foot injury, injected a lot of spirit and play into the Kingston game and gave evidence he can hold his own with the rest of the squad.

Keith MacDonald is fitting into the senior "A" hockey picture like a hand in an old glove. The Prince Edwardian fire, spirit and fearless play rates him plenty of kudos and the fact that he is travelling in the best company of his hockey career has not affected his play or disposition one iota. He hits 'em all—and is "achieved" at none. "Cabby" White of Kingston, decided to stop him the other night by the rather foolish method of head-on collision. Result? Gabby went down like a pole-axed flounder and remained there unfit somebody pumped back his breath.

Norm Defilice Makes Good In 3-2 Victory Over Hawks; Habs, Wings Win Other Tilts

By The Canadian Press

Norm Defelice, a minor leaguer who hadn't played in a regular game since March, was riding high in major league Boston today after making "the big save" as stand-in goaltender for the National Hockey League-leading Bruins.

He made the big save," smiled coach Milt Schmidt as teammates mobbed the 23-year-old Hershey practice goalie following a 3-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night.

The save, turning point of the game, came early in the third period and started Bruins on the way to a decision which kept them three points ahead of Detroit Red Wings and four in front of Montreal Canadiens.

Detroit edged New York Rangers 2-1 while Montreal battered Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 with a four-goal last period barrage.

FIRST NHL START

Defelice had reported to Boston only a few hours before taking the ice on an emergency call because regular Jacques Plante had been pronounced out of action for two weeks with a blood clot in eye.

At Bruins' Hershey farm in the American League, Defelice had been the property of Boston goalie. Never before had he appeared in NHL competition.

Chicago's Wally Hergesheimer broke away with the puck to come in alone on Defelice's little goal from Schumacher early in the third period. Defelice timed his move perfectly and thrust his stick to sweep away the puck as he fell to the ice.

It was the best of his 27 saves and marked the third fine save against Hergesheimer in the contest.

BOBBLED FIRST SHOT

On a similar breakaway, by Jack McIntyre, Chicago got its first goal—Earl Reibel's shot 20 seconds old—on its first shot. McIntyre appeared to skate in the third period on a shot that Defelice actually had stopped. The force of the drive knocked him backward into the cage still clutching the puck.

Jack Bionda, Vic Stasiuk and Real Chevrefils did the Boston scoring.

At Detroit, Red Wings' victory came only after a tumultuous third period lapse by Ranger goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley.

The little netminder slid out to smother a pass, but the puck rolled free and Earl Reibel had but little difficulty with an empty net. Ted Lindsay scored Detroit's first goal.

Rangers had only three shots at Glenn Hall in each of the first and last periods but managed 18 in the second, when Danny Lewicki scored.

Jean Beliveau and Canadiens did the expected in defeating the hapless Leafs. One of the highlights for the crowd of 13,878 was Maurice Richard's return to action after a seven-game absence. Another was Beliveau's three goals, and two assists.

Richard scored once and assisted on two others, indicating he doesn't miss the bone chips removed from his elbow. Jackie Leclair got one and Dickie Moore scored another, his 10th of the year and eighth against Toronto.

For Leafs Brian and Harry Cullen were the marksmen.

Leaf netminder Ed Chadwick finally wilted in the third period under a barrage that sent 44 shots at him during the game. At the other end Jacques Plante saw only 20 shots during the 60 minutes of play.

How About A 'Benefit' for East All-Stars?

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Bobby Kuntz of Toronto Argonauts said Thursday his teammates in the East-West all-star football game at Vancouver "didn't take the game seriously." But he and two other eastern all-stars denied that the eastern team quit or threatened to go on strike. The West won the game last Saturday 35-0.

The eastern players said team members were unhappy because they were refused $50 apiece for cab fars and other incidental expenses, and were to be paid only $250 each if they lost and $350 if they won. In last year's game at Toronto $400 was earmarked for each member of the winning team and $300 for each of the losers. When the game ended in a 6-6 tie every player was given $350.

Said Kuntz: "We were poor in the game and all of us knew it. We didn't take the game seriously. The veterans on the team, those who had played a lot of football and were in the 1953 Shrine game, figured we were out of our time and as a team, we had it."

Steve Oneschuk of Hamilton said that some of the boys were unhappy over money" when they found they would be paid less this year.

"Most of us lost money by playing the game," Oneschuk said. "I know I gave up my salary from my job to play for the game. The players didn't mind that since it was for the crippled children's home but they frequently manage to get attention in other ways.

Thursday night a third-period brawl involving players and fans overshadowed a 6-3 win by fourth-place Soo Indians over the third-place Soo Greyhounds.

During the melee which most of the Greyhounds went into the stands and became involved with the customers, Eddie Litzenberger tried to quell the outburst, which originated when Hounds' Cleland Mortson and Indians' Russ Kowalchuk scuffled.

Mortson drew a major penalty and became angry when linesman Fred Debono handed Kowalchuk only a minor for slashing.

CHASED OFFICIAL

Mortson took after Debuco, but his teammates restrained him and led him to the penalty box. The fans went after Mortson, and Hounds went into the stands to protect him.

The game was resumed only when Greyhound coach Bun Cook went to the ice and ordered his players out of the stands. Mortson drew a game misconduct penalty.

In the Eastern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A League, Chevrier Chevries took over sole occupancy of second place by trying Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-4 in overtime.

Timmins Flyers moved into first place in the Porcupine Mines Senior League, downing South Porcupine Porkies 4-2.

At the Michigan Soo, Joe Malec scored twice to lead Indians to the win. Lorrie Peterson, Johnnie Olindani, Eddie Joss and Gary Sharp shot the other goals for the winners. John Lumley scored two for Greyhounds, Marcel Clements getting the other.

Kenny Trevanna counted twice for Flyers at South Porcupine. Walter Para and Carmen Merrill connecting once each. Graham had both goals for Porkies.

At Cornwall, Ken Campbell figured in all Pembroke scoring with two goals and two assists. Jim Maxwell and Knobby Clarke got the others. Med Bellemore, Gus Henri, Rheal Savard and Gerry Plamondon were marksmen for Chevries.

GO NORTH FOR SKIING

TORONTO (CP)—There's good skiing in Ontario if you go far enough north.

Fourteen skiing centres reported their conditions Thursday. Skiing was described as good at Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake, Midland and Parry Sound.

The others, all farther south, said it was not so good.

Indian Jack Would Like 2-Year Contract

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Indian Jack Jacobs, who coached and quarterbacked the freshman London Lords into the final of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union this year, is asking a two-year contract.

Lords president Ralph Duffus said he had a telephone talk with Jacobs in Winnipeg Thursday but the former Detroit Lions ace gets star requested another two years as coach and which expires early in January.

Duffus said he told Jacobs he personally favored a two-year agreement, but he couldn't make any commitments before a meeting of the full directorate in a couple of weeks.

Jacobs is believed to have received about $8,000 in the first year as head coach. He has said he would like to stay in London.

Hints indicated, said Duffus, that next season he would rather stick to coaching and retire as an active player.

The Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Jean Beliveau is threatening to make a runaway of the National Hockey League scoring race.

The Montreal centre scored three goals and picked up an assist Thursday night to pull 10 points ahead of Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay of the Detroit Red Wings. Beliveau now has 40 points.

Cornwall Takes Over Second After 4-4 Tie With Kings

By The Canadian Press

The two Sault Ste. Marie teams in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group may be far off the league-leaders' pace but they frequently manage to get attention in other ways.

Thursday night a third-period brawl involving players and fans overshadowed a 6-3 win by fourth-place Soo Indians over the third-place Soo Greyhounds.

During the melee which most of the Greyhounds went into the stands and became involved with the customers, Eddie Litzenberger tried to quell the outburst, which originated when Hounds' Cleland Mortson and Indians' Russ Kowalchuk scuffled.

Argonauts Seek Services of Eskimo Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Lew Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts, said Thursday night that Ray Prochaska, assistant football coach at Edmonton Eskimos, is one of a number of men under consideration for the head coaching job with Argos.

Hayman said he recently talked to Moe Lieberman, Eskimo president, to seek permission to approach Prochaska because he was under contract to the Western Conference club.

At Edmonton, club officials said Prochaska had been given permission to deal with Argos and thus Hayman has the go-ahead for discussions with the assistant coach.

Hayman has been seeking a new coach for Argonauts, who finished in last place in the Big Four Football Union last season, since Bill Swiacki disclosed that he will not return for the 1957 season.

The 37-year-old Prochaska has been an assistant coach with Eskimos for the last two seasons.

Hayman declined to name any of the other men Argonauts were considering for the coaching position.

Al Balding Well Down In Tournament

SANFORD, Fla. (CP) — Al Balding's hopes of repeating his victory of last year in the Sanford open golf tournament may appear dim after a first round in which he shot a 76 to tie for 18th place with nine other players. But a look at last year's opening round may help dispel some of the gloom.

The Toronto golfer fired a 69 in the first round of the 1955 tourney and was tied with four others for 12th place, while Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, the 18-hole leader this year with a hot 64, had a 68. And Sam Snead was last year's opening-round leader with a 66.

But when the 72 holes were complete it was Balding on top with 69-66-68-283 and the first victory for a Canadian in a major golf tournament. Well down the list was Finsterwald with 68-70-67-71—274 and Snead with 66-70-69-79—274.

This year, Finsterwald has one factor going for him. He's at the top of his game and is second among money winners with $28,-666.

But in a pro tourney here's a form guide Balding demonstrated his liking for the 6,305-yard par 36-36—72 course by coming from well back to take thirty money.

'Birdie' Caged For Three Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — George (Birdie) Tebbetts Thursday was signed to a new three-year contract as manager of Cincinnati Redlegs of the National League.

General manager Gabe Paul said Tebbetts was given an increase in pay, but no figures were disclosed.

The Redlegs finished third last season, barely nosed out by Brooklyn, which won the pennant, and Milwaukee, which finished second.

Tebbetts' old contract would have expired at the end of the 1957 season.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

EDMONTON (CP)—A spokesman for Edmonton Eskimos announced Thursday that two of the club's injured players, halfback Earl Lindley and fullback Con Kelly, have been released from hospital following treatment for injuries suffered during the 1956 season.

Jackie Robinson 'Thinks Over' Switch to New York Giants

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—With Jackie Robinson playing for New York Giants and Maglie pitching for Brooklyn Dodgers, the world is topsy turvy for New York baseball fans. It's almost as confusing as the time Leo Durocher switched to the Giants.

Durocher, as manager of the Dodgers, was a hated enemy of Giant fans until 1948 when he moved to the Polo Grounds.

And Maglie, as the man who could beat the Dodgers just about any time he faced them while playing for the Giants, was just as disliked by Brooklyn fans until he wound up at Ebbets Field last season... and helped his old enemies to the National League pennant.

Of course, Robinson may not play for the Giants. Jackie, who will be 38 Jan. 31, is taking a few days to "think it over" after Thursday's news that he had been traded to the Giants for a reported $30,000 and Don Mueller, a left-handed pitcher who has been with eight other big league clubs.

TO HANG UP SPIKES

Charles (Chub) Feeney, Giants' vice-president, said: "I don't expect he'll play for us. He told me he was undecided on what he was going to do but would let us know as soon as he makes up his mind."

Robinson, reached by phone at his Stamford, Conn., home, obviously was stunned by the sudden turn of events. His young son, Jackie Jr., cried when he learned his dad no longer was a Dodger. "But we (Jackie and his wife) expected to him that baseball is like that," said Robinson.

Asked whether he would continue to play or planned to retire, Robinson answered: "I really haven't had a chance to give it much thought. I want to get away for a few days, relax and think it over." Since 1954 there have been recurring stories that Robinson was getting ready to quit. He also has managerial ambitions.

Most observers think he will decide to play at least one more year.

NO HARD FEELINGS

"Naturally I'm disappointed to leave Brooklyn," said Robinson. "I've had wonderful years in Brooklyn, received wonderful treatment from the fans and made lasting friendships. They are a lot of nice guys. I hope they can win again—unless the Giants can win it."

Jackie, now greying and considerably slower than in his early days when his fast running and daring set the league, said he had "no hard feelings for the Brooklyn organization."

"The club has to protect itself," Robinson explained. "It had a lot of nice, young players. But I thought I helped the club last year and I thought figure I'd be traded. I had no inkling of it until Wednesday night when (Brooklyn vice - president Buzzy Bavasi) called me. But that's baseball. We have no control over it. It's all part of the game."

Robinson said he "didn't care" one way or the other about what position he played if he decided to continue his career with the Giants. Bill Rigney, Giants manager, said he's assigned to first base, but fourth, behind Willie Mays, and to fill the utility bat job, vacated when Bill White went into the army.

Robinson, first Negro ever to make the majors, played first base when he broke into the league in 1947, and has appeared three periodically ever since. He was a big help to the Dodgers last season training down before spring training to take over the utility job over the challenge of ex-Chicago Cub Randy Jackson. He played in 117 games, hit .275 and drove in 43 runs and stole 12 bases. In the Polo Grounds he was murder, hitting Giant pitching at a .294 clip and stealing seven bases. His lifetime average is .309.

Bavasi said he had offers from two other clubs but refused to name but felt "obligated" to trade Jackie to a New York club.

It was reported the Dodgers also had received trade feelers from Philadelphia and Chicago for Carl Furillo, veteran outfielder.

Seixas, Flam Win Singles In Cup Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas swept past Naresh Kumar with the aid of only seven games after Herbie Flam outhatited Ramanathan Krishnan in a gruelling five-set match today to give the United States a 2-0 lead over India in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals.

A victory in Saturday's doubles would send the U.S. into the challenge round against Australia's defending cup champions at Adelaide later this month.

Seixas, the 33-year-old veteran from Philadelphia taking part in his sixth Davis Cup campaign, was pressed only in the first set as he polished off Kumar, the Indian captain, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

LEAD SHIFTED

It was in contrast to the first singles match, in which Flam and Krishnan alternated brilliant rallies and easy fluke before the 23-year-old Californian pulled it out, 7-5, 4-6, 10-8, 3-6, 6-4.

Kumar had a 4-1 lead over Seixas in the first set before Vic collected himself and ran off four straight games to win. After that it was easy.

Flam rallied brilliantly to win the first match.

In a dazzling match that had everything from easy muffs to spectacular shots, Flam played his best tennis in the final set.

After fighting off the stubborn, game-but-dull Indian at set point in the first and third sets, Flam let down and appeared in danger of defeat.

But he had one strong rally left and in the deciding set, he broke from an 0-40 deficit to square at three games apiece, then broke Krishnan in the seventh and held his own in the eighth to go ahead 5-3. They traded services after that and Flam had victory No. 1 for the U.S. team.

Krishnan, considered India's No. 1 player despite his youth and inexperience, will be playing his only serious threat to the U.S. team in singles play and his defeat set up a probable 5-0 sweep for the Americans.

Old-Timers Will Turn Out for 'Goulash' Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — For those football has-beens who just can't stay off the gridiron and forget the golden days of their youth, this year's attraction is the Goulash bowl.

It's not an additive for their already bulging waistlines, but a new game developed especially for playing for Hungarian relief.

The idea originated with an Arizona man now in business, Chuk Colsman. At first he joined others mourning the demise of the Salad Bowl, which expired quietly of financial exhaustion this month, but then he came up with this:

"I know where I can get 44 guys right now who'll come out for the game for Hungarian relief."

Today he has 128 volunteers in Phoenix for one team and 40 in Tucson for the other—all ex-college gridders now working as ranchers, businessmen or at other professions.

A local school board will let the teams use its stadium for the Dec. 29 game.

Most of the players, who range from the middle 20s to the early 30s, haven't played for five to 10 years. Unlimited substitutions will be allowed so everyone can play.

American League Record Spree, Break, Tie 47

CHICAGO (AP)—The American League went on a record-breaking spree last season by breaking or tying 47 records.

The league snapped 18 major league records and tied 11 more. The marks were broken and tied after ers were tied.

Cleveland lefthander Herb Score became the first pitcher in major league history to record more than 200 strikeouts in each of his first two years.

Score had 263 strikeouts last season, 18 more than his 245 in 1955 when he was voted rookie of the year.

The world champion New York Yankees notched three major league marks in most pennants won by a club, 22; most years 100 or more home runs, 31; and most years leading in home runs, 31. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra hit 30 home runs giving him a lifetime total of 258, most ever hit by a major league catcher.

Washington had the dubious distinction of setting a major league of 877 strikeouts while Senator outfielder Jim Lemon fanned 138 times for another major record.

The league set a record of 1,075 homers for one season, surpassing the previous mark of 973 set in 1950.

Minnie Minoso of Chicago White Sox was hit by pitchers 23 times for a league season record while the White Sox as a team were hit by pitchers 75 times for a major league mark.

Kansas City pitchers set a major league mark of 187 home runs allowed by one club and Bob Feller ran his total of walks allowed to 1,764 for another major league high.

Weigh Proposal Shrine Game Be Played Earlier in Year

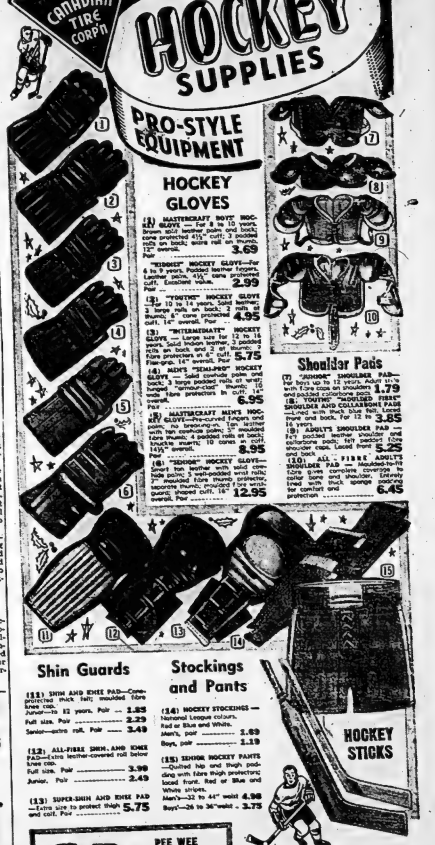
VANCOUVER (CP) — Shrine football officials are weighing a proposal that their annual East-West all-star football game be played earlier in the year, W. D. Johnston, national Shrine committee chairman, said Thursday.

He also announced that the organization expects to realize about $40,000 net profit from last Saturday's game here, won 35-0 by the West. The proceeds, which will be turned over to the Shrine's crippled children's hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg, are almost double the amount derived from last year's game, a 64 tie in Toronto.

Johnston said that "it's most definitely necessary that some discussion take place between the Shrine and the Canadian Rugby Union about the date of the game.

The game, played for the first time last year, has been held after the football season.

"It doesn't seem feasible to play a game of football in Canada too late in the year," Johnston said.



Both all-star games were played during heavy rain and near-freezing temperatures. Weather uncertainty and its effect on gate receipts is considered a strong argument in favor of a pre-season game.

Gate receipts at this year's contest in Vancouver's Empire Stadium before 13,458 fans, are estimated at $100,000, about $20,000 more than the Toronto game.

Complete financial details of the 1956 game will be disclosed when reports have been received from Shrine temples across Canada.

Industrial Hockey League Results

National Steel and Don's Delivery fought to a 5-5 deadlock last night in an Industrial hockey league fixture.

The Delivery boys opened the scoring at 6:05 and from then on the clubs traded goal for goal. It was the fourth tie for Don's Delivery in six games, having lost the other two, while National Steel has two wins, two losses and two ties.

NEW FIGHT CONTROST

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and challenger Gene Fullmer Thursday signed contracts for their once-postponed title fight, now rescheduled for Jan. 2 at Madison Square Garden.

When the top American team decided on a trump suit, the bids in other suits may be phoney. This will often hide another strong suit that their opponents may lead up to.

Knowing this, the European team must have decided on counter tactics. When in doubt they led a trump. At least, this they did in many deals that called for a better rule lead.

Here you see from the world championships deal number 19:

| | NORTH | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠K 6 | |
| | ♥K 6 3 | |
| | ♦Q 5 4 2 | |
| | ♣K 8 7 5 | |
| WEST | | EAST |
| ♠Q J 2 | | ♠A 7 5 2 |
| ♥10 7 | | ♥A Q J 4 3 |
| ♦K 10 8 6 3 | | ♦9 |
| ♣A 6 2 | | ♣10 4 |
| | SOUTH | |
| | ♠10 9 4 | |
| | ♥9 8 5 | |
| | ♦A J 7 | |
| | ♣Q J 9 3 | |

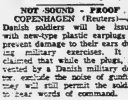
In room one the American team bid west and east like this:

| West | East |
|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♠ |
| 2 ♠ | 3 ♠ |
| 3 ♦ | 4 ♠ |

As you can see, the club suit was a phoney and the heart suit was not even mentioned. South led a trump and declarer took three trump rounds fast. Then he led the singleton diamond.

So early in the play, south could not read it as a singleton and did not run with his ace. The dummy diamond king won and by finessing beard, east was able to take a total of 12 tricks.

In room two the European team bid west and east like this:



| West | East |
|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♣ |
| 2 ♦ | 3 ♦ |
| 3 ♣ | 4 ♣ |

The American in south made the rule lead of club queen. So, when east led singleton diamond, south hopped on it at once with the ace and led another club that yield east 11 tricks.

Knowing the 'correct simple' rules, such players know when to break them. Some know but break them in the wrong way.

'Killing People Normal for Me' Says Murderer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A gangling transient who boasts that he has killed 11 persons said Thursday: "I'm not crazy. I'm perfectly normal. I know I'll get the gas chamber but that's part of the game."

Stephen Nash, a 23-year-old ex-convict, was picked up with a bloody knife in his possession last week.

Manacled and heavily guarded, he was returned here today from northern California where he told police of killings in that part of the state.

"Killing people is normal for me," said Nash during an interview in his maximum security cell at the county jail. "If you like to kill, you go on killing. If you kill 10, you want to kill 20. If you kill 20, you want 30, then 40, then a hundred. It's like being a millionaire who doesn't want to stop with his first million."

MUST HAVE REASON

Authorities have not yet determined his motives. Dr. Marcus Graham, medical director of the sheriff's office and a psychiatrist, said he has not examined Nash. However, he said: "I think an examination would disclose deep reasons in his background. A man doesn't kill without reason. There is some trigger mechanism that sets him off."

Nash faces murder charges in the recent knife slayings of Larry Rice, a 19-year-old schoolboy who was found dying under a Santa Monica pier, and John Berg, 27, a hairdresser whose body was found in his Long Beach apartment.

Last Monday, Nash was taken to San Francisco where he directed police to a car submerged in the bay with the body of Robert Ecbe, 22. Nash said he knifed Ecbe Aug. 19. Nash also was taken to Oakland to tell police of the Dec. 8, 1955, slaying of Wilfred Burns, whose body also was found in San Francisco bay.

Comedy in Music Very Funny But Borge Best When Subtle

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Borge was very funny indeed in his Concert in Music" (CBS-TV) the other evening. He achieved the commendable result of evoking laughter from coast to coast.

To one viewer, however, he was not as funny as in his one-man Broadway show of the same name. This reaction raises an interesting question concerning some things the medium of television feels it must do when bringing a stage success to the home audience.

There seems to be a theory that one must broaden stage drama or comedy when putting it on television. Borge on Broadway was best when he was subtle. He also has been best in his two television appearances when subtle.

But as a result of the theory that subtlety is lost on much of the television audience, he was induced to throw in some very broad comedy Tuesday evening. Borge burlesquing Liberace and Elvis Presley was not Borge at his best. Borge playing the pianist bases his exaggerated imitations of classical composers was superb.

There is a theory in television that an audience cannot be asked to laugh for an hour; it must cry a little too. There must be a little schmaltz or pathos to vary the pace. The phrase booted in television is "down a Mississippi."

Yet the second Comedy in Music on the following night was great. One can only hope that Borge will go on to do what he has called the third, fourth and fifth halves of his excellent show.

Star Role After Decade But Same Salary for Carol Haney

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Haney finally made it.

It was a hard struggle, and she had to go 3,000 miles to do it. But after entering the business a decade ago, she now is playing a starring role.

Her biggest achievements in the past were in dance sequences, for Brigadoon and Invitation To the Dance. Both ended on the cutting room floor.

Carol is the fast-moving dancer with the face of a pixy (I'll bet she hates that word) who set Broadway afire in The Pajama Game. Now she's repeating her role in the film version at Warner Brothers.

If her enthusiasm over the role is dampened somewhat, it's understandable. She is still under contract to MGM, which is charging $30,000 for her services, but she receives her regular MGM salary, $275 a week, for 10 weeks on the picture.

Yes, I'm unhappy about that," she admitted. "But what can I do?"

Carol's saga is an unusual one. A New Bedford, Mass., girl who started dancing early, at 15 she was teaching classes herself.

She went west and found jobs dancing in studio choruses. Her talent attracted the eye of Gene Kelly and she became his assistant in choreography.

"That's where my training as a teacher paid off. Gene would sketch out what he wanted to do with Cyd Charisse or Leslie Caron or Debbie Reynolds and then leave her with me to rehearse the routine.'

More and more she was relegated to behind-the-scenes duties with only an occasional fling at performing.

"Naturally, I wanted to perform, but it was impossible. It would have been just as easy for a camera man to go up to the producers and say, 'I want to act.'"

Her break came after Kiss Me Kate. She did a number in the film with Bob Fosse. When he was chosen to stage the dances in The Pajama Game he thought of her.

When the picture is over, she plans to return to New York and hunt for another show. Meanwhile, she hasn't neglected her teaching.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which you have found and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Dec. 15, 1956

March 20 to April 20 (Aries) — Friendly influences for personal activities, artistic professions, dealings in jewels and clothes, domestic affairs, etc. Be careful in confidential matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your Venus stresses sensible caution in personal interests and in matters needing finesse. Day, on the whole, is favorable for all worthwhile activities, sports, wholesome diversions.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Important movements, matters requiring sensitive handling and strict confidence will require extra care and conscientious management. The day is intriguing and challenging.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Handling products of the earth, articles for home consumption; improving relations with family, friends; entertainment and art favored. Gift news thoughtfully.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Nurses, cooks, restaurateurs, home and personal matters under fine Moon rays. Selfish desires should be tabooed. Generous returns will result from co-operation with associates.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Artistic matters, scientific work, activities with and for children, charity affairs strongly favored now. Shun worry, overlook slights.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Diversified activities, wholesome entertainment and pleasures on the favored list. Be mindful of your family's comfort, others' duties. Make time for healthy recreation. Be of good cheer.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Some favorable aspects. It can be a comfortable day on the whole; also progressive and enlivening — depending upon your needs, the demands of your family, your schedule.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This may not be a big day but you can pave the way for generous returns later by your handling of affairs now. Plan wisely, enjoy both work and pleasures.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A splendid time for handling produce, cattle, grain, for railroading, necessary building, machinery. Being Saturday, these may not be on your schedule, but, on the whole, the day is favorable for most activities.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Similar to Capricorn and Scorpio. Don't neglect urgent matters, family interests. All can enjoy some wholesome pleasures.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Day encourages betterment of your position and assets. Take up urgent new matters without trepidation. You can handle the most difficult situations if you remain calm. Enjoy a hobby, good fun, too.

You born today have an engaging, bright personality backed by common sense, sincerity, industriousness and general capability. But such talents and assets won't do you much good if they are not cultivated and applied daily. You can garner knowledge, make notable improvements and increase your resourcefulness as you will. Recognize faults, cure them. Curb impatience, a tendency toward extravagance. Aim high, believe in those aims. Birthdate: Maxwell Anderson, noted playwright.

MOSCOW (AP)—A small advertisement in a Moscow newspaper today told purchasers of tickets for an entrance here of a 100-member Hungarian army ensemble that they would get their money back. ## 361 Hungarians Come to Canada For Sanctuary

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The Empress of Britain moved slowly into her berth here late Thursday night, bringing 361 Hungarians to sanctuary in Canada.

The refugees, mostly men but including women and small children, were to begin filing through immigration processes about noon today. They are expected to remain here until Tuesday when they leave for other parts of Canada.

Bitterness because no military aid was given by the West was evident among the refugees.

When told that special church services were planned here before they leave the city, Andrew Podor, 44, replied: "We need guns, not church."

Another man said: "the Hungarian people hoped in breaking that the West would help but we never really thought the help would come."

WOUNDED TWICE

Among the refugees was Peregar, a teacher of physical education at Budapest University and holder of one of his country's highest awards in gymnastics. He bore bullet wounds in shoulder and thigh.

Horvath, a student of biology and geology, is looking for a new start at the University of Toronto.

ELECTION

SAME AS 1927

Premier Hugh John Flemming of New Brunswick was the mover; Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., the seconder. Mr. Diefenbaker said they were picked to show that the party extended from Atlantic to Pacific. A similar selection was made when the late R. B. Bennett was elected leader in 1927. He was the general election of 1930.

The candidate, in accepting the nomination, pledged himself to lift the party to a possible election victory in 1957. Each of them, and their English-speaking movers, expressed some words in French.

"If you choose me as your leader," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "together we can march forward to a hopeful future. . . I will carry a message across Canada that will leave the imagination of every Canadian.

"I have but one love, Canada; one aim, its greatness . . . one aim, unity from sea to sea to sea to the Pacific."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will make the welfare of all Canadians his major interest; there would be "fairness to all and favor to none."

His mover, Premier Flemming described him as a courageous and resourceful champion who has always come to the aid of the misunderstood and the forgotten.

Gen. Pearkes described him as the "terror of his political opponents" in the House of Commons because of his quick repartee, retentive memory and ability as a parliamentarian.

FOR NEW DEAL

Mr. Fleming promised to fight for a new deal for the municipalities and provinces. He would fight for "the restoration of the rights and decencies of Parliament . . . respect of the constitution . . . the rights of minorities . . . a new deal for the less-favored areas of Canada . . . policies that will assure to Canadians the best opportunities open to any people in all the wide world."

Mr. Fleming made a special appeal to Quebec by telling delegates, in French, that he will work to uphold provincial rights, particular concern of many in that province.

His mover, James Malcolm, member of the Ontario legislature for Renfrew South, said Mr. Fleming would draw support, if elected from all parts of Canada, including Quebec.

His seconder, Henri Courtemanche, said Mr. Fleming had made special efforts to understand the French achievement in Canada. Mr. Courtemanche is a former Quebec member of the Commons for Labelle.

HITS LIBERALS

Mr. Fulton criticized the Liberal government and said many thousands of Canadians are weary of "its legend of invincibility, its arrogance, inconsequence and stupidity."

"Canadians are increasingly angered by the necessity of supporting the dead hand of this tired, unimaginative and dictatorial government that represses the latent energies of our people."

Of Mr. Fulton, his mover M. A. MacPherson of Regina said he could bring youth, perseverance and service to the leadership. Mr. Fulton at 46 is the youngest of the candidates. Youth, said Mr. MacPherson, is "an incomparable asset when you join it with experience."

His seconder, Jean Methot of Trois-Rivieres, Que., said "we need a fairly long period of sound leadership. . . We do not want another change five years from now."

Premier Frost of Ontario was among the platform guests listening to the nomination speeches. But he would not commit himself when reporters asked him which candidate he is backing.

Deadline for nominations closed at 6 p.m. Thursday night with no dark-horse candidates appearing as last-minute entries.

Under the balloting system, the candidate with the least number of votes will not have to drop out until the third count, if one is necessary.

DIEFENBAKER NAMED PC PARTY LEADER

Ready To Take On Liberals At Next Federal Election

New Head Sets About Mending Quebec Fences

Enthusiast Convention

There was nothing conservative about the Progressive Conservative convention as balloting for leadership candidates played, grouped shouted support for individual candidates, impromptu parades started and all delegates joined in the clamor. This drum majorette who led a Donald Fleming group, became lost in the Diefenbaker section and had no choice but to be swept along with the crowd. (Central Press Canadian).

EDEN TACKLES VITAL PROBLEMS FACING GOVT.

Prime Minister Returns Much Better in Health

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden, back from his Jamaica vacation, today tackled the mountain of vital problems facing his government as a result of British intervention in Egypt.

National newspapers today printed "before and after" pictures contrasting the sun-tanned, fuller-faced Eden to the harassed worried - looking statesman who left Britain at the height of the Middle East uproar.

On arrival Eden declared himself "greatly invigorated," and began to sign off the nervousness over the urgent tasks that await his government both in the foreign and domestic fields.

PROBLEMS UPPERMOST

The most crucial of these are:

1. To regain as soon as is done as possible the damage caused to the British economy through the blocking of the Suez Canal and the breaching of the Middle East oil pipelines.

2. To restore Anglo-American and Commonwealth relations to normal. Relations before they have suffered through the crisis.

3. To close the ranks of the conservative ranks of Conservatives so that the government can carry the people with it in the various austerities necessary to strengthen the economy.

NOTHING BUT TROUBLE

Today's newspapers give extensive space to the prime minister's return, but only a few of the national dailies have commented editorially. Chief among these is the right-wing Daily Express, which declares: "Trouble at home. More trouble abroad. Trouble with Parliament. Trouble with the party. Plenty of trouble. That is the prospect greeting the prime minister on his return from Jamaica.

"Sharp criticism is inevitable. But far more important is the clamor for a fresh, realistic policy, promptly evolved to meet the new and complex situation. The time for that policy must be expected to address himself with the vigor of strong health."

The Labor party's Daily Herald greets the prime minister's return with the editorial comment, "The case for Eden?" It says he returned "to a Britain which welcomes him his own Conservative party . . . the god is near."

The prime minister, after spending the weekend at Chequers, his country residence, tomorrow will appear in the House of Commons Monday.

Concerning Eden's personal position, politicians point out that he still commands more support from his party in the country and parliamentary Conservatives than any other government leader.

New Conservative Leader

John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer, chosen Progressive Conservative leader on first ballot at Ottawa convention. He defeated Donald Fleming of Toronto, and Dave Fulton, of Kamloops, B.C.

Kadar Orders New Penalties To End Crippling Strikes

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Soviet-imposed Kadar government has taken new measures to force the Hungarian people to end their crippling strikes and passive resistance against its rule.

With the help of Russian tanks, the regime seems to have crushed the last elements of open revolution in the countryside. But there still have been occasional bloody demonstrations.

Now the rebellion is centred in Hungary's factories and mines. Production was reported near a standstill today in Budapest, and at the uranium and coal mines in the south.

Again Friday thousands of workers refused to take up their posts at a dozen Budapest plants even though the factories had been occupied by Soviet troops and Hungarian Communist militia. The workers declared they would remain idle until Premier Janos Kadar releases two labor leaders, arrested for ordering a general strike Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ignoring the workers' demands the Kadar government sought with both threats and inducements to force them back to their jobs.

Coal miners who stay away from the pits, the regime warned, but it promised those who return to work by today both a "loyalty bonus" and credits for building of new homes.

Again the government warned that wages would be paid only to workers who actually help turn out production.

Kadar's government also served notice that any persons caught taking part in unauthorized public meetings or demonstrations would face up to five years imprisonment.

About 28,000 workers—80 per cent of the working force—went to the Ike Csepel iron and steel works south of Budapest Friday but refused to go to work until the government releases Sandor Racz, chairman of the outlawed Budapest Central Workers' Council, and Sandor Bari, vice-chairman. They were arrested Tuesday.

Some 6,000 workers also staged a sit-down strike at the Bejolannis electric factory, and still more thousands refused to work at other plants. The plants were occupied by Russian and Communist Hungarian troops and ringed by Russian tanks and armored cars.

The Hungarian security police Friday seized three Western correspondents outside the Csepel industrial complex and questioned them for eight hours. They included Associated Press reporter Eric Waha, an Austrian citizen, and two Britons. Before their release they were questioned by Hungarian plainclothesmen and Russian officers.

An informed Hungarian source said the number of miners at the coal and uranium mines around Pecs, near the Yugoslav border, has dropped from 100,000 to an estimated 45,000.

As many as 15,000 miners were said to have fled to the West and another 30,000 soldiers and prisoners employed in the mines have vanished.

TCA Trans-Atlantic Airliner Limps to London on 3 Engines

LONDON (CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Super-Constellation landed safely at London airport at Prestwick, Scotland for an escort plane. British newspapers today feared the plane might have to come down at sea, and that ships in the area were asked to keep a lookout.

The RAF plane made visual contact about 40 miles off the Irish coast. Over Shannon, the Canadian plane got three engines working and decided to continue to London.

TCA officials in London said that at no time were two engines feathered and not operating.

"One engine was feathered," said a spokesman, "and a second was acting a little rough. There was some loss of power, but that was all."

About 700 miles west of Ireland, a second engine began to act up, and Bowden reported air control

"Then a third began missing. I was afraid the plane might have to come down at sea, and

"We had a bumpy journey over the Atlantic—even before the engine cut out," one passenger told reporters at the airport. "But I am quite sure no one had any worries."

KEPT BELTS ON

He said the passengers were their safety belts for most of the flight.

"We didn't have to take any other precautions at all. We were told we might be landing at Shannon and then we were told we were flying directly to London."

Pilot of the Canadian airliner was Capt. Bruce Bowden of Montreal. He sent a radio message to Shannon—the first engine—the inner starboard—quit during the night. The plane was at 23,000 feet, and he asked emergency permission to go down to 11,000 feet—below an altitude where icing conditions existed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Cloudy weather and milder temperatures prevail throughout Ontario today as the lower lakes it is foggy and temperatures climbed slowly to above 32 degrees during the night. Farther north a good many places are still reporting traces of snow or freezing drizzle. Slightly colder weather is expected to reach Northern Ontario by this evening but cold not reach Southern Ontario until late Sunday.

Ontario Bees Forced to Take to Road For Honey and Farmers Are Hard Hit

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario bees have had to take to the road for their honey.

For many the search is in vain and beekeepers are cutting their colonies. Some plan to move to Western Canada. Some may charge the farmer for the bees' help in pollination. Some are going right out of business.

The situation is so bad many people are bound to get stung. Especially the Ontario farmer who needs the help of bees to pollinate his orchard crops and garden plots.

If the beekeeper has to move for his bees' sake he must be paid in return for the farmer's sake. That is an unprecedented harvest cost for many fruit and garden farmers.

Prof. Gordon Townsend, provincial apiarist, says the Ontario bee population dropped by 15 to 20 per cent this year alone. In the last 30 years beekeepers cut their colonies to 140,000 from 250,000.

There may even be fewer than the 140,000 by next summer.

The commuting program, under Ontario government direction, has already seen as many as 4,000 and 5,000 colonies on the road.

Some beekeepers are moving their colonies permanently to Eastern Ontario, which they claim is the only part of the province now where bees can get enough food for their honey. Some are considering a move to Western Canada.

"This could result in a serious pollination problem," Prof. Townsend says.

The plight of the bee arises from many causes, experts say. Changes in farming methods since the Second World War have made forage crops out of the fields before the bees get a chance at them. The trend toward more clean tillage and new feed curing methods have also reduced the supply of nectar.

Chemical sprays have produced roadside clover pastures in recent years that are deadly to bees. And another favored feed, insecticides, have killed off bees as well as the pesty ing pests the farmers really wanted to kill.

Now, the only time the bee gets easy pickings is when bad weather keeps farmers away from an early harvest and, lets the, bee taste the honey-making bloom before it is cut and hauled away.

HUGE SABRE JET DEAL UNDERWAY WITH W. GERMANY

Israel May Also Get 24 Promised Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — A $66,000,000 deal involving sale of more than 200 Canadian Sabre jet fighters to West Germany is under negotiation. And it is also suggested here that Canada may yet go through with the suspended sale of 24 Sabres to Israel.

Sources here Friday said an agreement may be signed shortly with West Germany but, as yet, no agreement had been reached.

It was learned that the number of planes involved is about 200 valued at $330,000 each or a total of $66,000,000 or even more. A report from Bonn said West Germany is seeking 225 of the planes.

The sale of 24 Sabres to Israel was suspended Oct. 31 by the federal government after the outbreak of the Israel-Egyptian dispute. Prime Minister St. Laurent at that-time said the suspension was "for the time being."

THOUGHT TEMPORARY

In Ottawa Friday, Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli foreign minister, said she feels the ban is a "temporary" decision. Mrs. Meir made the statement shortly after her arrival in the capital. While here she is to hold talks with government officials, including the prime minister.

There was no government statement forthcoming on the sale to Israel. Nor would the external affairs department comment on the reported sales of planes to West Germany.

The Sabre jets are manufactured by Canadair Limited, at Montreal. Reports here said that West Germany would require government approval.

Last July Canada made a gift of 75 Sabres to West Germany. The planes, valued at a total of $2,900,000, were sent under Canada's mutual aid program for use by partners in Europe.

West Germany entered the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last year and has been authorized to build a 1,250-plane air force. By comparison, strength of the RCAF is some 2,000 planes of all types.

Civilized Life Seen at Stake

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) —Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, in a holiday greeting to his large staff, said that Earth's future 'of civilized life itself as we know it' is at stake.

His message to 4,100 UN employees was published in the UN Secretariat News.

"It is not so much the life of man as a free man, which has been put at stake in this time of crisis," he wrote. "It is the stake in the future of civilized life itself as we know it, for that future depends upon its wisdom and the courage with which peoples and nations uphold the principles of the charter."

Car Hits Truck, Francis Gillings, Smithfield, Dies

TRENTON (Special) — Francis Gillings, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Gillings, Smithfield, was killed instantly Saturday morning at Brighton, when the car he was driving collided with a transport on Elizabeth Street and which was in charge of Douglas Sifert of Brantford.

Gillings was proceeding east on Main Street when the transport was travelling west. How the accident occurred is not known. Crown attorney H. R. Deyman, of Cobourg has ordered an inquest, while the coroner, Dr. W. G. Elliott of Brighton, has released the body for burial which is resting at the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton.

Corporal Lyle and Constable H. Cook of the Brighton detachment investigated.

Young Gillings a year ago on Sunday married his bread truck over in Cranahan township, north of Brighton and has only recently been released from hospital.

Hungary Ousts Two Reporters

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — The Hungarian government today ordered two Western news correspondents, detained by police for eight hours Friday, to leave the country by midnight tonight.

They are Richard Kilian of the London Daily Express and Erich Waha of The Associated Press.

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Fortified with a new leader and a new policy, the Progressive Conservative party today flexed its muscles and got ready to take on the old champ—the Liberal party.

Hopes of flooring the federal Liberals after a 21-year reign were pinned on John Diefenbaker, a rangy, 61-year-old Commons member and lawyer from the Prairies who flattened opposition on the first ballot in Friday's convention voting for a new party chief.

And with the convention's endorsation of a top man to succeed the retiring Hon. George Drew, it did a major rewriting of its eight-year-old platform to bring in many new specific points while holding basically to the party's fundamental tenets.

The new one-two punch has about six months to be prepared for the main bout. A federal general election is expected around June, with undefeated 74-year-old Prime Minister St. Laurent putting his government's record against Parliament's three opposition parties headed by the Conservatives.

WON COMFORTABLY

The new Conservative leader expressed hopes of his party's first victory since 1930 Friday after winning comfortably over two opponents and overcoming an anti-Diefenbaker Quebec move that looked on the surface like a dangerous rift in the party.

Mr Diefenbaker, Commons member for Prince Albert, Sask., and his party's leading spokesman on foreign affairs, racked up 774 votes against 382 for Donald Fleming, St. Paul's Commons member for Toronto Eglinton, and 117 for Dave Fulton, 49, K.C., of Kamloops, B.C.

On his third try at the leadership, he won with 131 votes to spare. He needed 643 to win on the first vote in which all 1,393 ballots were cast—one over half the total.

Immediately, he set about mending his Quebec fences in an acceptance speech in French—and in particular Quebec's unity before the party leader.

Before he had started, a large proportion of the 84-member Quebec delegation had walked out of the convention hall, though Diefenbaker supporters later claimed he had received a more-than-expected slice of the Quebec vote.

GOT FAIR SHARE

Mr Diefenbaker himself said in his speech: "Everyone he got a "fair" part of the Quebec delegates' vote, despite a Thursday night Quebec caucus in which more than 300 were reported to have taken an anti-Diefenbaker stand.

British M.P.'s Hold Divergent Views On What Americans Know of Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons Friday called for an improvement in the government's overseas information services "if" ter members declared Americans were ignorant or informed about Britain.

"The Americans know far more about this country than this country knows about itself," said Emrys Hughes, Labor.

He said he obtained more information about what was happening in Britain from the international editions of the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune than from many British newspapers.

But Sir Charles Taylor, a Conservative who recently visited the U.S., said he found a "lamentable ignorance" there of British views.

"I've must remember there has been no tourist going from this country to the United States since 1939," he said. It was easier for British tourists to go to Communist countries than to the U.S. or Canada because they cannot get dollars.

Sir Leslie Plummer, Labor, said the government's information officers could set do its job when "behind its back, ministers (or) the government misled" the world's press and deny reports of honest newspaper men."

He maintained the government could not expect a friendly reception to the British point of view because American editors got biased government statements from London "in direct contradiction of the eyewitness accounts of trained American correspondents." He cited in particular the "honest, factual accounts of the casualties" in Suez from American reporters.

Bad Weather Cripples Search For Lost Airliner

VANCOUVER — (CP) — The weatherman says hazardous flying conditions in the Upper Fraser Valley today will continue to cripple the air search for a missing airliner and its 58 passengers and three crew members.

The lost aircraft marshalled at Vancouver Airport were held to the ground by heavy rains and low-lying cloud formations which hung over the Hope area, 100 miles east of Vancouver.

A Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star disappeared in this area last Sunday night.

Ground parties, thrown into the search Friday for the first time, will also be hamstrung by the harsh weather.

There was a possibility that the weather would improve about noon today but "nothing is not counting on it," the forecaster said.

Little hope is held for the survival of any of those aboard the airliner.

PREP, JUNIOR GIRLS ENJOY CHRISTMAS PARTY AT "Y"

The Belleville YMCA held a special Christmas party for the Prep and Junior girls on Thursday during their regular gym and swim class. A variety of group games was played with a peanut scramble the highlight. After this the frangipillos were set up and everyone had a chance to bounce. Rounds of laughter rang through the gym when these clowns dressed in red, green and yellow uniforms came cavorting from the gymnasium and proceeded to have a boxing match on the trampoline. After the boxing bout finished, an excellent display of trampolining and tumbling by Jim Heffernan, John Sager and Larry Regensburg brought much applause from the girls. Everyone was treated to fruits to end this event. The program was planned by the girls' instructors, Jean Muirhead and Heather Lewis.

Plan District Exhibits at Sportsmen Shows

Detailed activities regarding plans for moving into New York and Cleveland Sportsmen's Shows to promote this area were presented to the Lake Ontario Development Association directors by its sportsmen's show committee in Peterborough this week.

Expenses involved were discussed and it was suggested representatives travel by bus to eliminate costs of transportation of folders and displays. This was approved and a bus will leave Peterborough for New York, February 13. A similar bus will leave for Cleveland, March 21.

Delegates will include one from each zone of the development region. Cost of the shows will include display and material; $15,000; delegates expenses, hotels and transportation $3,500 for each show. The total budget is $4,000.

Resolutions were discussed and passed on to other zones for recommendation. One asks the province to provide more supervision of fishing and game wardens, another asks resort operators to check addresses on advertising literature to eliminate returns. Another deals with water levels, weed control and locking hours in the Trent canal system.

The board agreed to invite to the next meeting the Irvin Planning Associates to discuss investigating the cost of an economic survey of the region next year.

The Zone Two representative said his zone had requested the consideration of other zones and the board of an investigation of all resorts in the region and Ontario were licensed with regard to standards. This will be passed on to other zones.

Gordon W. Powell, president of the association, summed up the year's activities and said he felt much had been accomplished throughout the first nine months of operation.

Nativity Pageant Beautifully Portrayed by O.S.D. Students

Last evening smiling, simulated Santa Claus faces, with twinkling blue eyes, and long, grey beards, appeared in the branches of frosted, snow-tipped balsam adorned the O.S.D. auditorium walls; while a stately evergreen tree graced each at the entrance; all typifying the gayety of the season in the "spirit of the best." Christmas, making as well a picturesque panorama for the 400 students, their parents, and a fine knowledge of its implication.

The students, of course, yet never saw story of the Saviour's birth, is presented each year by the students, and is attending practise and although the theme remains the same, the setting are ever skilfully changed, and their subtime simplicity is most lovely. As Mr. J. C. Denoza, (acting) in welcome to the capacity audience, explained, the Nativity as part of the school work use to acquaint the students with this wonderful event, and to instil in them reverence for the Word of God.

FIVE SCENES

The play, consisting of five scenes, the Annunciation, the arrival at the inn, the shepherds and the Judean hills, King Herod's court, and the Nativity, was adapted by Miss Dorothy Holland Keeler, who also had charge of the production, costuming, scenery, and highlighted by the music and dialogue under the direction of Mr. S. Alec Eaton.

Immediately preceding each scene, that portion of Scripture describing the event following, was read by Ronald Hartogsveld, with quiet reverence that the occasion was need. Ronald, wearing the white surplice, added reality to the scene portrayed. He had the advantage over the other children, in that up until a short time ago, he had his hearing, but through the efforts of modern science, he can.

Of the five scenes, each one of which was lovely, the annunciation, with Ella white-robed angel, Diane Clarey, and the kneeling Mary, Jean Drury, accompanied by the softly rendered 'Ave Maria,' by Mrs. Al Davidson, was one of reverent holiness in the silvery glow which surrounded them; the arrival at the inn was realistic, and brought out "the pound of flesh," if the ancient days of the last visited by the publicans; the hills of Judea, the dark night, and the shepherds around the coals of the warming themselves, the sudden appearance of the angel with his message; the arrival of the heavenly host and the song, "While Shepherds Watched," was awesome; King Herod's Court with its regal king, slave girls, the dignified high priest in white garb, and the arrival the three wise men, was well portrayed and most colorful.

LOVELY PORTRAYAL

The last scene, the Nativity, was most lovely with Mary and Joseph, the adoring shepherds taking their places in kneeling adoration, the manger; the two angels with outspread wings; the little cherubims; the arrival of the three kings, the stately eldest crowned king with his gift of his gold and white robes of state; the dark-bearded king in yellow robes with his gift of frankincense, and the third king in his royal robes of blue and white, bearing the gift of myrrh as they advanced in dignity down the aisle to the stage, and with the arrival of the heavenly host with their gleaming and rustling wings followed by the saints in white.

Preceding the play, a chorus, "Whistling Wind", was rendered by a group of 13 intermediate students; the rhythm band, which out which the program would not be complete, did a fine rendition of "Santa Claus is coming to town" and "Frosty Snowman"; Miss Gayle Meyers, one of the teaching staff, gave a delightful rendition of "Angels We Have Heard on High," an old French carol, accompanied by Mr. Graham. The singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night," by the large audience, many of whom were present for the first time, will long remain in memory.

The cast of the pageant is as follows:

Scene I. The Annunciation

Mary, Jean Drury; angel, Donna Clary.

Scene II. The Arrival at the Inn

Inn keeper, Austin Barron; Publicans, Louise Martin, Joanne Merrylees; Roman soldiers, Billy O'Neill, Normal Thompson; taxpayers, Kenneth Yates, Sharon Bates; Joseph, Andre Bourgert; Mary, Jean Drury.

Scene III, On the Hills of Judea

Shepherds, Herbert Alton, Andrew Dube, Lynn Jarvis, Richard Moyanhan, Lowell Newsted, Stephen Reeve, Jackie Wales; young shepherd, Gerry Sullivan; herald angel, Diane Warlow; heavenly host, Patsy Bishop, Catherine McDonald, Agnes Galea, Faye Westbrook, Geraldine Hall, Barbara Beaumont, Anita Jackson, Sharon Kilbreath, Beth Gonneau, Evelyn Caldwell, Shirley Elliott, Marilyn Bisbop, Lillian Klubs, Betty Williams, Doena Roult, Beth Moore, Nancy Moon, Mary Gwalter, Marlene Caldwell, Marilyn Lawrence.

Stage manager — Harry Wilson; assistant — L. Armes, B. Eynon and H. MacDonald.

Refreshments were served in the home economics room after the pageant in charge of Miss K. B. Daly.

Offering at the door was for the Pupil's Benefit Fund.

Prospects for Good Financial Year for Cheese Producers Look Favorable Says Pres.

With current stocks of cheese in storage not too heavy and with the 1957 make down a bit in Ontario prospects of a good financial year for Ontario cheese producers in the 1957 look favorable.

This was the encouraging message which members of the Hastings county cheese producers' association heard at their annual meeting held in Stirling Friday when they were addressed by Hector C. Arnold, Marmora, district president of the cheese producers' marketing board.

Speaking to a meeting which was saddened by the death earlier in the week of J. W. Morrison, well known Rawdon township farmer and member of the county cheese producers' directorate, Mr. Arnold reviewed the work of the board during the past season and told of their efforts to get more money for cheese and that was being received for the raw product going into condensed evaporated milk.

He told of negotiations with cheese buyers and when negotiations broke down without agreement on price, how the matter was referred to the board for a price of 33 cents per lb being set.

Two weeks following arbitration a price of 34 cents per lb was agreed on by the board and the trade and the price in the price had been set at 34 cents.

Mr. Arnold felt that in view of world production cheese should have been worth 34 cents all summer, but assured the producers they did the best it could under the circumstances.

BOARD REELECTED

He noted the only alternative to a negotiated price was a marketing quota and that was dependent the board was undecided whether an agency was required.

Establishment of an agency would mean a pool of cheese producers which would have to be formed and this would tend to cut of all producers necessary to get approval.

"At the moment I do not feel that an agency is required, but would prefer to have more money in the producers' pocket. An agency could be the answer before too long," he added.

Noting that the situation looked favorable for 1957, Mr. Arnold observed there was nothing in sight which would indicate a reduction in the price present 34c.

Referring to criticism that the cheese producer operated cheese storages were not paying this year, Mr. Arnold said that high world prices had meant sales of cheese had been good, with the result that little cheese had been held in producers' storages, with resulting smaller revenues.

He admitted storages would not show a profit this year but asserted it was better to have a scarcity of cheese and relatively high prices, than a big storage at low prices.

"You can't eat your cake and have it too," he said.

In closing Mr. Arnold urged producers to exert every effort to produce the highest quality milk, and also urged strong support of their organization.

ALMOST WAR DEVELOPING

He said that a war was developing between big business and producers' organizations as business sees producers taking over more control of their own industry.

"It is up to all to get behind their own organizations, whether it be co-operatives, vegetable producers or cheese producers," he said.

Referring to the higher return for their work which organized labor received, he said it was time the farmers, Mr. Arnold noted that 16 per cent of Canadian workers were in agriculture, but they receive only seven per cent of the national income. "It should be double," he said.

A panel discussion answering many questions on cheese manufacturing, milk quality and on cheese marketing was held. Taking part in the panel were Wilfred Cooper, Sunbury; W. O. Coon, past president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association; Cook, Belleville cheese buyer, and G. G. Bailey, Harold.

This was the first time that a panel discussion had been held at the Hastings County Association annual meeting.

County Association president Allan Ketcheson of Madoc noted that cheese prices generally had been better this year and said that the work of the marketing board had been principally responsible.

In memory of Mr. J. W. Morrison whose funeral was being held in Stirling at the same time as the cheese producers' meeting, a minute of silence was observed by the members.

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

Mr. Ketcheson was re-elected for a second term as association president, with Gordon Bailey stepping up from the role of secretary treasurer to that of vice-president. The new secretary treasurer is Phil Carr of Stirling. County directors elected for the years: Sidney, Fred Heaseman; Thurlow, Percy Ray; Tyendinaga, Sherley Delaney; Rawdon, Lindsay McKeown; Huntingdon, Russell Bilte; Hungerford, Harry Coulter; Marmora, John Bell, and Madoc, Edward Robinson. Auditor is Fred Beckett of Harold.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES?

Hark! what mean those holy voices,
Sweetly sounding through the skies?
Lo! the angelic host rejoices;
Heavenly hallelujahs rise.

Listen to the wondrous story,
Which they chant in hymns of joy:
"Glory in the highest, glory,
Glory be to God most high!"

Peace on earth, good will from heaven,
Reaching far as man is found;
Souls redeemed and sins forgiven!
Loud our golden harps shall sound.

Christ is born, the great Anointed,
Heaven and earth His praises sing;
O receive whom God appointed,
For your Prophet, Priest, and King.

Hasten, mortals, to adore Him;
Learn His name and taste His joy;
Till in Heaven ye sing before Him,
"Glory be to God most high!"

Here is one of Christendom's great hymns of the Nativity. "For Christmas Day" is the title under which it appeared in Dr. Thomas Cotterill's "Sheffield Collection" in 1819. It was written by the Rev. John Cawood, an English churchman who began life as a farmer's son, with limited educational advantages, but who managed by private study to gain entrance to the University of Oxford where he was graduated with honors in 1801.

Shortly after leaving the university, he began to prepare for the ministry. In 1814 he became curate of the church at Bewdely, in Worcestshire and he continued as spiritual leader there until his death, in 1852.

Cawood's Christmas hymn, though not as well-known or as widely sung as Dr. Isaac Watts' "Joy To The World", Edmund H. Sears' "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear", and James Montgomery's "Angels From The Realms of Glory", is highly regarded by song leaders and singers of the church. It is undoubtedly one of the best of the dozen or more songs that he turned out. Several of the others were published, with the Christmas hymn, in the Cotterill collection.

A Lift for Living

The Real Meaning of Christmas

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The spirit of Christmas is in the air. The shop windows are putting on festive garb, the trees are lining up on city streets, the eyes of little children are starting to sparkle with expectancy, in fact all normal persons are beginning to feel a quickening of the pulse.

And the darkness of our day should make us appreciate the deeper meaning of the Advent season. We who have been waiting through two World Wars for a peace which does not come can comprehend the gladness which ran through Israel when Isaiah shouted: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light." We whose gas go out to the oppressed sufferers in Hungary can understand how the downtrodden Hebrews welcomed the prophet's promise that the expected Messiah would set up a kingdom and "establish it with judgment and justice from henceforth even forever."

But what happened to that promise of deliverance? The One whom Christians call the Messiah did come 19 centuries ago, and yet here we are in the midst of dangers and evils very similar to those which beset the ancient Jews. How can we work ourselves up to any high expectancy about Christ's coming when those old expectations seem to have been exploded by the failures of history? Hence many of us will listen again to the Christmas story somewhat as we go to see a beautiful pageant produced year after year. So often we hear people say, "It takes children to make a real Christmas." So we shall try half-recapture the spirit of childhood and make merry. But do we expect Christ to come in any real and vital way?

Are we to conclude with the Jews the Messiah has not yet come? Or are we to believe with those who hold Christ did come in Judea 19 centuries ago, and is to come again in the clouds of heaven? Or is He here now and we do not realize His presence? When and how does Christ come?

In the great prophecies of the Old Testament, we find the Jews looking for a Messiah who would restore the throne of David and the glories of Solomon. Their country had been invaded. Their capital city had been sacked and their leaders carried away in captivity. But their dream of deliverance would not die. Surely their God who had led them through the wilderness under Moses would send a leader to restore Zion.

This popular expectation smoldered on strongly and significant or spectacular event could stir it into a flame. The Nativity stories, with which the New Testament opens, poetically reveal how the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem aroused this smoldering hope. According to the account, the Wise Men came asking, "Where is he that is born king of the Jews?" This report awakened the fear of Herod, whose throne would be threatened by an uprising of Jewish patriotism around a prospective leader.

But the Babe born in Bethlehem did not identify himself as King. He refused the crown offered by His countrymen. When He was tried before Pilate, the Roman governor, Jesus said, "My Kingship is not of this world; if my Kingship were of this world, my servants would fight."

Christ did not fight Herod or Caesar with arms. But He unloosed in the world such a spiritual force that the Herods and the Caesars have increasingly been toppled from their thrones.

Would we see where Christ has been coming? Then look at the empty seats where once sat the Napoleons and the Hitlers, the Mussolini and the Stalins. And we can see Him coming this Christmas in the flames of freedom burning in Hungary and in the storms now brewing among the disillusioned Communists.

Yet there is another way to watch for Christ's coming. It is the way of the Judean shepherds. The Wise Men were looking for a Savior. The song they heard was: "Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior who is Christ the Lord."

Christmas is no mere pageant of past performances. Christ is our Eternal Contemporary. He is here and yet coming. He stands around you at the lives He is changing.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON.

BIGGER CONSUMES SMALLER

In a poem entitled "The Artful Ant", a party was given for all the animals. But, as usual, little hostess provided no other refreshments than the guests themselves, because "the larger ones took in the small, the small took in the less, the less took in the least of all—it was a great success." The story ends with, "The lion went home looking very stout, and walking very slow."

This is a true picture of the way nature manages to keep a balance. When there is no interference from human beings, all goes well. As at the ant's party, many little birds, such as small flycatchers, warblers, downy and hairy woodpeckers, "take in" insects of various types, both flying and crawling. To enable them to live, robin-sized predators, like shrikes and sparrow hawks, feed on "the less". In turn, "the larger ones", including, let us say, the 11-inch red-tailed hawks, feed on any birds that are smaller than themselves; while the great horned owls, sometimes 25 inches in length, will easily finish off even a red-tail.

Many of us are disturbed by all this. When a large pike leaps up from the depths and snatches a duckling as it paddles around on the surface of the water, we are revolted. It shocks us to see a harmless mallard mutilated by a mud turtle. But after all, these predators are merely trying to obtain sufficient food to sustain life. How much better are we ourselves, with our sneaky consumption of meat and fish! Without this arrangement by Mother Nature, we would never be able to raise successfully our crops of grain and vegetables—they would be lost to grasshoppers and other field pests. Should hawks and owls be exterminated, we would be the sufferers, because their diet consists mainly of small rodents, including mice to a great degree. Long-eared owls positively could not exist without a supply of mice. Sparrow hawks require birds and mammals, so that they catch such critters as meadowlarks and jays, rabbits and squirrels.

All living things produce surpluses at certain times. When there is an over-abundance of any pest, be it insect or animal, a predator is needed. When tent caterpillars covered our trees, we were thankful for cuckoos, because they are among the few birds that really appreciate hairy caterpillars. Franklin's Gulls devour insects, and have been known actually to help control plagues of grasshoppers. When we are confronted by hordes of pests, let us remember that birds are our allies.

HOPE, FAITH AND BALD HEADS

If hope and faith are ingredients of success then thousands of people now bringing prosperity to dozens of hair growing organizations are well on their way to fame and fortune.

It is most fortunate for these hair growing agencies that hope more often springs eternal from the human breast than does hair from a bald head.

If all were made of agreement regarding the possibility of restoring lost hair or even preventing baldness, 99 per cent of the population would prove its sanity with a negative reply.

But many people, particularly men who are losing their hair, are not logical creatures. Fired with hope and spurred with vanity, they have an incredible capacity to believe what they wish to believe rather than what they know to be true.

Human peacocks with moulting plumage prefer to pay for a hopeful fantasy rather than live with an embarrassing reality.

Unlike other well-ehorn lambs they go to the slaughter well aware of their fate. When necessary, the scalp operator, whose main qualifications are a thick head of hair and a straight face, stimulate this involuntary emotion with a money-back guarantee.

For those with the well-known Scottish kids himself into believing that he sees fuzz sprouting but when this foliage proves nothing more than a mirage on a bleak horizon, he seldom or never claims the money-back-if-not-satisfied guarantee. The vanity which drove him to this madness also prevents him from admitting that his worse fears have been realized. He is so sensitive about his defect that he refuses to even utter the word which would spare his shiny domed friends from a similar fate.

Indicative of the infinite capacity of sparsely-haired men to lie to themselves is the spectacle of prospering hair growing agencies waxing ecstatic with "amazing new scalp discoveries" while the medical profession after many years' intensive research gloomily admits its inability to help man retain his hair.

An imbalance of the male-female hormone structure, with the male as usual guilty, has been established as the underlying cause of hair loss which continue to defy satisfactory counteraction.

Massive injections of female hormones have stimulated hair growth but not permanently or with assurance that the voice of the recipient will not soar like a runaway balloon. In making a choice between losing one's hair or its owner and creating a nation of heavy-haired tenors, the medical profession has chosen discretion as the better part of valor.

An apt commentary on the inability of hair-growing fraternity to cope with the task is the fact that bald Hollywood heroes prefer toupees to cover shiny scalps which if exposed would cut short the careers of any high school girl in mid-air. Just to rub it in, this Hollywood wig maker posted a well-publicized $5,000 bond in the bank as a standing offer to the first man to grow hair on a bald spot.

It is a significant tribute to the faith and courage of the new crop of hopefuls about to benefit from "amazing new hair discoveries" that this $5,000 reward, which should have been won years ago by one of their benefactors, is still unclaimed.

CONSUMER CREDIT FIGURES

Tight money will be with us for some time," says the December issue of "Canadian Business," published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. "Any accurate estimate of the capital requirements over the next 12 months cannot be made, but most authorities believe they will outstrip the supply of money and manpower." It continues:

Those observations refer to loans for business and industry and to municipalities. Consumer credit will also be affected by graphs published in the same issue reveal that the situation can hardly be termed alarming from the standpoint of the consumer. Total consumer credit is now almost $2,500,000,000, compared with approximately $1,000,000,000 at the beginning of 1950.

This total consumer credit is made of three items, personal loans; charge accounts and instalment credit. Of these items two have climbed sharply since 1950. The exception is provided by the charge accounts, which were over $200,000,000 at the beginning of 1950 and are now well short of $400,000,000.

Personal loans have climbed sharply and steadily, from $300,000,000 to $900,000,000. The graph showing instalment credit, on the other hand, is a line with humps and hollows. Starting less than $500,000,000 in January of 1950, instalment credit declined slightly, rose sharply to a peak of $400,000,000 by the end of the year, dropped during 1951 and much of 1952 until it was near the level at the start of 1950, rose steadily and sharply to just under $800,000,000 in mid-1953, levelled off until mid-1955 and has since climbed sharply to its present level of over $1,000,000,000.

Most interesting part of this graph, though, is a subdivision between retail dealers and finance and loan companies. In 1950 finance and loan companies accounted for less than half of the instalment credit. There were fluctuations in the division of the total instalment credit during the next three years, but since the end of 1952 finance and loan companies have raced into a big lead, until they now account for almost two-thirds of the total.

THE HALF-WAY SPOT

Onward and upward runs the trail,
And steep toward the top,
But any live can fail
And choose the time to stop.
The many start, but only few
Keep on with courage stout.
But always there are stragglers who
Soon weary and drop out.

Men beat themselves it's often said,
A truth that all admit.
They see the hardships just ahead
And then decide to quit.

They fear to fail; they fear the worst.
But victory's denied.
No man will ever finish first
Who stops too soon aside.

No man will ever gain the top,
Though he it far or near,
Who suddenly decides to stop
From weariness or fear.

The half-way spot is not the spot;
The resistant thought is wrong.
Should man stop, there 'twill be his lot
Forever more to stay.

Beethoven Week

New York Times

New York this week is celebrating that titan among musicians, Ludwig von Beethoven. Our Mayor, in proclaiming Beethoven Week, has solicited" all the concerts and other pertinent events taking place during it. Beethoven was born 186 years ago in Bonn, Germany, and lived fifty-seven years. A century and a half is quite a bit. But in May, 1927, Bernard Shaw had this to write about it: "The crusty old Ludwig is dead, and he would be not hear his own music played by full orchestra, yet still able to hear thunder, shook his fist at the roaring heavens for the like reason, and died as he had lived, challenging God and defying the universe. He was Defiance Incarnate..."

The choice of these December days for the celebration seems to be because a campaign is under way to rebuild the Beethoven Concert Hall in Bonn, which was destroyed by war in 1945, then being a century old. The Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation and the International Committee for the Reconstruction of Beethoven Hall are organized the celebration, and the participation of prominent musicians concerned in it is a galaxy.

* * *

So prodigious, so buttressed is Beethoven's eminence today that it is a little astonishing to note that he was not always so highly rated. By 1810, when he was 40 and after he had composed his five symphonies, his name was still "a synonym for cacophony and madness," as Romain Rolland remarks. He was the brazen upstart, barbarian, Schopenhauer said.

In the early Eighteen Hundreds the romantic age had set in luscious bloom, and the classic style seems to have been a lag. Handel and Haydn, with their oratorios emplars, even Bach, it appears, being a little suspect in some quarters. Around him the young musicians of the romantic school were gathering, Beethoven's Schumann, Berlioz, Liszt, Chopin, Wagner, to name some — were either unborn or in their nonage. Mozart was obviously thus delayed, but he was strenuous to the end.

In the course of time proponents of Beethoven came to the fore. He was a classicist, they said, because they were so active — as the romantic musicians are not today — in the original design to commemorate Beethoven at Bonn. These were Liszt, Berlioz and Schumann.

The project in August, 1845, was to unveil a statue of Beethoven in his native city, and to present a series of his works there. It is declared that Schumann composed his Fantasia in C to obtain subscriptions toward the monument. Liszt, choosing piece of music "heard the stamp" of Beethoven, it is written. It was actually dedicated to Franz Liszt, which indeed was appropriate, since Liszt had taken the initiative in the Bonn major share in the effort to bring honor to the great man. Franz Hauser, Heller Liszt and Berlioz had jointly given a Beethoven concert in Paris to raise funds, and at Bonn it was Liszt who inspired the festival, and, indeed, performed the E flat Concerto. Spohr conducted various performances, including the great Ninth symphony.

* * *

It remained for Hector Berlioz—who, apart from his prodigious talents as a composer, was a gifted musical journalist, to leave the best record of the events at Bonn.

As early as 1829, only two years after Beethoven's death, and when Berlioz himself was only 26 years old, he had written a brief biography of the master and defended his work from the bitter attacks of hostile critics. "Beethoven," he said, "stood alone" in proclaiming Beethoven's genius.

The official organization of the Bonn affair was fairly slipshod, Berlioz reports. "The invitations addressed to foreign musicians were merely routine official courtesies." Possibly as a result, the event was ignored in Italy ("In Italian eyes Beethoven is not even," ) by the Paris Conservatoire and elsewhere. Many years, instrumentalists from all over Europe were also absent, as that the orchestra involved in the predictions was inadequate.

* * *

Queen Victoria of Britain and her Consort, Albert, were there, guests of the King of Prussia. The attendance was in fact very large, made up, says Berlioz, of people "truly attached to the art and to its real sound."

The affair was, in the end, successful, it appears. "Beethoven stands in the main square of Bonn, seated in a chair, in the midst of members of the great, play around the base of the statue.

And now, a new memorial is to be erected at the genius' birthplace. It is going to New York to share in this endeavor.

Censored Journalism

Peasleuth, in London Observer

I have often wondered what effects censorship in Ireland might have on journalism. A conspicuous of the main feature on page 4 of the Irish edition of our contemporary, the Sunday Express, is the Pope's English edition (October 14) interesting in this connection.

The English edition's article on the French film star, Brigitte Bardot, begins: "Brigitte Bardot, the most uninhibited, provocative sex kitten to appear on screens in France, jumped out of bed and came hip swiveling across the set to greet me." The beginning of the bed." The Irish edition substitutes "jumped out of bed."

"Her blue and white pajamas fitted her like a second skin," says the English edition. "Her blue and white gown," says paragraph 2, the Irish edition. "Her hair is now why they have christened her 'The Sex Kitten'", says paragraph 3, "Her have christened her 'The Cat'", says paragraph 3 (Ei; "Cheerio" is out in Ireland. "Cur vee" are OK.

Of the reverse of the article there is not even a photograph of a night club, Ireland, a photograph of three Carmelite monks.

Gas no Threat To Hydro

Ottawa Journal

The fear that natural gas, if its use becomes widespread in Ontario, would become a harmful competitor to the government hydro electric system was voiced by a municipal electric meeting in Toronto. There was a suggestion that Ontario Hydro should plan to meet competition by a widespread publicity for the advantages of electric power.

The idea was promptly squelched by A.W. Manning, general manager of Ontario Hydro, who pointed out that consumption of electrical energy was increasing in Ontario by around eight percent annually, which is 400,000,000 kilowatts. This figure represented exactly half of Canada's share of the potential St. Lawrence power development output. Two years after the St. Lawrence project is opened Ontario will be using all the power it can obtain from that source.

As a matter of fact with the huge industrial and population growth this province is experiencing Ontario is fast approaching the time when every possible source of energy will be used to the limit. Experts in this field think we will likely be able to use all the natural gas that can be obtained and other kinds of power as well.

'Farm Sitting' Is Popular

Lethbridge Herald

"Farm Sitting" is an expanding occupation at Clarkedale, Missouri. The practitioners are not high school girls but elderly retired farm couples who attend 10 days to six weeks on the farm doing the chores while the farmer and his family go off on vacation.

The idea has found favor with farmers and sitters alike, as the latter is especially a farmer and his wife can enjoy their holiday, confident that their farm is in competent, experienced hands. The sitters are happy to exchange for a short time to the work which has been their life — and often to the actual rural neighborhood in which that life has been lived.

There is, in fact, is a practice which ought to become more widespread.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RINGSIDE SEATS

"Take heed unto yourselves." Thus says the Good Book, and we encounter in that word "yourselves" something which indeed needs to be pondered.

Most of us can point out plenty of evil in our neighbors. We sometimes wonder how we came to be placed among people who have so many faults and so much ignorance as our associates. But all through the Word "yourselves" is find the declaration that if we attend to the evil in our own lives we will have plenty to do. "Take heed unto yourselves"—not unto your spouse, your children, your roommate, your business associate, but unto yourself. Your contribution you can make to the world is to get your own life straightened out. The most recalcitrant and unregenerate sinner you and I will probably ever encounter is ourselves. If we are ready for a wrestling match with the devil, most of us will have to go very far to find the place prepared, lots of people on hand with grinning faces and much shoving for ringside seats.

If once in awhile, we could stand off and—well, laugh at ourselves, it would help. "There is so much bad in the best of us and so much good"—but you've heard that before. What these wicked days need is a little more a little rough handling, and not the velvet kid glove handling. "Take heed unto yourselves."

He marched them up to the top of the hill
And he marched them down again.

That's how we remember it. We are sent back to infancy by a correspondent who had heard that the Queen's Own Rifles, awaiting orders to move to Egypt, would be employed by their commanding officer in "route marches and that sort of thing."

We suppose rhymes with infinite difference because versions vary almost as much as the accounts of how they came to be written. Even the authorship is recollection of the verse we also offer the Duke who we understand inspired the rhyme. He was the second son of King George III who liked him so much that he had him elected to the bishopric of Osnaburg when he was six months old, followed by his appointment as a Knight of the Bath in 1767 when he was four years old.

The latter's favor, not always a certain gift to sons of the sovereign, made him Duke in 1784 and in 1792 he was sent to Flanders in command of an English contingent. He was a poor commander-in-chief and led the army ingloriously back to the junction with a Russian corps. When the Duke joined the main body of the army disaster followed disaster until he signed a convention under which the allied force withdrew after giving up its prisoners.

The British people, with their usual skill in making the best of a bad job, honored the Duke with the rhyme and a tall column in London.

The Duke later was acquitted of taking bribes and won praise for the vigor of his army reforms. We decline to become involved in the argument on whether he won the rhyme by his fecklessness in hill-less Holland or by his enthusiasm for training route marches in England.

Poor Man's Metabolimeter

When I tell you that I have yet to learn of an instance in which a basal metabolism test has proved a greater advantage to the patient than an ordinary physical examination by a real doctor, you may conclude, if you wish, that I'm ignorant.

The machine or gadget used for making an estimate (called measurement only by courtesy) of the metabolism rate is commonly called by the cash customers, but according to Du Bois (special article on Calories in Practical Medicine) J A M A 84:62) measurement of the metabolism rate with the metabolimeter is subject to an unavoidable margin of error amounting to 5 or 10 per cent.

"One book on metabolism ends with this sentence," said Dr. Du Bois: "God forbid that we make or diagnose by machinery."

Another authority (Dr. Barnes) reported in the same medical journal (84:1-12) that a thousand cases of the basal temperature test proved a better index for thyroid therapy than the basal metabolism test.

The other day a lady complained, "although I am sick, I have been anywhere from minus— to minus — physicians seem to be afraid to use thyroid therapy."

If thyroid therapy is not the purpose of a basal metabolism test— as Dr. Du Bois said: "It must be admitted that basal metabolism tests are seldom of great value except to be diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the thyroid gland."

The lady asked whether I know what happens to hypothyroids after the thyroid medicine has shown their minus metabolism to the satisfaction of the various trick specialists or "clinic" racketeers. She asks only rhetorically. Then she answers herself:

"We are subjected to all kinds of X-rays, surgery and painful treatment, and in the end passed off as chronic complainers. It seems that hypothyroidism would be a comparatively simple thing to treat—but it isn't."

From the lady's description one might guess the attendants in the "clinic" get the rest from the head man, seize the customer bodily and force him or her through the works.

But that is ridiculous. The probability is that the lady was eager to have all the extra tests and treatments.

As the lady surmises, hypothyroidism is indeed a comparatively simple thing to treat. It is the doctor who does his own thinking.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The easiest people in the world to buy Christmas gifts for are the outdoorsmen and outdoorswomen. Books, of course, if it is a mere matter of a gift. But if it comes up into the realm of presents, that's much more difficult than it is a matter of gifts. But if it is bloomin' easy. Or it is bloomin' easy where up to $200; or mountaineer boots; or fantastic, fur-lined, fur-underwear . . . de luxe items all. The outdoorsman or outdoorswoman is a real customer.

As far as books are concerned, the outdoorsman belongs to one of three categories. The first category wants a book of reference, a manual, precise and exact. One that naturally indicates Roger Tory Peterson, his world-famous bird guides to the birds, but also all the other manuals issued under his editorship, on mammals, reptiles, butterflies, sea-shells, ferns, animal tracks.

The second category of outdoorsman is the kind that likes to stay indoors long enough to browse and read the belles lettres of the wilds. And this year, besides Fred Bodsworth's very beautiful "Last of the Curlews" which is still a best seller, the offering of highly attractive books on the outdoors at the present level is remarkable. The French writer, Georges Blond, has done a book on whales, which is written "The Great Migrations", and though not a biologist, but only a writer, has made a fascinating account of the mysterious migrations of the lemmings, the eels, the buffalo and the birds, which will make you look at the earth and the sky with more surprise than it is customary to do.

If your friend has not got "Wild Goose" by Roger Tory Peterson and James Fisher, then get that, though it be almost a year old. Then, if he has not got "Autumn Across America", by Edwin Way Teale. For these are books for the third category of outdoorsmen, the ones who, like a lilliputian child, wish to be hand of their father and go wandering

Colliers, Woman's Home Companion Halt Publication

NEW YORK (AP) — Collier's and the Woman's Home Companion, familiar magazines in millions of homes for more than half a century, will disappear from the North American scene next month.

A company official indicated that a seeming paradox—rising circulations offset by increasing publishing costs and dwindling advertising revenues—prompted the end of the two magazine giants.

The 15-member board of directors of Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. wrote the death notice Friday night by voting to discontinue publication. Their action came at the end of a six-hour tension-packed meeting.

The dim prospect of continuing a losing venture weighed heavily in the decision.

SUFFERED BIG LOSS

Paul C. Smith, company president and board chairman, said the two magazines, with a combined circulation of nearly 8,500,000, lost more than $7,500,000 this year.

He blamed it on inreasing costs and declining revenue from advertisements, despite peak or near-peak circulations for both publications.

Smith announced the board's decision "with the greatest regret." Affected are some 2,600 employees. More than half of them have a jobless future in less than a month.

A bleak band of employees kept a vigil at their offices during the board meeting, hoping against hope. They left when the final word came.

The board thus withdrew Crowell-Collier from the magazine field leaving the firm with its principal making book-publishing business.

CEASE IN JANUARY

Colliers, a bi-monthly general magazine with an announced circulation of 4,179,700, will cease with the Jan. 4 issue. The Companion, with a circulation of 4,-283,800, ends publication with the January issue.

Gardner Cowles, president of Cowles Magazine, Inc., simultaneously announced an agreement under which Look magazine will take over the unexpired subscriptions of Colliers, Crowell-Collier said arrangements would be made to divert the Companion's subscriptions to other publishers.

The company discontinued the American Magazine last August in an effort to trim its finances. Smith said the $7,500,000 loss for Collier's and the Companion will result in an over-all company loss this year of $2,500,000.

The Face of the Stamp

The Father of Telegraphy

By NICHOLAS MIKA

"I like to tell you the story of an American artist who struggled all his life for recognition, but his brush and paintings brought him nothing but disappointment and misery. When in despair he started tickering with batteries, wires and electromagnets, he not only made a fortune but one of the most remarkable inventions in the world, the telegraph. It was like this:

After spending many years in continental Europe and on the British Isles where he studied art, he sailed home. On board were a few American scientists who enthusiastically talked about new achievements in electricity. Having nothing to do they painter listened to them with increasing interest. He had always been quite fond of physics and at home he was considered a handy man. The conversations began to fascinate him. Suddenly, he jumped to his feet, left the discussion group and went to his cabin to be alone. Here he began to think over what he had heard. If electricity could be sent over a great distance, why not use this power to transmit messages from one place to another? Certainly, the desire to speed communication existed long before him. For centuries mankind had tried in vain to solve this problem. The desire remained a dream.

INSPIRING THOUGHT

Excited, he left his cabin and went on deck. Slowly, out of the chaos of a hundred items, a most daring but practical idea slowly came to his mind: The electrical current could be broken at short intervals . . . once he had heard a demonstration of Arabic drums and, unbelievably, his fingers began to tap in spaced intervals on the woodwork. How long he stood on deck, he did not know. He walked back to his cabin, tore a page out of his scratch-book and began to draw. He designed the boat plowed her way through the night towards the shores of America. During that night he produced his most famous drawing, the drawing of the future telegraph. And what is most remarkable, the principles of the telegraph as he first laid them down in this drawing remained almost the same until today.

But believe it or not, when he landed in New York two days later he had completely forgotten about his revolutionary invention. He resumed his old conquering his country as a painter. He painted feverishly. His travelling art exhibitions instead of bringing him fame, left him a financially broken man. The few pictures he was able to sell barely covered his expenses. Sometimes he was so poor that he could not afford a bowl of soup. He only possessed one shirt and a worn-out suit and to keep his shoe soles from falling off he had to tie them on with a string.

GOT APPOINTMENT

Finally he got a job. He was appointed professor of art at the New York University. With the few dollars he earned and the free room he was granted, at last he could buy some more canvass and paints. To save a few pennies he cooked his own meals and washed his laundry himself.

Poverty could never destroy his love for art, but when his offer to paint a panel for the Capitol in Washington was rejected, he finally abandoned his career. Bitterly disappointed he did not leave his room for a few days. However, his personal tragedy made him one of the most famous American inventors, for now he remembered the drawing he had made on the boat.

All the parts he needed for his telegraph, he made himself. Out of a picture frame he constructed a receiver and an old alarm clock served to pull the tape on which the first dots and dashes were printed. The more he progressed with his work, the more he was convinced that he was on his way to success.

But he was wrong again. His telegraph was not only considered impractical and useless but not worth a tea toy. It took him twelve years to arouse the interest of the Congress and to obtain permission and funds to build the first telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore.

On May 24th, 1844, the inventor-painter sent the first official telegraphic message over a distance of forty miles. The dots and dashes on the tape read the now famous words: "What hath God wrought!"

With this historical message he placed himself in the rank of the great benefactors of mankind. This man who spanned the telegraph over the entire world and who dreamed to become famous as a painter was Samuel Morse.

Samuel Morse appeared on United States stamps in 1940.

Minor Hockey

The Bisley-Hawks blanked the Browns by a 3-0 count while the Bruins whitewashed the Bargent 4-0. Rangers earned a 3-3 tie with the Canadians by scoring in the final minute of play while the Red Wings and Maple Leafs battled to a 5-3 deadlock.

Ron Carrigan was the Bangor hero, blasting home the Hawkshirts' third goal with less than a minute remaining in the game. Jimmie Ross and Allan Mott each netted the other Ranger goals with Jimmie Woodcock assisting on two and Gordon Pinder on one. Jimmie Rutherford fired a goal and an assist for the Canadiens. B. Skinner and Jimmie Johnson also scored with assists going to Larry Ryan and John Hendrick.

Wayne Brantan sparked the Bruins 4-0 win, netting two goals while Gary Gray and Bill Leslie had the others. Jerry St. Denis and Bob Ridley each helped on one goal.

Colin Male and Mike Dunley shared the starring role for the Black Hawks in their 5-0 victory. Male potted one goal and set up Dunley for the other pair.

In the Leaf-Wing tie, six players shared the scoring spotlight. Art Lucas, James Carmichael and Jay Kiser fired the Leaf goals. Tommy Horton, Frank Farrell and Davie Hannah were the Wings' marksmen. Tommy Bennett of the Red Wings and John Miller of the Leafs each had an assist.

Many Messages Congratulate Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — "Congratulations and mud in the eye of Bay Street," read one of a huge flock of telegrams from well-wishers that flooded the downtown hotel rooms of John Diefenbaker.

"We enjoyed your French last night," read another.

Heartiest congratulations from an old Liberal," said a third.

From the mighty and the low the tumultuous praise poured in. The telephone never stopped incessantly. The victory parade found scores of Conservatives jamming the Diefenbaker hotel rooms, to drink to the future of the new Progressive Conservative leader.

Small knots of French-speaking supporters rolled out song after song in their native tongue. The flow of well-wishers persisted to such an extent Friday night that the prairie lawyer and his wife grew tired.

SLIP AWAY

For a moment they slipped away to another hotel suite to rest. It had been a tense, exciting week. And the Diefenbakers were looking for a moment of reprieve in some secluded out-of-town place for the weekend.

Some had anticipated his victory ever since Fleming and Davie Fulton and had sent their congratulations before he was proclaimed victor. One magazine produced a newspaper dispatch from Florida which quoted Prime Minister St. Laurent as saying—during his Florida holiday last week—that the "info" from Prince Albert, Sask., would become the successor to Hon. George Drew.

Mr. St. Laurent sent him a message of congratulations. So did Mr. Drew. Mr. St. Laurent said he was not surprised at the election results.

"While we cannot wish you success in attaining all your goals," he said, "my wife and I extend our most sincere congratulations and our best wishes in your new and important functions."

From Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Drew messaged: "Congratulations and all good wishes to Olive and yourself."

Children Assist In TB Drive

For several weeks now millions of children have been marching and counter marching all the way from Gander to Prince Rupert, from Dawson City to Windsor. Their parade grounds are hundred of thousands of letters and parcels. Their field equipment is the double-barrelled cross of tuberculosis workers the world over.

At least 14,786 of them started their route march from the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association office here. From points on their line of march in this district $3,223.40 arrived at the local office. This is clear indication that 1,210 contributors know the reason for the march of the twins on the Christmas Seals, which is the need for money for a preventive program if tuberculosis is to be wiped out.

Not all the marching children have been as successful in their mission as those dispatched to contributors. Unless more people in Hastings County heed the children's message the tuberculosis preventative program planned for 1957 by Hastings County Tuberculosis Association will have to be curtailed.

Chicken Most Plentiful Fowl This Year, Turkeys Ranking Second; Ducks, Geese Scarce

As for the wiseness- or folly of buying your Christmas fowl now, that is entirely up to the individual. Some folk like to place their order now with their neighborhood meat market, others prefer to wait until later, then rush downtown to take their chances at getting a satisfactory bird. Why wait?

It might be helpful to know that Belleville butchers have been taking orders for Christmas birds for some time now. All the buyer has to do is pick up his purchase a day or so before zero hour. This plan saves much time and bother, and gives the householder a little more time to worry about what to get Junior for Christmas.

The butchers generally agree that chickens are the most plentiful fowl this year, with turkeys ranking a close second. Geese are few and ducks are almost non-existent. Prices are about the same as last year; Capons bringing 52 cents a pound; roasters, 45 to 49 cents; broilers 35 cents; and turkeys 49 to 49 cents, depending on whether or not they are pre-stuffed.

Supposing, though, you decide to drop downtown now, buy a bird and take it home immediately. If the bird is freshly killed, but uncleaned, butchers prefer to clean it before freezing. If you don't wish to clean it right away then put the bird in the refrigerator. Chickens will keep nicely there for three days or more, but don't expect turkeys to the fridge for more than 48 hours. If one or two chickens are to be kept in the refrigerator, don't clean them until the day before they are due to grace the table. And don't stuff any bird until Christmas morning — that is. If you want a delicious meat and not something that tastes like a overcoat old rancoat.

Beware of thawed-out fowl. Do not try to freeze it again. Experts claim that re-frozen meat or fowl can contribute to sickness. At least the bird won't take the way it about but whether you will delin. tately necessarily is another matter.

Some people like to revert to the days of old and let a freshly killed bird hang in a cold dry room for a few days. Hanging adds flavor to the bird, of course, but you may forget about the bird until it starts to decompose, and away Christmas dinner. If you want to let the bird hang, don't "draw" it until you are ready to put it in the fridge or deep freeze. Fowl goes had from the inside out so that on Christmas day what looks like a dinner fit for a king is liable to taste like the last rose of summer if you let it hang too long or hang the bird after it has been cleaned.

Precaution: Know how long your bird has been dead before you let it hang for a few days.

There is one particular disadvantage of buying too early and that is the bird will clutter up your fridge or deep freeze to such an extent that you won't be able to buy other Christmas dinner perishables until closer to the big day.

Consideration should also be given to the number of people expected to engage in devouring the bird. It would be just as silly for a couple to get a 20-pound bird as it would if a large family bought a 10-pounder. Buy enough to carry you through Christmas dinner with enough to satisfy sudden visitors. Be sure to wrap what is left of the bird in tin foil and put it in a cool place.

Belle Haven Club Holds Yuletide Dinner

Much progress has been made by the Belle Haven Rehabilitation effort, over the past two years.

This was evident at their third annual Christmas dinner party held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, this week. Dinners were also taken to a number of shut-ins.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, the tables were tastefully decorated with colorful Christmas placemats which were donated to the club by Miss Yvonne Bateman of Toronto.

Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, brought greetings from the city and expressed her wish for the members to keep moving forward with vigor and hope for tomorrow.

Greetings were brought to the members by Frank Follwell, M.P., Alderman Etta McCabe and Alderman Frank Grandame.

Mrs. I. Gilchrist, former of a Rehabilitation Centre in Scotland hopes to see many more of the handicapped children in the club.

The "Mad Hatters' Variety Show", which consisted of comedy, solos and cards by Frank Howard's band, "Imitation of Elvis Presley", and "Hillbilly Band". Other enjoyable features were Frank and Willie of Trenton, ventriloquist; dancing and cards by Freddine Smith; Helen Gill, Sylvia Lazenby, Jack Beacon, Harriett Woodcott and Bill Slater, contributed to the fine entertainment.

Mrs. R. Milligan presented Mrs. W. R. McMurray, president, with a cash shower from the members.

Several donated prizes were won.

Mrs. Diefenbaker Receives Gifts from Friends

OTTAWA (CP)—A necklace of quartz and gold from an absent supporter was among the first gifts presented to Olive Diefenbaker as she stepped into the role of the Progressive Conservative party's first lady.

Minutes after John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old MP for Prince Albert, Sask., was named Conservative leader at closing sessions of the party's national convention Friday, his wife received roses and an orchid corsage.

The necklace came from Harold Parker, a party follower from Yellowknife, N.W.T., who had to catch a plane and missed the banquet to make the presentation.

CAME UNWRAPPED

The gift came unwrapped, with only the giver's name and address written on a crumpled bit of paper and the notation that Mr. Parker lives in the party's "most northern riding."

The orchid corsage came from the Prince Albert delegation, and the roses from the PC Women's Association of Waterloo South. They were presented in the convention hall, but Mr. Parkes' gift was received by Mrs. Diefenbaker as she talked to reporters in the press annex.

Minutes before, facing a convention audience of nearly 3,000, she said thank-you for the support given her husband and spoke in both English and French.

In French, she told the convention: "I give you my word, that the next time I speak to you I shall speak better French."

When her husband's election was announced, she told a reporter: "Since you wanted it, I wanted it for him."

Her eyes were wet with tears as she and Mr. Diefenbaker walked through the crowded convention hall, returning handshakes, hugs and kisses from well-wishers all along the way.

Beauty By Night

By ALICE ALDEN

Satin shines at night, especially at gala gatherings. Conspicuous, too, is the floor-length skirt and the svelte line. All three are very much part of this gala gown which Nettie Rosenstein does in gray satin with the softest of pink accents. Pink is used to emphasize them to accentuate the line. A gathered silk net stole is worn over the strapless bodice, the net matching the lighter shade of the combined gray.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Readers of this column will have noticed an inexcusable error in spelling, Wednesday last. It was not a typographical error. It was a lapse for which T & T was alone responsible. The book we mentioned ought to have been spelled "Glooskap's Country." The correction carries its apologies.

The awareness of our interdependence one to another, was born in on us this week while we did a bit of Christmas shopping. We were getting tired and somewhat impatient. Aching, feet, a headache, just being tired were taking their toll on frayed nerves. A woman who is a fine clerk in one of our stores came over to us and putting her hand on our arm said, "I read your column regularly. Can't you put something in soon telling us how to keep from getting tired?"

We laughed of course, but the friendly joke caused us to pause and consider the men and women who serve us with a smile and great patience the year round. Surely, they are unsung heroes and heroines during December. How terribly tired they must get being on their feet hour in and hour out; being friendly when patience is strained; being accommodating when we are inconsiderate; being helpful when we are trying to make a choice, etc. and etc. T & T can offer no recipe or prescription, but we determined to offer our tribute for the cheerful spirit with which the clerks in our stores serve us when we must be very difficult, really. Appreciation may not come, but it can lighten the daily task.

We noticed a letter in a large daily newspaper which deplored the passing of the church supper. The writer pointed out that there were a great many men like him, a widower, and bachelors, who suffered them. It provides them with a friendly meeting place as well as good food.

We wonder if the same trend is not noticeable in Belleville as well as the larger metropolitan centres. Money-raising affairs in churches now seem to run to rummage sales, bazaars and teas. The ladies say these are easier to do and make as much money, and the ladies are the ones who do the work after all. But the family participation and attendance is not so great.

However, the country parishes still provide these bountiful repasts, and it is surprising, too, how many city folk will trek for them to attend. There is a wonderful spirit of fellowship pervading a chicken dinner—homemade.

T. b.

A weekend thought.

"When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but rather a tumult was made, he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it." St. Matthew 27, verse 24.

Then within a brief millenium of time, Jesus was taken to Calvary for his crucifixion.

Where, oh where in the heavens can the Hungarians find the star of Bethlehem, the star of hope, as they lie in the cavali bridge? Hungary's brief millenium of time between men and the festival of the manger. A whole nation has been nailed to the cross and a spear thrust into his bosom as the inhuman soldiers of an evil doctrine cast lots for the spoil of a gallant race. Let none of us, whether we be of the common herd or the chiefs of state wash our hands to proclaim in anguish: "We are innocent of the blood of this just people: see ye to it."

Can we say in conscience with Jesus: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" and then turn our eyes away as the destroyer "parts the raiment of Hungary and casts lots" for that we cannot because the destroyer is the one that moves will what a hell he has created on earth in this age of enlightenment. We believe that God has cared for us! Can we not in reason and good conscience believe that Hungary is dying to rise again and at her Calvary save us in 1956?

There can be no sacrifice where none is intended, and it is not too much to believe that Hungary is being sacrificed for us on the Communist cross; that this sacrifice may be the salvation of the 20th century from an evil too

Mrs. Alice West sang a solo which was followed by a Scripture reading, Luke 2:4 by Mrs. Margarete Rodgers.

Mrs. Annis Dickens gave an appropriate reading.

Mrs. Nellie Greenwood favored all with a reading, "Christmas in the East."

Mrs. Annis Dickens introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Coulter, who chose as her subject "Our Spiritual Preparation for the Coming of Christmas and What it Should Mean to All of Us."

This talk was enlightening and was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Leona Bailey thanked the speaker.

After retiring to the church hall, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Leona Bailey, Mrs. Annis Belcour, Mrs. Bessie Clarke and Mrs. Leda Watson.

When You Cross the Rio Grande You Enter Another World

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Juarez, Mexico—Don't be surprised; we're still on the return trip of the same coast-to-coast tour we've been telling you about right along, despite the foreign dateline. If you weren't listening in geography class, Juarez is right across the border from El Paso, the only large American city adjoining a large American city.

You'd never know it, though. Once you pay your two cents toll and walk across the Rio Grande (which, incidentally, doesn't end here as most Easterners think; it runs way up into the San Juan Mountains of Colorado), you're in Mexico as surely as you would be in Acapulco.

Walking across is the best way. If you drive you may have to buy special insurance, since many domestic auto policies don't cover Mexico, and if all your belongings weren't left in the trunk, you'll have to check them through customs, both ways. Much simpler and faster to park for 25 cents all day on the U.S. side and take a cab for 30 or 40 cents to get where you're going in Juarez.

What's the first thing the subject of the prices of things in Juarez: there aren't any, not even for cabs. Whether you pay 50 or 75 cents for a cab, or for anything else, depends entirely on the mood you look like, and are, and how good a bargain you can make.

BARGAINING

A pass at the American principle of fixed prices is made at the Juarez Cathedral Curio Market, which the timid do not shop. Probably the rents for the rickety shops that line the alleys of the streets are higher in return for locations where the tourists are sure they are asked, rather than dig a little deeper into the wilds of this subterranean shopping center.

Juarez, despite its proximity to a bustling, average American city, has more in common with the backward towns of the Philippines and South America than with any place in the U.S. And so does the Latin-style love for haggling.

If you take that 50 or 75-cents cab ride to the curio market, better have the right change for the cabbie and everybody else; few of the merchants seem to keep change on hand. Anyway, here you'll get an idea of what it's like to shop in a department store which not only doesn't expect the sale price to be paid but sells the same items in different departments for as many different prices as there are departments. (Well, they're really privately operated concessions, but the place resembles a primitive department store to us.)

There's almost sort of a code to it. Anything for which 35 cents is asked will go for a quarter, and anything which is asked $1.15 means a buck. Twelve-fifty means $10 in the long run and a $20 coat is designed to bring $18 or $19.

Of course, those $20 suede jackets and $10 silver belts, hand-tooled purses are worth three times the price across the border, but you're not playing the game right if you pay what you're asked.

Whatever you pay, the bargains are wonderful if you know how to shop. The leather goods, Mexican-Indian skirts and blouses and shawls, imported perfumes, liquors duplicated any place up north at the same price.

GREAT SAVINGS

Most ordinary items—clothing, pottery, straw things, decorative pieces, souvenirs—can be purchased safely where the spirit and the price moves you, but it's wise to confine your purchases of such typical local things as leather goods, perfumes and jewellry to reputable stores even if they cost a trifle more.

Name brands of rum at $1 to $1.30 a bottle and imported French perfumes with distinguished names at a fraction of their usual cost will mean a great savings even if you do pay a little more than they asked at the many-looking stall down the street. The state of Texas charges a small tax on liquors when you cross over, but they're still cheap.

El Paso is one of the few ports of entry on the border where you are exempt from the rule requiring you to be out of the United States for 48 hours before you can bring back up to $200 worth of merchandise duty-free. But, while you can cross the border and buy all you can carry as fast as you can pay for it, you're only allowed to do it once every 48 hours. That shouldn't trouble you unless you live in El Paso and customarily spend $200 a day in Mexico.

Hallelujah! Every Sunday, and if you've never seen one, don't pass up the chance. The first Sunday in each month may make you sick but after that you'll probably see the beauty of the classic clash of man and beast the way the Latins do.

You may even find yourself coming back just for that.

Women's Activities

BETHEL-ZION W.A.

BETHEL-ZION — The regular meeting of Bethel-Zion W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Williamson with a large attendance of members and several visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Clifford Ray, presided and opened the meeting.

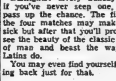
Business arising from the minutes was dealt with.

Mrs. John Ketcheson gave a report of the area convention.

At this point, Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson introduced the guest speaker, Miss Brant, who spoke on Child Welfare work. She explained the work of the Children's Aid Society and said that they have changed from institutional care to placing all children in foster homes. With one goal in mind, so child would be neglected or abused. She said all have a proper birthright.

"The Children's Aid acts on their behalf." The speaker took as an illustration the transplanting of a tree, and said: "It was much the same as moving a child from one environment to another no matter how carefully we lift the roots some are bound to be damaged. The younger the child the easier to transplant. So also with a tree."

"Care is taken also to choose the proper place. This is referred to as seeking out the soil. Some foster parents expect too much. Their reward is in seeing the children they have placed blossom out in a grow and become born say, 'no one ever bothered about me before'."



"The society feels it is in the home that a child's life is molded."

Miss Brant was thanked for her splendid address.

Mrs. C. Crosskrie, convener for Citizenship and Education, gave a paper, assisted by Mrs. Roy Sills.

A grand social hour followed with Mrs. Harry Ketcheson as leader. Lately refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time enjoyed.

PARISIAN CHRISTMAS NEWS ACCENTS GLAMOR

Fur-framed glasses for teen-agers are the latest Parisian frivolity.

There's lots of beauty and fashion news from Paris right now, according to the correspondent who tips us off periodically on what's going on in the fair City on the Seine. Christmas gifts are even more glamorous than usual this season.

Because you're a woman and no doubt interested in these Parisian frivolities, we'll pass along our correspondent's news bits, but don't hope to find them in your local store in time for Christmas because they probably won't be seen on this side of the ocean till after the first of the year. Keep your eyes open then, however—if only for fun!

First thing our man tells us is that the newest thing in underfeatures a marvelous and mysterious embroidery, which is a kind of plastic pattern sprayed onto the silk, cotton or nylon. Also new, he says, is a short nightie with a frilled hood attached. There's great fashion accent on stockings, too. Pale pearl-grey, with a bluish tint, have been especially designed for the cocktail hour, but all prefer to have their place in hose for rounding-the-clock wear—pale greys, dove greys and greenish greys which give an iridescent lustre to the feet. For evening wear, Schiaparelli features hose which are extraordinarily sheer, graced with a romantic gold seam that gives the impression of having been painted on the leg.

Cuff-links, our correspondent adds, are very much the vogue for both males and females since shirt blouses have become the vogue again. The latest ones are locket-shaped with a dried flower slipped inside—jasmine or violets for girls as violet is the color this winter; and a tiny feather for boys.) For men, colored stones are a must, as long as they are matched to the main color of their ties.

Trivially which gives us the biggest chuckle is the vogue for fur-trimmed gloves for tee-agers who dream of winter sports—and stay at home. These are made to match a coat—tiger, ocelot or panther—or to match one of the new fur bonnets which are worn on the back of the head.

And we love the idea of a new Parisian record . . . too bad we won't be able to get it in time for Christmas ourselves. Made by Yves Montand, it is a best seller at the moment since it's called "Darling, give me some money to buy new clothes." Fashion-minded women, our correspondent says, are using this as a new angle to approach their husbands for Christmas frocks. Ah, those Parisiennes!

BLACK SUIT

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

In a season dedicated to color it is surprising to see how black has taken hold and how the black suit is the winning suit in every category. Black waffle weave sweater is used for a new suit that is ever so fashion right. It fastens with bright brass buttons, and the buttons appear at the flaps of the high-placed pockets on the short, semi-fitted jacket. Seaming from under the arms converges towards the vertical slit usually placed low on either side and there is a black skirt to be worn beath the small rolled collar.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHE DOESN'T WANT "BEVY OF BRIDESMAIDS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to have a large church wedding and so must have at least six, probably eight, ushers. But I have never been interested in having the so-called "bevy or bridesmaids." What I really would like to have is my married sister, whom I love dearly, as my matron of honor, and my only other sister, a lovely and decorative "sweet sixteen" miss, as a junior bridesmaid. But I am wondering if this arrangement of the wedding party would look unbalanced in either the processional or recessional. What do you think? And, if you approve of my idea, what would you suggest for the formation of the processional and recessional?

Beatrice R.

For your bridal attendants you should have just the ones you want to have, and just the number you want to have. I entirely approve of your having your little "family group" of sisters. And don't be at all fearful that the processional and recessional will give an unbalanced appearance. The Procession: first, the ushers, two by two, then the "sweet sixteen" sister, junior bridesmaid, walking alone; next, the matron of honor, alone; and last, you and your father, or whoever is to escort you up the aisle. The Recessional: bride and groom; next, matron of honor, either alone, or (more usual today) with the best man; junior bridesmaid, alone; last, the ushers, two by two, as in the Processional.

HOW GIRL WITH KNOW-HOW MAY LAND SECOND DATE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend and I would like to ask your opinion on what is most important to us and also to several other girls we know — and we have all discussed it often. It is this: After a very enjoyable first date, is it proper for the girl or the man to ask for a second date?

Ann S.

To ask for a date is the man's privilege, though a girl might get a second know-how can say her appreciation-of-the-first-date with an appealing note. Also that she may very well land a speedy following-up request for a second date. For example, she may say, with her most attractive and engaging manner, "What a wonderful time this evening, Jim, it was grand fun! Other girls we know . . . are you, per, wonderful movie . . . you're a perfect host, thanks a lot for inviting me." P.S.: Get that important word "inviting" rightup in there without seeming to . . . thus it will, we hope, suggest a second "inviting"! Anyway, it's worth trying.

WHERE TO SEND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Very good friends of ours are having their Thirtieth Wedding Anniversary soon. The Junior House party to celebrate this occasion is to be given by their daughter and her husband at their house. Under these circumstances should my husband and I send our anniversary present to them at their house or to them at their daughter's house?

Reader

Usually wedding anniversary presents are taken to the anniversary party . . . they add a charmingly festive touch. If you think for find it will be to be the plan, you and your husband should take your gift with you, by all means, presentation." But if it is something that can't be taken or if you haven't any particular interest in presenting it personally and having it shown at the party, you may send it to the home of the couple whose wedding anniversary it is.

FORM OF NAME FOR "RETURN ADDRESS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

You said in your column the other day that it is correct to write one's return address on the envelopes of Christmas cards. Which form of name should I write—Mary Robinson or Mrs. John Robinson? — Reader

Write Mrs. John Robinson. Your formal name is the name to use for this "public" information.

Teaching Child To Read, Talk At H. & S. Assoc.

The monthly meeting of Avondale Home and School Association was held at the school on Monday.

Mrs. Lyle Jones opened the meeting with the singing of "O Canada". The business meeting followed with various reports which brought affairs up-to-date.

Mrs. John Introduced the speaker, Mrs. Grace Anderson, who spoke on the methods used to introduce a child to reading and made suggestions to be used to prepare the child for school the time he starts to understand what is being said.

The talk most certainly helped those attending to understand what a complicated but rewarding experience this could be to all concerned.

Mr. Gerald Ackerman thanked the speaker.

Refreshments followed, served by the mothers of Grade 6 pupils.

Lovely Lingerie

By TRACY ADRIAN

With Christmas just a few shopping days away we thought this might be a good gift suggestion for husbands to give their wives or for relatives to give girls who are planning a trousseau.

The lingerie set is really the essence of feminine luxury in a glamorous, floor-length nylon lace gown, and a matching peignoir. The gown, lined in nylon tricot, is sashed high at the Empire waist. Its filmyh finger tip coat has three-quarter puffed sleeves and a shirred yoke with two rhinestone buttons.

The Festival Behind Christmas

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, Dec. 17—The gods of Greece and the gods of Rome were much the same—the stories about them, too. It is like seeing the same play twice, with a different cast each time.

Thus the Greeks the father of the gods was Cronus, whose name means "Time". . . "Father Time." He was dethroned by his son Zeus.

In Roman mythology the place of Cronus was occupied by Saturn: the myths about the two are practically interchangeable. Saturn sits at a large family, turned upon them and devoured them all, except Jupiter, the god of the air, Neptune (water), and Pluto (the grave). Time (back to the Cronus again) cannot consume. Saturn was dethroned by his son Jupiter.

The Romans, living under the mythological reign of Jupiter, believed the time of Saturn had really been the "good old days," the Golden Age. Once a year, beginning on the 17th of December, they held a great festival, the Saturnalia, in memory of that happy bygone era.

It was a wild sort of festival, one of unrestrained disorder. At first it was three days, long, then a whole week. It started in an innocent pagan way with some quite pleasant customs. During the Saturnalia, grudges and quarrels were interrupted or postponed; no sentences were punished. Slaves sat at their master's tables and were served by them in memory of the happy days of Saturn when all men were equal. But this genial reversal of order and suspension of discipline inevitably deteriorated into a week-long revel of vice and crime. Man has never been able to behave very long when the teacher goes out of the room.

To us a Roman festival seems ancient, but before the Saturnalia ille even more remote celebrations as the time of year. Man's most primitive calendar was a simple awareness of the changing seasons, the equinoxes and the solstices. And always the winter solstice was the time of the greatest festival, partly because agricultural people (as they all were in those days) had little to do at this time of year, and partly because the changing sun now brought the promise of new life in a new growing season.

One special feature of the Saturnalia—the giving of gifts—shows the festival reached back into an antiquity the Romans themselves had forgotten. Traditional gifts were candles, imitation waxfruits, and dolls. Scholars say the dolls were actually symbols of the human sacrifices of an earlier day, and the waxfruits were connected with ancient fertility rites.

The candles meant what they still mean: now in the darkest time of the year mankind has always had, and probably always will have, his festival of the Return or Nativity of Mithra (Persian) the birthday of the sun was celebrated now. The Jews had, and have, their Hanukkah, whose custom must have been burning in the Jewish homes when Mary had her Baby in Bethlehem.

A time of new creation, a festival of lights as old as the world itself—this was the logical time for Christmas, the Nativity of Christ the Light of the World.

That Dec. 25 was established as the date of Christmas was due to a mistake in the Julian calendar, in which the 25th rather than the 21st was shown as the date of the winter solstice.

DOUBTING THOMAS

Friday, Dec. 21—Today is the day of "Doubting Thomas," the Apostle who refused to believe the other Apostles' report of the Resurrection until he himself had seen and touched the Lord's risen body. (St. John, chapter 20, verses 24 to 29.)

There are legends that Thomas went to India as a missionary. Although the tales may be true, and not accepted, skeptics are faced with the inescapable fact that there is now in India a large group of Christians who call themselves "The Christians of St. Thomas"; who use the Syriac speech, the language spoken by Thomas, in their services; and who claim to have been founded by the Apostle.

The history of this group before the 16th century is not known, but there is no doubt in scholars' minds it has been in existence since earliest times.

St. Thomas was martyred in India on this date in the year 72. His relics are preserved in the Cathedral of St. Thomas at Mylapore.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU SHOULD FOLLOW THROUGH ON THE SEPARATION

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was married at 21, and have been married for ten years. We have two sweet daughters, seven and eight years old.

My husband and I always get along fine when he isn't drinking, but it seems he's always drinking and chasing after women. The first time he was unfaithful was only three months after we were married. That almost broke my heart, it's been going on ever since, all these years.

When I look back on my marriage, I see I was always the one to say home, give in and forgive, but now I feel I can't love any more or forgive any more.

Twice my husband almost killed me for dancing with another man. No one must even look at me, yet he cheats on me all the time. One night he's going to kill himself. The next night it's to be me. Each night he tells me how much he loves me, and that nothing and no one will ever part us. I'm a nervous wreck.

He never plays with his daughters any more, as he never know he's coming home or what state he'll be in when he does come, usually he's drunk. Three weeks ago I filed for a separation. He took the papers, but hasn't filed out, showed them to everyone and laughed about it.

This morning he came home at five o'clock, after being out all night, and told me another girl loved him and wants to run away with him. He told me he loves me, but I don't believe it. I didn't fight with him; I just don't feel anything. I don't want to hurt him, but my nerves are very bad, and I just want peace and quiet for the two little girls and myself. — Mrs. A.

ANSWER:

Your letter doesn't make it very clear whether or not you're going through with the separation action you filed some weeks ago, or whether you've left it up, but in my opinion there's no use waiting any longer. You have much better grounds now with, for your husband sounds like a dangerous man to live with.

-The one thing in the world that might help him, I think, would be to find himself completely alone. Yet when he has been consistently unfaithful and driven on for ten years, I'm afraid there is little reason to believe that he will suddenly straighten up.

Since you've filed for a separation, you need legal advice from a lawyer, but I feel that you should also get out to him good advance from someone who will give you continuous help in the way of figuring out what is the course of action to follow in the immediate future. It would be inviting more trouble to leave things to chance. You should be definite, have worked out and ready to follow as soon as your separation is legally effective.

You should know, for example, just what you can get for the girls, daughters are going to live, and what money you can expect from your husband to help support them. I think you should also consider whether or not you'll be able to work for you to get work yourself, as I doubt very much if a man who is so heavy drinking will be depended on to make regular payments to anyone.

In your city there is an organization whose business it is to help people who, like yourself, are in deep trouble. If you don't know the name and address of the organization ask your lawyer, your pastor or your family doctor to call. Then get in touch with the organization and ask for an appointment to discuss a serious family problem. You'll find friends there to be ready and anxious to help you.

Fine Fabric

By ADICE ALDEN

Wherever the climate is mild enough to allow it the winter coat of fabric is having a tremendous season. While many coats are fur trimmed, some of the most outstanding numbers rely on fabric, cut and detail for appeal, as does that one, Monte-Sano of Pruzan, that master-tailor house, does an exquisitively cut coat, semi-fitted, on straight lines. The fabric is a wine and navy blue tweed that is most effective. Bone buttons are given the seasoned. array, cuff sleeves and a flat-collar spell out distinction.

QUESTION:

May I have the recipe for old-fashioned tomato soup? I enjoy cooking with your recipes a lot.— Mrs. C. M. A.

ANSWER:

Here is a real old-fashioned

TOMATO SOUP

Simmer together 2 1-2 cups cooked tomatoes, 2 cups water, 1 12 pounds beef, cut up, 1 bay leaf, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 teaspoons sugar, for 20 minutes. Press through a sieve (there should be four cups). In the top of a double boiler melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon soda and a few grains of pepper. To this mix in 3 tablespoons flour and mix smooth. Add 2 cups milk and stir until thickened. Add the sieved tomatoes and reheat and serve immediately.

QUESTION:

I am a homemaker of one year with a new baby and an almost finished house with room to entertain at last. What I need most are supper dishes that require a minimum of time and stock from a moderate variety of supplies. Dinners don't bother me as much as these drop-in suppers do, so need some new recipes to vary the menu. I found in an old 1917 cookbook the suggested supplies for the modern homemaker: Six cans of all of these: pimientos, tuna, salmon, string beans, limas, devilled ham, tomatoes, cocktail, milk; six jars each of beef pickles, olives; 12 cans each nibblets and peas; 6 boxes sweet wafers, 1 box salt cod, 2 packages marshmallows, 3 cans mushrooms, 2 packages macaroni.

I have on mine unned . roast beef, mushroom soup, macaroni, peas, butter, tuna, salmon, pineapple jello instant puddings, olives, canned fruit and fruit cocktail, cheez whiz, ritz biscuits, and some popcorn, cookies and candy. The desserts are poor in number. Can you help me?

up vanilla pudding with orange slices, or marshmallows or fresh fruit in season but would find a scarcity except on a bigger budget than we have. —Doris G.

ANSWER:

I think you are an excellent planner and that your emergency shelf is more practical than the 1917 cookbook's. One jar of pimientoes, dried beef, deviled ham, pickles, olives, marshmallows, mushroom would be plenty.

To your list I might add canned grapefruit and Mandarin oranges (they can be worked into a first salad or last of course), a box each of instant rice and a cake mix, a can of cherries or apricots (for a fast cottage pudding with a beautiful fruit sauce or an upside down cake); a can each of lemon juice, nuts, butter or shortening and a small can each of flour and sugar.

Make your own puddings, cheaper and better flavored with a Blanc Mange base: 2 cups hot milk (could be reliquefied milk powder), 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup cold milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Variations are endless. Would you have room in the freezer for a carton of homemade Italian Meat Sauce? If so you could whip up a popular meal for six or 8 by boiling 1 package spaghetti, serving the heated sauce over it, with grated old cheese. Chop Suey could be made with canned chicken and canned Chinese foods. Don't forget Chilli con Carne. I'll write a column on emergency meals with your particular request in mind.

PEIPING (AP)—Is your circulation a little sluggish? Get tired, run-down feeling? Then take the bones from a tiger, grind up fine and eat.

Got the sniffles? Munch a pill made from a ground-up centipede. Your aching back? Well, dried beetles are an excellent pain killer.

Doctors in Communist China say these remedies, taken from Chinese medical journals written before the birth of Christ, actually work. In Peiping the traditionalist doctors who use the remedies are taking business away from Western-trained medicos.

CLAIM MANY CURED

"The Chinese physicians have been practising 3,000 years, but this is the first time they have ever had a hospital of their own," said Dr. Wei Ching-ming, director of the Hospital of Chinese Medicine.

"Most of our patients have already been treated in Western-method hospitals and have come out unsatisfied. We take them here, and the percentage of successful cases is really beginning to rise."

The hospital, with tilting Chinese roofs and flower-filled courtyards, is set in a block of Chinese summer houses built during the Ming dynasty 500 years ago.

Its offices and treatment rooms are filled with glass-fronted bookcases containing medical textbooks thousands of years old, printed in flowing Chinese scrip on rice paper. They contain herbal recipes and general remedies which clash with practically every principle of modern medicine.

12 WESTERN DOCTORS

Dr. Wei is a Western-style surgeon trained in a Japanese medical college. Here he serves strictly in an administrative capacity, while the traditionalists do the practising.

"We have 13 Western doctors on the staff but we let Western medicine," he said. "But the westerners' job is only diagnosis, and sometimes they take x-rays. Consultations are held between the two schools, but the traditionalists do the work."

Chinese medicine men have been practising in villages and in the back streets of cities for centuries. They use knowledge handed down from father to son, but are unaware of the reasons behind their cures.

Since 1950, almost all the hospitals in Peiping have established traditional clinics, and Western and ancient doctors are exchanging information," Dr. Wei said.

STUDIED 11 YEARS

Dr. Tang Chuan-ching, a 65-year-old practitioner of the old system, observed:

"Foreigners are inclined to consider us as quacks. That's ridiculous. It takes us 11 years to learn traditional medicine than a Western doctor spends in school.

"I myself studied for 11 years under our village doctor 40 years ago and had to memorize more than 3,000 prescriptions. Now that we have been recognized, I'm a teacher myself. I have a couple of disciples who follow me around watch me visit them."

Dr. Tang added:

"A few weeks ago, a patient in one of the Western hospitals was due to have his leg cut off. It was paralyzed, and he believed in amputation.

"We brought the man in here and treated him for a few days with herbs. He's up and walking around now and walking very well, but he has both legs."

NEEDLE TREATMENT

Aside from the use of medicines made from tiger bones and tiger urine, dried beetles, centipedes, powdered deer horns and dehydrated snakes, about the strangest practice is acupuncture, the science of needle treatment.

By sticking the patient with long, spring needles, the medicine men say they have succeeded in curing certain cases of paralysis, nervous disorders, and have even achieved a certain amount of success with polio.

"But most of our work is done with herbs," said Dr. Tang. "We even have herbs that will cure a broken bone."

In other Peiping hospitals, a patient is given a mixture of both technique. The diagnosis of the two teams is often the same, the westerners working with their school knowledge and the traditionalists measuring heartbeat rhythms with a method developed in the Tang dynasty.

"We had a man from Pakistan in here not long ago," said director Wei. "He had been in and out of modern hospitals all over the world for the last 30 years, but the latest discovery disappointed.

"I took a look at him and couldn't do a thing. he traditionalists took over and cured him in a matter of days."

He paused, then added: "Amazing."

The republic of Western Germany covers 94,000 square miles compared to 42,000 square miles for East Germany.

Anti-British Demonstrations Flare in Athens

ATHENS (Reuters) — Anti-British demonstrations flared here Friday when Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd began talks with Greek Prime Minister Constantin Karamanlis on future plans for Cyprus.

Button-wielding police charged student demonstrators holding posters saying "British—out of Cyprus."

The students shouted Enosis—union of Cyprus with Greece—as they massed outside the university. Police barred adjacent streets to the area from the parading outside the heavily-guarded foreign ministry where the talks were held.

Constitutional proposals for Cyprus—some of a 20-month campaign of violence against British colonial rule—have been drawn up by British legal expert Lord Radcliffe.

They were handed to the Greek and Turkish governments Thursday. The Turkish minister for Cyprus opposes the majority Greek demand for union with Greece.

BRUSH CAUTION

Greek newspapers Friday called for "severe caution" until the terms of Radcliffe's proposals are known.

Authoritative Greek diplomatic sources today named three conditions for Greek acceptance:

1. Adequate provision for self-determination for Cyprus, even if no time limit is mentioned.

2. "Substantial" domestic autonomy.

3. A British admission that the only person capable to negotiate and conclude an agreement is exiled Archbishop Makarios, chief Cyprus negotiator before he was deported for alleged implication in the island's anti-British terrorist movement.

I.O.O.F. Lodge Holds Fine Box Social

STIRLING — Stirling Lodge No. 238, I.O.O.F., sponsored a successful box social at the lodge held on Wednesday evening and realized over $200 from the sale of the various decorated lunch boxes.

Mr. Barton Haggerty was the amiable auctioneer, and the boxes sold from $4 to $10.25, with an average of almost $8 per box.

The lunch containers were in a variety of patterns, fancy large chocolate boxes, small fruit baskets, hanging flower baskets, plain ordinary boxes decorated with Christmas wrapping paper and trimmed with tinsel, or with Santa and reindeers as well as those with miniature Christmas trees and dolls. There were boxes in color scenes of red and white, yellow and mauve, green and red. Some were trimmed with red ribbon bows, springs of evergreen or tinsel bells. One box represented the new lodge hall, another a treasure chest, while another was a small miniature home, roofed with tinsel and snow. The lodge hall sold for the most money.

PROGRAM

Mr. George Carlisle was master of ceremonies and welcomed everyone to the evening's activities. Phil Conley presided at the piano and the group sang a few Christmas carols.

Misses Cheryl Utman and Barbara Green sang two selections with Mrs. Ralph Utman as accompanist.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed two humorous readings.

Miss Barbara Woodcock delighted with a couple of tap-dance numbers with Miss Grace Beaaman as pianist.

Mrs. Walter Warren rendered two vocal selections with Mrs. R. Utman as accompanist.

Appreciation was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCaughan for their assistance in selling tickets and draws.

The draw for the television set in compatible color was made by the group in charge and Miss Beverly Morgan was the winner.

Mr. Ray Shaw was auctioneer for the sale of the lunch boxes. At the close of the auction sale each man escorted his lady to the dining hall where the couples enjoyed a variety of delicious food and the lodge furnished tea.

Diefenbaker Makes Appeal For Solid Quebec Support

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker, new Progressive Conservative leader, Friday appealed for Quebec support and said he will make a tour soon to carry the Conservative message into that province and all other sections of Canada.

At the same time he made clear he has reached no immediate decision as to whether he would favor a coalition with the Social Credit group. That issue, he indicated, would be settled at a caucus of Commons Conservative members to be called as quickly as possible.

"I'll accept people from any part if they will support my party," the 61-year-old MP for Prince Albert, Sask., declared in his first press conference as leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker has been described by some as a "lone wolf" in his party but he emphasized at the conference that he will seek unity within his group and that major decisions will be made in caucus. A committee is to be set up to plan his proposed cross-country tour.

WILL LEAN ON DREW

He indicated also he will lean heavily on the advice of his predecessor, Hon. George Drew, who stepped down from the leadership because of ill health. He wanted Mr. Drew to be his seat-mate in the Commons, in the position of "wise counsellor."

He said Mr. Drew had promised to give him the same strong support that he had given Mr. Drew. It would be a matter for "consideration," he said, as to whether Hon. Earl Rowe would continue as the party's deputy House leader. Mr. Rowe had supported Donald Fleming in the leadership race.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the questions of the party's "shadow cabinet" make-up also would be a matter for caucus consideration, but at the moment he could see no reason for any change.

There have been indications Prime Minister St. Laurent has offered Mr. Drew a Senate seat, but Mr. Diefenbaker intimated he would rather have him in the Commons. He said he had heard no reports that Mr. Drew would not run again in his Ontario constituency of Carleton. Mr. Diefenbaker planned to continue to defend his seat in Prince Albert.

RESTORE SYSTEM

He said his main aim will be to restore the two-party system to Canada. Thousands of Canadians had voted for a third party because of their opposition to the Liberals in power. He would try to attract these voters to the Conservative party by positive means.

He saw another major issue developing for the general election, expected in June—the supremacy of Canada's parliamentary system. Persons in the West and other parts are going to be affected that all was not well in Parliament; that it was time the Commons itself made public what that information now hidden.

Frost Describes Candidates as Worthy Canadians

..OTTAWA. (CP) — Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario Friday described all three candidates for the Progressive Conservative national leadership, won by John Diefenbaker, as "great and worthy Canadians."

He spoke briefly to the party's national convention while it awaited the outcome of the vote for leadership. He cut his remarks short when the counting ended while he spoke.

It was in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker over fellow-MPs Donald Fleming, Toronto Eglinton and Davie Fulton, Kamloops, B.C.

The premier also expressed his sympathy for Arthur Frost, no relation to him, whose wife was killed in a car accident Thursday night. Arthur Frost is Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for the Toronto riding of Broadview.

Premier Frost walked to the platform to a standing ovation. With him was the federal Cabinet. S. Henry, premier of Ontario from 1930 to 1934. On the platform, they joined John Bracken, former national party leader, to pose for photographers.

READY TO TAKE

While the balloting was secret, former national party president George Hees said to reporters later that Mr. Diefenbaker had picked off 102 Quebec votes, despite his own expectations late Thursday that he wouldn't get more than 10.

Mr. Frost, chief campaign lieutenant of the winner and MP for Toronto Broadview, said Quebec sentiment had been shifted by the combination of factors including Mr. Diefenbaker's Thursday night nomination acceptance speech in which he had displayed a broad view-point.

Before the balloting, bilingual Mr. Fleming had been expected to get between 85 and 90 per cent of the Quebec support.

CITE FARMER STAND

Some informants said a factor in the reported Quebec shift was that Diefenbaker supporters quietly passed the word to Quebec delegates that Fleming was pro-Ontario—who maintained public silence—was "100-per-cent behind the farmer."

Mr. Frost's government has cordial relations with that of Quebec's Premier Duplessis.

At all events, Mr. Diefenbaker lost no time in setting to heal whatever rift might have developed between French and English speaking elements in the party over his prospective leadership—a wound which reportedly party because he did not include a French delegate on his first visiting and second team.

Mr. Diefenbaker appealed to all French - speaking delegates and voters to get behind him as they have behind Mr. Fleming — evidently Quebec's favorite son of the Conservative party — and Mr. Fulton during the leadership campaign.

His two leadership opponents had made the move even before that, reportedly unanimously, in the selection he made unanimous and rushing across the convention speakers' platform to shake the westerner's hand.

PLEDGE CO-OPERATION

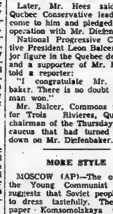
Later, Mr. Hees said many Quebec Conservative leaders had come to him and pledged full cooperation with Mr. Diefenbaker.



National Progressive Conservative President Jean Bruchesi, in praise for figure in the Quebec delegation and a supporter of Mr. Fleming, told reporters:

"I congratulate Mr. Diefenbaker. I know he will be a good team man, too."

Mr. Baker, Commons member for Trois - Rivieres, Que., was chairman of the Thursday Quebec caucus which gave thumbs down on Mr. Diefenbaker.

Record Volume of Christmas Cards Will Be Exchanged This Year Survey Shows

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Modern styling of traditional themes is expected to boost Canadian Christmas card sales this season.

A Canadian Press survey indicates a record volume of cards will be exchanged this year.

A leading Toronto manufacturer, producing more than 5,000 varieties of cards for sale in Canada and throughout the Commonwealth, sized up the 1956 situation:

"Religious scenes, Santa Claus, Christmas trees and holly make up the Christmas themes and no modern ideas will ever replace them. They may be handled in a slightly modern manner—such as the new, narrow card, and the simpler, modernistic paintings and drawings—but we can never get far away from the traditional ideas."

PRICES REASONABLE

Another important feature of Christmas cards has changed little over the last 20 years — the price. From Halifax to Vancouver retail prices report prices ranging from five cents to $2 for individual cards, with packages of 25 selling from $1.10 to $10.

Quebec stationers say five-cent cards are the most popular, especially with younger people. Edmonton stores carry a 30 - cent card carrying greetings "from the home of the Grey Cup champions." One suburban Edmonton shop claims "surprisingly good" sales for a luxurious silk-screen process variety selling at $18 for a box of 25 cards.

Christmas are getting more for their money, manufacturers say, with modern printing processes assuring better quality of card.

A noticeable buying trend this year is toward cards in "sold-in packs"—boxes of 25 all in one design.

Retailers notice a decided increase in the number of religious cards being sold—including those with scriptural messages and other with only a general religious theme. Last year, N.B.A. retailers report religious varieties selling more than ever, while some Vancouver stores say they are particularly popular with old people.

SCENES POPULAR TOO

Canadian scenes are generally popular. The artistic Guild of Newfoundland, a rural handicraft group, sell thousands of mechanically-reproduced black and white cards from scratchboard drawings of Newfoundland scenes by local artist Darroch Macgillivray, Another Newfoundland artist, Les Gourley, sells reproductions of oil paintings of coastal scenes.

Woodblock cards, with varying degrees of abstraction in design, are reported popular with young people in Vancouver, Halifax and Edmonton. The Alberta capital also reports a wide sale of homemade cards but other cities haven't adopted them so readily.

Besides bearing Christmas greetings, many cards in recent years have been used to aid charitable work—both Canadian and international.

The United Nations Children's Fund, (UNICEF), seeking aid for 60,000,000 underprivileged children throughout the world, reports good sales for its specially-produced cards, selling at $1 for boxes of 10. The cards feature full color works by United States artist Joseph Low depicting children at play in five different countries.

Some historians trace the origin of the Christmas card custom back to Imperial Rome where New Year's "Strenae"—clay tablets—were carefully decorated with greetings — were exchanged. The modern card, however, dates from the Victorian era in England, when Henry Cole, the founder-director of the Victoria and Albert Museum, commissioned the first card. Designed by John Calcott Horsley, 1,000 cards went on sale in 1846.

INVITE SUGGESTIONS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold has asked the General assembly to appropriate $5,000 a year to be used in prizes of $5 to $500 for the best suggestions from UN employees on how to improve the organization's work.

LONDON (Reuters)—A group of 85 Labor members of Parliament proposed Thursday that the British government should ask Prime Minister Nehru of India to intervene in Hungary and seek reconciliation between Russia and the West. Their motion, tabled for the approval of the House of Commons, urges the government to ask Nehru "to use his good offices."

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Anti-Soviet disorders spread westward this week, from the Danube to the Baltic, from defiant Budapest to the Polish port city of Stettin, 80 miles northeast of Berlin.

The rioting in Stettin—a German city awarded to Poland after the Second World War—brought anti-Russian outbreaks to the very doorstep of Soviet-occupied East Germany, where 22 Red Army divisions were reported ready to crush any uprising.

West Germany, pleading for the greatest caution, feared any uprising in East Germany would have an almost irresistible appeal to the people of West Germany and send soaring the risk of full-scale war.

HUNGARY'S FIGHT

The chief of the Kremlin's secret police was reported to have taken over control of the Hungarian government as the puppet regime of Premier Janos Kadar failed utterly to wield any effective influence. Kadar himself was reported a suicide—but that was rumor only.

The Soviet secret police chief, Gen. Ivan Serov, is a specialist in deportations. He's the same man that Khrushchev and Bulganin dropped from the entourage for their London trip last spring after the British press announced him as a "butcher" and "murderer."

The two chief leaders of the Budapest Workers Council were arrested as general strike and street disorders continued to keep alive the Hungarian patriotic uprising. The death penalty was decreed for any Hungarian found with arms or otherwise violating martial law.

UN CONDEMNATION

The United Nations General Assembly took its strongest action to date against Soviet actions in Hungary. By a vote of 55 to 8, it called on Russia to withdraw its troops and restore to Hungary her political independence.

The vote was noteworthy in that it revealed a wide split in the powerful Afro-Asian bloc which had tended to side with the Soviet group in UN voting.

JAPAN ADMITTED

Japan's post-war rehabilitation was just about completed when the Security Council voted to admit her as its 80th member. This became possible when Russia decided not to use the veto against Japan, which had been denied admission a year ago when 16 new members were admitted. Four times in the past Russia had vetoed Japan's application.

MAGGIE TO SAIL

The aircraft carrier Magnificent will sail to the Middle East after all. She will take 430 Canadian troops for the United Nations police force in Egypt. They will join the 637 already in the Middle East manned by Gen. Burns' headquarters.

The Magnificent originally was to have taken over the 1st Battalion Queen's Own Rifles but that plan was shelved when the UN said it didn't want Canadian infantry. The Queen's Own are being returned to their barracks in Calgary.

GAME OF GOLF

Both President Eisenhower and Prime Minister St. Laurent were enjoying brief vacations in the summer-like climate of the southern U.S.

On his way north from Florida last Tuesday, the Canadian prime minister stopped at Ile's exotic location place in Georgia for lunch and a game of golf. The two leaders had a chance to talk over the international situation, and ended their bout of golf "all even."

IRISH VIOLENCE

The Irish Republican Army, a group of Irish terrorists officially banned by the Dublin government but tolerated nonetheless, came to life again in its long fight to win Northern Ireland's six counties for the Irish republic.

I. R. A. men crossed the border on successive nights this week, bombing police stations, blowing up a radio station, and fighting pitched battles with the Royal Ulster Constabulary.

Air Transport Command Brings Christmas Cheer to Arctic Personnel

LACHINE, P.Q. — Santa Claus' official helper, the RCAF Air Transport Command, will next week make a special pre-Christmas delivery of mail, rations and even Christmas trees to St. Nick's backyard, the central and eastern Canadian Arctic.

Over 15,000 pounds of mail, Christmas parcels, fresh rations, emergency equipment and Christmas trees will be delivered to lonely RCMP weather and other government outposts. Even in the shadow of the north pole, as far north as Alert, on the northern tip of Ellesmere Island, will be envisioned.

Specially packed panniers will be para-dropped to waiting personnel, in the areas of total winter darkness oil flares will mark the drop zone. A light on the plummeting cargo will provide easy following earthward. Christmas trees will be free dropped to the posts located above the tree line.

Base of operations for the Central Arctic will be Resolute Bay. A Montreal-based North Star transport of 426 squadron left Dorval airport Thursday Dec. 13, to carry out the operation. The aircraft will call at Thule in Greenland to pick up U. S. mail for American personnel stationed at the joint Canadian-U.S. operated weather stations.

Two Dakotas, one from RCAF Station Goose Bay and the other from 408 Squadron, Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, will fly the Labrador coast and eastern Islands. They will operate out of Frobisher Bay.

A goodwill sidelight will be the dropping of Christmas mail and toys to Indian and Eskimo villages in the Eastern area. These are being provided through the collective effort of Air Force personnel, their wives and children stationed at Goose Bay and Frobisher.

The Christmas drop or operation "Santa Claus," as it has often been dubbed, has become an annual affair for the RCAF's Air Transport Command. The Dominion Post Office Department of Transport and the US Weather Bureau co-ordinate the delivery of mail and foodstuffs to the Dorval air base for packaging.

Limited landing facilities in the rugged terrain of the Arctic means fresh food must be dropped by parachute during the dark winter months. Even so, the aircrew have a tricky navigational problem in locating the tiny settlements and descending over surrounding hills to the 500-foot dropping height. Only under a full moon and with light surface winds can successful drops be made.

Canada Paying Half Cost of Malayan Survey

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is paying almost half the $400,000 cost of a survey being made of mineral deposits in 25,000 miles of hitherto unexplored jungle in Malaya.

The external affairs department, announcing the Colombo plan contribution Friday, said it is hoped the aerial survey by Spartan Air Services of Ottawa will lead to discovery of important new deposits of tin as well as such other minerals as tungsten and ilmenite.

This is the first major Colombo plan project undertaken by Canada in Malaya, an important source of the world's tin. Malaya will share the cost with Canada.

(A) Sometimes, the choke valve will stick in a closed or partly closed position because of binding, dirt, gum, etc., and cause flooding. In such cases, press the gas pedal to the floor and crank the engine. This will pump out the excessively rich fuel mixture and within a few moments the engine should begin to fire. UPS AND DOWNS

To paraphrase a certain famous expression: "Build a better hockey mouse trap and the fan world will beat a path to your arena door." And by the same token, in most cases, if you build a worse one, the guys will stay away in droves. And that's give us that old bakum about television, convertibles, and radio broadcasts.

Generally speaking and regardless of the status of clubs, hockey attendance with the exception of a few isolated cases is down in Ontario from the figures of last year.

In the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League, despite the fact the Kingston CKLC's have outdrawn all other clubs, the Belleville McFarlands and Whitby Dunlops are the only teams to show attendance increase over the 1955 figures.

The McFarlands drew 17,033 to their first nine games, an average of 1891, increasing their game attendance of last year by 1,066. In 1952 the team attracted a little over 7,000 or a nine-game average of 823.

Whitby Dunlops, playing in the smallest town and the smallest arena, have drawn 12,650 to their first eleven games, giving them an average attendance of 1150. Last year the average paid attendance for the same number of games was slightly over 800.

Down Kingston way the CKLC's attracted some 27,432 to their first ten games, or an average of 2744. That was before the Kingston club hit the skids and lost eight in a row. The largest turnout for a single game down that way was 3446 against Whitby. The average for ten games last year was 2892.

But the Kingston club's slump hit the turnstiles hard. In the next game against the Dunlops they drew 1700. The other night against Cornwall attendance hit the all-time low with 1443, and the sudden decline of the Kingston club has affected its drawing power in other centres of the loop. Here in Belleville last Tuesday only 829 turned out to see the Macs battle with CKLC's. That against 2140 with Whitby here last Friday.

The Pembroke Lumber Kings drew 14,861 in their first ten games or an average of 1482, said to be less than last year when the Kings played in the NOHA.

Cornwall, the second largest city in the senior "A" group, has attracted 10,744 paid pewsters for their first nine games, an average of 1194. For the first nine games last year the average attendance was 1302. The largest Cornwall gate this year was 1433 when Belleville played a Sunday afternoon game there. The smallest crowd was 868 with Kingston as the opposition.

While the Ottawa Canadians have adopted the Capital City not-to-please stand they play their senior "A" home games in the beautiful Verdun, Que., auditorium, and they have played three of their four games there thus far and attendance, it is reported, has been negligible, only six or seven hundred showing out to watch the former Baby Blake performs in senior "A" company.

This department has no information on the financial status of Belleville, Kingston and Whitby. But Cornwall and Pembroke has that it be known that something must be done to bolster the box-office in order to make ends meet.

While it is clearly evident that the shewing of the Kingston club in the past two weeks has made a definite impression on the box office, a stranger situation has developed in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association. The North Bay Trappers, well out in front of the rest of the pack, have not been drawing the traditional pennies. In fact a story yesterday stated the Trappers are selling shares in their club to the public in order to bolster the financial situation.

Stranger still, the Soo, Michigan, Indians, the dollar-flounders of the loop, have shown an increase in attendance over last year. The rest of the clubs report decreases.

SOREBOOMS

Are the football writers of the east running short of copy? If not why this continuous interviewing and subsequent yakking of the East all-star players regarding the tough time they had playing in the Shrine game. Every day brings the same story from a different player, with the "we was robbed" theme standing out. Some of them at least had the guts to admit they didn't give a hoot about the game nor did they worry too much about who won and by how much.

The big unbilious gripe was they were deprived of fifty bucks extra expense money which would allow them to wear clean shirts and not walk a couple of city blocks while in Vancouver. So any of those heroes know how much fifty bucks will do for one crippled kiddie—or do they care?

They openly admit they went to Vancouver just for the ride and an all-expense-paid good time in the British Columbia city. Football was secondary, if you can call it football as far as the East was concerned.

Perhaps the Shrine officials could stage a checker tournament among the crippled kiddies, charge admission, and use the funds to reimburse these underpaid gridiron blockings. And five cents you ten some of 'em would take it.

Rochester Nips Buffalo 6-4

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Rochester Americans exploded for five goals in the second period Friday night—three within 82 seconds—to defeat Buffalo Bisons 6-4 in an American League hockey game.

The Bisons lost a chance to jump from fourth place into a tie for second.

Gary Aldcorn of Rochester started the scoring in the first period, and the Bisons came back with three goals by Leo Boivin, Ed Slowinski and Larry Wilson. Rochester's second - period deluge brought goals by Ed Mazur, Gord Hannigan, Paul Masnick and two by Ab McDonald. Pete Babando of Buffalo scored the only third-period goal.

Spring Crystal Ball Gazing Revealed True Picture, So Far Duel With Canadiens Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lynn Patrick is shaping up as one of the hottest forecasters in the National Hockey League.

Back in the spring, Lynn, general manager of Boston Bruins, said his brother Muzz's New York Rangers were "lucky to finish third" last season and that Bruins would end up much higher than Rangers in the 1956-57 campaign.

Most experts figured Lynn was talking with tongue in cheek. If he was, even he must be surprised.

Bruins are leading the pack with a three-point edge over second spot Detroit Red Wings. Rangers are desperately trying to hold on to fourth place.

NO SIGN OF SLIPPING

Little more than a third of the 70-game schedule has been completed, but Bruins give no indication of slipping. Even Muzz, naturally a rabid Ranger man, is impressed by Bruins' showing:

"They're playing great hockey," he says. "They seldom get caught out of position and have settled into wonderful opportunists. They are not playing above their heads. Any team that can win games the way Bruins are doing is playing good hockey."

In 27 engagements this year Bruins have won 16, tied five, and stopped only to get a crack at victory No. 17 tonight when they meet the third-place Canadiens in Montreal.

In other games tonight, Rangers take on the fifth-place Leafs at Toronto, while the last-place Chicago Black Hawks entertain Detroit. Sunday, Canadiens are at New York Leafs at Boston and Wings at Chicago.

BREAKS BLAMED

What does Muzz think of his Rangers?

"We've been playing just as good hockey the last few weeks as we did last season but the breaks seem to go against us. But we're getting a few breaks now. If we can get all our side we'll be around in the playoffs next March."

But, Ranger coach Phil Watson says:

"We're still not scoring goals. Players that I had counted on to do most of the scoring for me haven't been coming through."

Canadiens will play without the services of right winger Bernie Geoffrion in their weekend engagements. His left elbow is inacting up again. Geoffrion recently underwent an operation for the removal of bone chips from the elbow.

B.C. Lions Seek Paul Hornung

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Paul Hornung, star backfielder with Notre Dame, said Friday he plans to talk with officials of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football League about a professional football contract.

Hornung, one of the outstanding U.S. college players this season, said he will meet Canadian officials before leaving for the west coast next month to play in the U.S. East - West Shrine game.

He conferred with officials of Green Bay Packers of the National Football League Friday but said later he did not sign a contract. Packers hold NFL draft rights on Hornung.

French-Canadian Brother Act Is Stealing Hockey Headlines

LONDON (CP)—A French-Canadian brother act is stealing the hockey headlines in Britain this season and giving the winter sport here a much-needed lift.

Ray and Roger Maisonneuve, a pair of colorful ice-wingers, are proving a major drawing card every time Harringay Racers take the ice. British sports writers say that not since Ottawa's Tony and Albert Lemay were starring for Wembley Lions before the Second World War has a family pair so captured the spectator's imagination as the brothers from Coward, Ont., and Gatineau Point, Que.

Ray, 28 and married to an English girl, is no stranger to British hockey fans. He broke into British Hockey in 1950 after playing for Timmins, Ont., intermediate; and North Bay, Ont., Black Hawks, Roger, 23, is spending his first season in Britain. He played for Grand Rapids, Mich., last year.

A consistent scorer since breaking into British hockey with Streatham, Ray had big top season in 1953-54 when he finished second to Nottingham Panthers' perennial scoring champion, Chick Zamick of Winnipeg. Ray scored 93 points that season. 11 less than Zamick. In six seasons Ray has scored more than 500 goals.

Both Ray and Roger are among the top 12 scorers this season. Up to early in December Ray had 28 points, three more than Roger.

Ray, who joined Racers in 1954, persuaded his younger brother to give the British game a whirl and calls it the "best job I ever did."

During the last four weeks, Roger has established himself as one of the fastest wingers in the country. Opposing goalkeepers say he has the hardest shot in British hockey.

How does he whip the puck in at a terrific speed even from a stationary position?

"I've worked as a lumberjack in off-seasons and lifting heavy logs has developed my wrists. I suppose chopping way trucks has helped too."

Roger has a favorite party act—tearing old telephone directories in two.

Although the brothers never appear on the ice together, Harringay fans invariably think of them as the Racers' brother act. And when the going gets rough for the home team, the big Harringay arena rings with the cry:

"Put on the Maisonneuve."

Ottawa Canadiens Squeeze 4-3 Win Over McFarlands In Thrilling Game

Boisvert Brilliant in Nets While Mates Show Polish In Best Senior Tilt Todate

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The New York Ranger scout who signed young M'sieu Gillis Boisvert apparently knows hockey talent in the making. For Boisvert, a personable lad, shy and abetted by a pro-bolstered crew of Ottawa Canadien juniors, last night squeezed out a 4-3 victory over the McFarlands in one of the best senior "A" tussles seen here this season.

Boisvert was sensational at times and by the same token so was Gordie Bell in the McFarland nets. The margin of victory lay in the difference between a polished, finessing, hard-driving crew of youngsters and a hard-fighting, hard-hitting crew of Macs who lacked a fine line of finish around the nets in the crucial moments.

The McFarlands had a noticeable edge of territorial play as is evidenced in the fact they outshot the Canadiens by a 33-27 count. The Ottawans led 2-1 at the end of the first period with the Macs getting the only goal in the second. Ottawa grabbed two in the third before the Macs cut the margin with less than two minutes to go.

It was Eastern senior hockey at its best with Referee Art Casterton handling out only five penalties, almost a record for the league. The McFarlands were assessed two minors and Ottawa drew two minors and a misconduct.

On all three occasions when the Ottawans were on a two short one-man deficit, Goddelin ordered all-out offensives and the Macs swarmed around the Ottawa cage. Boisvert rose to some sort of net mindsight heights and when he was beaten the puck slipped by the post on the wrong side. Minnie Menard on one occasion stood three feet outside a wide open space and missed the net.

Dave Reid, Ralph Backstrom, Gerry Carter and Billy Wilson of Ottawa gave ample evidence of why they have been slated for the big time. Reid, a speedy skater while Backstrom with two assists was a dangerous threat all night. Carter and Wilson also was credited with two helpers. Claude Ruel and Murray Balfour accounted for the other two Ottawa goals.

Benoit was another standout on the Macs' defense, ably aided and abetted by Crawford, Bottley and Lecompte. Rene St. Hilaire skated miles and rapped home two of the Mac goals, one of them putting the 1972 paid customers on their feet in the dying minutes of the third period. Johnny Muretich, Gilbert and Minnie Menard drove hard in goal-seeking efforts and Ste. Step Goodall accounted for the other Belleville marker.

If win Reid, furious, hard-checking hockey with plenty of legal bumps handed out by both teams. With the clock ticking off the seconds in the third period it looked as if victory might elude Ottawa for these teams.

The Macs, down 4-2 at 18:39, had their hopes raised when St. Hilaire blasted the puck past Boisvert to cut the margin to a goal. With 46 seconds left, Goldolin pulled Bell out of the nets and sent the Mac attackers. But the strategy failed. The desperate Macs swarmed in and out and finally one packed Ottawa defence where a brilliant Boisvert was on hand to make the shot that were hurled at him. Only twice in 46 seconds did Ottawa get the puck out of danger but the Macs could not capitalize on the situation.

With the score 2-2 going into the third Reid put the Canadiens one goal ahead when he drove the puck after Bell had made a brilliant save. Seven minutes later Boisvert apparently sailed the game away scoring on a scramble while with Reid serving a penalty, Rene St. Hilaire's perfect pass set Goodall in the clear for the second goal and the clinching tally.

Reid opened the scoring midway through the first period on a pass from Backstrom. He grabbed the puck at centre, dodged two body-checks, weaved through before he was blasted the puck past Bell. The McFarlands had the edge in play but Boisvert and a hard-checking defence kept them scoreless until near period's end when Goddelin finally beat Boisvert. With seconds to go Bell blasted a screened slapshot from the point that Bell never saw.

Rene St. Hilaire scored his first goal after 39 seconds of play in the second period. He spearheaded a three-prong drive with Muretich and Jones, swept across the goalmouth and drove the puck past Boisvert from an almost impossible angle.

Richard got the gate but the Macs failed to hit the heavy for the loss driver. Carter broke into the clear, raced in on Bell, but the tall goalie spoiled the fun by making a fine save. Then for some unapparent reason the referee stopped the play and thumbed Annable off with a misconduct. Evidently it was for the benefit of the French customers.

The MacDonalds are now in third place, one point behind the Cornwall Cleviks. The Canadiens play in Kingston tonight while the McFarlands trek to Whitby.

Fetchik Leads Sanford Open

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Mike Fetchik's 67 putter topped 14 birdies in the first 36 holes of the Sanford Open to give him a score of 128, three strokes better than second-place Dow Finsterwald.

Fetchik, who plays out of Lake Mahopac, N.Y., shot two-under-par for the 6,265-yard Mayfair course. Finsterwald took 67 strokes for a halfway point 131.

Al Balding, defending champion from Toronto, shot himself out of contention with 73 Friday and his 141 was just good enough to survive the cutdown to the low 60 pros and 12 amateurs.

Royals Get Glen Cressman

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League announced Friday acquisition of first baseman Glen Cressman, 22-year-old forward who was with Rochester of the American Hockey League earlier this year and has played a few games with the parent Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

The club also reported forward Walter Bradley had retired as a broken limb but hoped to be able to play Sunday, with a cast on the thumb.

Hamilton Ti-Cats In Market for New Head Coach

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats officials came out of an executive huddle Friday night and said they are looking for a new head coach. They added that 1956 head coach Jim Trimble is a candidate.

Club President Jake Gaudaur said Trimble is bidding for the post as head coach at the University of Indiana and that he should have the reply within 10 days or two weeks. If Indiana turns him down, the Tiger-Cats will sign him again as head coach—if they haven't got another in the meantime.

"Our club is unable to wait," Gaudaur said, "and we are starting to look immediately.

"If we have no one in two weeks time, then Jim may continue as coach."

TRIMBLE INTERVIEWED

In a long-distance telephone interview from Philadelphia, Trimble said he had talked to Indiana University's president and athletic director and "I feel they are inclined favorably to me."

He said he should know their decision "in 10 days or two weeks" and added "should I be unsuccessful, then I am definitely interested in returning to Hamilton."

Gaudaur said the Ticats executive figures it wiser to have Trimble "here in Hamilton next year than somewhere new in Canada.

"He has helped us in lining up players for next year," Gaudaur said. "While he here while he is 100 per cent for the club even though he was considering a job elsewhere which might offer a more secure future for himself and family.

"You can't fault a guy for thinking of his family first."

Giardello Wins Over Cotton; Martinez Loses

CLEVELAND (AP)—Joe Giardello's unbeatable victory over Charley Cotton pleased Cleveland fight fans Friday night but it displeased the Yama Bahama-Jimmy Martinez bout that a television audience saw.

The middleweight 10-round co-feature between Giardello and Cotton—were a new twist for the 31st annual Cleveland News Boy Fund shindig. They drew 9,031 customers with a gate of $81,150.

Bahams won the TV fight by a unanimous decision. He had in the dressing room what he considered it a tough fight, but the fans thought it was dull.

Giardello drew cheers as he outpointed Cotton. The unanimous decision was Giardello's second in a row over Cotton, who also has beaten Giardello.

Giardello had Cotton in trouble in the late rounds, but the Toledo fighter managed to beat a retreat and last the distance.

Varsity Edges McGill Redmen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The power-packed University of Toronto Blues rolled to their third straight Intercollegiate Senior hockey victory by edging McGill Redmen 4-3 Friday night as all but the Blues' third straight win in league play.

In Montreal, meanwhile, University of Montreal swamped Laval 9-1.

The Blues, down 1-0 after the first period, tied the count with goals in the second to take command. Dune Brodie fired two goals, Ken Laughton and John MacDonald got one each. Leo Keogh, Dave Hamilton and Tom Hughes tallied for the Redmen.

The Redmen unveiled their 1,200 Toronto East George Genereux of Saskatoon, gold medallist in trap-shooting at the 1952 Olympic Games. He played at left wing but was kept off the scoring list.

ROUGH CONTEST

University of Montreal scored five goals in the first period in a game marked by fighting in the second and third periods. There were four majors and 13 minors were assessed.

Laval drew one misconduct, two majors and nine minors.

Guby Alain scored twice for the Montreal and singles went to Jean-Marie Beland, Gerard Houle, Gaston Dionne, Pierre Royer, Claude Hebert and Pierre Renaud.

Henri Marois' soft blueline shot in the first period trickled by Montreal goalie Cy Guevremont, who otherwise made 22 stops against a Laval club which could do little right in suffering its first loss in three games.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern series apparently has plenty of power. Stratford Indians felt it Friday night.

Indians, leaders of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A group, ventured into Sudbury and were walloped 7-0 by Wolves. It was one of the worst setbacks for Indians this season.

The victory was No. 13 for the Wolves, running second to North Bay Trappers.

In the OHA Western division, Owen Sound Mercurys moved to within four points of the last playoff spot as they nipped Chatham Maroons 3-2 before 1,850 fans, smallest turnout at Chatham this year.

There was one engagement in the OHA Eastern section. Ottawa Canadiens defeated McFarlands 4-3 at Belleville.

ALBANY, O'GRADY STAR

At Sudbury goaltender Johnny Albani registered his fourth shut-out of the season. Defenceman Frank O'Grady scored twice in the third period as Albani threw assists on earlier scoring.

Ron Farnfield of Toronto Marlboros starred in Sudbury on a one-game trial with Wolves, scored in the first and second periods. Other goals were provided by Andy Milne, Armand Lemieux and Nick Tomiuk.

At Chatham, Jack Stoddard's 30-foot goal at 15:13 in the third period provided the margin of victory.

Alex Vickells of Maroons and Mercurys' Frank Bergeron made the score 2-1 by the end of the first period. Lloyd Ferguson scored his first goal of the season at 1:27 of the second session to put Chatham ahead 3-1.

Mercurys deadlocked the engagement 2-2 at the nine-second mark of the third period, with J. Reid scoring. Maroons' Dick Kostanen was in the penalty box at the time.

REID LEADS WAY

Dave Reid scored twice to lead Canadiens to victory at Belleville. Claude Ruel and Murray Balfour got the others. Rene St. Hilaire scored twice for Belleville and Bep Guidolin came up with the other one.

The game was a battle of goaltenders. Ottawa's Gillis Boisvert turned in a terrific performance. McFarlands pulled their goaltender in favor of another forward in the last minute of play but they couldn't beat Boisvert.

Americans Take Davis Cup Interzone Finals

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Billy Talbert's gamble of pairing Vic Seixas' conqueror with Dick Savitt and enthusiasm of 22-year-old Sam Giammalva paid off today as the U.S. Davis Cup pair thrashed India in doubles to win the interzone finals. The U.S. now enters the challenge round against Australia's defending champions.

Giammalva, a bowlegged Texas contributed more than his share as the U.S. leaders downed Seixas, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, from India's Ramanathan Krishnan and Ramanesh Kumar.

The victory, coupled with Thursday's doubles triumphs by Seixas and Herbie Flam, gave the Americans a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series and made a formality of Sunday's final two singles matches.

Talbert, the U.S. captain, said he would substitute another youngster, 19-year-old Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., for Seixas against Krishnan in the first singles.

Flam, who felt he was "lucky" to beat Krishnan on opening day, was to have met Kumar in the other singles, but Talbert later asked permission to substitute Giammalva for Flam and received the okay from Kumar.

Giammalva's first partner Boucher, Jim Somoski, Darryl Sly, Frank Mahovlich and Bob Watson accounted for the Major goals.

Defenceman Gord Feveregau called 18 penalties, including majors to Jack McMaster of St. Michael's and Carl Brewer of Marlboros for fighting.

Flyers opened the scoring against Teepees but fell under pressure later in the game. Dale Rolfe gave Barrie a 1-0 lead in the first period. Teepa tied things up a goal by Stan Mikita in the second and went ahead as Cosborn scored in the third.

Biltmores Blank Hamilton Cubs; Marlboros Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A section scored their 11th victory in 22 starts with a 3-0 decision Friday night over Hamilton Tiger-Cubs. The win, the Bilts' fourth straight, extended their league leadership by four points. Elsewhere, Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's Majors, tied for second.

At Toronto, meanwhile, Marlboros were led by Ron Ellacott's goals as they overpowered the Majors 9-5. In the only other game, St. Catherines Teepees edged Flyers 3-1 at Barrie before 1,000 fans.

Biltmore goaltender Bruce Gamble turned aside 28 shots to going Cubs to register the shut-out. Eddie Shack of Guelph had two goals, Danny Belisle the other.

Bill Sweeney, the league's top point-getter, assisted on two of Rolfe goals to run his total to 42 points.

At Toronto, Bob Nevin and Doug Ritchey each scored twice for Marlboros. Gordie Haughton and Ken Laycer tallied singles. Bob Boucher, Jim Somoski, Darryl Sly, Frank Mahovlich and Bob Watson accounted for the Major goals.

Defenceman Gord Feveregau called 18 penalties, including majors to Jack McMaster of St. Michael's and Carl Brewer of Marlboros for fighting.

Flyers opened the scoring against Teepees but fell under pressure later in the game. Dale Rolfe gave Barrie a 1-0 lead in the first period. Teepa tied things up a goal by Stan Mikita in the second and went ahead as Cosborn scored in the third.

Uncle Sam Eyes Joe Louis Trust Fund

CHICAGO (AP) — The federal government appears to be making headway in its bid to seize a $1,000 trust fund set up by former heavyweight champion Joe Louis for his two children.

Lawyer Aaron Payne said Friday the United States tax court in Washington has approved the government's move and will make its decision public Monday.

Payne, who has been representing Louis in the case, said the decision will be appealed.

The government seeks to attach the fund set up for Joe Jr., 21, and Jacqueline, 23, as part payment of Louis' tax debt which was calculated early this year at $1,189,637, in taxes and interest.

The children were born to Louis and his first wife, the former Marva Trotter, in Detroit. The couple met in Chicago with their mother and her husband, Dr. Albert L. Spaulding.

TO SHARE AT 21

The fund was set up with each child receiving half the money at the age of 21.

Louis has had tax troubles for years despite the fact that he earned an estimated $4,500,000 purses. He left the heavyweight title from 1937 to 1949.

Louis now has only got the money to pay his entire tax bill but Payne said Louis paid $134,000 on his debt in the last three months.

OUTDOORS with John Alden Knight

Bow and Arrow Hunters

Each October our group of woodcock hunters spends considerable time in the woods hereabouts in the first couple of weeks of the open pastime. Time was when we had the woodcock covers pretty much to ourselves. The only conflicting seasons were those of jacksnipe, dove and duck and these, as you know, require different terrain than that used by the woodcock hunters.

Now, however, we find our familiar haunts invaded by a new group of sportsmen. The bow-and-arrow season for deer comes around during the woodcock season. Thus, it is not uncommon to have one of these shrewd-eyed Robin Hoods step out of the brush, bow and arrow in hand, and inquire as to the quality of our shooting.

There is one thing about these woodland meetings that never fails to make a favorable impression. To make the path of progress of both bow and gun safe for all concerned, we always unload our guns before we approach them with bells attached to their collars. These bells make considerable fuss, enough to alarm every deer in the area. Yet not once has the greeting of a bow-and-arrow man been unfriendly but cordial and friendly, despite the fact that our arrival means that he must move to other territory where the deer have not been alarmed.

Some years ago the bow-and-arrow hunters were very much in the minority, so much so that they had difficulty in having special seasons allotted to them. Now the case is different. At the present, only the Pennsylvania figures are available but what holds good in one state no doubt will be true of other parts of the country.

On my desk are the minutes of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Archery Association, held on October 26 h. At the time of that meeting, the associates membership stood slightly in excess of 2,175 and every indication pointed of a membership of more than 7,000 before the close of the present year.

EQUIPMENT NOT CHEAP

With the increase in nation-wide interest in archery came, naturally, improvement in equipment. As a matter of curiosity, equipment prices were investigated. It was somewhat a shock to learn that a good hunting bow can cost close to $100 and hunting arrows as much as $2.50 each.

Because of their small numbers, for quite some time not very much attention was paid to the archery enthusiasts by the powers that be. Today, the state associations and the national association add up to hundreds of thousands. Certainly such a group cannot now be ignored.

And this is as it should be. The archery group is composed of fine sportsmen and sportswomen, those unchaining conservationists, all of them. In their ranks you will have trouble finding one of the meat-hunter type that, unfortunately, is too common among the rifle and shotgun shooters.

Killing a deer with a bow and arrow takes quite a bit of doing. I believe me, that is doing it the hard way. Yet the bow-and-arrow hunters say that very phase of the sport. A trophy taken under such skill-imposed conditions carries with it a sense of accomplishment that is difficult to duplicate in any other sport.

Being a fanatical woodcock hunter, I shall not attempt to defend the archers. The two open seasons, on unfortunately, conflict. Just the same, my hat is off to the bow-and-arrow hunters, fine sportsmen that they are. May their tribe increase.

Student Amazes With Knowledge Of Mathematics

NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C. — (CP)—Allan Trojan, 16-year-old grade 12 student, amazes his teachers by his knowledge of involved mathematics and science.

The boy amuses himself by working out involved problems the teachers cannot understand. Although he mastered an advanced type of slide-rule at 11, the extent of his talent was not discovered until two years ago when he met a problem which has stumped his teachers.

"That trick question solved itself after I scaled up five astronomical and gravitational figures" Allan said. Later he came third in the Mathematical Contest of America.

Now he is studying radio and wireless theory and getting first class honors in his university entrance course.

His high school principal, W. R. McDougall, said Allan "seems to have a great future."

The young student said the main interference with his work is his curiosity about astronomy, his favorite science.

"I hope to attend university, take science, and then decide on my career."

Horse Sense Bridge

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The great master bridge players of the world are experimenting with a method that backfires. It is in their response to a takeout double, which asks partner to show an unbid four carder, if possible.

Instead of replying with a four card suit in a minor, they will reply in a major of only three cards if it will not increase the contract. So, they never know when it contains four cards.

Look here at world champion ship deal number 20.

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 2 ♦ | Double | Pass |
| 2 ♥ | Pass | 4 ♥ | All Pass |

East had such good support for hearts that he raised it to a game contract. If west had four hearts, game might stand a good chance. But west happened to be in there with only three hearts.

In room two, where the European team sat west and east, the bidding went like this:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 2 ♣ | Double | Pass |
| 2 ♥ | Pass | Pass | Pass |

I must remind you here that some of the Americans were actually voted two bids, only at opening of two clubs is forcing; in any other suit an opening of two is weak.

B. Jay Becker in north uses two bids as forcing when Teddy Lightner is his partner. But he was playing here with Johnny Crawford who likes weak two bids. Opponents know this and act accordingly.

Four hearts went down three; two hearts went down one. You can now pick up a shovel and scoop the whole thing where it belongs.

But there's such a thing as night life in Hawaii for land sakes, how about that? ma said, and pop said, That depends on the lady's personel taist, whether she prefers pyjamas or a night gown, or if she's the Bohemian type, a night gown top and a pyjama bottom.

Now William, those fashionable hotels are quite formal, ma said, and pop said, Do you mean they make you sleep in high heel shoes?

I never a woman would probably have to dress for dinner.

Wonderful New Cartoon Show Makes TV Debut This Sunday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A new kind of show opens on television Sunday. It is all-cartoon, unsponsored and simply wonderful.

The name of it is The Boing Boing Show, and it appears on CBS at 5:30 p.m. EST Sundays. Do you remember the little boy in the Oscar-winning cartoon short who spoke only in sound effects like "boing" and "ah-oogs"?

Well, Gerald is the emcee of the show, and his voice, impersonated by Bill Goodwin. Together, they introduce a variety of subjects plus some new cartoons. On the first show are Gerald's own story, a treatment of the life of the French artist Dufy and two songs done in hilarious style.

IMAGINATIVE IDEAS

CBS is so sold on the project that it is putting the show on without a sponsor. It shouldn't be sponsorless long.

The guiding force behind the show is Canadian-born Stephen Bosustow, president of United Productions of America Pictures, whose imaginative ideas have revolutionized first the cartoon industry and then TV commercials.

The UPA technique of wacky, unreal characters against impressionistic backgrounds was born of necessity, he told me.

"When we started out with the company in 1941 we couldn't afford the expense of trying to make cartoons look like live action," he said. "We had to invent new methods that were cheaper. What we developed wasn't new; it had been done for years in magazines and by cartoonists like Virgil Partch."

WORKED FOR DISNEY

Bosustow was born in Victoria and sought his fortune in Hollywood as a musician and cartoonist. Laid off at Disney's in the movie depression of 1941, he was unable to find work at other studios. So he decided to start his own. Two years later, his dream came true.

UPA struggled along making army training films and cartoon shorts, then burst into prominence with characters like Being Boing and Mr. Magoo. It has since helped bring wit and imagination to TV commercials.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, December 17, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Put first things first and you will gain in every way. Occupationally, you are in line for benefits. Seek new clients, customers; cooperate with associates.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be discerning, make adjustments and rearrange plans if necessary to facilitate outcome of activities. You can make this a more productive day by intelligent management, good use of your skills.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fine prospects in view and they can be fulfilled if you devote full time to essentials, even those details which you may not like. Skill, accuracy and calmness are big helpmates.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be prudent, avoid extravagance or any buying that might stretch line-budget. Attend to routine matters promptly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Happy prospects ahead if you will devote close attention to matters where details and accuracy are important. Handle urgent matters first, then other things in proper order.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Artistry, skill and self-assurance will be required today, no matter what your field of endeavor. They will add to returns, bring fresh advantages. Benefits and profits will depend largely on yourself.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Be at ease even though new problems may arise. Day has many advantages and benefits. Your occupational duties, boss—bold tasks under fine aspects. A good day on which to finish incompleted matters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Stimulating influences, but care must be exercised to overdo or force opinions. Handle things cleverly, calmly, and do not fear outcomes. Good rays generally.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — You can plan big or small operations now. Day is favorable to plans, work, co-operative measures. Be progressive but not over-aggressive. Mechanics, travel, selling among favored activities.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Efficiency is encouraged now and you can attain by just being your clever, steady and conscientious self. Strive to reach your goals by being out front with your best; do not take a back seat.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Plan your schedule carefully in order to save time, energy, perhaps money. Maintain a steady gait. Your interests can progress; it's up to you.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Confer, consult and yield to proper authority when you should, but don't be just plain submissive. Show your initiative and fine intelligence; stand by your rights.

You born today are persevering, highly intelligent, resourceful; seldom use unnecessary words; can cut needless red tape. You are often blunt in speech but only because you are frank, above subterfuge and aim for clarity. But you must be tactful, too, especially when discussing "touchy" subjects. A few moments of forethought should take care of this. You can succeed in a profession, trade, industry, in any calling you like and will train-for. Do not fear to try the new and unusual if it has value, promise. Birthdate: John Greenleaf Whittier, American poet; Ludwig von Beethoven, German composer.

South Africans Urged to Support Alleged 'Traitors'

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — Pamphlets distributed in Johannesburg today call on South Africans to observe next Wednesday as a "day of mourning."

Wednesday is the date for the mass preliminary hearing of allegations of high treason lodged against 140 persons arrested in the last 10 days. The hearing will be held in the Johannesburg drill hall.

The pamphlets were issued by the Transvaal African National Congress, the Transvaal Indians Congress, the South Africa Colored Peoples' Organization, the South African Congress of Democrats, and the Congress of Trade Unions.

Johannesburg citizens are urged to rally to the drill hall. The pamphlets also call for meetings throughout the country in sympathy of those arrested.

"The accused men and women have many faiths and differing social beliefs. But they share one aim in common—they believe in equality, democracy and peace," the pamphlets say.

The 140 accused, all of whom have been denied bail, will be taken in police trucks from the "fort," Johannesburg's prison, to the magistrates' court.

The prisoners will be brought up in batches to the court and then formally committed to the drill hall, since no court can be constituted at the drill hall until a magistrate has remanded them there.

SHORT HEARING

The initial session is expected to last three days. Then the hearing will be adjourned till early January.

The preliminary trial will last about six weeks, depending on the amount of cross-examination by the defence counsel. If a case is committed for trial by the Supreme Court, it may last three months.

Seats will be set aside at the drill hall for 25 newspaper men—local and overseas—expected at the hearing. There will also be room for 10 non-white correspondents who will cover the hearings for South Africa's non-white press.

Civil Defence Parley Held

Fifteen Dominion delegates to the three-day conference of the Canadian Civil Defence College, held in Arnprior this week, discussed a policy affecting the placement of key industries and groups evacuated from target centres to smaller communities in the event of attack.

Mrs. Thee Wheeler represented the Belleville civil defence organization.

Questions discussed included the problems in what factors would be important in matching the evacuee family to the reception area family with whom it was going to stay; would race, religion, language, economic level, age, educational background, children, etc., be a factor, common interests be important? The conclusion of the general agreed Peoples' Organization, the South African Congress of Democrats, and the Congress of Trade Unions.

Johannesburg citizens are urged to rally to the drill hall. The pamphlets also call for meetings throughout the country in sympathy of those arrested.

"The accused men and women have many faiths and differing social beliefs. But they share one aim in common—they believe in equality, democracy and peace," the pamphlets say.

West Wonders Why Refugees Not Halted

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The rising numbers of refugees slipping across from Hungary is baffling Western experts.

"Why don't the Russians stop them?" they asked.

In a period of 24 hours, Thursday, 4,000 Hungarians crossed into Hungary.

Austria still has more than 70,000 refugees in camps near borders. Only about 20,000 now have much chance of leaving soon for other countries. The number who have fled Hungary may now be nearing the 150,000 mark.

One theory is that the Russians want them out of Hungary. They create a problem for Austria and the whole Western world that would lead to dissension, a situation from which the Soviets could profit.

The Communists may also consider anyone who has left Hungary as untrustworthy. Still another possibility is that the Russians are avoiding use of too heavy a hand on the Hungarians for fear of new outbreaks of rebellion.

Pearson States NATO Meeting Great Success

PARIS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said the NATO council meeting which ended Friday was "in my opinion the most successful we have ever had."

He gave two reasons:

1. Council members had met in harmony after the "period of strain" on the alliance caused by Suez, and

2. That principles of consultation had been outlined which, "if followed, should remove much of the risk of the kind of differences we have recently experienced."

He also said the meeting was important in showing that NATO powers were not worried about discussing the effect on the alliance of developments outside the NATO area.

Queen's to Make $4 Million Drive

KINGSTON — A nation-wide campaign to raise $4,000,000 for Queen's University at Kingston from public sources was launched in 1957, was announced here officially by the University's Board of Trustees.

The campaign, the National Fund for Queen's University, will be conducted under the general chairmanship of C. D. Howe, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Organization of local fund chairman is being carried out in nearly 30 Canadian cities, and a period of advance solicitation will take place in December among some corporations.

The fund plans to solicit graduates, faculty and students of Queen's as well as business, industry and private individuals, including Kingston residents.

The $4,000,000 goal, according to Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-chancellor and principal of Queen's, will supply a part of the costs of an over-all five-year expansion program which will "amount to $9,200,000 to provide urgently needed buildings, renovation and expansion of existing facilities, and endowment for faculty and research staff. The balance of $5,200,000 is expected from federal and provincial governments grants and other sources.

Pump Iron Lungs As Power Fails

WINNIPEG (CP) — Nurses and orderlies attending a dozen polio patients in iron lungs in King George Hospital pumped them by hand for up to seven minutes Friday after a break in the hospital's power supply from the city Hydro.

Forty-seven polio patients are under treatment at the hospital, but the majority can stay out of respirators for varying lengths of time. The seven-minute Hydro break was attributed to a failure in the underground cable running from a terminal station.

Poles Stage Anti-Russian Demonstrations

WARSAW (AP) — More anti-Russian demonstrations have been reported in Poland's border towns.

Organs of the governing Communist party have warned that continued demonstrations might lead to a clamp-down by the anti-Stalinist Polish Communist government.

Fears also are held that if the internal situation gets out of control, Russia may then cut the links through Poland to East Germany are endangered.

One of the places where renewed disorders were reported Thursday night was Stettin, where 91 persons were arrested Monday night in an attack on the Soviet consulate.

STUDENTS MARCH

Students in Warsaw also said students marched through the streets of Lublin in eastern Poland demanding an end to Soviet intervention in Hungary. The reports said similar demonstrations occurred in Czestochowa, Kutno and La Lisz, all in central Poland.

The renewed disorders were given to the people of the world by held belief that the power struggle is not ended with destruction of the "democratic socialism" led by Poland's anti-Stalinist boss Wladyslaw Gomulka, and a faction favoring tougher policy.

Faith in Line Not Shaken by Recent Disaster

MONTREAL (CP) — The fate of Trans-Canada Air Lines in its North Star fleet has not been shaken by the loss of one of the planes in British Columbia.

A company spokesman said Friday there has been no plan for grounding TCA's remaining 24 North Stars. But plans had been made earlier for eventual "retirement" of the four-engined planes in favor of jet-age developments in aviation.

TCA has been a North American pioneer in the use of Viscount turbine-propeller aircraft. It has also leased, 11 scheduled for delivery next year and still more in 1958. Whatever North Star replaced North Stars "on some routes."

The airline's passenger fleet totals 75, including 24 twin-engined DC-3s, nine DC-4 four-engined Super Constellations and 18 four-engined Canucks. Super Constellations are used on trans-Atlantic routes, where North Stars are also operated.

"In fact North Stars have seen service in the Arctic and in practice, all over the world," TCA said. "The fact that another aircraft has a North Star will be used again this year to fly supplies to radio towns away up in the tip of the Arctic."

ROAD CAMPAIGN

LONDON (CP)—Some 48 children were killed on British roads in October, the second month of an intensive national road safety campaign. This however was 17 fewer than the same month last year.

UN Patrols In Port Said Attacked

PORT SAID (AP) — Tension mounted in this port city today as Egyptian guerrillas attacked United Nations police patrols and the British Army cracked down on the Arab population with tough search measures in an effort to find a kidnapped lieutenant.

Three hand grenades were hurled at a jeep patrol of Norwegian members of the UN force, and small-arms fire was directed at a Swedish patrol. UN officials said.

There were no casualties, but Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, the UN commander, protested strongly to Egyptian authorities in Cairo. It was the first such attack here on the UN soldiers.

Egyptian guerrilla activity increased at the time neared for complete withdrawal of British and French forces to accord with UN directives. Cairo newspapers said the withdrawal would be completed today, but UN officials said no definite time could yet be fixed.

British forces also came under new guerrilla attack. One Egyptian was killed.

POSSIBLE MISTAKE

The UN units were the blue helmeted Canadian force, but a British official said there was a possibility the Egyptians had been mistaken in the early morning darkness for British or French troops.

There was speculation that the British might have kidnapped Ahmed Hussein, leader of the outlawed nationalist Moslem Brotherhood party, to get President Nasser into an embarrassing situation.

Lt.-Gen. Hugh Stockwell, the British commander, ordered his troops rounded up the men, children, in a five block area for questioning in the kidnapping of Lt. Anthony Moorehouse on Wednesday.

Arab males 13 years or older were taken to the city sports stadium for questioning, the area in which Moorhouse was kidnapped. He was found abandoned in a garage in the search area.

Stockwell said police and British soldiers had failed to find any trace of Moorhouse. The Egyptians had undertaken to have him killed him. Stockwell told reporters:

"I don't hold any great hope on this operation but I feel I must do something about it."

Nine Ontario Municipalities Refuse Proposal

CHATHAM (CP) — Nine Ontario municipalities refused Friday to accept a proposal that Ontario water resources commission take over and revamp local water and sewage facilities at municipal expense to prevent pollution of internal boundary waters.

Representatives of the nine municipalities in the conference instead to ask provincial and federal governments to provide forgetful grants and loans at low interest rates so the municipal utilities could construct their own water systems. The 24 delegates agreed that each municipality would be asked to ratify their resolution and to appoint a delegate to present the resolution to the Ontario government.
